THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The United States has created almost 11 million new jobs since 1983; an achievement our European friends regard as a miracle, but many critics insist it is an illusion.

According to the doomsayers, who seem to have already access to major newspapers and television networks, most of the new employment has occurred in the low-paying service sector while we are losing more lucrative positions in basic industry. The upshot of all this, according to the critics, is the decline of the middle class in our country.

Now if our middle class were truly in decline, it would be a case of serious concern. History teaches that any society polarized between rich and poor is ripe for destabilization.

But according to the bureau of labor statistics, all this talk about an eroding middle class is just so much nonsense. In truth, about 24 per cent of the new jobs created since 1983 have been what the labor department classifies as "managerial and professional." In fact, this category of high-paying jobs grew faster than the overall increase in jobs.

And the fastest-growing category of all was "precision production, craft and repair jobs," the same skilled blue collar occupations that the critics insist are going by the wayside, which grew more than 14 per cent since 1983.

In the relatively low-paying service sector, the so-called "McJobs" grew only 7.8 per cent and contributed only 10 per cent of the new jobs. As a matter of fact, the percentage of workers in this category actually has declined significantly.

Stated another way, the bureau of labor statistics reports that the top third of occupations, rated by weekly earnings, rose from 27.7 per cent to 29 per cent of all jobs, the middle increased from 28.9 per cent to 33.4 per cent and the bottom tier decreased from 43.8 per cent to 37.6 per cent.

Now I am aware that some people are having trouble making ends meet, but that always has been the case. News reporters seeking to confirm the myth of the declining middle class can invariably find people who seem to fit the stereotype.

But isolated examples do not make a trend. If there is really such a thing as a "new collar" worker, adrift from the mainstream and losing economic ground, it is most likely because of specific circumstances and not a widespread phenomenon.

The facts state clearly that the middle class is vibrant and growing. One can only wonder why so many in the news media feel obliged to promote the oppostie view and ignore the government data that repudiate their case.

Perhaps the most famous nag in history was the ancient Roman orator Marcus Cato who insistently demanded over and over that the rival city of Cathage be destroyed (Delinda est Carthago!). By Cato's time, Carthage posed no threat to Rome, but Cato demanded its destruction anyway.

Eventually, Rome did destroy Carthage, razing its buildings to the ground and sowing the earth with salt so nothing would grow. Some historians say Rome acted, not out of military or economic necessity, but just so Cato would shut up.

We need someone of Cato's eloquence and determination to champion the line-item veto. The bloated federal budget poses more danger to our country than Carthage did to Rome, and the line item veto in the hands of the president would be an effective remedy.

The need for the line-item veto was underscored dramatically in October when Congress, for the first time, failed to complete action on any of the 13 major appropriations bills that fund federal programs. Not until 18 days into the next fiscal year, and after a temporary shutdown of government, did Congress finally act, dumping a huge $576 billion omnibus spending bill on the president's desk.

The omnibus bill can only be described as a monstrosity. It is so big that no one knows for certain what is in it. But one item conspicuously missing is a $90 billion allotment for highways and mass transit. It was omitted to convey the illusion of fiscal restraint, but you can be sure it will be restored, bloating the deficit even further.

This all is not only a formula for economic disaster, but also it is a repudiation—of the Constitutional system of checks and balances. The president is supposed to have veto power over all bills enacted by Congress, including budget appropriations. But the president cannot veto the omnibus measure without bringing all spending to a sudden halt, and throwing the government into chaos. In effect, Congress has repudiated his veto power.

Clearly, this cannot go on. The president simply must be able to veto specific budget items of which he disapproves. If Congress disagrees with his decision, it retains the power to overrule his veto, as it did with the sanctions bill against South Africa. That is the way our system is supposed to work.

The system is not working with regard to the budget. In its zeal to squander the nation's resources, Congress has trampled upon one of the most fundamental principles of our form of government. We have entered the age of the "imperial" Congress, and the situation is becoming increasingly desperate.

The case for the line-item veto has never been so starkly drawn, or so compelling.

Sometimes it seems as if the world is governed by some immutable law of unforeseen consequences.

The tax reform plan recently enacted by Congress and signed by President Reagan is a good example of that law at work. During debate on the bill, politicians from states with high tax rates raised a ruckus. New York Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan and Governor Mario Cuomo were particularly outspoken, insisting loss of the federal deduction for state income taxes would make it more difficult for them to raise needed revenues.

What Moynihan and Cuomo failed to realize — what most people failed to realize — is that the new tax system will bring a major windfall to most states. For example, New York can expect to gain an additional $1.9 billion under the new system.

The reason is so simple and obvious it seems incredible no one realized what was about to take place. New York, like most states, bases its income tax on the adjusted gross income shown in federal returns. Now that Congress has eliminated many deductions, most tax returns will be showing higher gross incomes.

Of course, most federal taxpayers will come out ahead under this scheme because when Congress eliminated deductions it also lowered tax rates. But the states haven't cut their tax rates. They will be collecting the same percentage as before, but from larger adjusted gross incomes. Thus, many taxpayers who are expecting a break from Uncle Sam will see a large chunk of it gobbled up by the states.

It seems like only yesterday that President Nixon launched his famous revenue sharing plan, which funneled federal money to state governments by the barrel. That was at a time when the federal budget was healthy and state coffers were bare.

Now the reverse is true. The federal budget is knee-deep in red ink and many state treasuries are in surplus. But the revenue sharing train just keeps rolling along. President Reagan has sought to curtail revenue sharing, but Congress refuses to kill any spending program, no matter how absurd it may be.

Now through tax reform, Congress has inadvertently added insult to injury, throwing more scarce tax dollars to where they are needed least — state governments. We can only hope that state legislators will follow the lead of Congress and chop their own tax rates to bring them in sync with the federal system. If they do not, this unforeseen consequence may seriously undermine tax reform.

TIMES Around The Region

New Look For Bagley

Bagley — The Bagley court house has had a face lift, making it look nicer and conserving energy too. All windows were replaced with smaller, tripple-glazed vinyl frames which are maintenance-free, new front and back doors have aluminum frames and insulated glass, and the outside of the building was insulated with a bonding of four inches of rigid insulation and then an acrylic coat of dryvit, which will never have to be painted again. Architect for the project was Tom Jones of Clearbrook. The new, cream-colored exterior with dark windows and lines has elicited "nothing but compliments" said county commissioner Pike Jones.

Good Samaritan Grief

Baudette — A Baudette area woman was injured and two cars damaged in a crash west of Baudette November 19. John Charlton of Williams stopped to aid the driver of a car that went into the ditch along highway 11. While his car was parked alongside of the highway, it was struck by a car driven by Rebecca Burnett of Baudette. Charlton's 1984 Ford sustained about $2,000 in damages, as did the 1984 Honda driven by Burnett. Burnett was held overnight at the Baudette hospital. The highway was icy at the time of the accident.

Only $28,500 To Go

Badger — The Badger Booster club donated $1,500 as the first gift toward the $30,000 needed for a new wooden gymnasium floor at the Badger school. The committee is seeking community support from local organizations and businesses.

Some Great White Hunter!

Roosevelt — A pet fawn of the residents of the city of Roosevelt did not make it through the deer hunting season, in spite of efforts by the citizens to keep him from harm. The fawn, named CoCo, was presumed to have been shot in the front yard of a rural Roosevelt home after visiting there about 11 p.m. last week. Upon hearing a gunshot, residents of the home rushed out to see a car disappearing down the road. Blood was found in the driveway of the home, and CoCo's blood-stained blaze orange collar was found later, with no trace of CoCo. The collar was specially made for the deer by a local upholstery shop to warn hunters that he was a pet.

Vocal Native Son

Warren — Joe Steffan, midshipman at the Annapolis Naval academy, will sing the national anthem at the Army-Navy football game to be aired on CBS December 6 at 1 p.m. He is a 1983 graduate of Warren high school.

Holiday Workshop

Bagley — A Holiday Workshop will be presented December 2 at 9 a.m. at the Bagley American Legion hall, sponsored by Extension Home Council. Program highlights include "Norwegian Heirlooms," "Holiday Specials," "Holiday Magic Mix," and "Create Your Own Fantasies." There will be a noon luncheon, bake sale, entertainment by the vocal department of the Bagley high school and door prizes.

Trip, Trip, Trip

Hallock — You've heard of the Three Billy Goats Gruff and the bridge, right? How about the Three Little Deer and the bridge? Well, Harold Anderson, Hallock pharmacist, is a firm believer in them. On his way to Grand Forks last weekend, he encountered the three little deer on the Golden Grain Bridge over the Red River on Highway 75. First one, then another, then another deer paraded over the bridge in front of his car — trip, trip, trip — forcing him to screech to a sudden halt three times. And then each one leapt gracefully over the side of the bride (to visit the troll beneath, perhaps?). Anderson said he had to brake very carefully in order to avoid a collision, as the roadway was covered with ice. As he returned home over the bridge later that night, he spied the three deer together on the river below (plotting their next adventure, no doubt).

Bemidji Doctor Fined

Bemidji — An independent practitioner in Bemidji has been fined $5,000 by the Minnesota Board of Medical Examiners for prescribing appetite reducing tablets, codeine, valium and phenobarbital for purposes other than those stated under federal and state law. Dr. Hartvig B. Roholt said the charges are correct and he plans to fulfill all disciplinary requirements of the board.

Ah, More Trip, Trip, Trip

Warren — The city of Warren will have a new bridge next year on Central Street over the Snake River. The old bridge has been declared unsafe for heavy traffic and fire and garbage trucks have been unable to use it.

10-Month Reprieve

Fertile — In the ongoing saga of the Polk County Emergency Medical Ambulance Services (EMS), the Fertile Journal reports that the Polk county board of commissioners has voted a 10-month reprieve for EMS, during which time they will make full payments per month to subsidize the service. In those 10 months, EMS must find a way to subsidize itself or go out of business. The Journal also reported the naming of paramedic and co-founder of EMS, Steve Belau, one of the recipients of the Fertile Community club's Citizen of the Year award.

Trap, Trap, Trap

Red Lake Falls — A father and son trapping team from Red Lake Falls has 96 years of trapping experience together. Lloyd and Bob Philion are the fourth and fifth generations of trappers in their family. Within a radius of 35 miles of Red Lake Falls, they have trapped fox, beaver, mink, weasel, gophers, muskrats, coyotes, and even a lynx.

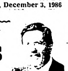
THE VOICE of BUSINESS



by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The United States has created almost 11 million new jobs since 1983, an achievement our European friends regard as a miracle, but many critics insist it is an illusion.

According to the doomsayers, who seem to have already access to major newspapers and television networks, most of the new employment has occurred in the low-paying service sector while we are losing more lucrative positions in basic industry. The upshot of all this, according to the critics, is the decline of the middle class in our country.

Now if our middle class were truly in decline, it would be a case of serious concern. History teaches that any society polarized between rich and poor is ripe for destabilization.

But according to the bureau of labor statistics, all this talk about an eroding middle class is just so much nonsense. In truth, about 24 per cent of the new jobs created since 1983 have been what the labor department classifies as "managerial and professional." In fact, this category of high-paying jobs grew faster than the overall increase in jobs.

And the fastest-growing category of all was "precision production, craft and repair jobs," the same skilled blue collar occupations that the critics insist are going by the wayside, which grew more than 14 per cent since 1983.

In the relatively low-paying service sector, the so-called "McJobs" grew only 7.8 per cent and contributed only 10 per cent of the new jobs. As a matter of fact, the percentage of workers in this category actually has declined significantly.

Stated another way, the bureau of labor statistics reports that the top third of occupations, rated by weekly earnings, rose from 27.7 per cent to 29 per cent of all jobs, the middle increased from 28.9 per cent to 33.4 per cent and the bottom tier decreased from 43.8 per cent to 37.6 per cent.

Now I am aware that some people are having trouble making ends meet, but that always has been the case. News reporters seeking to confirm the myth of the declining middle class can invariably find people who seem to fit the stereotype.

But isolated examples do not make a trend. If there is really such a thing as a "new collar" worker, adrift from the mainstream and losing economic ground, it is most likely because of specific circumstances and not a widespread phenomenon.

The facts state clearly that the middle class is vibrant and growing. One can only wonder why so many in the news media feel obliged to promote the opposite view and ignore the government data that repudiate their case.

Perhaps the most famous nag in history was the ancient Roman orator Marcus Cato who insistently demanded over and over that the rival city of Cathage be destroyed (Delinda est Carthago!). By Cato's time, Carthage posed no threat to Rome, but Cato demanded its destruction anyway.

Eventually, Rome did destroy Carthage, razing its buildings to the ground and sowing the earth with salt so nothing would grow. Some historians say Rome acted, not out of military or economic necessity, but just so Cato would shut up.

We need someone of Cato's eloquence and determination to champion the line-item veto. The bloated federal budget poses more danger to our country than Carthage did to Rome, and the line item veto in the hands of the president would be an effective remedy.

The need for the line-item veto was underscored dramatically in October when Congress, for the first time, failed to complete action on any of the 13 major appropriations bills that fund federal programs. Not until 18 days into the next fiscal year, and after a temporary shutdown of government, did Congress finally act, dumping a huge $576 billion omnibus spending bill on the president's desk.

The omnibus bill can only be described as a monstrosity. It is so big that no one knows for certain what is in it. But one item conspicuously missing is a $90 billion allotment for highways and mass transit. It was omitted to convey the illusion of fiscal restraint, but you can be sure it will be restored, bloating the deficit even further.

This all is not only a formula for economic disaster, but also it is a repudiation of the Constitutional system of checks and balances. The president is supposed to have veto power over all bills enacted by Congress, including budget appropriations. But the president cannot veto the omnibus measure without bringing all spending to a sudden halt, and throwing the government into chaos. In effect, Congress has repudiated his veto power.

Clearly, this cannot go on. The president simply must be able to veto specific budget items of which he disapproves. If Congress disagrees with his decision, it retains the power to overrule his veto, as it did with the sanctions bill against South Africa. That is the way our system is supposed to work.

The system is not working with regard to the budget. In its zeal to squander the nation's resources, Congress has trampled upon one of the most fundamental principles of our form of government. We have entered the age of the "imperial" Congress, and the situation is becoming increasingly desperate.

The case for the line-item veto has never been so starkly drawn, or so compelling.

Sometimes it seems as if the world is governed by some immutable law of unforeseen consequences.

The tax reform plan recently enacted by Congress and signed by President Reagan is a good example of that law at work. During debate on the bill, politicians from states with high tax rates raised a ruckus. New York Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan and Governor Mario Cuomo were particularly outspoken, insisting loss of the federal deduction for state income taxes would make it more difficult for them to raise needed revenues.

What Moynihan and Cuomo failed to realize — what most people failed to realize — is that the new tax system will bring a major windfall to most states. For example, New York can expect to gain an additional $1.9 billion under the new system.

The reason is so simple and obvious it seems incredible no one realized what was about to take place. New York, like most states, bases its income tax on the adjusted gross income shown in federal returns. Now that Congress has eliminated many deductions, most tax returns will be showing higher gross incomes.

Of course, most federal taxpayers will come out ahead under this scheme because when Congress eliminated deductions it also lowered tax rates. But the states haven't cut their tax rates. They will be collecting the same percentage as before, but from larger adjusted gross incomes. Thus, many taxpayers who are expecting a break from Uncle Sam will see a large chunk of it gobbled up by the states.

It seems like only yesterday that President Nixon launched his famous revenue sharing plan, which funneled federal money to state governments by the barrel. That was at a time when the federal budget was healthy and state coffers were bare.

Now the reverse is true. The federal budget is knee-deep in red ink and many state treasuries are in surplus. But the revenue sharing train just keeps rolling along. President Reagan has sought to curtail revenue sharing, but Congress refuses to kill any spending program, no matter how absurd it may be.

Now through tax reform, Congress has inadvertently added insult to injury, throwing more scarce tax dollars to where they are needed least — state governments. We can only hope that state legislators will follow the lead of Congress and chop their own tax rates to bring them in sync with the federal system. If they do not, this unforeseen consequence may seriously undermine tax reform.

Investment Analyzing Over Long Term Is Major Key To Successful Farming

Knowing how to analyze long-term investments is a key to survival in farming, according to Jerry Saylor, director of market economics for Deere & Company.

"Analyzing investments translates into making your money work for maximum profit," Saylor said.

"Focus first on the goal of increasing the value of your investment dollar. A farmer should establish this goal before worrying about the technical or management details of any potential investments.

"When looking for places to put money to work, a farmer can obviously invest in his own farming enterprise. But he has non-farm opportunities as well and shouldn't limit his thinking only to expanding or improving his own operation.

"'The wise investor always looks at the available options, then chooses the most profitable. If the best alternative is right on the farm, that's obviously the way to go. If not, a farmer should put his money elsewhere. Don't be afraid to branch out into new areas.

"Two key factors should guide any investment decision," Saylor advised. "Those factors are profitability and risk potential.

"Simple enough, but how can you really determine the profit potential of an investment? To do it, you have to come up with an index of profitability. In general, that involves two key principles: 1.) Pick early benefits over late benefits; 2.) pick greater benefits over smaller benefits.

"Again, this seems elementary," Saylor said, "but then how do you measure these factors? What are the yardsticks, the financial calipers that will do the job?

"What seems to cause the most confusion is measuring the time value of money. We all know about interest, and we are aware that a dollar in our hand today carries a value that's different from the promise of a dollar in our hand one year from now.

"This has to be considered when making a long-term investment. One of the methods of doing this is using what economists call the Internal Rate of Return (IRR).

"The Internal Rate of Return is a calculation that compares present value of benefits to present value of costs. Ask yourself what percent of profit you want on your investment and the IRR calculations will show you whether they can be reached or exceeded.

"Until recent years," Saylor said, "the disadvantage of IRR calculations was their complexity. Determining the Internal Rate of Return on an investment was a difficult time-consuming task. Today, there are pocket calculators that can handle this problem. A small computer makes the process even more flexible and useful. With a computer you can quickly compare many different actions.

"Don't assume, though, that all of this is automatic. It's not. You still have to know how to do cash flow projections, discount money, and make accurate financial assumptions about how the investment is likely to perform over the payback period," Saylor said.

"This brings me to the second criterion for judging investments — that is risk potential. If you put your money into a bank Certificate of Deposit or similar financial instrument, you are guaranteed a definite earning percentage over time. In contrast, if you put your money into a business venture such as a new cattle feeding facility, you are only estimating what the earning rate might be. You have no real way of knowing. Consequently, there is element of risk involved," he said.

"There is another investment rule that farmers too often ignore," Saylor added. "If two investments show the same Internal Rate of Return, choose the one with the least amount of risk."

How do you evaluate potential risk?

"The best way is to assign probabilities to various outcomes," Saylor said. "Suppose a farming investment looks like it has three chances in five that it will give the particular return you want. On the other hand, there is a one-fifth probability that it will yield a substantially higher rate of return than forecast. At the same time, there is a one-fifth chance that the enterprise will fail and you will lose your entire investment.

"If you have logically arrived at this estimate, you then have to ask if you can afford that one-in-five chance that you will lose everything. If you decide to go ahead and make the investment, you will want to assure yourself of a higher rate of return than if there were no risk at all."

"Financial management or evaluating investments is not always easy, but once you break things down into components, you can begin to get a handle on things. More and more farmers realize this."

Thursday morning Mrs. Neil Liedberg visited and was a coffee guest at the Doris Sturre home.

Monday evening Mrs. Dale Hanson attended a business meeting at the Kay Jesch home in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Clarence Dahlen and Mrs. Neil Liedberg and Sheri accompanied Mrs. Alfred Iverson to a production party at the Hilda Hoffman home Friday afternoon. Others there were Mrs. Bea Hutchinson, Mrs. John Eidlebes, Mrs. Darwin Eidlebes, Mrs. Justin Dahlen, Mrs. John Hoffman, Mrs. Bill Rehm, and Gertie Haugen all of Goodridge. Also Mrs. Melvin Fjeld and Mrs. Roy Jensen of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Clarence Peterson of Goodridge.

Saturday afternoon Sheri Liedberg took part in a piano recital at the Valley home in Thief River Falls along with other children in this area. Mrs. Clarence Dahlen and Mrs. Neil Liedberg and Nathan also attended the recital.

Sunday those who brought birthday greetings to Jim Liedberg at the Norman Liedberg home at rural Argyle and also were dinner guests for Thanksgiving were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dahlen and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Liedberg, Nathan and Sheri.

Leslie Iverson visited at the Clarence Dahlen home Saturday afternoon.

New Emergency Loan Rate Set By FmHA Program

Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has announced a special interest rate for farmers seeking emergency loans as a result of drought, flooding and other weather-related crop loss during calendar year 1986.

Effective immediately, qualifying farmers who file for such loans will receive an interest rate of 4.5 per cent, according to Russ Bjorhus, FmHA state director for Minnesota. This replaces the regular two-tiered rate of five per cent for loan amounts up to $100,000 and eight per cent for the reaminder up to the maximum of $500,000, applicable to prior loans.

"This will benefit the farmer in two ways," commented Bjorhus. "In addition to reducing the over-all cost of repaying the loan, it will make it easier for the applicant to qualify for the loan in the first place under our cash flow requirements."

The action was taken in response to a provision in the omnibus Continuing (Appropriations) Resolution enacted by Congress just prior to its adjournament in October. The reductions represented by the uniform rate place interest on emergency loans on a par with interest charged on direct farm operating loans made to "limited resource" borrowers.

Bjorhus said the emergency loan funds can be used for restoration or replacement of damaged property, payment of production costs for the disaster year or the next year, payment of delinquent debt installments, living expenses, purchase of machinery, equipment and foundation livestock, reorganization of a farming system, and refinancing of short, intermediate or long-term debt.

He added that the applicant must meet regular eligibility requirements: be an established family farm operator, be a citizen or legal resident alien, have ability to repay the loan, be located in a designated county, have suffered a minimum 30 per cent crop loss, be unable to obtain suitable credit elsewhere and be able to provide adequate security.

Applicants may obtain further information and apply for an emergency loan through FmHA offices in the counties where they live.

Fuel Oil Supply Seems Adequate For This Season

As much as we might like to avoid it, Minnesota's long heating season is well underway. Along with this time of year come questions and concerns about the availability of fuel oil for residential heating.

During a normal nine-month heating season (Sept. - May), Minnesotans will use 150 million to 170 gallons of distillate fuel oil for residential heating. Approximately 15 billion gallons of fuel oil will be used for residential heating nationwide during a heating season.

Fuel oil for heating Minnesota homes comes primarily from three sources: the Koch refinery in Pine Bend, the Ashland refinery in St. Paul Park and the Murphy refinery in Superior, WI. Additional supplies, when needed, come from refineries in Oklahoma and Kansas. Local fuel oil distributors, also know as "jobbers," pick up their supplies directly from a refinery or from a distribution terminal supplied by a petroleum pipeline.

Early indications are that national supplies will be more than adequate to deal with normal heating season demand. Nationwide fuel oil inventories are 10 per cent higher than one year ago, and already far above estimated minimum operating levels. While inventories are a relatively small part of the supply picture (most supplies come from current refinery production), these numbers bode well for consumers.

In Minnesota, current fuel oil inventories for all types of uses — residential heating, commercial-industrial, utilities and agriculture — are adequate but not as high as some state energy officials would like. These officials stress, however, that it is still early in the inventory build-up cycle and if build-up continues normally, supply should easily meet residential heating demand.

Extremely severe winter weather can cause periodic supply disruptions. Prolonged cold snaps, icy roads and four-day blizzards can wreak havoc on the fuel oil supply chain.

For example, just a few years ago, severe cold weather dipping far into the southern U.S. disrupted operations at several southern refineries and greatly increased fuel oil demand in that area. This caused a short-term fuel oil shortage in Minnesota.

According to the Minnesota department of energy and economic development (DEED), a unique and possibly troublesome supply situation faces northeast Minnesota, where the Williams pipeline generally delivers 17 million gallons of fuel oil from the Twin Cities area during a normal winter.

DEED states that if the Williams pipeline — which is currently shutdown following the tragic gasoline leak and fiew in Mounds View several weeks ago — does not operate during the coming heating season, short term supply distruptions are possible in the area served by Duluth-Superior terminals.

DEED estimates it would take anywhere from 20 to 100 truck-loads per day from October through January to provide northeast Minnesota the supplies lost in the event the Willams pipeline does not operate this season. Highway safety, cost ($680,000 - $1.1 million in additional cost for truck transportation), and the availability of a sufficient number of transport trucks are major concerns under such a scenario.

Overall, at today's prices, heating oil consumers in Minnesota should have the lowest heating oil costs since the late 1970's. To get the best deal on prices, homeowners should shop carefully and compare.

Boating Safety Hotline Extended By Coast Guard

Boating safety hotline will be continued and made a regular part of the Coast Guard's consumer services for recreational boaters, according to Rear Admiral Thomas Matteson, head of the Coast Guard's boating safety program.

The hotline is a toll-free tleephone service available to boaters in the contiguous United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. Implemented on an experimental basis in the summer of 1985, the Hotline handled nearly 6,000 calls from boaters in its first year of operation. "With increasing awareness among boaters of the existence of the service, that calling rate could double by the '87 boating season," Admiral Matteson said.

The hotline is designed to operate as a two-way service — both to give out information and receive it. Many boaters call the Hotline to find out if there have been any safety recalls on the boat they own or are thinking of buying. Others, who call to report problems they are experiencing with their boat, often provide details of a potential safety defect that leads to a defect investigation, and, where warranted, a recall.

Boaters may also call the hotline to ask questions about Coast Guard boating safety regulations, Coast Guard auxiliary services available to the public, or some other boating safety topic. "In fact," Admiral Matteson noted, "trained and experienced Hotline operators are capable of answering more than 90 per cent of the questions on the spot. Many calls are often followed-up by mailing additional information," he added. Even when the question deals with a topic outside the Coast Guard's recreational boating safety program, the hotline operator can usually refer the caller to a source that can help.

The boating safety hotline is located at Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D.C., and operates throughout Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. eastern time. Calls received after hours are recorded on an answering machine and the caller is contacted by the hotline operator the next working day. The toll-free telephone number is 800-368-56476.

Goodridge Lions Club Has 25th Anniversary

Goodridge Lions club observed its 25th anniversary Saturday evening with a dinner and program at the Trapper 'n' Trader lounge in Goodridge. Guest speaker was Dr. Bud Danylchuk, past Lions International director from Fort Frances, Ont., Canada.

Ernest Swanson, secretary of the club for about 20 years and its president in 1963, served as master of ceremonies for the evening program. George Pittman, club president during its anniversary year, called the group to order and Clarence Peterson, a charter member of the club, gave the invocation.

Song leaders for group singing were Janice Peterson and Audrey Rogalla and tailtwister Gordon Henrickson levied fines. Welcome was given by Dr. David Brown, mayor of Goodridge and also a charter member of the club. District Governor Dan Chase introduced the guest speaker and Dr. Brown presented a piccolo solo.

In his closing remarks, Ernest Swanson summarized some of the many activities of the club in the community and Lions International during its first quarter century.

The club was formed Nov. 1, 1961, when Jim Parkins of Thief River Falls and Ernie Dorn of Robbinsdale came to Goodridge and signed up enough members to hold an organizational meeting. Wallace Payne was the first president and Swanson the first secretary. First project was sponsorship of dedication of the new post office in Goodridge — conducted before the club had even had its own charter night.

A warming house for the skating rink was built as a club project and the charter night held later involved presentation of the charter by George Fisman, district governor. Among gifts received were a rooster and hen from the Newfolden Lions club, a gift later passed on to the McIntosh Lions. An athletic banquet held that spring has been an annual event for the past 25 years.

A tree planting program in Goodridge was begun and the 25-year-old trees are a tribute to the club's forward community planning. Baseball uniforms were purchased for the summer league youth team in 1962 and the club has supported athletic teams and events since that time.

The club was one of the promoters of extended area telephone service and was successful after several years to secure toll-free calls to and from Thief River Falls. Cutting and selling Christmas trees began in 1962 with the first trees selling for $1 each. The club still sells trees as a fund-raising promotion.

Children's Christmas parties, which have become an annual event, were initiated in 1962. The 1986 party will be next Saturday. Fruit baskets are also provided to elderly and needy in the community.

Memorial day services were first sponsored in 1963 and that sponsorship continued for many years. Development of a recreational area at Highlanding was discussed as early as 1964, and work there was done just last week with assistance

TRF City Council To Appoint 5th Ward Alderman

Thief River Falls city council is expected to appoint a replacement for fifth ward alderman Tuesday night. The position was vacated by Clayton Restad who retired earlier this year.

Four names and resumes have been submitted at this time. The four names under consideration for the temporary one year term include Dave Beste, Don Goodridge, Bob Reeve and Wayne Smith. Interviews are expected to be given by Tuesday.

The city council is also expected to discuss repair work or replacement of the city's treatment facility.

Life Alert System Is Lifesaver For Thompson

Elizabeth Thompson knew she was having a diabetic reaction when she awoke in the darkness of early morning at her farm home near Viking. Alone at the farm, weak and disoriented due to the imbalance in her system, she managed to find the Life Alert transmitter on a chain around her neck and press the button. She believes it saved her life.

The signal transmitted over telephone lines activates an audible warning device and print-out of information at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls. The attendant on duty at the desk receives the emergency call, determines who is making the call, and quickly checks a card reference of people who have agreed to be called for assistance.

In the case involving Mrs. Thompson, the call was placed by the hospital to Mrs. Laurel Jarshaw, a neighbor who lived about a mile and a half from the Thompson farm. She rushed to the Thompson house but was unable to get in.

"I always left the back door unlocked at night in case I would have a problem and needed help," Mrs. Thompson says in recalling the incident. "But the door was hard to open and Laurel thought it was locked. She came to my bedroom window and called to me. I could hear her but I couldn't get out the words to answer."

Mrs. Jarshaw then went to another neighbor and returned with help, opening the back door and finding Mrs. Thompson in her weak and disoriented state. "They gave me orange juice and that was what I needed to counter the reaction," Elizabeth said. "I recovered quite quickly and never even had to go to the hospital. Without the alarm system I wouldn't have been able to notify anyone that I needed help and I'm sure I would have lost my life," she said.

The Life Alert system has been provided locally for the past three years by the Northwest Medical services auxiliary. Ten units were purchased in 1984 and another 10 in 1985. One of the units presently is out of sevice but 18 of the 19 remaining are in use. Over the two years about 35 people have used the units at one time or another. Because of the demand, an additional 10 units have been purchased this year at a cost of $3,500 and they are being made available to bring the total to 29 units.

The units may be rented for $13.75 per month or purchases at the auxiliary's cost of $350 each. Information about the system can be obtained by calling Deb Ernst, social worker at Northwest Medical center, at 681-4240, extension 359; or auxiliary volunteers Muriel Oin at 681-7216 or May Issacson at 681-1229.

Life Alert system will also be on display during the open house for the new gift shop and coffee shop operated by the auxiliary near the main lobby of the medical center. Public attendance is invited at the open house Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Norma Ness was the first person to rent a Life Alert system from the auxiliary but Mrs. Thompson was among the first few. She received hers at the urging of her niece, Sharon Hoglo, who was also her social worker. "She said she worried about being all alone out on the farm," Mrs. Thompson said.

Now a resident of an apartment complex in Thief River Falls, she continues to use the system. "I just feel more secure with it," she explains. "She wears the transmitting device as a pendant around her neck, even when she leaves the apartment to do volunteer work at Oakland Park nursing home once a week.

"I don't use it out there," she explained, "because I have to be within 300 feet of the unit which attaches to my telephone. But I like to have it in case I might have a problem in the hallway of the apartment because there aren't always people around."

Mrs. Thompson has had a leg amputated due to her diabetes and uses a wheelchair because her present prosthesis no longer fits.

Volunteers involved with the program note that the units worn by subscribers to the system are waterproof and can be worn at all times, even in the shower. They are checked at least once a month when

Oakes Leaves ODC To Head Activity Center

Charlie Oakes, 31, who has spent the past 10 years in headquarters management for the occupational development center in Thief River Falls, was named by the board of the Falls Day Activity center Tuesday to serve as administrator of that facility. He began his new duties on Thursday.

While Oakes will have the top supervisory position at the DAC, he will not carry the title of director, which requires formal training and experience which he does not have. With the title of administrator, however, he will assume most of the duties carried out by Evan Armstrong, long-time director of the center who resigned recently after being accused of abusing clients.

The center serves 31 mentally handicapped clients, 16 of whom are from other areas but maintain residence here at boarding care facilities or foster homes. Oakes said that two of the clients who had been withdrawn from the center prior to Armstrong's resignation are expected to be returned to the program this week.

He said the center is staffed sufficiently to provide the contracted services it is paid to provide and that certified staff positions comply with state licensing requirements. A meeting of parents of clients with Oakes and the DAC board on Friday indicated strong support for continuation of the DAC and its operation as an independent entity. "We aren't going to merge with the ODC," he said.

A merger of the DAC and ODC had been requested by the Pennington county board of commissioners but was rejected by the ODC board at a recent meeting.

Oakes said he spent much of the first two days on the job Thursday and Friday "trying to figure out where we are." He said the audit of the facility being conducted by Moser, Christianson & Associates may be completed by the middle of next week, and that would provide him with a better basis for planning.

One of the first tasks he will face as an administrator will be the basic one of maintaining the DAC's role as a provider of services to the mentally handicapped. Pennington county welfare board has authorized the issuance of requests for proposals to provide the service and copies of the requests became available last week. Provided with copies locally were the DAC, ODC, Northwest Medical center and School District 564. Other entitled interested in making proposals — including those located in other counties — may receive copies of the provisions at the county social services department.

"In looking over the RFP (request for proposals) form," Oakes said, "It is apparent to me that the county wants a change in direction for its program. It is looking for greater inter-agency communication, better record keeping and documentation and means to assure financial accountability. It also wants more identification of vocational and daily living training — which may well have been provided but has not been documented in the past."

Oakes also said that one of his intentions in assisting the DAC board in submitting its proposal would be to increase the daily fee paid by the county. He said the $22.50 daily fee is the lowest in the state, and he added that the funds being raised by the DAC's charitable gaming operations are needed now.

"With county funds frozen," he said, "you bet we need the income from the gambling operations. I'm not familiar with how the system is conducted; I've never gambled so I don't even know how the games work. But it would seem that a properly handled operation shouldn't be all that difficult to take care of and still be an effective revenue producer."

Oakes is a native of Montevideo, was a branch manager of a savings and loan association in Glenwood, then a psychiatric technician at Willmar state hospital for two years before coming to the ODC here. He and his wife Peggy have three children: Matthew, 11, Jasmine, 7, and Jennifer, 3. The Oakes' were house parents for a group home at Karlstad and Charlie served as a director of volunteers for the day activity center in Kittson county. He is on the Redeemer church council and co-chairman of the TRF swimming pool committee.

"I feel my main expertise is in accounting, personnel and records management," he said, "but I have had a considerable amount of contact with programs for the handicapped and I am familiar with the reports and forms that are required for governmental participation."

Oakes said he believes the community has too much invested in its day activity center to turn its back on the program. "We have a highly motivated staff, a beautiful building that is nearly paid for, and we would all like some time to bring everything into line for the good of the clients, the county and the community."

Student Ass'n. At Northland Sets Awareness Week

Student association at Northland community college is sponsoring an alcohol awareness week this week, according to Carla Dick, president of the organization.

A survey will be conducted by the student association today with the results to be announced on Tuesday. On Wednesday a lyceum will be held in the school gymnasium at 11 a.m. with guest speakers including Dave Olin, Pennington county attorney; Chief Ken Froschheiser and officer Tim Miller of the Thief River Falls police department; and representatives of the Minnesota state patrol.

Also included in the program will be an experiment on alcohol consumption conducted by the state patrol using six Northland students as participants. Student and parent presentations are also planned for the program and pamphlets and brochures will be distributed. The public is invited to attend.

Wednesday at 9 p.m. a non-alcoholic party will be sponsored by the student association at Family Bowl. Popcorn and non-alcoholic drinks will be served.

Stangeland And Peterson Recount Begins Monday

Recounting ballots for the disputed election contest between Congressman Arlan Stangeland and challenger state Sen. Collin Peterson, will begin today (Monday) in Thief River Falls. Recounting was scheduled for last Thursday but because of delays in recounting, the schedule was pushed forward to Monday.

Pennington county Auditor Ken Olson said he isn't exactly sure what will happen during the recount or what duties he will have. Based on comments from other county auditors however, he does expect the recount to be very thorough.

Three people will be on the recount team, one each representing the two candidates and a third serving as a neutral party.

Fund Raisers For Arveson Family Set At Goodridge

Fund-raising activities to assist the family of Kyle Arveson, seven-year-old River Valley area youngster who has received a liver transplant, are being sponsored by the Goodridge Jaycees, Goodridge Lions club, Goodridge area development corporation and Aid Association for Lutherans.

Kyle, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Arveson, received the liver transplant November 17 at University of Minnesota hospital in Minneapolis. He was in intensive care for one day following the surgery and continues his recovery in the transplant unit there while being treated for mild rejection of the transplanted liver. He has been up and around since the surgery, according to his mother, Linda Arveson, but some days have been better than others.

Goodridge area residents will conduct a grain drive this Friday with the Jaycees, Lions and development corporation canvassing the area for donations of grain or cash. Those donating cash should make checks payable to the Kyle Arveson benefit.

Organizational meeting for the drive will be conducted Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Goodridge school gymnasium. Anyone wishing to take part in the drive or provide equipment to be used ins encouraged to attend the meeting. Grain collection points will be at the Goodridge village hall and Nazareth church located in southeast Pennington county.

People who will be participants in the actual grain drive on Friday are to meet at the Goodridge cafe at 7 a.m. or Nazareth church at 8 a.m. Breakfast will be served at 7 a.m. at the Goodridge cafe to all taking part in the drive and will be paid for by the development corporation.

A chili feed to assist the Kyle Arveson benefit will take place Friday, December 19, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Goodridge school cafeteria. Proceeds from free-will donations for the chili supper will be matched by Branches 1695 and 6195 of Aid Association for Lutherans. Members of the AAL branches will meet at the school this Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. to make further plans.

LHS Christmas Choral Concert Sunday Afternoon

Lincoln high school Christmas concert will be conducted Sunday at 4:30 p.m. at the high school auditorium with David Morken directing the vocal groups and Kevin Ryan conducting the high school orchestra.

Participating in the concert will be the concert choir, Lincoln Singers, freshman choir, mixed vocal ensemble and the orchestra. Admission will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for students, director Morken said. Public attendance is encouraged.

The choir is also taping a half-hour concert to be televised at 3 p.m. December 23 on WDAZ-TV

Poster And Essay Contests Slated At Plummer HS

Lion and Lioness clubs at Plummer are sponsoring poster and essay contests for students in the Plummer schools with prizes including a 19 inch color television set, electronic typewriter and several other prizes, including radios and a private telephone.

Seventh, eighth and ninth graders will be involved in the poster contest which involves creating posters with a message discouraging alcohol use among teenagers. Students in grades 10, 11 and 12 will write essays of 1,000 to 1,500 words carrying messages helping prevent alcohol use among teenagers.

Messages on the posters and in the essays may deal with teen age drinking, family and school problems caused by drinking, the dangers of drinking and driving and other similar topics.

Charles Peterson, principal at the Plummer school, has more details on the competition. Alan Gustafson is president of the Lions club and Karen Konickson is president of the co-sponsoring Lioness group.

Marsha Erickson-Daniel Lofgren Wed At Evangelical Covenant

Marsha Dawn Erickson and Daniel Reynald Lofgren were united in marriage August 23 at the Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls, with Rev. Don Peres officiating at the ceremony, and Jerry Skifstad, uncle of the groom, assisting.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Erickson of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Reynald Lofgren of International Falls.

For her wedding, the bride chose to wear her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin and Chantilly lace. The gown was worn by her mother at her wedding 35 years ago. The groom was attired in matching ivory tails.

The six bridesmaids wore royal blue tea length gowns with ivory lace overlay. Groomsmen wore black tuxedos with ivory shirts and royal blue ties and cummerbunds.

Bridal flowers were red roses and babies' breath, and the church was decorated with babies' breath, candles, greenery and ivory bows.

The couple makes their home at Crystal where the bride is employed as a medical secretary and the groom is in law enforcement.

Cook's Choice

This might be an interesting addition to your Charistmas cookie tray this year — especially created for chocoholics in your house.

Basic Truffles

one-third cup heavy cream
6 ounces good quality bittersweet chocolate, in small pieces
2 tablespoons unsalted butter, room temperature
¼ cup unsweetened cocoa powder

1. Heat cream just to boiling in heavy saucepan over medium heat. Remove from heat and whisk in chocolate and butter until smooth.
2. Pour warm chocolate mixture into shallow bowl. Press plastic wrap directly on chocolate and refrigerate 3 hours.
3. Scoop chocolate mixture into 24 rounded teaspoonfuls; place on waxed paper. Roll each truffle between palms into ball. Dredge in cocoa and toss gently to remove excess.
4. Refrigerate truffles covered up to 1 week, or freeze in airtight container 1 month and remove from freezer 5 minutes before serving.

Variations

Hazelnut — Toast, skin, and finely chop 1 cup hazelnuts. Use only 1 tablespoon of the butter. Stir hazelnuts and 2 tablespoons hazelnut liqueur into warm chocolate mixture. Dust lightly with cocoa.

Amereito-Almond — Toast 45 whole almonds. Reserve 24; finely chop remainder. Stir 2 tablespoons ameretto liqueur into warm chocolate mixture. Mold truffles around whole almonds, dredge in cocoa, and roll in chopped nuts.

Cappuccino — Mix 1 tablespoon boiling water, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, and 2 teaspoons instant expresso powder to a smooth paste; stir into warm chocolate mixture. Dredge truffles in 3 tablespoons sugar mixed with 1½ teaspoons ground cinnamon.

Sweet Orange — Pare zest from 1 orange and place in small saucepan with cold water to cover. Boil 1 minute, drain, and repeat. Heat 1 cup water and one-third cup granulated sugar to boiling; add zest and boil 5 minutes. Drain and let cool slightly. Chop sugared zest and mix with 2 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur; stir into warm chocolate mixture. Dust with confectioner's sugar.

Coffee-Pecan — Toast and chop 1 cup pecan pieces. Use only 1 tablespoon of the butter in the recipe. Stir pecans and 2 tablespoons coffee liqueur into warm chocolate mixture. Mix 3 tablespoons sugar with 1½ teaspoons instant expresso powder; substitute for cocoa.

The INSIDE SCOOP

From Lincoln High

The activities this week at Lincoln include a deadline for the yearbook staff. Thursday, December 11, marks the deadline the yearbook staff set to have seniors turn in their color pictures. Along with their color pictures, the seniors are also asked to turn in eight dollars to help defray the costs of printing the pictures in color. The whole senior section, which consists of more than 16 pages, will all be in color. Having this section in color costs the yearbook over $1,000.

One of the newest social events being talked about at Lincoln is the Christmas dance planned for December 19. It will be a semi-formal dance featuring a live band. It is the first time a semi-formal dance has been planned except for homecoming and sno-fest. Student senate and the Pride committee are co-sponsoring it.

Sunday, December 14, will be the annual choir Christmas concert in the Lincoln auditorium.

New Advisor — Mrs. Sheryl Novacek is the new yearbook advisor and is enjoying the job. She has a B.S. in Education and is currently doing graduate work at UND to get her Master's degree in English. She substitutes occasionally. Her hobbies include reading, sewing, crafts and gardening. She currently is in the process of remodeling her house. In the past she has managed a print shop and worked in advertising. Mrs. Novacek says none of this prepared her to work with the yearbook, but that she has a good staff.

Activities Schedule

December 8 — Ninth grade boys basketball (home at city auditorium);

December 9 — Ninth grade girls basketball (at Detroit Lakes); varsity girls basketball (at Detroit Lakes);

December 11 — Ninth grade boys basketball (home at city auditorium); girls basketball (home);

December 12 — Boys basketball (at Moorhead);

December 13 — Boys basketball (home).

COMMUNITY CHURCH CHOIR MEMBERS, under the direction of Vi Barr, led the large group of area residents in singing several Christmas carols at the 1986 Christmas tree lighting ceremony in Thief River Falls Thursday night at the Elks park.

volunteers call and have the users activate the units as a test. Most of the actual emergency calls received from those having the units have been as the result of falls.

Each person with a unit lists three persons who are willing to respond if help is needed. Those persons and their telephone numbers are recorded on an information card at the medical center. Should a call be received indicating there is an emergency, those persons will be called in sequence until one is contacted. If none can be contacted, the ambulance service or law enforcement center will be informed of the emergency. The information card also has medical data about the patient to indicate what type of assistance is likely to be needed.

Anyone who has a private telephone line can use the service, regardless of location. There are several subscribers to the local system who are served by other telephone exchanges. Members of the Telephone Pioneers of America provide installation and modification on a volunteer basis so there is no charge to the customer. Units connected to the telephone provide battery power back-up if electrical power is interrupted.

The system is a source of security for people who may have health problems and are living alone as well as to their families who are concerned about their safety.

Goodridge Lions Club Celebrates 25th Anniversary

from the Goodridge area development corporation.

Lions club members worked on the 50th anniversary celebration for Goodridge in 1964 when Gov. Karl Rolvaag was guest speaker. Over the years the club has been involved in more tree planting, scholarship awards and prizes for educational contests at the Goodridge school.

In 1967, with Roy Wiseth as project chairman, work was begun on the project which developed into the Goodridge Retirement Homes, Inc. Loans were approved through the FHA. Wiseth was killed in a farm accident the day that ground was broken for the first two duplexes built by the organization.

Most visible project was development of Lions park south of the present Goodridge cafe building, accomplished by moving an abandoned car graveyard to the east end of town, well away from the highway. The Deer Park garden club has assisted the Lions club by keeping the park planted with flowers and maintained.

Goodridge Area Development corporation in 1970 grew out of a Lions club meeting. Grygla Lions club was sponsored by the Goodridge club in 1971. Equipment for the Goodridge fire department has been purchased by the Lions club over the years and cash donations made to fire victims.

Members of the Goodridge club have served in district Lions cabinet offices, including Swanson as district governor in 1975.

Sponsorhsip of annual rabies clinics began in 1979 and is continued each spring. Entertainment programs provided as fund-raisers included several donkey basketball games, mock weddings and mock style shows. The club also provided assistance with development of the senior citizens building, a project championed by Oldrich Hoffman.

The Oklee Lions club was sponsored by the Goodridge Lions in 197

"These are just a few of the many things that the Goodridge Lions have done," Swanson said in his closing comments. "I hope that we can be as effective in the next 25 years as we have been in the past 25."

Chartyer members of the club are listed in a photo caption in today's issue of the times. Present membership of the club includes the following:

When people offer you one last drink, do you always take it?

Do you even ask for "one for the road?" Why not? Nothing can happen with YOU behind the wheel. At least, nothing ever has.
On the other hand, drinking and driving spell accidents. Will you always be so lucky?
So, do yourself a favour. Increase the odds by turning down that drink. Or, if you've had too much, call a taxi — or walk home — or let somebody else take the wheel. But don't drive.
That way, you'll always be a winner.

Take it from the Professionals!

Mass of Christian Burial will be held today (Monday) at 11:30 p.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church, with interment in the church cemetery. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will follow in Wednesday's edition of the Times.

Dear Readers,
Flowers can make an important contribution to the traditional funeral service. Not only do they donate respect for the deceased, but flowers can be a sort of personal messenger of sympathy and understanding to survivors. Their presence tells the immediate family that their friends are thinking of them and sharing their sorrow during their bereavement.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
LARRY B. BELMONT

CORRECTION

There were several discrepancies in the Monday obituary from Eddie Geving. His mother's maiden name was Ingeborg Mosleth. He and his wife were in the laundry business in Detroit Lakes from 1968 to 1976, when they retired. Along with survivors listed in Monday's Times, he is survived by three step-daughters, Mrs. Walter (Elleen) Hillman of Warren, Edith Heden of Thief River Falls, and Wylma Knutson of Carpio, ND. The Times regrets the errors.

YOUR TIMES

Submitted by
Lincoln High School Staff

It's that time of the year when Christmas quickly approaches and expectations of special times, family gatherings and renewing acquaintances arise. The anticipation of the event escalates with Christmas shopping and is often accompanied with certain degrees of stress as we look to our best Christmas ever.

Most of all Christmas is a time of gentleness, of sharing, of opening our hearts and our generosity to those who may be experiencing some difficulty in their lives. It is our time and our opportunity to reach out and touch the lives of others. For along with the Christmas holiday for some it is their most difficult time, the realization of dissappointment and sometimes depression in their lives.

Let us all take this time to reflect as members of our school and community to become more aware of one another and our individual concerns. If you know of someone who is experiencing a recent loss, sadness, frustrations, disappointment, grief, alienation, depression, loneliness, physical pain or anguish please stop, take a moment and share some time. If you find you alone are unable to help, please contact someone who can be of more assistance to that individual. There are many trained and concerned professionals available to help within our community.

The staff at Lincoln high school extends to all a very Merry and Blessed Christmas. We share the pride in our young people and in their contributions to our school and our community.

YOUR TIMES is available to any Times Reader who has personal thoughts or comments to share with other Times readers. Its intent is to go beyond our "Public Opinion" column to provide for more creativity and variety. It will be published only when readers send material to be used — which we hope will be often. Care to share? Like to write? Send your guest column to: YOUR TIMES, P.O. Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. Be sure to include your name and address.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

It's "YOUR Times"

Today marks the beginning of another feature in the Times which our readers are invited to use as well as enjoy. It is a guest column which we call "YOUR Times" and it is intended for opinion, commentary, humor, praise, criticism, information — whatever the writer feels is worth sharing with the rest of the Times readership.

The column was initiated because there is a wealth of material in the community and a large number of talented people who can present it in entertaining or informational style. While our public opinion columns offer that opportunity, they are more restrictive than what we intend for "YOUR Times" to be.

We will run the column every issue if the response is as great as we hope it will be. It will run only when our readers submit items for use in it. If we have enough people willing to write, we are willing to provide the space for the column in every issue. We think it would be just great if we could have that many contributors.

In order to "prime the pump" and set the stage for reader input, we have invited a number of people in various positions or with particular interests in the area to submit material. With several responses now in hand, we are starting the column in today's issue. While most of the columns will be individually written, the first one is the collective thoughts of a group of people in response to a community situation.

Please be sure to read today's column and don't forget to look for it in future issues. Better yet, write one yourself. Get that aggravation off your chest, compliment something or someone, tell our readers what's right or what's wrong about something (even our paper), share your humor and originality. Instructions on how to submit a column are included at the bottom of the column in today's issue.

Think about it . . . and then do it. We need you to make it work.

"Generational Equity" Unfair To Elderly?

Dr. Arthur Fleming, former secretary of health, education and welfare under President Dwight Eisenhower, is now co-chairman of the Save Our Security (SOS) coalition. Its purpose is preservation of the social security program and benefits. Dr. Fleming writes as follows:

In recent months, newspaper readers have seen a steady stream of articles advocating the concept of "generational equity." This new "equity" has a strange twist. Its proponents want us to believe that one generation — the elderly — is taking more than its share of America's resources. The result, they say, is that the rest of society will have to pay for the elderly's greed through mounting federal deficits and eventually, the collapse of social security. Their bottom line: cut social security now.

Contrary to the claims of the so-called "generational equity" movement, programs for the elderly have virtually no relation to mounting federal deficits.

Devisive groups . . . have turned their dislike for social security into the agrument that it is making the elderly rich, while placing the burden of payroll taxes on young families. The truth, however, is that social security is the greatest intergenerational program for the prevention of poverty that our country has ever created. Retiree benefits are certainly an important part of the system, but they are by no means the only protection that social security provides.

By also insuring American workers against disability and death, social security offers families protection against loss of income — protection that, for most people, would have a prohibitive price tag if it could be purchased from private insurors. Millions of children are growing up healthy and secure today because their parents were covered under social security. Without such coverage, many of these children would be growing up in poverty.

As a result of the reforms enacted in 1983, the social security system has a strong financial base. By 1990, the surplus in the trust fund will be $200 billion; by the year 2000, it will be a trillion dollars. Young people should realize that, according to social security actuaries, there will be money in the Trust Fund to pay benefits for the next 75 years.

The experts also say that young workers today will still get back more in real dollars than they have invested over their lifetimes — even if they claim only social security's retirement benefits. Add on the disability and survivors' protections and it's no wonder that social security is a program of overwhelming popularity.

Obviously, a program that has its own trust fund to draw on in order to pay benefits cannot be contributing to the federal deficit. If social security benefits were to be cut, as the "generational equity" people advocate, the money saved by penalizing the elderly would only go back into the social security trust fund in the form of larger surpluses. This is because the fund is derived from a special payroll tax that Americans earmark specifically for social insurance. Proceeds from the payroll tax can only be used to pay benefits, and cannot be used for any other operation of the federal government.

Cutting social security benefits if not all the "generational equity" movement advocates, however. Its proponents would like to dismantle the entire system, make it voluntary or farm out its components to private insurors, Or they would impose a means test to determine eligibility for benefits, a plan that would make social security a welfare program.

Social security is not welfare, it is social insurance. It can only work if all Americans pool their resources so that all are adequately protected against the "hazards and vicissitudes of life." True, this means that some people will draw benefits who don't really need them, but they are in the distinct minority. For most people who receive benefits, social security represents a major component of income, one they receive as a direct result of personal contributions to the system.

A means test would undermine the feeling of independence and self-respect that social security instills in its beneficiaries. It would also undermine one of the world's greatest demonstrations of the effectiveness of social insurance.

The myth that the elderly are better-off financially than the rest of the population should finally be laid to rest. While there are older people at all income levels, the elderly still have the highest concentration of poor and near-poor of any adult age group. And if it were not for social security, poverty rates for the elderly would more than triple.

There are many arguments for and against changes in the social security systems. Comments from readers are invited, either in our letters to the editor column or in our new "Your Times" guest column.

Gardening As The Practice Of Virtue

Following comment was written by Mary C. Turck for the Land Stewardship Project:

One of my favorite moral theologians, Father Vincent Rush, insists that virtues are habits. You don't have the virtue of being honest, for instance. You practice telling the truth until it becomes second nature to you. Then truth-telling is a habit, and in that habit is virtue.

Gardeners need many virtues — perseverance, faith, hard work, and patience are a few that come to mind! Connection and caring — two virtues developed through gardening are especially important to us and to the land today.

By "connection" I mean the experience and deep knowledge that we are a part of the land and the land is a part of us. Scripture and Ash Wednesday and sometimes funeral services tell us "Remember that thou art dust and unto dust thou shalt return." That is one kind of connection, albeit somewhat solemn and frightening.

Annie, the your farm wife in "Planting in the Dust" (Nancy Paddock's one-act play) says the connection another way: "The land belongs to itself. If anything, we belong to it . . . as much as earthworms or cornplants. We rise up a while and sink back in. Borrow our lives from it."

In gardening we can realize deeply our essential connection to the land. We dig in the dirt and watch new life spring up from it. We are nourished physically first by the radishes and lettuce, later by the every-plentiful zucchini and green beans, and finally by the last fruits of squash and pumpkins.

We are nourished spiritually by the order of rows and by the beauty of flowers and herbs. And as we plant and tend and harvest and store away for the winter we are connected with the changing seasons and the cyclical life of the whole planet.

"Caring" is also a virtue for gardeners to practice. Without patient, persevering care a garden does not prosper. We cannot leave our gardens untended for two weeks and then "fix" the neglect by pouring money on them. Gardens require time spent in watering, weeding, cultivating and finally harvesting. Our relationships with our garden-land, like our relationships with our friends, prospers when we invest time in caring.

When we practice these virtues of connection and caring in our small garden plots, we can develop habits of connection and caring that can fill other parts of our lives. Through the practice of virtue in gardening, we may learn to feel a deeper connection with and give more loving care to the Garden Earth entrusted to our care by the Creator.

Today's Truism: Two can live as cheaply as one, but only half as long.

many happy returns
with a tax deferred
I.R.A.

With an I.R.A. your hard-earned dollars will come right back to you at retirement time, along with a tidy sum of interest to boot. Because it's tax deferred, you won't have to pay on the cash you contribute each year, or on the interest that continually builds up . . . you'll only be taxed for the money you withdraw at retirement time. Sound good? There's more. Open your I.R.A. before April 15, 1987, and get a break on your 1986 income tax return.

NOTE: For 1986 there are no major changes affecting IRAs. If you haven't opened up your IRA or made your 1986 deposit now is the time. To find out how the 1986 Tax Reform Act affects IRA accounts starting in 1987 stop in at First Federal Savings & Loan of TRF and talk to our IRA specialists.

KENNEDY CENTER Todd Hagen, a 6-6 sophomore, went high in the air between three Thief River Falls defenders to grab a lob pass from a teammate, and scored on the play despite the defensive efforts of Chris Nelson (25), Todd Solsten (35) and Griff Newland (hidden behind Hagen) in the third quarter of Friday's high school basketball game played here. Hagen scored 20 points, but his Rockets lost a down-to-the-wire 66-64 decision.

TRF Boys Open With 66-64 Win . . .

Prowlers Edge Rockets

Free throws spelled the difference Friday as the Thief River Falls boys edged Kennedy 66-64 in an exciting down-to-the-wire 1986-87 season-opening high school basketball game at the Lincoln gym.

The Prowlers won it by making 22 of 33 free throw opportunities, including a productive 17-for-20 second half effort at the line. The Rockets lost it when sophomore Marc Langen missed the front end of a potential tying bonus free throw situation with just one second remaining in the game.

It was a dandy way for the Prowlers to start the year, but the Rockets left town less than overjoyed with the officiating by Harley Stahlecker and Rich Johnson of Crookston. Kennedy was whistled for five technical fouls during the game — two on head coach Louis Deere on one first half play, one on guard Brian Dahl and a couple when Kennedy's foul-plagued players were hit with their sixth personals. Four Rockets had five fouls by game's end.

Thief River Falls failed to cash in on several opportunities to put the game away when Kennedy was getting slapped with the technicals until junior guard Chris Bjorgaard, the game-high scorer with a big 31-point night, came through in the final minute of play.

The Prowlers led most of the night, but watched Kennedy score 10 straight points to take a 64-61 lead with 58 seconds remaining. A sudden rash of turnover trouble against a Kennedy press had the Prowlers on the ropes when 6-3 senior Tim Rynning made both ends of a bonus free throw opportunity for the three-point Kennedy lead to start the final minute.

But after pulling down a defensive rebound that could have sealed the victory, Kennedy wound up throwing the ball away with 29 seconds remaining as the Rockets tried to kill the clock with a passing game. And to complicate matters, Dahl was tagged with his sixth foul on the Thief River Falls in-bounds pass, sending Bjorgaard to the free throw line with 27 seconds on the clock.

Bjorgaard turned it into a five-point play by making the first two free throws to pull the Prowlers within 64-63, then adding a game-winning three-point play when the Prowlers maintained possession with the in-bounds pass after the sixth foul technical. Bjorgaard made a drive to the basket with 18 seconds left, connected on the shot, drew a foul and made the free throw for the 66-64 final.

But the issue was far from being decided.

Kennedy's Jared Hagen, a 6-0 junior guard who burned the Prowlers from the outside in the first half, missed a jumper from near the free throw line with two seconds showing, but in the battle for the rebound, Chris Nelson of the Prowlers was called for a foul, sending Langen to the line with one tick left.

Langen missed, but not by much. His shot hit the rim, caromed high in the air, bounced off the side of the rim again, then fell away as the buzzer sounded.

Kennedy wound up 12-for-22 at the line for the night.

"We had our chances to put the game away earlier and we didn't do it," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt, "but I thought we did a lot of good things. The kids never gave up. They did what they were told to do."

Nelson joined Bjorgaard in double figures with 11 points. Jarrod Kalsnes came off the bench and contributed seven points while providing an offensive spark in the second quarter. Todd Hagen, a 6-6 sophomore center, scored 20 for Kennedy, while Jared Hagen had 22 and Rynning 13.

"It was an outstanding effort by Bjorgaard," praised Hunt. "He had a super ball game."

A string of eight straight first quarter points erased a 4-2 Kennedy lead and kept Thief River Falls on top until the final minute flurry. The Prowlers led 15-12 at the end of a well-played, fast-paced first quarter and held on to a 37-32 lead at halftime as Bjorgaard netted 15 points and Jared Hagen 14. Thief River Falls' biggest spread was 30-20 when Deere was hit with back-to-back technicals for arguing with the officials midway through the second quarter. Bjorgaard made just one of the three free throws, but center Brian Stark finished the Thief River Falls possession with a basket from underneath for the 10-point spread.

It was 52-46 after three quarters even though the Prowlers were just 2-for-7 from the field that period. They made up for it with an 11-for-13 free throw performance after a 5-for-13 first half at the line.

Thief River Falls was 22-for-41 from the field for the night (54 per cent), while Kennedy was 26-for-56 (47 per cent). The taller Rockets had a 28-22 rebound advantage, getting 13 of them on the offensive boards; the Prowlers had four. Thief River Falls had more turnovers, 24-18.

"We're concerned about the turnovers," admitted Hunt, "but we're trying to run as much as we can, and as a result you do end up with some turnovers. We did a good job defensively for three quarters. The last quarter we were physically tired. Their size wore us down. "The kids lose the mental edge when they get tired, he said.

But they held on, regaining their composure down the stretch, he noted.

Thief River Falls will drive to Moorhead Friday for a North Sub-Region 8AA encounter with the Spuds and will return home to host Roseau Saturday.

Cards Expected To Challenge In District 31A Basketball

Plummer coach Jim Baron, who struggled along with the Cardinals during their lean seasons a few years ago when wins were few and far between, says he'll probably develop a few grey hairs this winter. But not because the Cardinals are losing. Instead, it'll be the pressure of being expected to win that Baron and the Plummer boys will have to learn to cope with during the 1986-87 high school basketball season.

And Baron isn't ducking the challenge. "We're shooting for the whole banana this year," he said. "We will challenge for the district title. We've got the personnel to do it."

A tall, talented, experienced team should put Plummer in District 31A title-challenging position this season. The Cardinals were 12-8 a year ago and return quality performers like Shane Freyholtz and Wade Grinde, a pair of 6-4 juniors, plus seniors Neil Huotari, John Fisher and Dan Wichterman.

One of the keys to the Cardinals' success, pointed out Baron, will be what kind of offensive production they receive from Fisher and Wichterman at the guards. Freyholtz and Grinde will get their points, but will also receive most of the attention from the opposing defense. Some of that defensive coverage expected to hound Freyholtz and Grinde would be lifted, mentioned Baron, if Fisher and Wichterman can hit from the outside.

Marshall Co. Central

Short on height, Marshall County Central will have to find other means to win basketball games this year.

"This is the smallest team I've ever had," reported veteran Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, who has just one six-footer in the starting line-up for the 1986-87 season-opener Tuesday vs. Greenbush — senior Danni Halvorson, who is the point guard.

"We're awfully small," admitted Ueland. "It'll be a challenge. We've got some good basketball players, but we're going to have to play good defense and execute well offensively."

Seniors Tom Bolstad, Darin Rokke and Jon Kragness, plus sophomore Lee Pemberton, are expected to join Halvorson in the starting unit. Top reserves will be senior Todd Kezar, juniors Jason Skadsem and Greg Graham and sophomore Kelly Dahl, who stands 6-4 and could work his way into the line-up as the season progresses.

"We've got some guys who have played a lot of basketball for us," mentioned Ueland, pointing to Halvorson, who is a fourth-year varsity performer, and Rokke, in his third year as a varsity ball player. "They should be able to play some smart basketball."

Balanced scoring, aggressive defense, hustle after loose balls, and execution of the transition game will be essential if the Nordics are to be winners this winter, explained Ueland, who is confident his team will come through. "We're always competitive, and we will be again," he said.

Warroad is the overwhelming favorite in North Border Conference play and will be among the leaders in District 32A, predicted Ueland.

Marshall County Central finished 13-9 a year ago, including four losses on last-second baskets by the opposition.

Goodridge

Another team running small sizewise this winter is Goodridge, where first-year head coach John Rahn doesn't have a single six-footer in the starting line-up.

"We've got to win with our hustle, because we won't win with our height," quipped Rahn, who served as an assistant coach at Moorhead State University last year but took the Goodridge job when Dan Brinkman left because he wanted to get into a head coaching position.

Junior Shawn Groven is the Goodridge leader. The high-scoring guard hit 33 in the Huskies' season-opening 66-65 loss to Clearbrook Tuesday.

"We expect Shawn to score," noted Rahn, "but we've got to have seniors like Jeff Berg and Roger Coan to rise to the top, too."

"We've got the talent," said Rahn. "It's just a matter of keeping a positive attitude. It'll take a while for the kids to learn everything because I'm new, but I look for us to be very competitive at the end of the year."

Goodridge struggled through a 3-18 season in 1985-86.

Middle River

Middle River coach Eldon Sparby figures the Skippers will be competitive within the confines of the North Border Conference this winter, but a collection of tough non-conference games might slow their progress toward a .500 finish.

The Skippers were 5-16 a year ago. "I know we'll get more than five (wins) this year," said Sparby. "I think in our conference we'll be able to do better. Other than Warroad (the preseason North Border favorite), I think we can play with the rest of the teams."

A starting line-up Friday against Lake of the Woods included seniors Tom Gullikson, Bryce Nelson and Brent Peterson, along with juniors Tom Blazek and Bradley Kilen. Juniors Marc Gram and Larry Korpi are the top reserves.

Nelson is 6-3, Gullikson 6-1 and Peterson 5-11.

"We'll have a little more quickness this year," predicted Sparby. "We hope to run and press more."

Kilen is a good shooter, pointed out Sparby, who also hopes to get consistent offensive production from Gullikson and Nelson.

Grygla

First winning season in school history is the goal at Grygla this winter, according to head coach Vern Johnson. The injury-plagued Eagles were 7-14 a year ago.

"We've never had a winning season, that's our big goal this year," said Johnson. "If we can stay away from injuries, I think we're capable of improving upon our record."

Grygla opens the year Tuesday against North Border Conference foe Roseau. Three seniors are set in starting roles — 5-10 Reed Engelstad, 5-11 Brad Munson and 6-2 Bruce Holte. Engelstad led the team in scoring a year ago.

Others looking for playing time are juniors Thor Smerek, Paul Holthusen and John Larson, plus sophomores Chris McLean, Lance Englund, Jason Engelstad and Rick Neuschwander.

"Our shooting will be improved this year, and we've got a little height," mentioned Johnson, "but we'll need to develop some depth; we can't do it with just five guys."

Thief River Falls Hockey . . .

Prowlers Win Opener

A hat trick performance by senior wing Blair Lund and a 23-save effort by junior goaltender Shayne Anderson sparked Thief River Falls to a 5-2 season-opening high school hockey win over host Grand Forks Central Saturday night.

It was the first loss for the Redskins after three straight season-opening wins.

"We're delighted to win the opening game, particularly since it came against a team that had already won three games," said Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "Everybody from the goal on out played well."

Bob Geatz gave Thief River Falls a 1-0 headstart at 6:42 of the first period.

It stayed that way until Lund made it 2-0 at 5:51 of the second period.

Don Swatlowski tied it less than a minute later, but Lund scored again at 9:31 for a 3-1 edge to start the third period.

Central carried the play in the final period, pulling within 3-2 when Corey Caldis scored at 4:56, but Thief River Falls held off the Redskins, opening up a 4-2 gap on a second goal by Geatz at 14:07, and icing it when Lund hit an open net at 14:57 to complete his hat trick.

"They (Central) took it to us in the third period," admitted Grand, "but Shayne made some big saves at critical times."

Thief River Falls isn't scheduled to play again until Tuesday, December 16, when the Prowlers' 1986-87 home-opener will feature Grand Forks Red River.

Scoring

First period — TRF, Bob Geatz (John Dondelinger), 6:42.

Pioneers Lose In Finals

Northland Community College men's basketball team beat host Austin 90-69 in the opening round semifinals, but lost to Iowa Lakes 99-66 in the finals of the four-team Austin Invitational played Friday and Saturday.

Northland	90
Austin	69

Anthony McCullough scored 20 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Friday as Northland out-scored Austin 90-69.

Ray Davis added 13 points to the Northland total, while Greg Campbell scored 12 and John Honek 11.

Northland had a 50-42 halftime lead, watched Austin pull within 54-43 at the 12-minute mark of the second half, then pulled away down the stretch.

"We played a lot of people, and did a pretty fair job," reported Northland coach Chet Engelman.

Northland shot 44 per cent from the field (36-for-82) and 64 per cent at the free throw line (18-for-28). Austin shot only 31 per cent from the field (26-for-84) and 46 per cent at the line (12-for-26). The Pioneers had a big 73-42 rebound advantage. Austin topped the turnover charts 29-27 in the loosely-played game.

Northland	66

A strong Iowa Lakes team, a 75-68 winner over Western Wisconsin Tech in the tournament semifinals Friday, drilled Northland 99-66 in the title game Saturday to improve its record to 8-1. The Pioneers fell to 2-1.

"It was a good old-fashioned butt-kicking," admitted Northland coach Chet Engelman. "We got beat by a good team."

Iowa Lakes led 48-38 at halftime and out-scored Northland 51-28 in the second half.

Greg Campbell led Northland with 15 points. Anthony McCullough had 13 and Ray Davis 11. Six Iowa Lakes scorers hit double figures, led by Von McDade with 20.

Northland trailed only 38-36 with 2:15 left in the first half, but turned the ball over a couple of times and wound up trailing by 10 at halftime. The Pioneers fell off the pace when they went through a 7½-minute scoreless spell in the second half to fall behind 63-40.

Iowa Lakes led 48-38 at halftime the field (41-for-82) and 76 per cent at the free throw line (16-for-21). Northland shot 33 per cent from the field (24-for-72) and 70 per cent at the line (16-for-23). The rebounds were even at 49-apiece. Northland had more turnovers, 30-21.

NCC Women Defeat Rainy River 98-69

Northland Community College women, after a strong offensive show in a season-opening 84-48 victory over an alumni team the previous Saturday, did another number on the scoreboard Wednesday in a 98-69 Minnesota Community College Conference basketball victory over Rainy River in Thief River Falls.

Janelle Lorsung led the high-scoring Northland offense with 32 points. Jody Pahlen added 17 to the total while Patty Odberg and Becky Knutson both contributed 12 points. Rainy River had a one-two punch in Carrie Leseman with 30 points and Karla Groetsch with 24.

Despite the points and the one-sided victory, Northland coach Tom Neibauer said the Pioneers' performance against a suspect opponent left plenty of room for improvement. "Our defense needs improvement, our rebounding needs improvement and our passing needs improvement," he said. "But I guess when you get over [illegible] points a half, you shouldn't complain."

Lorsung had 22 points by halftime.

Northland shot 51 per cent from the field (45-for-89) and 50 per cent at the free throw line (8-for-16). Rainy River was 3-for-6 at the line.

The Pioneers played without injured Angie Enerson, but had two new faces in the line-up — Machelle Setterholm and Cheri Beihl. Setterholm was in school here a year ago, but suffered a broken arm and was reshirted athletically. Beihl is a Dilworth native who attended Fergus Falls Hillcrest Academy. Both became eligible by enrolling for winter quarter classes.

Northland will face a much tougher test, warned Neibauer, when the Pioneers host the Concordia College junior varsity Tuesday at 7 p.m.

TRF Girls 3-0 After Beating Rams 47-31

Guards Brenda Russell and Kelly Cornell took turns scoring points, while center Laura Beito was busy rebounding Saturday night as the Thief River Falls girls defeated visiting Roseau 47-31 in high school basketball action.

Thief River Falls had a 13-6 first quarter lead and had a [illegible] halftime advantage as Russell, a 5-3 senior, scored 13 of her 15 points. The Prowlers maintained a 37-25 third quarter spread and wound up winning by 16 as Cornell, a [illegible] junior, scored 12 of her game-high 18 points in the second half. Beito, a 6-0 senior, grabbed 22 rebounds, and contributed 10 points as the Prowlers hiked their record to 3-0.

"We played well," reported Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "Roseau is a lot better squad than they were in the past."

Thief River Falls led by as much as 19 points in the third quarter before an offensive dry spell allowed Roseau to pull within 10 points at the start of the fourth quarter. But with the Rams in a man-to-man defense, the Prowlers fed the ball to Cornell, whose drives to the basket drew fouls and presented her with 19 free throw opportunities. She made 12 of them, including a 10-for-16 second-half at the line.

No Roseau scorer hit double figures.

Thief River Falls did not shoot well, going 16-for-60 from the field (27 per cent), but Roseau fared even worse in a 12-for-51 night (24 per cent). The Prowlers were 15-for-34 at the free throw stripe (44 per cent), where the Rams were 7-for-19 (37 per cent). With Beito leading the way, the Prowlers had a sizeable 40-19 rebound advantage. Thief River Falls also topped the turnover charts, 17-14.

First North Sub-Region 8AA test of the 1986-87 season Tuesday will find Thief River Falls at Detroit Lakes.

THIEF RIVER FALLS guard Chris Bjorgaard drove by Kennedy defender Jared Hagen (30) for an open shot in the first half of Friday's high school basketball game. Bjorgaard had a game-high 31 points to lead the Prowlers past the Rockets 66-64 in their 1986-87 season-opener. Brian Dahl (34) of the Rockets and Chris Nelson (25) of the Prowlers watched the play.

Pioneers Open With 6-3 Win

Lee Hamre, a freshman forward from Thief River Falls, scored two goals, and Dean Hanson, a sophomore goalie from Grand Forks Central, made 42 saves Thursday as the Northland Community College hockey team opened its 1986-87 season with a 6-3 road win over rival University of Minnesota-Crookston.

Hamre skates with Eric Anderson (Fargo North) and Stacy Lies (Fargo South) on a unit that is basically the Pioneers' No. 4 line. But Northland coach Scott Bergland wasn't at all surprised by his goal-production. "That line played very well," he said. "We've got four pretty solid lines. They can all score."

Both Hamre goals came in the first period as he tied the game at 1-1 at 12:19 and put Northland ahead 2-1 at 18:45.

Northland emerged with a 5-3 second period lead on goals by Joe Blankenfeld, Bill Desrocher and Tom Hagen, then clinched it on a Steve Ristau power play goal at 17:41 of the third period.

Northland was out-shot 45-42 in the game, but Hanson kept UMC at bay with a strong performance — again, nothing surprising in that, either, according to Bergland. "Dean always plays well. That's his job, and he does it very well," pointed out Bergland.

Mark Lyczewski, Pete Grafstrom and Rick Dahle were UMC goal scorers.

"You're never satisfied," noted Bergland, "but for the first game, it wasn't too bad. We had trouble in our own end the first period, but after that, we settled down and played pretty well. Crookston is not an easy place to win."

Scoring

First period — UMC, Mark Lyczewski (Tom Thorton, Rick Dahle), 5:19; NCC, Lee Hamre (un.), 12:19; NCC, Hamre (Eric Anderson), 18:45.
Second period — NCC, Joe Blankenfeld (Chad Bottem), 1:36; NCC, Bill Desrocher (Steve Ristau, Steve Wiskow), 3:46; UMC, Pete Grafstrom (Van Campbell, Rick Dahle), 6:12; UMC, Dahle (Campbell, Grafstrom), 8:34; NCC, Tom Hagen (un.), 10:25.

Grygla Girls Lose Opener 53-46

Grygla girls opened their 1986-87 high school basketball season Thursday against Tri-County, losing a foul-plagued 53-46 game in which the two teams combined to shoot some 72 free throws.

Tri-County had a busy 25-for-43 night at the free throw line (58 per cent), while Grygla made 20 of 29 free throws (69 per cent).

"It's pretty tough to defend them at the free throw line," mentioned Grygla coach Mike Gast, whose smaller Eagles were often whistled for fouls as they battled the Rabbits for rebounds. "We made some first-game mistakes, but I was pleased with the way they played. They played hard."

Tri-County led 16-10 at the end of the first quarter and held on to a 27-26 edge at halftime. Grygla went ahead 39-36 at the end of the third quarter.

Game-high scoring honors went to Stephanie Carlson of Tri-County with 14 points. Eight different Grygla girls put their names in the scoring column, led by Michelle Jelle with 10 points.

Grygla was 13-for-48 from the field (27 per cent), while Tri-County was 14-for-55 (25 per cent).

The Eagles are scheduled to play at Greenbush tonight (Monday). They will be at Marshall County Central Thursday.

Turnover trouble haunted Goodridge Thursday as the Huskies lost their home opener to Oslo 68-41.

"We just couldn't handle the ball against their press," said Goodridge coach Patti Johnson after the Huskies were charged with 28 turnovers, many of them resulting in easy Oslo baskets as the Bobcats shot 52 per cent from the field for the game (32-for-62). "They've got one of the quickest teams at guards that you'll ever see," added Johnson, pointing to the Bobcats' Sonia Walski, who had a game-high 25 points, and Stacy Michalski, who had 16.

Oslo jumped out to a 22-4 first quarter lead, owned a 32-22 halftime advantage, and opened up a 53-30 third quarter gap.

Cindy Vettleson scored 21 points for the Huskies and Bridget Sjulestad added 13.

Goodridge shot 30 per cent from the field (16-for-52) and 53 per cent at the free throw line (9-for-17). Oslo was 4-for-7 at the line (53 per cent). The rebounds were even at 23-apiece.

The 0-2 Huskies are scheduled to entertain Red Lake Falls tonight (Monday). They'll host Middle River Thursday.

Scoring

Plummer	58
Fisher	41

Plummer overcame an early deficit by speeding up the tempo of the game Thursday as the visiting Cardinals overcame Fisher 58-41.

Utilizing a deliberate-style offense, Fisher started with an 8-0 lead and had a 14-7 edge when the first quarter ended. But Plummer broke loose with a 25-point second quarter that produced a 32-18 halftime lead. The Cardinals maintained a 45-33 third quarter advantage.

"We made a minor adjustment in our press, and a couple of changes on offense," explained Plummer coach Rick Koivisto in a successful attempt to speed up the game in the second quarter.

Janelle Konickson, a 5-4 senior guard who scored 27 points in a 79-48 win over Strandquist earlier in the week, came back with a 26-point night at Fisher. Robin Brantl added 15 and Renae Walter 11 to the Plummer total. Traci Krostue and Rhea Larson both scored 14 for the Flyers.

Plummer was 21-for-60 from the field (35 per cent). Oslo was 13-for-59 (22 per cent). The Cardinals struggled through a 16-for-30 free throw night (53 per cent), while the Flyers were 15-for-22 (68 per cent). Fisher had a 41-33 rebound advantage.

The 3-0 Cardinals host Clearwater County North tonight (Monday) and entertain Red Lake Falls Thursday.

Middle River	28

Middle River out-scored Lake of the Woods 11-0 in the first quarter Saturday en route to a 40-28 win over the host Bears.

Rayette Benke scored 13 points and Kerry Nelson 11 for the Skippers, who improved their record 2-1. Cindy Wangerud had a game-high 20 points for Lake of the Woods.

It wasn't a great performance, in spite of the one-sided victory, said Middle River coach Steve Larson, "but we did enough to win," he mentioned.

Middle River led 21-12 at halftime and had a 33-20 cushion after three quarters.

TRF Hockey JV Team Falls To Central 4-1

Grand Forks Central defeated Thief River Falls 4-1 in junior varsity high school hockey Saturday night.

Bret Haugen scored the lone Thief River Falls goal. Paul Antonenko and Kent Holmes shared the goaltending duties in the 1986-87 season-opening game.

Girls Win 50-18 In JV Basketball

Thief River Falls girls posted a one-sided 50-18 junior varsity high school basketball win over Roseau Saturday.

Rhonda Rothschal scored 10 points for the winners, while Tammy Alberg and Kerry Helle both had 8.

Thief River Falls junior varsity is 2-1 for the year.

TRF JV Team Wins First Contest 58-41

Ryan Walseth and Dean DuChamp both scored 13 points Friday as the Thief River Falls junior varsity high school boys basketball team opened its 1986-87 season with a 58-41 victory over Kennedy.

Thief River Falls had quarter leads of 16-4, 37-15 and 52-29.

Freshman Boys Lose Overtime Opener

Valley Junior High of Grand Forks edged Thief River Falls 47-42 in a freshman boys basketball game Thursday that went into two overtimes.

Paul Lofberg scored 18 points and Jason Kempert has 12 for Thief River Falls in its 1986-87 season-opener.

Host Valley led 7-6, 15-11 and 27-21 at the first three quarter stops. It was tied 37-37 at the end of regulation time and still deadlocked 40-40 as the first overtime ended.

Thief River Falls was scheduled to host Marshall County Central in a 4:15 p.m. game today (Monday) at the city auditorium.

Huskies Lose To Vikings 73-69

Goodridge, after losing a 66-65 season-opening decision at Clearbrook earlier in the week, dropped another close contest Friday when the Huskies lost a 73-69 boys high school basketball game at Climax.

New coach John Rahn says the Huskies aren't losing for lack of effort. "We're shooting the ball extremely well, we're scoring points and the kids work hard. But we just don't have any height," says Rahn, whose line-up doesn't include anyone over the six-foot mark.

Climax, after starting the game with a 10-0 lead, had a 19-16 first quarter advantage, led 38-33 at halftime and held on to a 52-50 third quarter edge.

Shawn Groven scored 30 points and had eight rebounds to lead the Huskies. He scored 33 in the opener. Jeff Berg added 18 points. Randy Sondrol scored 24 points to lead four Climax double figure scorers.

Goodridge shot 56 per cent from the Field (29-for-52) and 61 per cent at the free throw line (11-for-18). Climax shot a 45 per cent clip from the field (28-for-62) and 53 per cent from the line (17-for-32).

"As long as we keep playing well and improving we'll be okay," said Rahn. "As long as we work hard and are in position to win games, we have to be proud."

Goodridge plays its third straight season-opening road game Tuesday at Strandquist.

LOW 66
Middle River 52

Middle River gave up 29 rebounds on the Lake of the Woods offensive boards Friday in a season-opening 66-52 loss to the Bears.

"We got hammered on the offensive boards," acknowledged Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We didn't shoot well, and we rebounded terrible. I don't ever remember giving up 29 offensive rebounds before."

Despite their faults, the Skippers were close to the Bears most of the way. Lake of the Woods had a 14-6 first quarter lead, owned a 28-19 halftime advantage and maintained a 45-36 third quarter spread before the Skippers cut the deficit to five points with about three minutes left.

"We were just standing around," pointed out Sparby. "We played poorly and got beat."

Tom Gullikson, a 6-1 Middle River senior, led all scorers with 18 points. Teammate Brad Kilen had 12. Tony Trueman scored 16 to lead Lake of the Woods.

Middle River shot only 30 per cent from the field (19-for-64). Lake of the Woods shot 39 per cent (25-for-64). The Skippers shot 58 per cent from the free throw line (14-for-24), where the Bears shot 50 per cent (16-for-32). Lake of the Woods finished with a 50-35 rebound advantage, and had more turnovers, too, 27-23.

Red Lake Falls will be in Middle River Tuesday for the Skippers' 1986-87 home opener.

Plummer 54

Plummer played well at times, but not so well at other times, explained Cardinals head coach Jim Baron, in a 56-54 Friday night loss at Alvarado.

"We had some flashes of brilliance, but not for long enough periods of time," he said. "We had some defensive lapses, and we had trouble handling their press."

Alvarado had quarter leads of 16-11, 34-24 and 46-34 before Plummer doubled the Indians 20-10 over the final eight minutes to make it close at the end.

Wade Grinde had a game-high 20 points and Shane Freyholtz 16 for the Cardinals, who fell to 1-1 for the year. Marc Merrill scored 16 points and Mike Selnes had 14 for the Indians.

Both teams, according to Plummer charts, shot well. The Indians were 22-for-44 from the field (50 per cent) and the Cardinals were 24-for-49 (49 per cent). Plummer was 12-for-18 at the free throw line (67 per cent), where Alvarado was 8-for-14 (57 per cent).

NORTHLAND GUARD Patty Odberg brought the ball up against a Rainy River defender Wednesday during the community college women's basketball game played in Thief River Falls. Odberg scored 12 points as the Pioneers won the game 98-69.

Willmar Is 55-52 Winner Over NCC

Willmar built a 32-19 first half cushion, then held on for a 55-52 Sunday afternoon win over the Northland Community College men's basketball team.

Coach Chet Engelman's Pioneers were in Willmar after participating in the four-team Austin Invitational Friday and Saturday. The loss drops the Pioneers to 2-2 for the year.

"We played a good second half of basketball," explained Engelman. "We saw a lot of positive things in the second half of the Willmar game."

First half wasn't so good. The Pioneers missed 10 first half free throws and had 13 of their 20 turnovers in the first 20 minutes.

Northland rebounded, though, pulling within 51-49 with 51 seconds remaining and had a last-possession three-point field goal attempt, plus two tip-in tries bounce away as the buzzer sounded.

"We played a little better team defense, and we didn't turn the ball over so often in the second half," noted Engelman.

Guard Greg Campbell had a game-high 18 points for the Pioneers. Anthony McCullough had 11 points and 14 rebounds, while Rodney Wilson grabbed 18 rebounds. Detroit Lakes native Jim Hedstrom scored 17 points to lead Willmar.

Northland shot 37 per cent from the field (20-for-54) and 44 per cent at the free throw line (8-for-18). Willmar shot 38 per cent from the field (19-for-50) and 62 per cent at the line (16-for-26). Northland had a 49-33 rebound advantage.

Scoring

	1	2	T
Northland	19	33	52
Willmar	32	23	55

Northland — Greg Campbell 18, Ray Davis 2, Morris Matthews 4, Kevin Nelson 3, Rodney Wilson 9, Anthony McCullough 11, John Hanek 3, Randy Hargest 2.
Willmar — Jeff Erickson 1, Mike Dorsey 13, Chris Hayes 4, Corey Stegeman 2, Dave Burns 4, Dann Hayes 2, Kent Hobben 12, Jim Hedstrom 17.

LHS Teams Post Wins

Thief River Falls girls won two basketball games to improve their record to 3-0, while the Thief River Falls boys opened their basketball season with a win and the hockey team debuted with a victory in a productive week for local high school athletic teams.

Coach Tom Schafer's girls posted nearly identical 46-31 and 47-31 wins Tuesday over Warren and Saturday over Roseau after earlier beating Marshall County Central 43-40.

A real test for the Thief River Falls girls will come this week when the Prowlers face two North Sub-Region 8AA teams. They travel to Detroit Lakes Tuesday and host Moorhead Thursday. Those games will tell where the Prowlers stand against Class AA competition.

Coach Tom Hunt's boys pulled out a wildly-entertaining 66-64 victory over Kennedy Friday. Like the girls, the Thief River Falls boys have a big North Sub-Region 8AA test this week when the Prowlers visit Moorhead Friday, producing an early-season match-up of the two teams expected to be top title contenders this winter. Thief River Falls returns home to host Roseau Saturday.

Wendell Grand's hockey team pulled off a mild surprise Saturday by beating a 3-0 Grand Forks Central team 5-2. The Prowlers won't be playing this week. They resume their schedule Tuesday, December 16, against another Grand Forks school, hosting Red River that night.

Meanwhile, the Thief River Falls boys just started preseason practice drills for the 1986-87 high school swimming season. Coach Jay Forney's Prowlers will open their schedule Saturday, December 20, when they host the Thief River Falls Relays.

NCC Schedules Set

Last-minute changes have finally been completed on the 1986-87 Northland Community College winter sports schedules, it was announced this week by athletic director Rick Nelson, who says things look "very bright" for all three Northland teams.

"With the coaching staff of Scott Bergland and Joe Klosterman in hockey, Chet Engelman returning for his 17th season in men's basketball and Tom M Neibauer in women's basketball, the programs are in very steady hands," said Nelson.

Northland will again have a number of halftime and between-period giveaways this winter, noted Nelson, who has scheduled Pepsi-Cola shoot-offs at halftime of all men and women basketball games at the Northland gym, and between periods of the hockey games at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. There will also be a number of other special events during each of the Pioneers' home games this year as school officials continue in their efforts to promote fan attendance at Northland games.

The Pioneers started their hockey season with a 6-3 victory over the University of Minnesota-Crookston Thursday. They will be in Brainerd for a Friday-Saturday series this weekend.

Northland women's basketball team owns a 2-0 record after beating an alumni team and Rainy River, 98-69 Wednesday. The Pioneers host the Concordia College junior varisty Tuesday.

Men's basketball team had a busy weekend against tough competition, beating Austin 90-69, but losing to Iowa Lakes 99-66 in the four-team Austin Invitational Friday and Saturday, then losing a 55-52 decision at Willmar Sunday to stand 2-2 for the year — which includes a season-opening win over an alumni team.

The Pioneers will compete in the Rainy River Invitational this weekend.

TRF Sports Schedule

Santa Claus sure knew what he was doing when he chose reindeer to pull his sleigh. While reindeer are quite small — usually around three-and-a-half feet tall — they have great strength and endurance. Ranger Rick magazine reports that a healthy reindeer usually weighs about 150-250 pounds and can pull its own weight in cargo on sleds across the tundra — or the rooftops.

For the first time since George Washington was president, an Atlantic salmon has migrated 255 miles from Long Island Sound to historic spawning grounds in Vermont's White River. According to International Wildlife magazine, the salmon disappeared from New England rivers in the 1800s.

HAVING THE ball underneath the basket drew Rainy River defensive attention to Northland's Becky Knutson during Wednesday's community college basketball game played here. Knutson scored 12 points in the Pioneers' 98-69 win. Carrie Leseman (right) of the Voyageurs had 30 points in a losing cause. Northland's Junelle Lorsung (shown behind the play) had a game-high 32.

Nest Basket Study

Minnesota Waterfowl Association has recently donated $2,500 to fund a nest basket study on Swan Lake as part of a research project by Mankato State University.

Objectives of the study were to determine possible preference of different nesting materials and habitats and to gain insight into additional factors which might influence the use and success of nest baskets. The M.W.A. will provide conservation agencies and private citizens with management recommendations regarding the use of over-water nest baskets as a result of the study.

Some 138 over-water nest baskets were placed on Swan Lake in Nicollet County by volunteers of the Nicollet Conservation Club in April 1986. Nests were initiated in 27.5 per cent of these baskets with 84.6 per cent being successful. Of the 376 eggs laid, 81.4 per cent hatched.

1987 will mark M.W.A.'s 20th anniversary. For over 20 years, its members have been enhancing and creating wildlife habitat throughout Minnesota with monies derived from memberships, donations, and fundraisers.

Copies of the study are available from the Minnesota Waterfowl Association, 5701 Normandale Road, Minneapolis, MN 55424. A donation of $3 per copy is requested to help continue the work. For more information, call (612) 922-2832.

Christmas Tree Laws

Each year after Thanksgiving Minnesota Division of Forestry personnel are often asked if it is permissable to take a Christmas tree from state land. Under current state laws, the taking of a Christmas tree from state land is not allowed. A mechanism that would allow the Division of Forestry to give away or sell a Christmas tree to an individual does not exist.

U.S. Forest Service does have a free permit system for the taking of a Christmas tree from national forest lands. Many people hear of this permit system and mistakenly think that it applies to state forest lands as well. The Minnesota Division of Forestry does have a permit system for the harvesting of Christmas trees on a commercial basis. It is also possible for an individual to buy a Christmas tree from a local logger with a state timber sale if tye logger has Christmas trees added to her permit.

Tops of black spruce trees being cut for pulpwood often make excellent Christmas trees. Timber sales being cut for jack pine pulpwood often have open grown balsam fir in the sale area. These make excellent Christmas trees, also.

Ski, Snowmobile Guides Available

Two new guides to exploring Minnesota's outdoors this winter are available now from the Minnesota Office of Tourism.

Explore Minnesota On Skis and Explore Minnesota By Snowmobile provide listings and descriptions of downhill ski areas, cross-country ski trails and snowmobile trails across the state. New this year both guides include a section listing accommodations, including resorts, hotels, motels, bed and breakfast and historic inns.

The guides are organized by region: northern Minnesota, southern Minnesota and the Twin Cities metropolitan area and are indexed by trail for the reader's convenience.

The guides also provide information on where skiers and snowmobilers may find up-to-date information on snow conditions, road conditions and further information on regional accommodations.

Both guides are free and available by calling 800-652-9747 in Minnesota, and 800-328-1461 outside Minnesota during regular business hours Monday through Friday.

Franklin Middle School

Franklin Middle School eighth grade girls opened their 1986-87 basketball season with three outings last week under coach Clay Houselog.

The Spartans lost a season-opening 29-24 decision at Warren Tuesday.

Bemidji visited Thief River Falls Thursday. Franklin won the B game 28-25 as Jana Nelson scored 12 points, but Bemidji won the A game 26-14. Becky Bjerken scored 6 points to lead the Spartans in that one.

Playing at East Grand Forks Friday, Franklin lost a 30-28 overtime game. The two teams played to a 4-4 first quarter tie, with the Spartans leading 14-8 at halftime and 18-14 after three quarters before East Grand Forks tied it 24-24 at the end of regulation time. Molly Pinkerton led the Spartans with 10 points.

Franklin seventh grade girls, coached by Michelle Geske, defeated East Grand Forks 47-12 Friday holding the opposition scoreless in the second half. Jodi Kruta scored 22 points for the winners and Amy Padilla had 10.

In earlier seventh grade action for the girls, Franklin geat Warren 26-11 Tuesday and swept Bemidji Thursday, winning the B game 25-16 and taking the A game 29-9.

Franklin girls return to action Friday when the seventh and eighth graders host Marshall County Central at 4 p.m.

Franklin boys start their schedule this week. The Spartans host Warren in eighth grade A and B action today (Monday) at 4:30 p.m.; entertain East Grand Forks in seventh and eighth grade competition Tuesday at 4:15 p.m.; and face Warren here again on Thursday in seventh grade A and B games at 4:30 p.m.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE
FORECLOSURE SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 15th day of May, 1979, executed by Richard A. Radniecki and LaVonne Radniecki, his wife, as mortgagors to The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul, as mortgagee, filed for record in the office of the County Recorder, in and for the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, on the 23rd day of May, 1979, at 3:30 o'clock P.M. and recorded in Book 157 of Records, page 673; the original principal amount secured by said mortgage being $86,000.00; that no action or proceeding has been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, that there is due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage, including interest to date hereof, the sum of Ninety-Four Thousand Six Hundred Thirty-Four and 97-100 ($94,634.97) Dollars, that all conditions precedent to the acceleration of the indebtedness have been complied with, and that pursuant to the power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the tracts of land lying and being in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to wit: Government Lots 5, 6, 7 and 9; SW¼SE¼, Section 2; NE¼, Section 11; All in T152N, R40W, will be sold by the sheriff of said county at public auction on the 9th day of January, 1987, at 10:00 o'clock A.M. at the Law Enforcement Center in the City of Thief River Falls, in said county and state, to pay the debt then secured by said mortgage and taxes, if any, on said premises and the costs and disbursements allowed by law. The time allowed by law for redemption by the mortgagors, their personal representatives or assigns is twelve months from the date of said sale.

PART OF THE PROPERTY TO BE SOLD CONTAINS YOUR HOUSE. YOU MAY DESIGNATE THE AREA OF A HOMESTEAD TO BE SOLD AND REDEEMED SEPARATELY.

YOU MAY DESIGNATE THE HOUSE YOU OCCUPY AND ANY AMOUNT OF THE PROPERTY AS A HOMESTEAD. THE DESIGNATED HOMESTEAD PROPERTY MUST CONFORM TO THE LOCAL ZONING ORDINANCES AND BE COMPACT SO THAT IT DOES NOT UNREASONABLY REDUCE THE VALUE OF THE REMAINING PROPERTY.

YOU MUST PROVIDE THE PERSON FORECLOSING ON THE PROPERTY, THE SHERIFF, AND THE COUNTY RECORDER WITH A COPY OF THE LEGAL DESCRIPTION OF THE HOMESTEAD YOU HAVE DESIGNATED BY TEN (10) BUSINESS DAYS BEFORE THE DATE THE PROPERTY IS TO BE SOLD.

COUNTY COURT
PROBATE DIVISION

In Re: Estate of Ida D. Geving, kak Ida D. Anderson, aka Ida D. Sund, aka Ida D. Flaten, Deceased.

ORDER AND NOTICE OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL AND APPOINTMENT OF PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE IN SUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION AND NOTICE TO CREDITORS

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 23rd day of December, 1986, at 10:15 o'clock A.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the formal probate of an instrument purporting to be the will of the above-named decedent, dated June 5, 1981, and for the appointment of Eileen Hillman whose address is 513 N. Main Ave., Warren, MN 56762, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and that any objections thereto must be filed with the Court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Court Administrator within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Dated December 5, 1986.

NEWFOLDEN . . .

Curt and Elaine Thompson celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary Saturday, November 22nd, Saturday evening Curt and Elaine Thompson and their grandson, Jeremy Wilson, enjoyed supper at a cafe and then they went to the Life Line center to hear the Bethel quartet from Canada. They presented a very good program. On Sunday evening Curt and Elaine were guests of Lisa Wilson and Jay DuChamp to supper at a cafe down the road in honor of their 35th wedding anniversary. When they returned back to Lisa's home, they had anniversary cake and coffee and enjoyed the evening very much. Roger and Robbin Mathsen and Ronelle and Mark also sent anniversary greetings.

Thanksgiving Day dinner guests and supper guests of Curt and Elaine Thompson were Mark Thompson and Don Skyberg of Moorhead, Lisa Wilson, Jeremy, Jayme and Amber, Harvey Skyberg, Marvin and Rose Nelson, all of Thief River Falls; Teddy Thompson. Other afternoon and supper guests along with the above mentioned were Deb Johnson, Robert and Shirley Olson, Sue and Kristie, Floyd and Adeline Nelson. Curt and Elaine also visited Roger and Robbin and Ronelle Mathsen, Dawn Michael, Chad and Amy via phone, calling to wish everyone a happy Thanksgiving Day as they were unable to be here. A lovely day was spent by all.

Tuesday evening Aaron and Blanche Waterworth visited with Elmer Holmstrom.

TIMES Around The Region

Karlstad Lions Going Strong

Karlstad — The Karlstad Lions club celebrated 35 years of caring, sharing and socializing November 22 with a dinner at the Karlstad Eagles clubrooms. Five charter members attended the affair: N.O. Folland, Ed Haug, Dane Nordine, Loyal Oistad and Ernest Carlson. There are currently 33 members in the club, the exact same number who joined in 1951. The number has fluctuated over the years, but it has always been a quality and active force in the community of Karlstad.

Tis The Season

Stephen — The Stephen Civic and Commerce association will sponsor a "Tis The Season" contest this year with first second and thrid prizes to be awarded for the best decoration of homes and businesses. Judging will be the evening of December 22, when all entrants are urged to turn on the lights and the city should be a sight to behold!

Remember Miss Skomedal?

Warren — The December 3 Warren Sheaf ran a story about Thora Skomedal, who taught English at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls for many years. At 88 years of age, Thora is still spry and active, keeping up her family's large farm home in Excel township, tending the flower gardens, driving her own car and attending Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. Her favorite hobby is reading. She said, "There's so much I'd like to read that I can't get it all done." Those of us who enjoyed the privilege of being taught by her wish her many happy years more in which to enjoy her reading. Wonder if she includes any Shakespeare in that reading?

Service With A Smile

Red Lake Falls — The Red Lake Falls Blue Line club sponsored a brunch to raise funds for extra-curricular activities at city schools recently, serving about 260 avid supporters. Several volunteers participated in the serving and preparation of the meal last Sunday afternoon.

Some Manhole!

Hallock — The Hallock city council was presented a bill for $1,686 for repair of their new snowplow truck at a recent meeting. It seems the truck was damaged during the first winter storm this year when it struck a manhole. The truck transmission is currently being repaired in Fargo, and it will return home to Hallock with a new spring mechanism on the plow to prevent future incidents.

Growing Greenbush Business

Greenbush — Two Greenbush entrepreneurs have elaborated upon an idea that began when they started a bus shuttle service between Greenbush and Warroad for employees of Marvin Windows who lived between the two towns. Harvey Dallager and Duane Lorenson now run two coach buses, a charter service and have a new garage to house the buses and perform maintenance. The bus service began with two used school buses and eight passengers on the first shift run and one on the second. The passengers now fill the bus to capacity on both runs, and the service employs two drivers.

Rollover

Baudette — A pickup was demolished but the driver escaped with minor injuries in an early morning accident November 28 near Baudette. David Pirkl, 26, of Baudette was southbound on highway 172 four miles northwest of the city when he apparrently lost control of his 1978 Ford pickup, hit a grade approach and rolled into a ditch.

Bicentennial City

Goodridge — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, chairman of the commission on the bicentennial of the United States Constitution, announced that Goodridge has been designated a "Bicentennial City," one of 310 nationwide. In order to become a bicentennial city, a community must have its elected officials authorize a commission, appoint members broadly representative of the community, outline plans and forward a specific request for recognition to the state commission.

Ice Is Not Nice

Oslo — An accident on the main street of Oslo resulted in $2,000 damage to a vehicle driven by John Bergman of Alvarado and $1,200 damage to a vehicle driven by Kimberly Anvinson of rural Oslo. The roadway was icy at the time of the accident, and both drivers lost control, causing the Bergman vehicle, which was eastbound, to cross over into the westbound lane of Anvinson. Extent of injuries was unknown.

Sawed Off Shotgun?

Warren — November 29, at 2:40 a.m., Marshall county deputies, making a routine traffic stop for a suspected speeding vehicle, discovered an uncased sawed-off shotgun in a vehicle. The driver and owner, Leroy Reuben Stromgren, 22, of St. Hilaire, was arrested and has been charged with possession of a short-barreled shotgun. Stromgren had been charged in county court and the incident has been bound over to district court.

Another Rollover

Middle River — November 17 a vehicle owned by Paul Brazier of Roseau, and driven by Kimberly Charles of Roseau, went out of control and rolled in a ditch two miles east of Middle River. The vehicle, a 1968 Ford, was a total loss, and Charles reported minor injuries. Authorities said they think the cause of the accident was a broken rear axle on the car.

Serious Offense

Baudette — The Baudette Region reported a mailbox vandal striking the evening of November 28. Ninne mailboxes in and out of town were vandalized, and readers were reminded that tampering with a mailbox is a federal offense as well as a state misdeamor.

Did Rudolph Ride In Back?

Greenbush — The Greenbush fire department gave emergency assistance to Santa Claus on his visit to the city last weekend. Since his sleigh was in need of repair, Santa utilized the fire truck as a means of transportation during his busy schedule of visiting the hospital and nursing homes and listening to area youngsters. He assured the children that his sleigh would be repaired in time for Christmas Eve, however.

Sheepskin Dream Come True

Red Lake Falls — A 63-year-old Red Lake Falls woman has recently become a high school graduate with completion of GED classes, fulfilling a life-long dream. Jean Schindler was forced to quit school in the eighth grade to go to work to help support her family. While raising eight children, her dream was placed on hold, but in 1984 she made up her mind to finish school and began studies at the Adult Learning Center in Crookston. Last week she graduated from the GED program and earned her high school diploma.

Lumber Yard Closes

Karlstad — The Robertson Lumber yard in Karlstad has announced that it will close some time this week. Mark Sperling, manager, said that a definite date has not been set, but the closing will be by December 12 at the very latest. The property will be put up for sale.

Participating Parents.

Newfolden — The principal of Viking and Newfolden elementary schools reported a 97.2 per cent turnout of one or both parents at a recent parent-teacher conference. Principal Jim Hodny said the attendance was the best it has ever been since he became principal.

Cooks From Many Lands

Warroad — Suzanne Huerd is heading a Warroad Area Community Center community cookbook project in the city of Warroad, planning to put together many different ethnic recipes from the community into one, affordable book. Recipes will include the varied backgrounds of the people of the area, including Scandinavian, German, English, Laotian and French. Area residents are being asked to donate their favorite recipes.

Cabin Vandals

Roseau — According to the Roseau county law enforcement centers, eight cabins in the Beltrami state forest were broken into and vandalized some time before Thanksgiving day. Numerous items were reported stolen. The cases are under investigation and names of cabin owners have not been released.

X-Ray Vision

Karlstad — The Karlstad Memorial hospital will have a new, more modern X-ray unit soon. The Karlstad city council approved the purchase at their December meeting. Hospital administrator Jerry Peak said the used equipment will cost $63,450 with the trade in of the hospital's old X-ray unit. A new unit would cost $150,000. This equipment will be more mobile and have better safety features, as well as a television screen for the doctors to view their procedures.

Happy Birthdays To You

Warroad — The Warroad Historical Society hosted their annual Christmas Tea December 7, and celebrated the 85th anniversary of the village of Warroad at the same time. All visitors were treated to a piece of 85th birthday cake as they viewed new exhibits and enjoyed the decorated Christmas tree. Across the street, the Warroad Lakers were celebrating their 40th birthday at the Memorial arena with a Laker-Winkler hockey game.

RLF Author

Red Lake Falls — A native of Red Lake Falls recently published his first book, "Wilderness Visionaries." The book is a collection of biographies of Henry David Thoreau, John Muir, Robert Service, Bob Marshall, Calvin Rutstrum and Sigurd F. Olson. Jim Dale Vickery, 35, is a woodsman, season national park ranger and contributing editor for "Canoe" magazine. He lives in a cabin on the edge of Minnesota's Boundary Waters Canoe area.

OPEN HOUSE will be conducted Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the new gift shop and coffee shop at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls. The gift and coffee shops are most conveniently reached from the main lobby of the medical center. Refreshments will be served and registration for free door prizes will be offered. The gift shop is adjacent to the east side of the main lobby and the coffee shop is east of the newly-constructed gift shop. The auxiliary will have Life Alert system units on display, having recently purchased another 10 units to meet local demand.

Burglaries

Warren -- The Marshall county sheriff's department is investigating two burglaries in the area. November 27 Gregory Burris of Oak Park township reported a burglary at his residence. November 30, LeRoy Ose of rural Thief River Falls reported that his residence in Excel township had been burglarized. Myles Hogenson of Middle River also reported the theft of a Yamaha 4-wheel ATV, valued at $2,000.

Festive Feast

Baudette — Nineteen people from Baudette enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner with Fr. Mike Deis of Sacred Heart church and Rev. Dave and Louise Ransom of First Congregational church, along with Hulda Ferm, housekeeper of Sacred Heart, and Paul Gawreluk. Rev. Ransom wore a pilgrim's hat throughout the festivities. Many area people contributed to the feast for those who might otherwise have been alone on the holiday. Seven meals were also delivered to shut-ins by the participants.

Put On Your Thinking Caps

Red Lake Falls — The Red Lake Falls Gazette is soliciting favorite Christmas memories from its readers. The memories will be published in the Christmas issue of the paper.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

At a luncheon the other day my friend Doris Ballingrud told me, "I noticed what you wrote about names of rivers here and I have my own idea of why this town is called 'Thief River.' I think it is called 'Thief' because it is a place that steals your heart."

Doris has something there. It is not at all hard to make a list of reasons why this might be true — perhaps you would like to make your own tally. Here are a few observations that might suggest that what Doris says is true:

At holiday time here people like to decorate the town. Our of the snow and ice of December harshness flash colors, red and green and gold. Driving about town, I see carriage lamps glowing below the ultra-modern streetlights. On avenues, roofs are outlined in all the colors of the spectrum. Bright white lights twinkle from branches.

From our kitchen window, we learn from the many winter birds that visit our yard. The Downy Woodpecker is the epitome of sturdy energy, rapping away at tree trunks and limbs. Even when he is not in view, bits of bark and lichens scattered on snow give evidence of its diligence. The Black-capped Chickadee hustles about with no regard of blustery snowstorms or plunging temperatures.

I could recount tens of things around and about that steal my heart, but the real joy and inspiration for me is the people who live here.

How pleasant it is to have people nod and smile or wave as I walk about on errands about town.

I think of people giving thousands of volunteer hours so that cultural events can happen. Right now choirs are rehearsing so that others can enjoy the music of Christmas — live.

I think of those who leave their own cozy homes and hearths on Christmas Eve to prepare and serve a dinner for others who might not otherwise have one.

I think of how people organize into groups to take care of things one person could not do by himself. Like the Jaycees taking kids shopping at Christmas, helping them select gifts for family members, and seeing to it gifts are wrapped and labeled, ready to put under the tree.

I think of how groups network with each other to accomplish things they could not do by themselves. Twenty years ago the Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC), the Mrs. Jaycees, and churches worked together, raising funds and lobbying to begin something that had not existed before: a Day Activity Center for Retarded Adults. It has provided a good place to be for many years. In recent years others have begun good works such as Meals on Wheels, the Hospice, Heritage Community center.

In one of his books Paul Tournier says each person has a deep need for a particular place to think of as home. He or she may or may not live there at the moment, but each person needs to have a place that he or she thinks of as an anchor.

When the city of Gonvick had its 75th anniversary celebration, a pastor made the observation that some people say that Gonvick is a small town because its population is 362. Yet that weekend, he pointed out, several thousand people came to the village to celebrate; all had ties there. Gonvick is bigger than the number on the road sign.

Towns of northwestern Minnesota are like that. Yes, Doris, it is very nice to be able to live in a place that steals the heart.

East Grand Forks AVTI Open House Slated Thursday

East Grand Forks technical institute is hosting it's 10th annual demonstration days and open house Thursday, featuring demonstrations on job possibilities and what students learn in each of the institute's 24 programs.

The demonstration day is geared for high school age students. Specific demonstrations will be held in the health, business office trade and industrial fields. Hours for demonstrations are 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12 noon to 2:30 p.m.

The open house December 11 will run from 6 to 8:30 p.m. and is for parents, students, area professionals, industry people, potential students and anyone interested. Students are unable to make it to the morning program, they are welcome to attend the open house in the evening.

Knox Elementary Plans Christmas Program Dec. 11

Christmas 1986 will be celebrated by Knox elementary students with their Christmas program called "Knox's Heavenly Angels" 1 p.m. Thursday, December 11. The 1986 Christmas program is directed by Jeanne Harger and assisted by elementary teachers.

Fourth and fifth grades, the seraphim angels, will join the third grade, herald angels, in performing: "Sing We Now of Christmas," "Angels Have Prepared For You," "Angel, Angel Land," "I Won't Grow Up," and "Think Lovely Thought, I'm Flying."

Kindergarten students, the Christmas angels, will perform: "Go Tell It On the Mountain," "Away In The Manger," "Jingle Bells," "Santa Claus Is Coming To Town," and "We Wish You A Merry Christmas.

First grade students, the cherubim angels, will perform: Angles We Have Hear On High," "For the Tiny Child," "Oh, I have ten Christmas Angels," "Ten Little Angels in a Band," "All Night, All Day."

The second grade, performing snow angels having fun on a winter holiday, will sing "Did You Ever See A Snowflake?" "The Christmas Train," "First Skater's Waltz," "The First Snowball of the Season," and Exercising Is Energizing."

The combined grades of the second, third, fouth and fifth grades will perform "Michael's called a Meeting," "I Trouble," and "Jiswannano," "Come to the Manger," and "Glory to God."

Bancroft Named To Chair State Advisory Group

Ann Bancroft, former Minneapolis teacher and the first woman to reach the North Pole, has been named to chair a state advisory committee which plans to recognize efforts of those who further the cause of equal opportunity for students regardless of race, sex or handicap.

The group also will publicize outstanding equity programs in Minnesota school districts.

The Minnesota department of education's equal educational opportunities (EEO) section is the sponsor of the "Excellence in Educational Equity" program. Nominations for the award will be accepted by the committee through Feb. 28, 1987.

Anyone who has any connection with education at the K-12 level in Minnesota — teachers, students, administrators, board of education members, citizens — is eligible for nomination. EEO staff members hope that a broad spectrum of curriculum areas and school activities will be represented in the nominations and awards.

Commissioner of Education Ruth Randall and Bancroft will make the awards presentation to the winners in a May 15, 1987, ceremony in the State Capitol rotunda.

To make nominations or receive further information about the program, contact Donald Hadfield, 984 Capitol Square, 550 Cedar Street, St. Paul, MN 55101, or call 612-296-5082.

You'll find lots of bargains in the Times' Classified Ads. Just phone 681-4450.

LORI AND MIKE CARPENTER at Lori's Hallmark and Gifts in downtown Thief River Falls have set up an angel tree. Each angel on the tree represents a child whose Christmas could be enriched by people participating in the angel tree program. On each angel is a brief description of the child and a gift idea. No names appear on the angels. "Tippy" Benson of school district 564 and Pennington county welfare office collected names and permission from parents before creating the angels. Lori said they had received 135 angels but about half are already gone. Last year Lori's had about 100 angles. This year they started earlier and expect to enrich many more lives. The customer has only to bring the gift back to Lori's. The store will wrap the gift and Benson will either deliver the gifts or arrange for them to be picked up.

Sara Wedul Sings In Mpls. Concerts

Sara Wedul of Thief River Falls was a member of the Augsburg college choir which presented its annual Advent Vespers at three separate performances in Central Lutheran church in downtown Minneapolis. The performances were held Friday and Saturday.

Northrop School Plans Christmas Program Dec. 12

Northrop elementary school will be holding its Christmas program for Kindergarten through grade five, 1 p.m. December 12. This year's theme is "It's Christmas Time," directed by Pat Beauchane and Jeanne Harger.

Grade two will perform: "Winter's in the Air," "Kids Were Made For Fun," "Let the Snow Come Down," "Frosty the Snowman," and "Season's Greetings."

Grade three will perform: "Down the Holiday Trail," "Christmas Merry Ha, Ha, Ha," "It's Christmas Time," "Department Store Santa," Department Store Photographers."

Grade five will perform: "I Can Feel the Christmas Story," Bah, Humbug," "Who Needs Love," "What Would the World be Like Without Christmas," "365 Days of Christmas," "What is the Meaning of Christmas."

TRANSPORTATION PLANNER at the Northwest regional development commission office in Thief River Falls is Jay Blake, a native of Apple Valley and graduate of St. Cloud state university. He served for the past six months as a temporary assistant city planner at Minnetrista, a suburb of Minneapolis.

New Transportation Planner On Staff At NWRDC Here

Jay Blake, recently hired as transportation planner by the Northwest regional development commission (NWRDC) in Thief Rver Falls, will attend his first transportation advisory committee meeting Monday at 7 p.m. in the NWRDC offices here.

Blake began duties here November 5 after six months of temporary employment as assistant city planner with the Minneapolis suburb of Minnetrista. He has a BA degree in geography and economics from St. Cloud state university and has been working on a master's degree in geography from Mankato state university. He also taught speech communication at MSU as a graduate assistant.

Blake's wife Lori, also has a degree in geography from St. Cloud state university and is employed as a consultant in the Star City program application process by the city of Red Lake Falls. She was employed most of the past year with the Minnesota department of energy and economic development.

Jay is originally from Apple Valley and Lori from Richfield. They are making their home in Thief River Falls and expect to become active in community organizations and through Trinity Lutheran church. Jay enjoys golf, tennis and walking in addition to community involvement.

The transportation advisory committee of the regional commission meets quarterly to consider problems, needs and opportunities regarding all areas of transportation in the seven-county region. Through intercounty cooperation and planning it has been instrumental in securing highway and rail improvements which are beneficial to the movement of people and goods in this corner of Minnesota.

Blake will succeed Wayne Goeken who left the commission staff when the offices were moved from Crookston to Thief River Falls. His hiring, and the hiring of Linda Nelson as arts planner and assistant aging programs planner effective January 6, 1987, will complete program stasffing for the NWRDC, according to Jay Brunner, NWRDC director. Nelson is currently employed by the

Proposals Sought For County DAC Services

Organizations interested in providing developmental achievement center services to mentally handicapped adults in Pennington county have until 4:30 p.m. on January 5 to submit proposals to the Pennington county department of welfare and human services, according to Gary C. Erickson, director.

The five page request for proposals (RFP) describes the services required and goals of the program and requests information on how the program would be provided. Presently the services are provided by the Falls Day Activity center under contract to the county through 1986. There are 31 people enrolled at the center, 16 of whom are in-county clients and 15 of whom are considered out-of-county and have their fees paid by counties other than Pennington.

Because the county's contract with the DAC ends on December 31 and the proposals will not be received until January 5 and considered January 6, arrangements will have to be made for services during the interim to avoid interruption. Erickson said the county could extend the contract with an addendum or purchase services without contract for a limited period of time.

Should the DAC be the successful applicant to provide services, the change to a new contract would likely involve minimal program disruption. Should another provider be selected, or more than one provider named, a certain amount of time would be required to allow other providers to establish their programs.

Erickson said that funding of fees for DAC clients is paid under two different programs — medical assistance (MA) and community social services act (CSSA). The former is allowable only for persons who are residents of certain board and care facilities, which in Pennington county are Johnson's and Hanson's board and care homes. About half of Pennington county's 16 clients come from those facilities where per diem fees to the DAC are paid on the basis of approximately 50 per cent federal, 45 per cent state and five per cent county.

Per diem fees for other in-county clients, including those in parental homes or foster homes, are paid by CSSA on the basis of 50 per cent state and 50 per cent county funds. Rate established under the 1986 contract was $22.50 per client per day, including transportation — among the lowest rates in the state.

"The goal is to provide developmental and training related activities in the most normal environment while offering only those support services essential for the person with the disability to succeed," the request for proposals states.

Services listed are vocational evaluation and assessment and developmental achievement services including personal skill development, developmental training, prevocational and vocational habits and skills, work activity, work enclaves, supported work and competitive employment.

Goodridge School Plans Christmas Concert Monday

Goodridge school music department will present its Christmas concert Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium under the direction of Helen C. Anderson.

Lunch following the concert will be served through cooperation of the Goodridge Area Development corporation and a free will donation will be received to assist the high school band in making a spring tour to Winnipeg, Man., Canada.

Students in kindergarten through third grade will sing and act out the poem "A Visit from St. Nicholas." Grade five and grade six bands will play individually and together and the high school band will present four selections. Duets will be played by Sonya Groven and Nicole Paulson and by Tami and Karla Quam.

Concluding portion of the concert will be presented by students in grades four through six combining with the high school chorus to perform the choral revue "I Love Christmas."

Plummer School Plans Christmas Program Monday

The Plummer school will present its annual Christmas program Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium. Featured in the program, under the direction of Marie Hvidsten, will be grades Kindergarten through six and the high school Cardinal chorus and Cardinal band.

Many traditional Christmas carols will be performed, along with delightful, new Christmas songs. The concert will be free to the public and Christmas goodies will be served after the program.

TRF City Council To Appoint 5th Ward Alderman Tuesday

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Applicants for fifth ward alderman will be selected after separate 15 minute interviews beginning at 6:45 p.m. next Tuesday. Don Goodrich, Dave Beste, Bob Reeve and Wayne Smith have all applied for the position.

City councilmen decided to adjourn Tuesday nights session until next Tuesday at 6:45 p.m. so that they can reach a decision. After interviews and discussion the council will vote individually. Each members vote has to be recorded according to law and open to public inspection.

Don Goodrich gave his 15 minute interview last night because he will not be able to attend next Tuesday's meeting. Goodrich has been a city council alderman for eight years but was not re-elected for alderman at large over a year ago last November during general elections. However, Goodrich did receive the majority of votes from the fifth ward during that election.

Mayor Bob Carlson reminded the council that a new member on the council will mean committee changes. The city attorney looked up the voting requirements and found out that the appointed councilmember would have to be elected by a majority of the council.

The city council passed a resolution in support of continued efforts of the city utilities committee "in an attempt to work out a compliance agreement with the state" regarding problems with water turbidity at the city water treatment plant. Water turbidity is the level of suspended solids in drinking water.

Alderman Kenneth Murphy said water turbidity levels in excess of the recommended state and Federal Environmental Protection Agency requirements have been an infrequent problem in Thief River Falls. And, the EPA and state are pressuring the city into doing something about the problem.

In fact, Thief River Falls is the only city in the state of Minnesota not meeting requirements for turbidity levels from surface water, according to Murphy. However, Murphy said, the turbidity level does not mean the water is unsafe to drink. There are safeguards built into the system to prevent the spread of a virus, for example, Murphy said. However, the EPA considers turbidity a possible vehicle for the spread of virus.

There seems little to indicate that the infrequent problem will be ignored or lessen because of anything that can be done differently at the water treatment plant outside physical plant changes. The standards for water turbidity are getting tougher to meet, and in all likelihood water turbidity in excess of recommendations will become more

Four Candidates For Directors Of C of C Nominated

Chamber of commerce members in Thief River Falls have until this weekend to submit names of candidates for election to the board of directors of the organization, according to Larry Belmont, president.

Nominating committee of the organization has nominated Gary Flynn, Richard Jorde, Ron Winter and Dave Strong for election to the four terms open on the board. Directors whose terms expire this year are Mike Woods, Russ Christianson, Ken Mehrkens and Strong. Ron Martin, whose term expired a year ago, continued on the board last year as past president.

Under bylaws of the chamber, any member in good standing may nominate candidates for directorship by petition signed by at least 10 members of the organization. Such petitions must be delivered to the nomination committee chairman within 10 days of notification of the membership. The letter was dated December 3.

If no additional nominations are received by petition, the board of directors may declare an election of those nominated by the committee. If there are other nominations an election will be conducted by mailed ballot.

BALLOT COUNTING for the Peterson-Stangeland Seventh District Congressional contest recount resumed Wednesday morning in Pennington County after two days of counting. According to the county auditor's office very few ballots had been challenged, indicating a very accurate count on election evening November 4. Of the 39 precincts in Pennington county only about 10 ballots had been challenged as the Times goes to press Wednesday. Ballot counting was to begin last Thursday but delays pushed the schedule to Monday. Two days were scheduled for ballot counting in Pennington county, but two and one-half have already passed. Pictured from left are: Margaret Ford, Stangeland inspector, Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Carlson, the neutral inspector; Thomas Kukielka, Peterson inspector; and Pennington county auditor Ken Olson. Also observing the ballot counting Monday were Fran Stromberg, Democratic party representative, and Gladys Barron, Independent-Republican party representative. Sen. Collin Peterson has asked for the recount after an apparent 121-vote loss to incumbent congressman Arlan Stangeland in the 23-county district.

Society and Clubs

Michelle Kraemer United In Marriage To Jerry Paulson

Michelle R. Kraemer and Jerry R Paulson were united in marriage August 8 at St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls. Concelebrants at the 5:30 p.m., double ring ceremony were Rev. Jacob Hillyer, uncle of the bride, and Rev. Dave Super. Ryan and Matt Kraemer served as acolytes for the ceremony.

Parents are Robert and Anne Kraemer and Alan and Millie Paulson, all of Thief River Falls.

Organist Kristi Gerardy, friend of the bride, played "Canon in D" as processional, with "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" as recessional selection. Carol Kankel, friend of the couple, sang "On Eagle's Wings," "He Has Chosen You For Me" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

The bride was escorted by her father to an altar decorated with live green plants. She wore an ivory taffeta wedding gown trimmed with embroidered vines, and carried a bridal bouquet of ivory Anthuriums and greenery fashioned by Judy's Flowers. Suzanne Steidl and Cecilia Knott were her personal attendants.

Jean C. Ternes Suby, Northwood, ND, friend of the couple, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Rhonda Sanders and Michelle Wise, both friends of the bride from Grand Forks, ND. All wore tea length gowns of lilac with matching shoes and carried three ivory Anthuriums with greenery.

The groom was attired in a black Dynasty tuxedo with ivory shirt and black accessories. He wore a boutonniere of miniature Anthurlumss and greenery.

Tim Bergland, Minneapolis, friend of the groom, was his best man. Other attendants were Steve Mehus, Minneapolis, and Steve Olson, Grand Forks, ND, both friends of the groom. They wore black tuxedos identical to that of the groom. Gentlemen of the wedding party wore Jasmine and greenery boutonnieres.

Guests of honor were the groom's daughter, Summer Paulson; Dave Bruggeman and Jeanne Bruggeman, godparents of the bride; and Sr. Placid Paul.

Following the wedding, a supper and dance were held at the Thief River Falls Elks club for approximately 250 guests. Marc and JoAnn Pream, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, and Chuck and Dixie Hoard, friends of the couple, served as hosts and hostesses.

The wedding cake was baked and decorated by Margaret Rupprecht. Peggy Kraemer and Geraldine Carter cut and served the cake, and Mary Ness and Jean Swick poured. Waitresses were Brenda Mikkelson, Valerie Moen and Alice Towne.

Flower hosteses were June Paulson and Tammy Swick, with Stephanie Pream and Liesdl presiding at the guest book. Punch was served by Wayne and Claudia Bendickson.

Rachael Pream, Tania Bren, Lisa Bren, Janelle Ness, Jennifer Ness and Kelly Carter arranged the gifts. Kris Kjos contributed in sign language; and programs were distributed by Brian Ness, Katie Kraemer, Eric Bendickson and Kelli Swick.

The couple is at home in Detroit Lakes where the groom is employed by the Detroit Lakes public school as teacher and assistant varsity hockey coach and the bride is a vision teacher. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Lincoln high shool in Thief River falls.

Gibson And Hince Announce Engagement

Kristi Gibson and Tim Hince announce their engagement and plans to be married February 14 at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Minneapolis college of art and design and is a commercial artist in the Twin Cities. Her fiance is the owner of "Seasonal Builders," a construction company in Eagan.

Parents of the couple are Mary Jane Gibson and Stan Gibson and Willard and Shirley Hince, all of this city.

Deaths And Funerals

Mary Numedahl, 42

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. at St. John Lutheran church for Mary Numedahl, 42, who died Friday evening at Northwest Medical center following an illness. Rev. John Beck officiated at the service.

Mrs. Elaine Idso was the organist, playing hymns of "How Great Thou Art," "I Know That My Redeemer Lives," "He's Risen, He's Risen" and "Joy To The World."

Pallbearers were Myrtle Drury, Lynnae Halvorson, Sharon Hoglo, Lucille Kjos, Joan Koestner, Tami Kosel, Cindy Moe, Alice Olson, Sandra Peterson, June Trane and Deb Wedger. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Mary Agnes Numedahl was born Oct. 9, 1944, in Burien, WA, to John and Dorothy Patocha Vasichek. When she was six years old, following the death of her mother, she moved to Lankin, ND, and was raised by her grandmother, Anna "Grandma" Vasichek. She attended school in Lankin, graduating from high school in 1962. She received nurses' training at St. Joseph's school of nursing in Grand Forks, ND, receiving her RN in 1965.

Apr. 29, 1967, she was united in marriage to Tom Numedahl at St. Mary's Catholic church in Grand Forks. The couple has lived in Thief River Falls for several years where she worked at Oakland Park nursing home, serving as director of nursing for many years. She was a member of the Hodge Podge homemakers club, St. John Lutheran church where she taught Sunday school and served on the Altar Guild, and was active in both Boy and Girl Scout programs in the city. She was also a member of the nurses' associations.

Mary Numedahl is survived by her husband, Tom; sons Tim and Chad, and daughter, Dawn, all at home; one brother, John Vasichek, Grand Forks, ND; two sisters, Mrs. John (Dorothy) Wallerius, Denmark, WI, and Mrs. John (Judy) Hodny of Grand Forks, ND; three nieces; and 15 nephews.

Her parents and grandparents preceded her in death.

Anna Matson, 86

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held for Anna Matson Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Floyd Dalzell and Rev. Dan Cole officiating. Anna Matson died Friday morning at her home at the age of 86.

Mrs. Gary Erickson served as organist for the service, with Grace Hammer singing "Den Store Hvide Flor," "I Know Who Holds Tomorrow" and "We Shall Behold Him." Congregational hymns were "Old Rugged Cross" and "What A Friend."

All nephews of the deceased were considered honorary pallbearers. Active bearers were all grandsons, Alexander Nelson, Peter Nelson, Douglas Nelson, Jerry Erickson, David Erickson, Mark Nelson, Mike Dahle, John Matson, Jeffrey Matson, Scott Kuzel, Robert Race, Jr. and Christopher Matson. Interment will be in Rindal cemetery. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Anna Mathilda Matson was born Nov. 17, 1900, in Honefos, Ringrek Co., Norway, to Martin and Thea Olson Nygaard. Her family moved to the United States in 1907, settling in Joice, IA, for two years. They then moved to Holt where she attended school and grew to womanhood.

She was united in marriage to Axel Nelson in 1918, at Holt. The couple lived there until 1927, when they moved to Alsen and Hansboro, ND. In 1935, they moved back to Holt, and he died that year.

She moved to Rosewood in 1936 and was united in marriage to Thomas Matson in 1938 at Warren. They lived at Rosewood until 1949, when they moved to Silverton township, Pennington county, where they have resided since. Thomas Matson died Oct. 10, 1986. She was a member of the Silverton Lutheran church and its ladies' aid and Silverton homemakers club.

Anna Matson is survived by six daughters, Audrey Erickson, Brooklyn Park, Mrs. Harold (Marriel) Coffman, Detroit Lakes, Shirley Dahle, Thief River Falls, Mrs. Duane (Marilyn) Kuzel, Grand Forks, ND, Mrs. Robert (Gaylene) Race, Augusta, GA, and Janice Matson, Thief River Falls; four sons, Alton Nelson, Yankton, SD, Adrian Nelson, Detroit Lakes and Eugene Nelson and James Matson, Thief River Falls; 21 grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.

She is also survived by three sisters, Margaret Heng, Seattle, WA, Mrs. Bjarne (Gertrude) Hegstad, Crookston, and Gladys Porter, Thief River Falls.

She was preceded in death by her husbands; parents; two sisters, Martha Sorum and Augot Severson; two brothers, Ole and Ted; and sons-in-law, Thorman Dahle and Donald Erickson.

Edwin "Ed" Hendrickson, 69

Thief River Falls — Mass of Christian Burial was held Monday at 11:30 p.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church for Edwin "Ed" Henrickson, who died Friday at his home in Thief River Falls at the age of 69.

Organist at the service was Mary Amundson, with special music by St. Bernard's Resurrection Choir.

Pallbearers were Thales Grindeland, Shawn Armstrong, Leigh Grindeland, Jack Grindeland, Floyd Suedel and L.L. Jones. Military honors were accorded by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Interment will be in the church cemetery in the spring. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Edwin Lorin Hendrickson was born Mar. 18, 1917, at International Falls, to Walter and Grace Van Fleet Hendrickson. He attended school and grew to adulthood there. He worked at Rainy River Beverage and hauling pulp wood in International Falls.

In 1941, he moved to Burlington, IA, where he worked for Gunthrie and Johnson and the United States Government. He also worked in Rockford, IL, for W. F. and John Barnes Company Foundry. October 27, 1942, he enlisted in the U.S. Army at Rockford, IL, at Camp Grant. He served in the European theater, Battle of the Bulge. Oct. 27, 1945, he was discharged at Camp Attabeny, IN.

He was united in marriage to Loella "Lu" O'Hara Dec. 1, 1943, at Rockford, IL, and worked for W. F. & John Barnes for a year. In 1946, he bought the ice company from the O'Haras in Thief River Falls and lived here since. He was also a trucker and construction worker for Lansidel Construction and others.

Ed Hendrickson is survived by his wife; two step-sons, Harvey Thompson, Hopewell, VA, and Michael Thompson, International Falls; seven grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

His parents preceded him in death.

Julian Bjerke, 70

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held today (Wednesday) at 10:30 a.m. for Julian Bjerke, 70, who died Sunday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Rev. John Beck officiated at the service, with Elaine Idso serving as organist and Marie and Lucille Lehrer singing "The Lord Is My Shepherd." The congregation joined in singing "My Hope Is Built On Nothing Less," and "Rock of Ages."

All in attendance were considered honorary casketbearers. Active bearers were Gerald Bjerke, Rod Vigstol, Jeff Vigstol, Timothy Bjerke, David Bjerke, Richard Taddy and, by proxy, Peggy Bjerke. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Julian Hanford Bjerke was born Apr. 1, 1916, in Thief River Falls, to Thomas and Josie Nokelby Bjerke. He grew up and attended school here, and was baptized and confirmed at Trinity Lutheran church.

Oct. 29, 1939, he was united in marriage to Minnie Rode in Wylie. The couple lived in Thief River Falls with the exception of two years when they lived in North Dakota. They farmed in North township, where he was township assessor for many years and served on the rural district 29 school board. He was a mail carrier until retiring in 1979 because of ill health.

Julian Bjerke is survived by his wife, Minnie; two daughters, Diana Vigstol, Wichita, KS, and Mrs. Richard (Darla) Taddy, Reedsville, WI; two sons, Duane and wife, Arlene, and Donald, all of Thief River Falls; nine grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Bruc (Alice) Peters, Charles City, IA; and one brother, Rueben, Grand Rapids, MI.

Preceding him in death were his parents, one brother, Orphie, and twin daughters.

Elizabeth "Betty" Johnson, 76

Thief River Falls — Elizabeth "Betty" Johnson, 76, died this morning (Wednesday) at Northwest Medical center. Funeral services for Betty Johnson will be Friday at 11:30 a.m. at St. Bernard's Catholic church. Interment will be in the church cemetery in the spring.

Visitation will be held from noon Thursday at the Belmont Funeral home and at the church for one hour prior to the service. There will be a vigil service Thursday evening at 7 p.m. at the funeral home. A complete obituary will follow in a later edition of the Times.

Arthur Sorum, 89

Thief River Falls — Arthur Sorum died Tuesday at his home in Thief River Falls at the age of 89. Funeral services for Arthur Sorum will be held Friday at Redeemer Lutheran church with Rev. Paul Bortnem officiating. Interment will be at Mandan Union cemetery in Mandan, ND.

Visitation will be held Thursday from 1 to 9 p.m. at the Green Funeral home and at the church for one hour prior to the service. A complete obituary will follow in a later edition of the Times.

Mark Shand, 33

were held today (Wednesday) at 10:30 a.m. the Green Funeral home chapel for Mark Shand, 33, rural Goodridge, who died Saturday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Rev. Carroll Erickson officiated at the service, with Grace Hammer as organist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Mark Randolph Shand was born Sept. 17, 1953, in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, to Donald and Inga Stokke Shand. He attended elementary school there, high school in Fort Wayne, IN, and Plummer, and graduated from Pershing high school in 1973. He graduated from Northland community college in Thief River Falls in 1975, and attended the University of North Dakota for one year.

He then returned to his parents' home in Plummer, where he helped farm. The family has lived in Kratka township since September of 1986. Mark's goal was to become a lawyer and ill health forced cancellation of that career.

Mark Shand is survived by his parents; brothers, David Alexander and Roderick Matthew, both at home; sister, Mrs. Allen (Dawn Elaine) Bailey, Fife, WA; niece, Cassandra, and grandmother, Nadie Moroz, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

He was preceded in death by his grandparents and one sister, Grace.

Frances Schmidt, 85

Red Lake Falls — Mass of Christian Burial was held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. in St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls for Frances Schmidt, 85, who died Friday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls. Interment will be in the church cemetery in the spring. The Petterson Funeral home of Red Lake Falls was in charge of arrangements.

Rev. Patrick Creeden was celebrant at the mass. Pallbearers were Lester Flage, Art Guillemette, Delton Hofius, Leo Bendel, Mark Violette and Don Walker.

Frances Hirsch was born Mar. 18, 1901, at LeSueur, the daughter of Conrad and Catherine Coleman Hirsch. She moved to Red Lake county with her family in 1905, and grew up here. She married Joseph Schmidt in June of 1924, and he died March 8, 1979. She was a homemaker and worked for many businesses in Red Lake Falls.

Survivors include sons, Donald, Grand Forks, ND, and Bernard and wife, Jeanette, Wilton; daughters, Teresa and husband, Julian Hanson, Tucson, AZ, Marcella and husband, Robert Helland, Williams, and Bernardine Schmidt, Red Lake Falls; 11 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and sisters, Mrs. Theresia Remschmidt, Crookston, and Mrs. Gertrude "Betty" Jose, Chicago, IL.

She was preceded in death by her husband, parents, six brothers and four sisters.

Doria LaPlante, 93

Red Lake Falls — Mrs. Joseph (Doria) LaPlante, 93, died Tuesday at Hillcrest nursing home in Red Lake Falls. Mass of Christian Burial will be Friday at 2 p.m. at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls. Interment will be in the church cemetery in the spring.

Visitation will be at the Petterson Funeral home in Red Lake Falls after 3 p.m. Thursday, with a wake service that evening at 6:45 p.m. A complete obituary will be in Monday's edition of the Times.

William Finnestad, 73

Baudette — Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. Monday at the Helgeson Funeral chapel in Warroad for William Finnestad, 73, of Baudette, formerly of Newfolden. He died last Wednesday at Red Wing after a six-month illness.

Rev. Mark Watson officiated at the services. Military rites were accorded by the Warroad military. Interment will be in Silent City cemetery in Roosevelt, with the Helgeson Funeral Chapels in charge of arrangements.

William Irwin Finnestad was born Apr. 25, 1913, in Harrington, WA, to Emil and Clara Finnestad. He moved to Newfolden as a baby, and was baptized and confirmed in the Bethlehem Lutheran church of Newfolden. He graduated from Newfolden high school and served in the U.S. Army for five years during World War II.

He returned to the Newfolden area and six years ago moved to Baudette where he has lived since. He was a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and was a carpetnter and farmer. He was married to Pearl Neumiller Jan. 28, 1963, at Warren.

William Finnestad is survived by his wife; step-son, Jack Neumiller, Warroad; step-daughters, Bonnie Neumiller, Red Wing, and Linda Johnston, Warroad; 16 grandchildren; 16 great-grandchildren; and one sister, Edna Tanberg, East Grand Forks.

He was preceded in death by his parents; one sister, one brother and one grandson.

Hilmer Anderson, 75

Grand Rapids — Hilmer E. Anderson, Grand Rapids, died Saturday at Itasca Memorial hospital in Grand Rapids at the age of 75. Funeral services were held Monday at 11 a.m. at the Rowe Funeral chapel in Grand Rapids with Rev. Kenneth Krause officiating. Interment was at Maple Hill cemetery in Hibbing.

Hilmer Anderson was born Apr. 14, 1911, in Grygla, and attended schools and grew to adulthood there. He married Marie Bjerken Nov. 26, 1934, at Grygla, and the couple farmed there for many years prior to moving to the Iron Range area in 1956. He worked for the Oliver Mining Company until 1961, and then worked in the construction industry in northern Minnesota until retiring in 1973. He had been a member of St. Petri Lutheran church in Grygla.

Survivors include his wife; five daughters, Darlene Buchwitz, Hibbing, Carol Barnard, Minneapolis, Betty Sordahl, Brooklyn Park, Diane Anderson, Grand Rapids, and Barbara Casey, Colorado Springs, CO; three sons, Conrad, Brainerd, Jerry, Grand Rapids, and Ricky, Brooklyn Park; 14 grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and one brother, Bert Anderson, of Grygla.

He was preceded in death by his parents and two sisters.

Ernest M. Wiseth, 78

Seattle, WA — Ernest M. Wiseth, 78, died November 17 in Seattle, WA. Memorial services were held November 22.

Ernest Wiseth was born June 27, 1908, in Goodridge, to Ole and Petrina Wiseth. He graduated from Goodridge high school and worked in construction in Cal, AK. He served in Burma during World War II.

He married Fern Anderson Sept. 27, 1952, in Seattle, and was employed as a carpenter until his retirement.

Ernest Wiseth is survived by his wife; one brother, Oscar, of Minneapolis; and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, three brothers and three sisters.

Carbon Monoxide In Major Threat During Winter

Poison experts at the Minnesota regional poison center (MRPC) at St. Paul-Ramsey medical center and Ramsey clinic are concerned about a silent killer thag stalks its victims during the fall and winter season.

Carbon monoxide — a colorless, tasteless and odorless gas — can and does find its way into homes, and often without warning.

Although most commonly associated with motor vehicle exhaust, carbon monoxide is also produced by central heating systems, gas ovens, fireplaces, gas heaters, charcoal grills, hibachis and just about any other fuel-consuming appliance, according to poison center staff.

Carbon monoxide robs the brain of life-giving oxygen. It doesn't have to kill its victim to leave its mark. But it does kill brain cells, and if enough die, permanent disabilities or death can occur.

Many of the symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are similar to those associated with a general lack of oxygen or a flu-like illness. Headache, nausea, vomiting, drowsiness, confusion, and muscular weakness are a few. People having any of the above symptoms should investigate their homes for faulty ventilation and defective heating units, and their motor vehicles for faulty exhaust systems. People should also be aware of whether others living with them have these symptoms, possibly indicating carbon monoxide poisoning.

To decrease the chance of polsing by carbon monoxide, the poison center suggests the following guidelines:

— Provide adequate ventilation when using wood stoves and fireplaces. Be sure all flame-burning appliances are properly installed, adjusted and operated. Don't use ovens and gas ranges for heating.

— Don't operate gasoline-powered engines in confined spaces, such as garages or basements.

— Never burn charcoal inside a home, cabin, recreational vehicle or tent — whether in a grill or fireplace — for any reason.

— Have only a qualified technician install or convert fuel-burning equipment from one type of fuel to another.

— Have wood-burning stoves and fireplace chimneys inspected and cleaned once a year.

— Read and heed manufacturer's instructions for installing and using all fuel-burning equipment and appliances.

— Use only top quality kerosenes in unvented kerosene heaters, provide proper ventilation and keep the wick of the heater properly adjusted.

— Have autmobile exhaust systems checked yearly. If exhaust system is faulty, repair it immediately.

— Check to make sure snow is not clogging tailpipe if you are stranded during a snow storm or after backing into a snow bank.

— Inhaling fumes from furniture paint strippers containing metheylene chloride can cause carbon monoxide poisoning. Use paint strippers in a well-ventilated area such as a garage with the garage door open or outdoors.

If someone has been exposed to carbon monoxide, immediately remove them, others and yourself from the area where the gas is concentrated. It is important to get help immediately.

If the victim is seriously ill or unconscious, he should receive oxygen and be taken by ambulance to an emergency room where carbon monoxide blood levels can be checked and other appropriate treatment administered. Correct the carbon monoxide problem before allowing anyone back into the contaminated environment.

For assistance, or if you have questions on any type of poisoning, contact the Minnesota Regional Poison Center anytime.

The number for residents in the St. Paul area is 221-2113 at St. Paul-Ramsey Medical Center; the Minneapolis area number is 347-3141 at Hennepin County Medical Center; the toll-free state WATTS number is 1-800-222-1222.

Tax Law To Remove Some Tax Breaks For Persons In Farming

The new tax law removes some beneficial tax breaks and alters other long standing tax rules for farmers. Farmers still have time to take advantage of these tax breaks for the remainder of 1986. Farm tax specialists at Farm Credit services (FCS) of Grand Forks recommend farmers review the new tax laws with their tax advisor to evaluate the tax consequences of the new Tax Reform Act of 1986.

After December 31, some opportunities to reduce income taxes will be gone. While tax reform may not lower your taxes or make them easier to figure out, it may alter the profitability of some business decisions in the coming year, and it may be to your advantage to move ahead on some of those decisions now rather than wait for 1987, suggests Marilynn Ogden, farm tax specialist with FCS.

"Obviously, no one should go out and sell assets or otherwise do business just for the sake of taking advantage of a tax break," Ogden says. "But, if taking action now instead of in January means you can save money on your 1986 taxes that you couldn't save in 1987, than you probably should consider it."

According to Ogden, one of the first things farmers will notice is the tax bill does not simplify taxes for the farmer. The various effective dates of provisions, phase-in of certain provisions, new depreciation calculations, new accounting rules, and other changes complicate the tax calculation process for farmers.

One of the most notable changes is the elimination of capital gains deductions after 1986. To take advantage of the current deduction, a farmer may want to sell breeding or dairy livestock prior to year-end. Some individuals receiving payments on installments sales may want to renegotiate the contract to speed up the reporting of capital gains. Still others may want to close deals before the end of the year. Negotiating changes in contracts to accomplish these things may be advantageous for the buyer as well as the seller, as it becomes an additional bargaining point for the buyer who is being asked to accomodate the seller.

Since the tax rates will be going down for ordinary income, farmers may wish to accelerate expenses into 1986 and delay income to 1987. However, since 1986 is the last year of income averaging, some farmers may want to do just the opposite. This may be especially true for farmers who have a carryover of investment tax credit because 17.5 per cent of the credit will be lost going into 1987 and 35 per cent of the credit will be lost going into 1988. Ogden noted investment tax credit for new purchases was eliminated for items bought after December 31, 1985.

"To complicate things even more, the alternative minimum tax also has some changes that could affect farmers. The calculation of this tax is even more complicated than the regular tax," Ogden said.

"The new tax bill makes agriculture less attractive as an investment for tax shelter purposes. The loss of investment tax credit, new accounting rules of preproductive expenses, limits on accelerated depreciation, limitation of certain farm losses and elimination of captial gains will deter individuals from using farming as a tax shelter. However, family farmers need to be careful they are not hurt by some of these provisions that were meant to remove advantages for the tax shelter farmer," Ogden advised.

Changes in the tax law will affect each farmer differently. Each farmer has a unique set of circumstances. Thus, each farmer needs an individualized tax plan that minimizes taxes while maximizing profits. With the new tax bill, some changes may be needed to develop the best plan. "What may have been good tax planning strategy in previous years may not work now," Ogden said.

MSBA Board Asks All Schools To Be Tobacco Free

Board of directors of the Minnesota School Boards association (MSBA) has gone on record supporting tobacco free schools in Minnesota.

Acting at the November 30 meeting, the MSBA board approved a resolution urging school boards in local districts to consider the adoption of a tobacco free schools policy.

The resolution reads as follows: "Be It Resolved, That the MSBA board of directors urges all Minnesota school districts to consider adopting a policy which designates all school district buildings, grounds and vehicles to be tobacco free."

MSBA president Harry Sjulson, Thief River Falls school board member from St. Hilaire, who introduced the resolution to the 15-member board, said, "Our educational system should provide a smoke free environment for today's students." He called on local school boards "to provide leadership and serve as role models in condemning the health hazards for smokers and non-smokers alike."

William Doherty Will Speak At UMC Seminar

William Doherty, associate professor in the department of family social science at the University of Minnesota-St. Paul, will speak at the Crookston campus Friday, December 12, at 3:30 p.m.

As part of UMC's seminar series, he will address "The Changing Family Structure And Implications For Rural America". The public is invited to Doherty's address in the agricultural research center auditorium.

Prior to his appointment at the University this fall, Doherty was associate professor and coordinator of behavioral science in the department of pyschiatry in the College of Medicine at the University of Oklahoma health sciences center.

He is a clinical member and fellow of the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy, charter member of the American Family Therapy association, and member of the American Psychological association, National Council on Family Relations, Society of Teachers of Family Medicine and Society for Behavorial Medicine, and Groves Conference on the Family.

The seminar is free and open to the public.

Other topics to be addressed by national experts at later Seminar Series programs include: "Environmental Issues in Rural Minnesota" in January; "The Survival of Rural Churches" in February; "The Impact of Global Issues on Rural America" in March; "Entrepreneurship and the Survival of Small Towns" in April; and "Economic Perspectives" in May.

Consumer Debt Seems Scary But Not Really Bad

by Walter W. Heller
U of M Economist

With Christmas just around the corner, small wonder that the spotlight is on the consumer. Will she come through now and next year, or will the growing burden of consumer debt mean that we can no longer rely on consumers as the backbone of economic expansion?

On the face of it, household debt — like government and business debt — looks pretty oppressive. The scary term, "all-time high," quickly comes to mind. And with consumer borrowing way up, the consumer saving rate is way down. That all adds up to a bad scene for the economic outlook, right? Not necessarily.

Granted, the raw numbers look bad. Consumer debt was reached a record high near 20 per cent of disposable — or after-tax — income, and the service charges on that debt are close to a new peak.

But once we take the rapid rise in household assets into account, the picture gets brighter. Even leaving stocks and equities out of it, we found that household or consumer net worth is higher relative to after-tax income than it has been in 20 years.

Next, let's split out that part of consumer debt that is really revolving credit — mostly credit cards. This debt gets paid off at an average rate once every five months. What's more, one-third to one-half of American households pay off fast enough to avoid all financing charges. In other words, we use credit cards as a substitute for money.

Now, when you net out that plastic money and get down to the bedrock of repayment burdens on borrowings for autos, appliances and home repairs, these turn out to be the lowest in relation to consumer income in 15 years.

But to say that consumers aren't groaning under as big a debt as might appear is not to say that consumers will be frisky and feisty next year. After all, consumer income gains are slowing down. Consumer confidence has been eroding, and many households are in over their heads.

Instead of this year's gain of about five per cent in real consumer spending, a three per cent rise looks more likely next year. In other words, instead of playing a lead role in expansion, the consumer will settle for a supporting role in 1987.

SWCD Personnel Return From State Meeting

Supervisors and office personnel of the Pennington soil and water con*servation district and the area office* of the soil conservation service have returned from attending the annual convention of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation districts in the Twin Cities.

Attending the event were supervisors Clair Larson, Leonard Skaar and Harry Hanson, conservationist Al Gustafson and office worker Becky Olson of the Pennington SWDC and Ginny Kruger and Dean White of the area office staff.

Phase Out Of Tip Credits In 1987 Takes Third Step

Third step to phase out tip credits against mimimum wage will take place at the beginning of 1987. Effective January 1, the maximum allowable credit is part of the phase-out of the tip credit which will be totally eliminated in 1988.

The tip credit applies only when an employee who performs the main service for a customer gets at least $35 a month in tips, the tips are the sole property of the employee, and the employer gets a signed statement from the employee each pay period indicating the actual amount of the tips received.

Employers should be aware that the department of labor and industry will require these signed tip statements in its investigations and audits. No tip credit will be allowed without them.

If the tip credit applies to a service employee, the employee will be allowed in 1987 to take a maximum five per cent (or 17 cents) credit toward the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour for an adult employee and the same maximum percentage (or 15 cents) toward the $3.02 minimum wage for an employee under 18 years of age.

For more information on the tip credit and the minimum wage, contact the Labor Standards Division of the Minnesota Department of Labor and Industry, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101, telephone (612) 296-2282.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

A capable enthusiastic new college graduate mailed more than 300 resumes outlining his skills and experience. Two-thirds of the companies responded with "Thank you, but no thanks" letters. At 22, with a 16-year investment in education, this young man was shocked. He couldn't find a job. Here he was, ready for the world, but that world didn't seem to want him. As a senior, he had received letter offers of credit cards, special deals on cars, bargain vacation folders and lots of magazine subscription specials. The "big money" he had expected didn't materialize. Even low paying jobs were not coming his way.

Should he go on to graduate school? He discovered that his impatient fiance worked next to a young lady with an MBA from a good school earning about $12,000 per year operating a word processor, a fancy electronic typewriter. That turned him off grad school.

We have a major unemployment problem; more than eight million Americans defined as unemployed. That definition doesn't include individuals who have given up trying to find a job. It doesn't include the underemployed, or those unable to tolerate continuing rejection. Nationally, we have between 10 and 12 million Americans who would like to find a work opportunity, but can't. There are probably as many unemployed Americans today as existed during the depths of the 1930's depression.

The fact that we have more than 110 million employed Americans, the highest number of workers in our history and almost 10 per cent more than those at work when President Ronald Reagan took office, doesn't solve the unemployment problem. Furthermore, unemployment is not an equal opportunity experience. Adult men and women have between five and six per cent unemployment. Teen-agers have 15 to 20 per cent unemployment. Black teen-agers have unemployment at between 30 and 40 per cent. Minority adults have higher unemployment rates than white adults. It is difficult for the young to find jobs, even though fewer young people are moving into the job market each year. I have not included those workers who have unsatisfying and frustrating jobs in my data.

What can be done to solve the unemployment, underemployment and unhappy job holder problems, recognizing that they cause demoralization, mental and physical ailments and increased crime and violence?

First, there are millions of unfilled jobs in the real world. Signs, ads and even fast food place mats with mini-applications testify to this simple fact.

Second, our educational system should provide good vocational guidance so that the nation can satisfy its job needs. Producing thousands of surplus lawyers, doctors, accountants and others doesn't make sense when we have shortages of skilled mechanics who can make our air conditioning and heating systems, cars and other essential services work. Being able to fit our people into jobs is an important educational function.

Third, parents and educators must help young Americans recognize certain job facts of life, so that expectations will not be developed that cannot be fulfilled, creating frustration in a generation that has been led to believe in instant gratification. Young Americans must recognize that usable skills and experience must be developed before high levels of wages and benefits can be earned.

Parents and teachers must emphasize the need to work conscientiously, and that movie protrayals of quick resolution of frustration in 90 minutes may actually take decades in a competitive world. They must understand that American companies go bloated with middle management and the "fat" of excessive staffing, poor productivity and high costs, and that they must keep themselves trim, cost wise, if they are to survive.

Fourth, they must know about the risks and rewards of achieving success, financial and emotional, through creation of a small business, when they are properly prepared. Small business creates most of our new jobs each year.

Our unemployment problem requires the cooperation of parents, educators and government. It will not disappear on its own, or through the use of political hot air and slogans.

That's Straight Talk!

Nativity Scene Vandalized In TRF

Vandalism to a Nativity scene at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and three hit and run reports were among the many incidents investigated or reported to the Thief River Falls police and Pennington county sheriff department during the past week.

On December 6 at 9:20 p.m. on-duty police officers noted the statute of the baby Jesus was missing from the Nativity scene at Redeemer Lutheran church. Two other figures were pushed over. The loss was estimated at $25. At 11:37 p.m. on-duty police officer observed that the Nativity scene at Redeemer had been vandalized again. Hay bales had been pushed over and the light for the figure previously stolen was missing. Also a light on another figure was broken. The star was also missing. The total loss was valued at $36.

POLICE NEWS:

Hit-and-run accidents. On December 3 Glennie Iverson, route two, Goodridge, reported a hit-and-run accident that occurred three days earlier while the car was parked in a parking lot in the city. His pickup was hit on the front by an unknown vehicle, causing $200 damage.

On December 5 at 3:24 p.m. Scott Beito, route one, reported he was using a car owned by Arnold Geske, Thief River Falls, and was parked at either Kmart or Pamida lot and was hit by an unknown vehicle on the right rear causing $300 damage.

On December 6 Gloria Rustan, Oklee, reported her car was parked in front of Northern State Bank and was struck by an unknown vehicle, light blue in color. His car was struck on the left side causing $200 damage. The other vehicle left the scene.

Juvenile incidents. On December 5 Corner drug reported catching a 15 year old juvenile girl shoplifting. She had taken candy and perfume valued at $5. Another companion was not involved. Charges are pending in juvenile court.

On December 6 at 12:40 a.m. police received a call to 619 North State concerning a loud party. The juvenile and minors were found to be present and had been drinking. Five juvenile girls, age 14, 15 and 16 were charged with drinking underage. Tina Strand, 18, route two, Mentor, was also charged with drinking underage. David Flatland, 18, Kennedy, the rentor of the apartment, is facing charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Charges are also pending against a juvenile boy.

Thefts. On December 3 Willie Senum, route two, reports a grey colored laundry basket and some soap taken from Brite Spot laundromat while they were absent from the building. Loss valued at about $5. On the same day, Gary Flynn, Thief River Falls, reported a 1980 Arctic Cat kitty cat stolen from his yard during the night. It is black with green trim and valued at $300. On December 8 the snowmobile was located behind Seventh Day Adventist school. Damage was reported to the hood and other parts of the snowmobile.

On December 4 Otto Lappegaard, Thief River Falls, reported the statute of a fawn deer was taken from his yard. It was valued at $40.

On December 5 a local resident reports $30 in coins taken from his room at the Thief River Hotel. It is under investigation.

On December 7 Mark Holen, Thief River Falls, reported a 1981 Arctic Jag snowmobile, black with green stripes, taken from behind Travel Host motel. Machine had no registration displayed and was valued at $1,200.

On December 7 Warren Seaverson, Thief River Falls, reported the theft of a 15 foot string of Christmas lights and theft of larger bulbs and 50 foot extension cord. The total loss was estimated at $39.

On December 8 Don Lykken, Thief River Falls, reported a Santa Claus and reindeer decoration, one string of Christmas lights and a 50 foot extension cord taken. The loss was estimated at $70.

Other. On December 1 at 8:03 a.m. a car driven by Lois L. Peterson, route six, Thief River Falls, was going south on Davis, stopped for the stop sign at Third street and then proceeded into Third street turning left. At the same time, Erling Torgerson, route one, Trail, was going west on Third street. The two vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $600 to Peterson and $350 to Torgerson.

On December 7 police responded to reports of a loud party. Charges are pending against Julie LaDuke, 22, Thief River Falls, as a result of that investigation. The charge is public nuisance.

On December 8 Dr. Phil Bruno reported that someone had run into and broken a pole that holds up his business sign. Damage was estimated at $25.

SHERIFF NEWS: On December 1 at 3 p.m. Jeffrey Michalicek of Thief River Falls was traveling north at the intersection of county road 62 and 78 and was unable to stop because of an icy intersection and struck Meribeth Reay's vehicle of Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $500 to Michalicek and $950 to Reay's vehicle.

On December 5 a resident of Goodridge reported a grinder missing out of his garage in section four, Highlanding township. The loss was valued at $179.

Wheat Growers Adopt Policy At Annual Meeting

Federal farm programs and tax reform head up the list of policy recommendations that will guide the Minnestoa Association of Wheat Growers over the coming year. The resolutions were adopted by the growers at their annual convention in Moorhead December 1-2.

According to MAWG president Gordon Sonstelie of Winger, the organization continued its general support for farm programs that work to restore full production, provided enough permanent conservation acres are taken out of production on a paid basis to maintain farm income at profitable levels.

The wheat growers specifically endorsed a mandatory two-price system with a minimum $4.38 loan rate, coupled with either export subsidies or a marketing loan for the export portion of crops. According to Sonstelie, this would assist in providing an orderly and aggressive means to reduce carryover stocks.

"Wheat growers should not have to suffer in the marketplace because of the current administration's failure to put together a cohesive trade policy," Sonstelie said. "If we continue down the road we are on, the end result will be a trade war, and neither the American farmer nor the American taxpayer should be expected to bear the cost of failed foreign policy."

The MAWG resolutions also address the issue of tax reform. According to Sonstelie, "Agricultural interests were greatly compromised during the tax reform debate in Congress, and the wheat growers have resolved to pursue corrections to the legislation."

Among items the association would like restored to the tax bill include income averaging and investment tax credit. "Specifically," Sonstelie said, "the wheat growers are urging the reinstatement of the full carry-over of unused investment tax credit with a 100 per cent cashout option."

On the state level, the MAWG supports basing agricultural land taxes on the productive return or rental value of the land, rather than on potential sales value. "Property tax reductions will be high on the priority list for MAWG when the legislature reconvenes in 1987," Sonstelie said.

Minnesota Wheat Growers also endorsed a resolution to fund a stronger and more broadly based national wheat PAC to be funded by a one-cent-per-acre formula to allow wheat to compete with other industrial and agricultural interests in Washington, D.C.

The 1987 MAWG resolutions will serve as a guide for the board of directors to follow in the coming year, and will also be brought up at the National Association of Wheat Growers convention, along with other wheat states' resolutions, in order to develop a set of national guidelines for 1987.

Inter-City Gas Co. Purchased By Utilicorp United

Purchase of the Minnesota gas distribution operations of Inter-City Gas by UtiliCorp United was completed Friday and the operation will be known as Northern Minnesota Utilities.

In May, UtiliCorp signed a letter of intent to purchase the operation which is headquartered in Cloquet and serves 21,000 customers through district offices in Chisholm, International Falls, Thief River Falls, Wadena and Cloquet. The $21.7 million purchase price includes gas plant in service, inventories and accounts receivable.

UtiliCorp also serves 88,600 gas customers in Minnesota through its Peoples Natural Gas division headquartered in Council Bluffs, IA. The divisions will operate autonomously.

Fred K. Little has been named president of the division. He had previously held the position of vice president and general manager for the Minnesota region of Inter-City Gas.

LEAFING THROUGH YOUR LIBRARY

by Deanna Swenson
Branch Librarian

The Thief River Falls branch of the Northwest Regional library receives new adult and children's books monthly. This article will highlight some of the adult fiction and nonfiction titles.

A woman takes control of her life and destiny in "The Golden Cup" by Belva Plain. The story is set against turn-of-the-centruy New York when the country was facing the horror of the impending war. Plain also authored the recent bestseller "Evergreen."

Johnny Cash has authored his first novel in "The Man in White." It depicts Saul's early obsession with destroying the Christian movement and his later work with the Gentiles after his conversion.

"I'll Take Manhattan" by Judith Krantz is the story of Maxi Amberville who takes over her late father's magazine when she discovers it is going to be destroyed.

A young man comes of age in the Minnesota farm country of the 1950's in the next story by Will Weaver. Titled "Red Earth, White Earth," the book will be featured in the Northwest Regional library's next Book-and-Author dinner on April 17, 1987. Weaver lives in Bemidji and is currently working on a mini-series.

Audrey Driscoll must make a choice between the dictates of her conscience and the yearning of her heart in "Wanderlust" by Danielle Steel. She leaves the care of her grandfather and younger sister to travel across the Atlantic where she meets Charles Parker Scott.

"Hawks of Autumn" is a western story written by Wayne Lee. Clint Webb returns to his Nebraska homeland to face Dude Ronsey who took over Webb's family ranch.

The lives of Aristotle and Christina Onassis are told in the book "Onassis" by L. J. Davis. Christina's troubled life and multiple marriages are understood after reading what she has faced as heir to her father's enpire.

Bill Cosby uses his special brand of humor, wisdom and humanity in his book "Fatherhood." He writes from his own experience as a son and then as a father. He covers everything from the children's births to watching them leave the nest.

"Finding the Right Job at Mid-Life" by Jeffrey Allen gives practical ways to locate a rewarding job. The book includes writing resumes and interviews.

Gift Giving Can Put Strain On Family Budget

Holiday traditions have a special place in family life, but for families on limited incomes, gift-giving expectations can create financial problems and add unwanted stress, according to Deborah Matero Zak, Pennington county extension agent, home economics. "Realistic and careful planning can help families avoid added financial burdens after Christmas," Zak said. "Whatever your income, the most important thing is to determine how much money you can afford to spend on gifts.

"To do this, look at your income and the amount you will need for living expenses. How much is left that will be available for holdiay spending? If you have been saving for the holidays, how much is in that account? How much can you afford to add to credit accounts?

"Cresit is easily overextended, and it can take dollars away from other living expenses for months to come," Zak says. "Buying on credit may also mean that you'll be paying more for the items because of the interest charged.

"Once you have determined how much is available for gift-giving, make a plan for dividing that among those on your gift list. It's a good idea to talk with family members and let them know that there is less money available for giving. Discuss ways to cut costs while still remembering relatives and friends," she said.

Practice creative gift-giving. Gifts can be of time or creative energy rather than money. Some ideas for low-cost but thoughtful gifts include:

+ Something personal that is hand-crafted;

+ A "gift certificate" of time or talent (for example, a grandchild could give a gift of one hour's visit per week with grandpa or parents could give a grown child a certificate for babysitting so the young couple can have time together);

+ For the elderly, food items, stationery and stamps are welcome.

"Gift-giving shouldn't be a burden" Zak says. "A gift should show love and concern, but overspending can take the joy out of the occasion. Keep holiday spending in perspective."

Farm Debt Cure-Alls May Cause Farm Loss

In the current agricultural climate, many farmers are struggling under staggering loads of debt, often beyond their current capacity to pay back. Therefore, it can be extremely encouraging to farmers to hear of various means by which they can avoid paying the debt or protect their assets from debt collection. Unfortunately, many of these theories, promoted in meetings and consultations throughout the state, are totally ineffective and may cause farmers to lose their chances to emerge from their desperate financial circumstances through more difficult, but valid means, according to the Minnesota attorney general's office.

There are several common, ineffective theories which have gained wide circulation in Minnesota and other states. Most of them take the form of supposed defenses against collection actions of creditors. All have been demonstrated ineffective in numerous court decisions throughout the country. Some of the common schemes are summarized here.

+ The Unconstitutionality of the Federal Reserve System. Many argue that the Federal Reserve system and the system of paper money currency is unconstitutional, and therefore, that debts incurred through the exchange of credit by lending institutions are not valid and need not be repaid. Likewise, some suggest that loans of credit can be repaid by credit from the borrower such as "fractional reserve notes." These theories are totally unfounded. The constitutionality of the Federal Reserve system has been consistently upheld in the courts throughout the country.

+ Lease-Back Schemes. A more recent device to protect assets from the liens or claims of creditors has been the lease-back scheme. In these schemes, the farmer will somehow lease his or her land to some company (with the farmer paying a form of reverse rent, such as a percentage of gross receipts or profit), and the leasing company, in turn, will "hire" the farmer. These bogus "leases" serve no purpose other than to enrich those receiving the reverse rental payments.

+ Living Tursts. While trusts are often used as an estate planning device and can serve many legitimate purposes, their use is being touted for reasons that do not stand up to scrutiny. Some people claim that by transferring all of an individual's assets into a trust, the assets can thus be shielded from collection action by creditors. This is not true. If property is subject to a lien, the lien accompanies the asset into the trust and remains subject to collection activity.

+ Land Patents. Some people and organizatioins advise farmers that by obtaining a copy of the original land patent for the farm property (usually for a fee), farmers can avoid all liens that have been filed against that property since the original issue of the land patent. This is blatantly false. Obtaining a land patent has absolutely no value to anyone except to the person who sells that land patent.

+ Usury. The usury laws of the State of Minnesota and the United States are extremely complicated, and on rare occasions, debts or interest on the debts may be avoided if the lender has charged too high a rate of interest. By pointing at one or another of the several statutes dealing with usury, some people claim that most agricultural loans are unsurious and that payment may be avoided. However, when the statutes are correctly interpreted together, the allowable rate of interest is substantially higher.

In general, loans can be made for agricultural or other purposes at the highest rate allowable to finance companies, which is generally far in excess of that charged by most agricultural lenders. For example, in a recent decision of the Minnesota court of appeals, an annual interest rate in excess of 20 per cent was found allowable. If the usury defense is presented as a cure all for a farmer's debt woes, the person claiming that cure all is probably wrong. A close analysis by your attorney is required before it can be determined whether usury is available as a defense to a collection action.

+ Farm Credit Systems' Failure to Register. It has been asseted by some misinformed lawyers and others that debts owing to any part of the Farm Credit system, PCAs or Land Banks are unenforceable since these organizations have not registered to do business in the individual states as foreign corporations. In addition, certain individuals have registered the names of Farm Credit system entities for different organizations, and therefore claim that the Farm Credit system organizations cannot do business in the state. That is not true.

The Farm Credit system institutions are federally chartered instrumentalities, and numerous court decisions throughout the country have held unequivocally that they need not register as foreign corporations in the individual states. In no case will their failure to register create a defect in their claim for repayment of loans obtained from them.

In summary, if anyone offers you a theory that will solve all your problems, watch out! There are often valid defenses or other means to work out problems with creditors which may be lost in the pursuit of a worthless cure all. If you are offered a scheme to solve all your problems, consult with a reliable attorney or your local farm advocate prior to investing your money or putting all your hopes on that theory. Unless farmers are careful, cure alls may turn out to be end alls. If you have questions or need referral to a farm advocate, call the Attorney General's Farm Preservation Hotline 1-800-652-9747.

Paycheck Stubs Must Be Provided To All Employees

Effective Jan. 1, 1987 a new Minnesota law requires all employers to provide paycheck stubs or statement of earnings. The Minnesota department of labor and industry has received numerous inquiries from employees and employers which indicate that many employers are unaware of the law.

The new law provides that at the end of each pay period the employer shall give each employee an earnings statement in writing covering that pay period. The earnings statement may be in any form determined by the employer, but must include:

(a) The name of the employee; (b) hourly rate of pay (if applicable); (c) total number of hours worked by the employee, unless exempt from the fair labor standards act; (d) total amount of gross pay earned by the employee during that period; (e) a list of deductions made from the employee's pay; (f) net amount of pay after all deductions are made; and (g) date on which the pay period ends.

An employer, who for the purpose of depriving an employee of wages to which the employee is entitled and in order to mislead the employee, furnishes to the employee a statement that the employer knows to be false, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The payroll information required by the statute will provide employees with the minimum data to determine the accuracy of their net pay. Additionally, payroll errors and disputes may be rectified more readily and promptly.

All wages due an employee must be paid at least once every 30 days on a regular payday designated in advance by the employer.

For additional information, contact the Minnesota Department of Labor and Industry, Labor Standards Division at (612) 296-2282.

Speer May Speak At NWRDC Meet On January 27th

David Speer, newly appointed commissioner of the Minnesota department of energy and economic development, has tentatively accepted an invitation to speak to the Northwest regional development commission at its first full commission meeting of 1987 January 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the NWRDC offices in Thief River Falls.

Jay Brunner, director of the regional commission, said the invitation had been issued to Speer and tentative acceptance received. Speer recently was named to the post to succeed Mark Dayton who resigned.

FCS Cuts Rate Of Interest For Long-Term Loans

Member-borrowers of Farm Credit services (FCS) of Grand Forks will receive interest rate decreases on their long-term mortgage loans. The decreases go into effect December 1 and January 1.

"With this reduction in interest rates, our lowest available mortgage rate for our highest quality borrower is 9.75 per cent. All other Federal Land Bank loan rates are dropping, many by nearly one per cent. We feel that our rates are very competitive in today's market," said Bob Palmer, FCS president.

"Under the program, loans may be restructured at current value, provided the farmer is able to pay interest and some principal on mortgages which allow FCS to recover debt set aside temporarily until land values improve.

FCS only restructures loans to those farmers who are willing to use all of their resources to help themselves and who can demonstrate the likelihood of their unit being viable following restructure.

"By restructuring those borrowers with a good chance for recovery, we will reduce our costs and recover more of the nonaccruing loans than we could otherwise. This reduces the carrying costs which contribute to higher interest rates for all our members," Palmer said.

In 1984, Alaska had the highest average annual pay of any state at $28,806. The District of Columbia came next with an average annual pay level of $25,120, followed by Michigan ($20,940), New York ($20,754) and Connecticut ($19,980), according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Challenge Issued To Lincoln Groups

The Lincoln high school yearbook staff has decided to forego their annual Christmas gift exchange this year, instead planning to buy gifts for children chosen from the Children's Christmas Tree at K-Mart and the Angel Tree at Lori's Hallmark.

And the group has decided that the trees are such a worthy cause, they would like to challenge other Lincoln activity groups to do the same for their Christmas parties. Yearbook advisor, Sheryl Novacek, said she would personally like to challenge other advisors to motivate their groups to buy for children chosen from the trees too, stating, "I'll put my fundraisers against theirs any day."

The yearbook staff would also like to offer free shopping, wrapping and delivery back to the store to anyone in town who would like to choose a name from one of the trees but cannot readily get out to do the footwork involved. Calls for help with the gifts must be made before December 16, as the group must have time to wrap and deliver the gifts to the stores by December 18. Sheryl can be reached at the school district number, 681-2700, from Thursday until December 16, or at her home number, 681-6675.

A story about the K-Mart Children's Christmas Tree appears in the second section of today's Times, and Lori's Angel Tree can be seen on the back page of last Monday's Times (December 8).

"Too Good To Be True" Vacation Offers

You have just begun enjoying your evening dinner. The telephone interrupts your peace. The voice on the other end announces "Congratulations, you have been specially selected to receive a dream vacation for two to the Hawaiian Islands. This amazing prize includes seven fun-filled days and nights at one of the many beautiful hotels of Hawaii, plus one round trip airfare. To accept this exceptional offer, all you are required to do is purchase a second, "Y class," airfare from us!

Sound too good to be true? Well, the Attorney General's office suggests you take a good look at any vacation package offered to you over the phone. The following are questions that we suggest you ask before you buy:

-- What airline will I be traveling on and how much is my "Y class" ticket going to cost me? You may find that a Y class ticket is the most expensive fare used by airlines, for a completely unrestricted flight. A Y class ticket may be three or four times what you would expect to pay to travel.

— What are the names of the hotels available in this package and where are they located? Are these hotels placed on the scenic Hawaiian beaches as you would hope, or are they six blocks from the beach in the warehouse district?

— Are there any times of the year that I will not be able to travel to Hawaii and take advantage of this vacation package? Oftentimes, travellers using these packages are unable to make reservations during "peak season" which is the time of year that everyone wants to go on vacation. Do I want to travel to Hawaii in July or August, and leave our beautiful Minnesota summer?

— When will I receive my tickets? Many of these packages do not expire for at least a year. If I pay for my ticket today, but I am not supposed to travel until next April, when will I receive my ticket? If I don't receive my ticket until right before I depart, what happens if the telemarketer goes out of business? Will the airline provide transportation for me without a ticket? Probably not.

-- Will I be subjected to participating in a sales presentation for time-share condominium resorts? Do I want to spend my vacation listening to a sales pitch for a property that I have no intention of buying? If I accept this package, will I be required to attend?

-- If I am unable to travel on the dates that I have selected, can I get a full refund for my unused ticket? Will the telemarketing company refund my money, or will they tell me that I have to either use it myself or give it away to a friend?

With the answers to these questions, you may decide that the vacation package that you have "won" is not a very good deal. Information on the costs of airline tickets, as well as hotel accomodations are available through your local travel agent. Information on tour packages can be obtained from your local travel agent. You may decide that your money will be better spent buying a package for the time of year that you would like to go at a price that you would like to pay, rather than dealing with an unknown telemarketer in some other state.

As always, it is the careful consumer who stands less of a chance of getting "burned." However, if you feel you have been cheated by a telemarketer or suspect that a company has been less than honest with you, contact the Minnesota Attorney General's Office, Consumer Services Unit — in St. Paul: 117 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, (612) 296-3353; in Duluth: 7th Floor, Government Services Building, 320 West Second Street, Duluth, Minnesota 55802, (218) 723-4891.

Truck Drivers Join Patrol To Report Drinking

Truck drivers in Minnesota have joined the ranks of citizens who report drunk driving behavior, under a new program called Truckers and Troopers "T'NT". The program was developed by the Minnesota Trucking association (MTA) and the Minnesota state patrol.

Under the program truck drivers will have the opportunity to call in erratic driving behavior they observe on the highways by using emergency channels nine and 19 on their CB radios.

"We welcome the opportunity to work with the trucking industry," said Lt. Col. Glenn Gramse of the Minnesota state patrol. "We can use all the help we can get to keep drunk drivers off the road."

The program was coordinated by David Jones, safety director of a truck leasing firm in Minneapolis, who is also a member of the MTA safety council. His company provided the printed materials for the program.

Jones patterned the program after similar efforts in Colorado and Wisconsin. "Highways are the workplace of the professional truck driver," Jones said. "Drivers are constantly using their CB radios. Having truck drivers on the look-out to report drunk drivers seemed like a natural thing to do, and the Minnesota state patrol was in full support of the program."

Posters featuring the Truckers and Troopers program have started to appear at truck stops throughout the state. Material is also being distributed through truck companies and the state patrol.

If a drunk driver or dangerous situation is observed, a truck driver can alert the state patrol by calling in a T'NT report. The driver should provide the state patrol with a description of the situation and the vehicle involved, the location and direction of travel, time of occurrence and any other pertinent information.

"We'll take over from there," said Lt. Col. Gramse. "We are cautioning drivers not to get involved after that point for their own safety."

"What might normally be considered a conflicting situation is brought together under the T'NT program," said Jim Denn, president of the MTA. "This is a good program and we have a lot of high hopes for it."

MTA is a trade association comprised of over 500 member firms involved with the transportation of freight and passengers in Minnesota.

Area DACs Are Reviewed Through Phone Interviews

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Recent attention focused on the Falls Day Activity center has raised public awareness of the facility and its program in Thief River Falls. The attention was created by allegations of client abuse against director Evan Armstrong, his subsequent resignation to avoid termination of licensure by the state of Minnesota, and the decision of the Pennington county welfare department to request proposals for provision of DAC services to the county.

Because discussions of local center operations included comment on the daily rate of $22.50 per client — among the lowest in the state — and the support of local DAC budget through charitable gambling operations, curiosity was aroused as to how other developmental achievement centers are operating in the area. The Times conducted a telephone survey of a number of those centers.

None of the DACs contacted are involved in charitable gambling programs and rely for support on funding received through their counties and from organizations and individuals in their communities. All have daily rates in excess of the Falls DAC rates for 1986 and most have contracted or are in the process of contracting for 1987 operations.

A brief summary of each program, as compiled from information received from DAC directors, includes the following.

Marshall County DAC, Warren — Pat Thorson, director of the center since 1980, says the center has 15 adult clients, divided nearly equally as in-county and out-of-county fund recipients. Daily rate for 1986 was $32.69 and includes transportation.

In operation since 1968, the center is operated by a non-profit corporation which has an 11-member board comprised of parents of clients, professional persons, business leaders and interested lay persons. It has been renting space in the basement of the city auditorium but has purchased a former coin-operated laundry building on the north edge of town and will be remodeling that for use in the spring.

Polk County DAC, Crookston — Director Michal Jorgens, who has been director since August 1, said the center serves 47 adult clients, including only a dozen who are considered out-of-county for reimbursement purposes. About 70 per cent are in group homes and 30 per cent in parental or foster homes.

Daily rate at the Crookston center is $32.95 plus $6.47 for transportation. The center leases facilities built for it by Polk county and is operated by a non-profit organization with a 10-member board comprised of approximately one-third family members, one-third professionals and one-third interested lay people. Board membership is also considered on a geographical distribution basis.

East Polk DAC, Fosston — Director Wayne Holt took over the reins in August when 13-year director Richard Simonson left to take over direction of a center at Big Lake. The Fosston program has 21 adults, only six of whom are out-of-county clients. Daily rate for 1986 was $37.91 for program and $2.50 for transportation with only seven of the 21 clients transported.

The non-profit corporation conducting the center operates with a nine-member board, although it is presently short one board member. It operates out of a new building constructed five years ago and completely paid for last year. Holt says the Fosston community has been extremely supportive of the DAC program and especially welcomes clients in their learning and assimilation programs.

Roseau County DAC, Roseau — Sixteen adults are involved in the Roseau county program which has only been operating for the past three years, according to Terri Lanes, now in her second year as director. The majority of those 16 clients are out-of-county people.

For 1986 the daily rate was $27.85 and included transportation, but Lanes said the 1987 contract will have a transportation charge, although its amount is unknown at this time. The non-profit corporation operating the DAC has an eight-member board drawn from the community and leases facilities from a private owner. Lanes said that she believes the Roseau program serves more "physically involved" clients than most other DACs in the area.

Kittson County DAC, Lake Bronson — LaVerne Nyflot, who has been director of the DAC for all 17 years of its operation, said the center serves 18 clients, 10 of whom are considered in-county. Daily rate for 1986 including transportation was $30.15 with 16 of the 18 clients charged for transportation costs.

The 10-member board of the non-profit corporation has 10 members and operates a new 4,800 square foot facility. The structure was built with about half of the funds provided by donations (including $20,000 from a church) and the remainder financed with a loan through the Farmers Home administration. Previously the center operated from the basement of a vacated school building.

Mahnomen County DAC, Mahnomen — A nine-member board directs the non-profit corporation operating the DAC in Mahnomen, according to Ann Ryan, director since 1974 and an employee since the center began in 1970. The board consists of parents, educators and interested volunteers and facilities are rented from a private party.

Daily rate at the Mahnomen center is $33.10 in 1986, including $3.75 for transportation, charged to all 15 clients. The 1987 contract will have a slightly reduced individual daily rate because the center has added two clients December 1. Although overall program costs have increased, the average has declined because of the additional number in the small program. Nine of the 15 clients are in-county and six are out-of-county.

Norman County DAC, Ada — Also in new facilities is the DAC in Ada where the non-profit corporation built a center which has been in use since June. Financing was arranged through FmHA. Barb Larson, director for the past eight years, said the center serves 16 adult clients, including 10 in-county and six out-of-county. The center formerly operated in 1,300 square feet of an uptown building and now has 3,900 square feet in the new facility.

Daily rate at the Norman DAC for 1986 was $22.73 plus $6.31 for transportation, paid by all 16 clients. For 1987 the increase will be the allowable MA 3.4 per cent, making the rates $23.50 for program and $6.52 for transportation. Norman county is one of the few DACs to operate a children's program, having three children served at the present time. The 12 member board which operates the non-profit corporation consists of parents, professionals and lay persons.

Proposals Sought For Pennington Co. DAC Services

According to the RFP, a provider accepted for contract should start providing services as soon as possible, preferably within 30 days of the contract award. To be eligible for consideration, a provider must have knowledge of department of human services rules and regulations pertaining to development achievement services.

Any contract written as a result of the RFP will terminate Dec. 31, 1987 with possible renewal at that time. Governing board composition for an approved DAC must conform to current standards applicable to new first time licensed DAC providers as defined in Minnesota law.

Included in the information which must be provided with the proposal submitted are such items as basic program philosophy and approach, service components, special techniques and procedures, proposed staffing (including major functions and qualifications), how program and related costs are to be funded, type of site where service will be provided, number of clients the potential provider wishes to serve in particular settings and individual program plans and service activities.

Staff information should include job descriptions for each position and narrative on how staff will be selected as well as amount and type of orientation and ongoing training to be provided. Salary and data sheet is to be included as well as a complete line item budget and narrative section for the budget, including description and justification of the amounts listed in the various line items.

Copies of the request for proposals have been provided to the Falls Day Activity center, Thief River Falls Occupational Deveopment center, School District 564 and Northwest Medical services. Additional copies are available on request from the Pennington county department of welfare and human services.

frequent in Thief River Falls. Notices when the water treatment plant exceeds the recommended levels are required to be printed in the official paper (The Times) and placed on the notice of charges received by every user.

A motion to support continuing negotiations with the owner of the downtown Piggly Wiggly store as a possible site for the city liquor store was passed last night. Alderman J.J. Womack said the liquor committee would like to proceed with negotiations. He said they would like to spend less than $150,000, but he added another $150,000 to that figure for a total of $300,000 because of necessary renovations and repairs to the building and grounds.

Womack said the engineer had inspected the building and found it structurally sound, but repairs to the roof, floor, ceiling, heating plant, parking lot and inside renovations to accommodate the coolers would be necessary. Womack said the committee had looked at a number of buildings and thought the Piggly Wiggly store was the best choice so far.

Piggly Wiggly is not expected to move into a new building on Pennington avenue until sometime late in 1987.

Liquor licenses for five local businesses were approved for 1987 by the council. There are five on-sale liquor establishments in Thief River Falls, which generate $3,600 apiece in liquor license costs annually.

In other business the council: rescheduled a hearing on Stordahl Properties request to vacate a roadway; tabled discussion and action on the matter of bids on an ice resurfacer until the committee had time to look at the low bid in Winnipeg; designated 11 firms as depositories for city investments; approved an easement for two underground power cables at two locations; and paid regular and special bills — McFarlane sheet metal (payment 2) for the sports arena — totaling $17,010.

NWRDC Adds New Transportation Planner To Staff

On the advisory committee agenda Monday evening will be an update report from the jurisdictional study task group and a report on enhanced recreational use of road right-of-way, a joint program by the Minnesota department of transportation and the department of natural resources.

The task group on jurisdictional study is comprised of the county engineers in the seven counties. The study was mandated by the department of transportation and was begun last June with completion scheduled for June of 1987.

"We expect to have a draft report ready in March for public hearing in April," Blake said. "The study involves a jurisdictional determination of all roads in the several counties with a view toward future responsibility for maintenance and improvement."

The recreational use of highway right-of-way was discussed at a meeting held in Thief River Falls last Thursday. Minnesota department of transportation, in consultation with the department of natural resources, is directed to prepare a recreational use plan and standards for state trunk highway right-of-way and adjacent public lands in areas of unusual scenic interest. Among suggestions are better access or parking at scenic and historic sites, selective foliage cutting at overlooks and on right-of-way to improve scenic views and better signing and local tourist information boards.

Blake said he is also involved with a department of transportation program which provides grants for special studies. Innovative study areas and ideas are being sought and public input will be appreciated. Hearings are being planned for early next year to receive public information.

Members of the transportation advisory committee include Harlan Almen, Red Lake Falls; Ralph Berg, Brooks; Troy Dagen, Kennedy; Capt. Lynn Daniels, Donald Grabanski, Marvin Hutchinson, Richard Jorde and Ralph Stoffel, Thief River Falls; Wayne Juhl, Greenbush; Delray Larson, Gatzke; Bernie Lieder and Harold Thomforde, Crookston; Cary Sip, Ada; and Gene Wagar, Halstad. Thomforde is chairman of the advisory committee.

Three Cases In District Court Receive Sentencing

Pennington county court, division one, in Thief River Falls, three cases were heard and given sentences by Judge Warren A. Saetre.

In Minnesota vs. Jeffrey Ordell Anderson, Anderson was ordered to pay a fine of $250 plus $27.50 in costs or serve 10 days for an open bottle and careless driving charge. The attorneys in the case were Paul Ihle for the state and Kurt Marben for Anderson.

In Minnesota vs. Bradley Cole Robbins, Robbins was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and fined $700 plus $77 in costs for theft by check. The jail term was suspended on condition of a one year probation and payment of $599 in restitution by June 1, 1987, and payment of costs to sheriff of $350. The court suspended $350 plus $35 in costs. The attorneys in this case were Dave Olin for the state and Kevin Murphy for Robbins.

In Minnesota vs. Keith William Weber, Weber was sentenced December 1 after a jury returned a verdict of guilty for driving with a blood alcohol count of over .10. Weber was fined $700 plus $77.50 costs and given 90 days in jail. The judge stayed the execution of the jail term and suspended $350 of the fine and $35 of the surcharge for one year on conditions of probation. The attorneys were Dave Olin for the State of Minnesota and Kevin Murphy for Weber.

Nonfarm Economy Expected To Grow Slowly To 1988

In the bank's recently released "District Economic Conditions," economist Dick Todd reported that the state's nonfarm employment forecast is for growth of about three per cent in 1987 and 1988. Nonfarm earned income is expected to grow by 3.3 per cent in 1987 and 3.5 per cent in 1988. These rates are slightly above their historical average rates. The unemployment rate is expected to be about five per cent in both years.

Todd cautioned, however, that recent or pending job losses in the state's corporate sector as well as continuing weakness in the rural economy could impede this growth. Minnesota's nonfarm economy is expected to grow moderately over the next two years, according to a statistical forecasting model maintained by research economists at the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis.

Falls Delivered Meals In Need Of 1987 Funding

Falls Delivered Meals program in Thief River Falls has issued its annual appeal for funding assistance from community organizations, individuals and businesses. N. Quentin Jones is chairman of the board of the organization which provides meals delivered to aged, handicapped or ailing persons who cannot obtain such meals for themselves.

"This is a voluntary organization which exists on the generosity and willingness of people and organizations to contribute time and funds so it can carry out its purpose," Jones said in a letter to organizations.

"The average delivery per day is at least 30 meals, delivered five days a week, and totaling approximately 8,000 meals per year. The number of requests for delivered meals is growing.

"Cost of the meal is $3.20 each day but many of the recipients are unable to pay the full amount. Our volunteer organization is responsible for the unpaid amount plus the salary of one employee who takes charge of getting the meals delivered. Our nine-member board is composed entirely of volunteers."

Jones pointed out that the money needed to supplement meal cost, pay for the one paid employee, cover depreciation on the ovens used to transport the meals and pay other organizational expenses has amounted to $1,000 a month. With the increase in demand for meals, it is expected $15,000 in funds will be needed next year.

"If you have a relative, neighbor or close friend receiving meals, you can help insure this service continues by making a contribution," Jones added. "A donation to this fund makes a worthy memorial."

Contributions may be sent to Falls Delivered Meals, P.O. Box 295, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Sonstelie Again President Of Wheat Growers

Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, at its 11th annual convention in Moorhead December 1-2, elected officers for 1987 and selected three at-large members to serve on the board for the coming year.

Gordon Sonstelie of Winger was reelected as the association's president. Elected first vice president was Gary Rudningen of Murdock and Noel Kjesbo of Wendell was elected second vice president.

Bruce Hamnes, Stephen; David Haugo, Waubun; and Clarence Vatthauer, Red Lake Falls, were elected to one-year terms on the board of directors to serve the state at large.

Other members of the MAWG board include Harry Howard, Warren, District 1; Jorgen Knutson, Plummer District 2; and Fred Kreps, Felton, District 3.

Marshall Co. ASC Committeemen Elected Dec. 5

Results of the December 5 election of ASC community committeemen for 1987 were announced today by Leo Orpen, chairman of the Marshall County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee. Out of 3,076 farmers who were eligible to vote 632 votes were cast.

Orpen also announced the county ASC convention to be held Thursday at the American Legion club in Warren at 9:30 a.m. where community committeemen will elect a member to the county committee for a three-year term. Convention delegates will also elect a county committee chairman, vice chairman and two alternates to the committee for the coming year.

Presently serving on the committee are Leo Orpen, Royal Rivard and Glenn Setterholm.

Farmers elected to the committees were:

Community A (Eagle Point, Donnelly, Fork, Parker, Bigwoods, Bloomer, Oak Park and Vega townships) — Winton Knutson, Oslo; J. Myron Larson, James Kowalski and Alden Johnson, Stephen; and Lawrence LaBine, Argyle;

Community B (Sinnott, Augsburg, Tamarac, Wanger, Middle River, Alma, Warrenton, Boxville and McCrea townships) — Wayne Bergeron and Eugene Jorgenson, Argyle; Paul A. Anderson, Russell Demeyere and Lowell Anderson, Warren.

Community C (Nelson Park, Lincoln, Wright, West Valley, Foldahl, Marsh Grove, Comstock and Viking townships) — Merlin Bee, Roger Anderson and Bradley Blawat, Viking; Gordon Pietruszewski, Strandquist; and Franklin Knoll, Warren.

Community D (East Park, Huntly, New Maine, Holt, Spruce Valley, Newfolden, Excel and New Solum townships) — Clifford Jorde, Eldon Augustine and Harvey Lambert, Thief River Falls; Leslie Folden, Newfolden; and Armand Westlund, Strathcona.

Community E (Como, Thief Lake, Cedar, Whiteford, East Valley, Mud Lake, Agdar and Grand Plain townships) — Virgil Wagner, Gary Peterson, John Melby and Elmer Melby, Middle River; and Rodney Wayne, Goodridge.

Community F (Moose River, Lansell, Rollis, Veldt, Feikvoll, Valley, Moylan and Espelie townships) — Steven Holte and Gary L. Anderson, Grygla; Harold Klamar, Larry Hagen and Bruce Lansetter, Gatzke.

IRAs May Continue As Savings Opportunity

One of your favorite tax deductions, the IRA, might be taken away from you under the tax reform act of 1986. But, according to the Minnesota Society of CPAs, anyone who stops contributing to an IRA may be passing up a good opportunity for retirement savings. While many taxpayers will no longer be able to claim this deduction on future tax returns, an IRA serves as a high yield, tax-deferred savings account one of the best ways to invest long term.

If you haven't already made an IRA contribution for 1986, you have until April 15, 1987 to do so. You should plan on making the maximum contribution you can $2,000 for working individuals and up to $2,250 for married couples with a non-working spouse since it will be full tax-deductible this year. And, you should consider the possibility of continuing your contributions in the future.

Who is still eligible for an IRA deduction under the new tax law? Married couples whose adjusted gross income is $40,000 or less, and single individuals whose adjusted gross income is $25,000 or less, will still be able to contribute the maximum amount allowed and claim a full deduction on their tax return.

Those taxpayers who find their adjusted gross income exceeds these limits, and who are also eligible to participate in an employer pension plan, or whose spouse is eligible to participate in an employer pension plan, will find that their deduction will be restricted.

Married couples who make more than $40,000 annually, but less than $50,000, will find that their deduction for an IRA contribution will be reduced. The same holds true for single individuals. Those who make more than $25,000 annually, but less than $35,000, will find that they too will have their deduction reduced.

Taxpayers who find that their annual income exceeds the maximum annual salary allowed under the phase out and who are eligible to participate in an employer sponsored pension plan will not be able to deduct any contribution they make to an IRA.

Is a pension plan enough savings for retirement? Depending on your dreams for your retirement years, most people find they need more than the proceeds from an employee pension plan and their Social Security to live on once they are retired. And now, even 401 (K) employee-sponsored pension plans have been drastically limited for participants. Currently, employees are allowed to contribute as much as $30,000 annually to a 401 (K) plan. Included in the plan is a provision which allows employers to contribute a portion of that total. Under the tax reform bill, the maximum contribution has been reduced to $7,000 annually, including employer participation.

Also, if you move around from one job to another, especially before completing a certain minimum period of service, you may lose the money that your employer has put aside for you. Even though you are contributing to this plan, your employer has a controlling interest in your account until a certain period of time has elapsed, usually seven years. Now, under the tax reform bill, you can be "vested" (have indisputable rights to 401 (K) pension money) within five years of joining the plan. However, most companies require that you work for them at least a year or two before you can participate in a retirement plan. That means you might have to work three six or seven years before your retirement money is really yours.

What are the alternatives? While IRAs and 401 (K)s continue to be a good source of income for a retirement plan, those lose some of their attraction for many people who contribute because of the changes in the tax laws.

There are other plans available. Annuities offer many of the same attractions as an IRA and they will retain their tax-deferred status under the tax reform act. They offer the same tax deferral and profit potential of an IRA, yet there is no limit as to how much you can contribute in one year. Be aware that there are also IRS penalties for early withdrawals of the annuity as well as surrender charger frequently imposed by the issuing insurance companies.

Municipal bonds are also a good way to save your retirement as long as you select a "muni" with a strong credit rating. With most "munis", you will never have to pay federal taxes on the interest that is earned. The bond however, could fluctuate depending on future movement of interest rates. For those who are planning to retire within the next 10 years, a good bond to consider is a "zero coupon" municipal bond with no call provisions.

Many insurance companies are offering tax-deferred investments also. You can purchase a "variable universal life" insurance policy where part of your premium funds insurance protection and the balance is put into an investment program! As with all investments, there are details you need to be aware of. Depending on where you place your investments, the return is not necessarily guaranteed. Also, since there is normally a commission paid to the insurance broker upon entering into the transaction, you might have to pay surrender charges should you decide to terminate the policy for any reason.

Should you still contribute to an IRA? Even if you are not eligible to take deduction for your contribution to an IRA, these plans enable you to place money in a high-yield, long term savings account, deferring taxes on the interest until you begin withdrawing the money when you retire. The interest earned is reinvested without being diminished by income taxes. Therefore, $2,000 invested today at 8% would grow to $9,322 in 20 years if you keep reinvesting your earnings. If you continue to add to that $2,000, your earnings would grow proportionately.

Can you still afford an IRA? Even though a contribution to an IRA may not be tax deductible for many taxpayers, the potential long-term profit still makes it a worthwhile investment. Depending on how much you are willing to sacrifice now to afford a more comfortable future, an IRA contribution may not cost you as much as you think.

Liquor Retailers Pay Delinquent Taxes Under Law

The state has collected over a million dollars more than projected in back liquor sales taxes under a new law which restricts liquor wholesalers from selling to delinquent liquor retailers, according to the Minnesota department of revenue.

So far, 203 liquor retailers (liquor, beer and wine) have paid more than $1.2 million in back sales taxes since the liquor posting law went into effect July 1. Officials had projected collections of only about $120,000 by this date.

"Liquor establishments have a high sales tax delinquency rate, and cutting off their liquor supply has been an effective way of dealing with the problem," said John James, assistant commissioner for tax compliance. "They have two choices -- either pay or they won't have products to sell," he added.

Liquor retailers with sales tax debts 30 days or more past due are sent letters from the department telling them they must pay within 10 days. If they don't pay within that time, their names are placed on a list which is posted on the 15th of each month by the liquor control division of the Minnesota department of public safety. The first list was posted July 15.

"This law works well because it allows us to take action every month," James said.

Beginning three business days after the list is made public, wholesalers, distributors and brewers are restricted from delivering any products to those retailers on the list. If they do provide products to the delinquent retailers, they are subject to fines, a loss of their license or both.

Retailers' names are removed from the list when payment is made. For current information on the list, wholesalers can call either the liquor control division or the Minnesota Beer Wholesalers association hotline.

Since the program began, 337 letters have been sent to delinquent liquor retailers and 258 names have been posted. Currently, 97 liquor retailers remain on the list, including 51 posted November 17, and are no longer able to purchase liquor from distributors.

The liquor posting law was proposed to the 1986 legislature by the revenue department as part of about 30 new measures designed to help reduce the number of tax delinquents. Altogether, about 85,000 delinquent individuals and businesses owe the state about $195 million in individual income tax, corporate income tax, sales tax and withholding tax.

James said sales tax delinquencies make up a large share of the tax bill. At the end of last year, 14,500 Minnesota businesses had sales tax delinquencies totaling more than $51 million. Delinquent liquor sales taxes make up nearly 20 per cent of this amount, he said.

"Too many businesses are using the sales tax money they collect from customers to keep their businesses going. It's not their money. It's unfair to their customers and it's a dishonest way of doing business," he said.

Minnesota has about 5,000 liquor retailers, 70 beer and wine wholesalers and seven all-product liquor wholesalers. The sales tax rate is currently 8.5 per cent on liquor, wine and beer.

In addition to the liquor posting law, the department has taken many other steps toward tougher tax enforcement. The department can now block the renewal of operating licenses to businesses and certain delinquent professionals, file non-foreclosable tax liens on homesteads, and require that social security numbers be recorded on all homestead applications. This summer, the department opened offices in Chicago and New York and signed an agreement witrh five other Great Lakes states for the joint enforcement of the states' use tax laws.

The department is also stepping up its collection efforts through computer-generated bank levies and wage levies. Criminal prosecutions for failing to file returns have also increased, and bad check writers are facing penalties and prosecution.

IRS Explains Prepaid Expenses May Not Be Allowed During 1986

Union dues for 1987, medical expenses, tax preparation fees and other business and personal expenses prepaid in 1986 will usually not be deductible on 1986 federal income tax returns, according to C.D. Switzer, director of the Internal Revenue service (IRS) in Minnesota.

"A lot of people have been calling our office with questions about prepaid expenses," Switzer explained. Under the recently-passed tax reform act of 1986, popular deductions such as the itemized deduction for state and local sales taxes will be eliminated in 1987. Other deductions such as union dues and other miscellaneous itemized deductions, and the itemized deduction for medical expenses, will be sharply curtailed. "Unfortunately, many people mistakenly believe they can retrieve these lost deductions by prepaying them in 1986. In most cases, they are going to be disappointed."

A three-pronged test is used to determine whether a prepaid expense can be deducted in the year paid. "A particular expense must pass all three parts of the test. Prepaid expenses will usually flunk at least one part of the test," Switzer noted.

Under the first part of the test, the expenditure must be a payment and not merely a deposit. "If an expenditure is required under a sales contract in 1986, and if it is non-refundable, it will usually be treated as a payment," Switzer explained. "If the person receiving the expenditure treats it as a deposit, it will usually be considered a deposit, not a payment."

Secondly, the prepayment must be made for valid business or personal reasons and not merely to reduce or avoid tax. Examples of a business purpose include: prepaying in order to guarantee the payer a certain price and prepaying to assure the buyer a steady supply of goods in time of shortage. "If the seller has customarily required payment in advance, it will usually be viewed as a valid business purpose. We find that most people are flunking this second part of the test," Switzer added.

Finally, prepaying an expense cannot result in a material distortion of a person's income. A material distortion of income will occur when a prepayment is high in relation to expected 1987 income. "There will usually be no material distortion of income if the tax saving caused by deducting the prepayment in 1986 will be about the same as the tax saving resulting from deducting it on the 1987 return," Switzer explained.

Other prepaid 1987 expenses that usually will not be deductible in 1986 include anticipated doctor and hospital charges, medical insurance premiums, subscriptions to trade or professional journals, safety deposit box rentals, and tax or investment counsel.

Despite all the law changes, many popular deductions will remain on the books for 1987. Believing that they will be in a lower tax brackedt in 1987, some people are prepaying these expenses in 1986 as well. "Here, too, people are bound to be disappointed since these deductions will also have to wait for the 1987 return," Switzer noted.

For example, real estate tax payments due in 1987 will have to wait for the 1987 return. Also not allowed as a 1986 itemized deduction is an inflated 1986 state estimated income tax payment.

To get a sales tax deduction in 1986, an item must be purchased and the sales tax paid in 1986. Normally, sales tax is not charged until the item is delivered. "So if you order a car and give the dealer a deposit for the sales tax in December, 1986, but the car isn't delivered until January, 1987, there will be no deduction, Switzer explained.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. What will be the maximum social security tax payable in 1987?

A. For employers and employees the maximum social security tax payable in 1987 will be $3,131.70 each. For the self-employed it will be $5,387.40.

Q. I am remarried and receiving social security benefits for my children. Do we put their benefits on our tax return or file them separately? Bemidji, MN

A. Sorry but advice about completion of tax returns cannot be answered here. Consider asking the IRS questions of this type.

Q. Due to a disability I will soon be eligible for Medicare. I would like to know if I should drop the state health insurance (CHAND) and take Medicare instead? Minto, ND

A. Disabled beneficiaries, but not their families, become eligible for Medicare coverage two years after their disability began. Keep in mind that Medicare does not cover all costs. You should compare your existing coverage for areas of duplication where only one policy would pay a claim, cost and various exclusions. Medicare does not pay for prescription medications; does your other policy?

A Medicare handbook is available at no charge from social security. We also have available the free booklet "Guide to Health Insurance for People with Medicare" which has suggestions on how to shop for private health insurance. In effect, only you can answer your question but social security would try to answer your specific questions about Medicare. Toll free lines for this purpose, and other general social security information, are 1-800-342-4570 (ND) and 1-800-462-5360 (MN).

TRF Girls Beat Lakers; Host Spuds

Thief River Falls girls passed one North Sub-Region 8AA test Tuesday with a 48-39 high school basketball win at Detroit Lakes, but the Prowlers will be facing another Class AA challenge Thursday when they host Moorhead in the Lincoln gym. Junior varsity game starts at 6:15 p.m., with the varsity game to follow.

The win over the Lakers lifted the Prowlers to 4-0 for the year, but it was their first outing against a North Sub-Region 8AA opponent. The earlier wins came against Marshall County Central (43-40), Warren (46-31) and Roseau (47-31).

"That was a big win for us," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. He hopes the victory over Detroit Lakes will set the stage for another solid effort against Moorhead. "Moorhead is definitely going to be our toughest game so far, but if we play like we did against Detroit Lakes, we'll be competitive," he said.

Detroit Lakes had a 13-7 first quarter lead, but Thief River Falls came up with a 20-point second quarter to go ahead 27-24 at halftime. The Prowlers maintained a 39-32 third quarter point spread.

"We started out very slowly," admitted Schafer. "We were missing our passes in the first quarter. But we really caught fire in the second quarter."

Center Laura Beito led that second quarter surge, scoring eight of her nine points during those eight minutes when the Prowlers were 10-for-14 from the field.

Guards Brenda Russell and Kelly Cornell led the Prowlers with 15 and 14 points, respectively, but Beito added her nine, and Cindy Kruta contributed eight in her best offensive effort of the season. Center Darla Doebbert led Detroit Lakes with a game-high 17 points.

Both sides shot 43 per cent from the field, but the Prowlers were 22-for-51 and the Lakers were 18-for-42. Thief River Falls went 4-for-12 at the free throw line, where Detroit Lakes was 3-for-6. The Lakers had a 21-19 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 17-11. Seven of those 11 Thief River Falls turnovers came in the first quarter, pointed out Schafer. Lisa Lillevold led the Prowlers with seven rebounds.

Area Boys Basketball Results . . .

Marshall County Central boys started their 1986-87 high school basketball season off on the right foot Tuesday with a surprisingly easy 73-50 North Border Conference victory over Greenbush in Newfolden.

The Nordics' pressure defense helped stake the winners to an 18-2 headstart. They led 22-7 at the end of the first quarter, maintained a 36-19 halftime advantage and sat on a 52-33 third quarter spread.

"I'm really quite pleased," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland after the victory over a Greenbush team that is expected to be among the conference leaders this winter. It was doubly nice because it was worth two points in the North Border Conference standings since they meet just once this season. "Aside from the turnovers (22), we did a lot of things well," added Ueland.

Three Marshall County Central scorers hit double figures, led by senior Darin Rokke with 27 points, sophomore Lee Pemberton 19 and senior Danni Halvorson 12. Greg Pulczinski had 24 points for Greenbush.

Marshall County Central shot 44 per cent from the field (32-for-72) and 64 per cent at the free throw line (9-for-14). Greenbush shot 38 per cent from the field (20-for-52) and 53 per cent at the line (10-for-19). The Tigers had a 31-29 rebound edge, with Jon Kragness grabbing seven rebounds to lead the Nordics. Greenbush also had 33 turnovers.

The Nordics face an early-season North Border Conference test Friday when they host pre-season favorite Warroad. The Warriors were named overwhelming favorites to win conference honors this winter, but a long football season and a tough season-opening schedule has produced back-to-back losses at the hands of Class AA International Falls and top District 32A challenger Hallock in double overtime.

"If we're going to have a shot at the conference title, Warroad is one of the teams we're going to have to beat," pointed out Ueland.

Roseau 45

Sophomore Jason Engelstad hit a 15-foot shot at the buzzer Tuesday to give Grygla an exciting 47-45 season-opening North Border Conference win over visiting Roseau.

Grygla's Reed Engelstad tied the game at 45-45 with a free throw with 1:30 remaining, and the game remained deadlocked until the final shot. Roseau missed a free throw opportunity with 12 seconds left, Grygla rebounded and Jason Engelstad won it.

It was a good way to start the season, acknowledged Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "I was real pleased defensively," he said, giving special credit to forward Bruce Holte, whose defensive work held high-scoring Scott Jaenicke to just five points.

Holte also contributed 12 points and a team-leading six rebounds. Reed Engelstad led the Eagles with 13 points. Rick Stotts had 14 for Roseau.

It was a 13-13 tie at the end of the first quarter. Roseau led 24-21 at halftime, but Grygla went ahead 37-35 at the end of the third quarter.

Grygla was 19-for-47 from the field (40 per cent) and 9-for-17 at the free throw line (53 per cent). Roseau was 20-for-45 from the field (44 per cent) and 5-for-10 at the line (50 per cent). The Eagles had a 24-22 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 20-18.

The Eagles visit Greenbush Friday.

RLF 42

Middle River rebounded from a disappointing season-opening performance in a 66-52 Friday night loss to Lake of the Woods with a 50-42 Tuesday night home court victory over Red Lake Falls.

"A much better performance," acknowledged Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We hustled this time."

The two teams played to a 14-14 first quarter tie. Middle River squeezed out a 25-24 halftime lead, then pulled away to a 39-32 third quarter advantage.

Bradley Kilen, a 5-10 junior, led a balanced Middle River attack with 18 points. Tom Blazek had 10, while Tom Gullikson and Marc Gram both contributed 9. Roy Huot was a one-man offensive force for Red Lake Falls, noted Sparby, with a 22-point game, mostly hitting from the outside.

Shooting figures were identical for the two teams, who were both 20-for-56 from the field (36 per cent). But Middle River went to the free throw line 20 times, making 10 of them, while Red Lake Falls was 2-for-8 at the line. The Skippers enjoyed a 49-35 rebound edge, with Gullikson grabbing 14 of them. Red Lake Falls had more turnovers, 20-16.

The Skippers host Badger Friday.

Goodridge let a 21-16 halftime lead slip away Tuesday as the Huskies dropped a low-scoring 42-35 game at Strandquist.

The Warriors went ahead 30-29 in the third quarter and doubled the Huskies 12-6 over the final eight minutes.

"We left our shooting eye in the locker room at halftime," reported Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We've been shooting the ball extremely well, but we didn't play up to our potential in this one. It's the first game where we just didn't play."

Goodridge, shooting 57 per cent from the field in season-opening losses to Clearbrook and Climax, connected on just 15 of 39 shots vs. Strandquist (38 per cent). The Warriors were 21-for-44 (48 per cent). Goodridge was 5-for-6 at the free throw line, where Strandquist was 0-for-2.

Goodridge will host Fisher Friday in the Huskies' 1986-87 home opener.

Scoring

Basketball JV Is Winner Over D.L.

Rhonda Rothschadl scored 16 points and Tammy Alberg had 10 as the Thief River Falls girls defeated Detroit Lakes 38-21 Tuesday in junior varsity high school basketball.

Concordia JV Rips NCC Women 79-49

Northland Community College women have played three basketball games this season. The average margin of victory in those three outings has been 32 points.

However, after opening the 1986-87 campaign with a 36-point win over an alumni team and a 30-point decision over Rainy River, the Pioneers wound up on the losing end of a 30-point spread Tuesday when they fell to a talented Concordia College junior varsity 79-49.

Second-year Northland coach Tom Neibauer was philosophical about the one-sided defeat. "Sometimes you're the kicker, and sometimes you're the kickee," he said. "Tonight we were the kickee."

Concordia's fast paced offense and tenacious defense was too much for Northland to handle this early in the season, said Neibauer. "The scholarship schools are tough for us to compete against. They started captain's practice September 1, and they've been going 100 miles per hour since October 15," he explained, while the Pioneers finally filled out their roster last week. "There's no way we can compete with those people this early in the season. But we play them again (Jan. 8 in Moorhead), and I don't think it'll be 30 points then."

Northland was never in it Tuesday. Concordia ran off a string of nine straight points to erase an early 3-2 Northland edge and the Cobbers were never threatened the rest of the night. They led the error-prone Pioneers 19-10 at the 10-minute mark of the first half and went into intermission with a 44-25 cushion.

It got worse in the second half. Concordia took a 45-27 spread and opened up a 59-27 gap with a run of 14 straight points in a two-minute fast break early in the second half. It was 63-35 at the 10-minute mark.

Northland's 44 per cent shooting from the field would normally be a solid showing, but while the Pioneers were going 20-for-45, the Cobbers were shooting at a 51 per cent 38-for-75 clip. The Pioneers also missed 11 free throws, with the entire 9-for-20 effort at the line occurring in the first half. The Pioneers never stepped to the line in the second half. Concordia was 3-for-9 at the line in one of the Cobbers' few shortcomings.

Concordia out-rebounded Northland 34-25, getting 19 of them on the offensive boards. Northland had eight offensive rebounds.

The Pioneers also had a terrible time holding on to the ball. They turned it over 41 times, and maybe as many as half of those turnovers came when they were passing the ball around their basket. Concordia had 26 turnovers.

Four Concordia scorers hit double figures, led by 18 points from 5-6 guard Angie Pagel of Minneapolis, a niece of Neibauer. Barb Ambuehl, a 5-10 forward from Ada, had 13, and Jane Hilde, a 6-1 center from Glyndon, scored 12. Northland received 12 points from freshman Patti Odberg of Newfolden and 11 points from sophomore Jody Pahlen of Plummer.

Northland will wait until Tuesday, December 16, to host Itasca in a 7:30 p.m. game.

— Youth Hockey —

It was a good week for the Bantam B team as the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) team of 13-14-year-olds swept three games to boost their 1986-87 season record to 3-2.

Thief River Falls skated past Grand Forks South 8-3 in a Thursday night assignment at Grand Forks as Brian Gillespie scored two goals, while Darin Teie had a goal and two assists. Troy Coltom and Mark Daniels had a goal and an assist, and Jamie Thomton collected two assists. Shawn Crowser, Corey Delap and Paul Hejlik picked up single goals.

Bryan Cloutier was in goal for the winners, who out-shot Grand Forks 32-26.

Thief River Falls swept Fergus Falls 15-3, 10-2 in a weekend series at the Sports Arena.

In the 15-3 Saturday victory, Daniels scored twice and added an assist, with Troy Coltom, David Kiesow and Teie also scoring two goals. Ross Dalzell and Gillespie scored once and added two assists, while Thane Espie and Derek Larson had a goal and an assist. Tim Stengrim, Hejlik and Thompton had single goals.

Thief River Falls out-shot Fergus Falls 48-11.

Coltom scored twice and handed out an assist in a 10-2 Sunday triumph over Fergus Falls. Daniels also had two goals. Dalzell and Larson both had a goal and two assists. Paul Johnson, Molstad, Gillespie and Teie all scored once.

Cloutier was in goal again as Thief River Falls out-shot Fergus Falls 52-13.

Bantam A

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team lost three times during the week to drop to 1-4 for the year.

Roseau jumped out to a 6-0 lead and collected a 9-3 Thursday night victory over visiting Thief River Falls. Roger Anderson had a goal and an assist for the losers, while Chad Kleinvachter and Paul Borchert both scored once. The goaltending was shared by Ryan Haugen and Todd Stewart, who combined for 31 saves. Thief River Falls was out-shot 40-15.

Fergus Falls scored four third period goals Saturday in a come-from-behind 7-4 victory over Thief River Falls at the Sports Arena. Jeff Novak scored two Thief River Falls goals, while Borchert had a goal and two assists. John Seaverson scored once and Wade Jorde picked up two assists. Fergus Falls out-shot Thief River Falls 34-31, with Stewart making 27 saves.

Thief River Falls let another third period lead slip away Sunday when Fergus Falls overcame a 6-4 deficit to win 8-6. Borchert scored twice, while Jorde, Novak, Seaverson and Dave Stengrim scored single goals. Stewart made 29 saves as Thief River Falls was out-shot again, 37-33.

Pee-Wee B

Thief River Falls Pee-Wee B 11-12-year-olds split a pair of close weekend decisions with Fergus Falls at the Old Arena.

Fergus Falls won 4-3 Saturday, even though Thief River Falls had a 28-19 advantage in shots-on-goal. Jeremy Olson scored twice and Jeremy Fimrite once for the losers.

All the scoring was done in the first period Sunday as Thief River Falls rebounded for a 3-1 win.

Jimmy Olson scored twice and Jason Niemi scored once in the victory. Trevor Haugen handled the goaltending, making 21 saves Sunday. His teammates put 16 shots on goal in improving their record to 1-2-1.

Pee-Wee A

It was a weekend split between the Thief River Falls Eagles Pee Wee A team and Fergus Falls at the Old Arena.

Thief River Falls won 10-6 Saturday as Nathan Knutson, Marc Haugen and Jason Svir scored two goals each, and Shane Skem, Mike Hink, Matt Steinert and Cory Offerdahl scored one goal apiece. Corey Mattson had three assists. Barry Dowers made 31 saves as Thief River Falls was out-shot 37-32.

Fergus Falls came back to win 4-1 Sunday. Rick Ostby scored the lone Thief River Falls goal. Ross Boldt was in goal as Fergus Falls out-shot Thief River Falls 40-27.

Thief River Falls Pee-Wee A team fell to 3-1 with the weekend split.

Thief River Falls Boys Will Take On Moorhead Spuds In Friday Night Basketball Game

Mike Lundgren
Sports Editor

There should be plenty of interest both locally and throughout the North Sub Region 8AA ranks Friday when Thief River Falls and Moorhead meet in an 8 p.m. boys high school basketball game at the Spuds' gymnasium.

Moorhead is a perennial title contender, and some have suggested that Thief River Falls has improved its once-struggling basketball program to the point where the Prowlers might challenge the Spuds this winter.

Thief River Falls opened its 1986-87 season last Friday with an exciting 66-64 victory over a very good Kennedy team. It was the kind of game that wins over fans. The Prowlers proved even in a first game, they can play some good basketball, and certainly some entertaining basketball that will draw fans to the Lincoln gym.

You don't want to put pressure on a team this early in the season, but Friday's match-up with Moorhead will give the Prowlers a good indication where they stand against the Class AA competition they'll have to beat in post-season play next spring.

Thief River Falls has fared well against Moorhead in the last couple of years. The Prowlers and Spuds renewed their basketball series in 1980-81 and Moorhead won seven straight meetings with the Prowlers (including post-season meetings). But Thief River Falls knocked off the Spuds 57-50 at Moorhead in 1984-85 and a year ago the Prowlers took Moorhead into overtime before dropping a 67-60 decision in Thief River Falls.

Miscellaneous

+ Lonnie Olson, a 1974 Lincoln High School graduate and the son of Mr. and Mrs Henry Olson of Route 3, Thief River Falls, is the new head wrestling coach at the University of Minnesota-Crookston this winter. Olson is a UMC graduate and holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from the University of North Dakota. He was a member of the UMC wrestling and track teams. Olson was named coach of the Trojans too late for 1986-87 recruiting, he told the UMC school paper, so he's limited to a 10-member squad that opened its season Saturday at the NDSSS Wahpeton Open. Olson is also enmployed as the supportive employment specialist at the Occupational Developmental Center in Crookston.

+ Jeff and Brenda Dahl of Newfolden were both letter winners this fall at Northwestern College in St. Paul. Jeff missed most of the 1986 football season with the Eagles because of an injury, but was still awarded a letter as a flanker on a 5-4 team that shared the Upper Midwest Conference title with a 5-1 league mark. Brenda was a hitter on the Northwestern volleyball team that finished one game behind the conference champions with a 14-8 record. She played volleyball and basketball at Northland Community College before moving on to Northwestern, where she showed great sportsmanship both on and off the court, according to school officials.

+ Thief River Falls freshman Michelle Puetz was a member of the University of North Dakota women's swimming team 200-yard medley relay team that qualified for the post-season NCAA Division II national meet when the Sioux competed in the University of Nebraska swim meet over the weekend.

+ Butch Froiland was named new head high school coach at Bemidji Tuesday, succeeding Ray Kavanagh, who stepped down from his post two weeks ago. Froiland has been a varsity assistant with the Lumberjacks since 1975. A 1962 graduate of Dawson High School and a 1968 graduate of Mankato State University, Froiland began his teaching and coaching career in the fall of 1968 at St. Charles at the freshmen and sophomores for three years. He arrived in Bemidji in 1973 to take over the Lumberjacks' freshman squad before moving to the junior varsity and varsity ranks. He has also coached the Bemidji freshman girls basketball teams. Kavanagh stepped down after 14 years as Bemidji football coach to assume the post of athletic director, vacated by the coming retirement of Jack Luoma.

Slow Start Beats Skippers

A slow start cost the Middle River girls Monday as the Skippers lost a 54-46 high school basketball game to Tri-County.

The Rabbits doubled the Skippers 16-8 in the first quarter and had a 29-14 halftime cushion. Middle River out-scored Tri-County 32-25 in the second half, but it was too little, too late for the host Skippers, who trailed 37-25 at the end of the third quarter.

"They (Tri-County) started right away. We didn't start until the second half," said Middle River coach Steve Larson. "We played a pretty good second half, but we played so terrible in the first half we were so far behind we couldn't catch up."

Karen Porter and Stephanie Carlson both had 12 points to lead a balanced Tri-County attack that also included 10 points from Lori Spilde. Rayette Benke and Kerry Nelson both scored 17 points for Middle River.

Tri-County held the upper hand in the shooting department. The Rabbits were 21-for-57 from the field (37 per cent) and 12-for-28 at the free throw line (43 per cent). The Skippers were 12-for-51 from the field (24 per cent) and 12-for-31 at the line (39 per cent).

Middle River, 2-2, visits Goodridge Thursday and hosts Grygla Monday.

Grygla's offense was absent Monday when the Eagles lost a 45-27 decision at Greenbush.

"Our passing was real bad," admitted Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We had a lot of turnovers off our passing."

Greenbush had quarter leads of 10-5, 20-11 and 34-17.

Lisa Sovde, a 5-9 senior, led Greenbush with 19 points. Wanda Clow added 12. Wendy Lawrence scored 10 points to lead Grygla.

Greenbush was 21-for-44 from the field (48 per cent), while Grygla was just 9-for-43 (21 per cent). The Eagles went 9-for-18 at the free throw line (50 per cent), where the Tigers were 3-for-9 (33 per cent).

Grygla, 0-2, visits Marshall County Central Thursday and will be at Middle River Monday.

CCN 37

Plummer's offense met little resistance Monday as the unbeaten Cardinals blitzed over-matched Clearwater County North 78-37 in the Pershing High School gym.

Janelle Konickson scored 19 points, Renae Walter 18 and Robin Brantl 17 as Plummer ran its record to 4-0. Jodi Konickson's 10 points gave the Cardinals four double figure scorers.

Plummer jumped out to a 30-7 first quarter lead and had a 52-13 halftime bulge. Reserves took over in the second half as the point spread remained at 66-27.

In the shooting department, Plummer was 28-for-71 from the field (39 per cent) and 22-for-39 at the free throw line (56 per cent). Clearwater County North was 17-for-75 from the field (23 per cent) and 3-for-7 at the line (43 per cent).

The Cardinals host Red Lake Falls Thursday.

RLF 29

Goodridge broke into the win column for the first time this year despite shooting just 17 per cent from the field in a low-scoring 32-29 victory over visiting Red Lake Falls Monday.

"Amazing," admitted Goodridge coach Patti Johnson, referring to the Huskies' win in spite of an 11-for-63 shooting performance from the field and a 10-for-26 effort (38 per cent) at the free throw line.

"Red Lake Falls has some pretty tall girls, and we had a difficult time trying to adjust to shooting over some arm length," expalined Johnson.

The two teams played to a 4-4 first quarter draw, and Goodridge out-scored Red Lake Falls 6-0 in the second quarter for a 10-4 halftime lead. It was 26-16 after three quarters.

"Our pressing defense worked well for us," pointed out Johnson. "That's probably what won the game for us."

Cindy Vettleson had a game-high 13 points for the winners. Nobody else on either side was in double figures.

Red Lake Falls shot 23 per cent from the field (13-for-56) and 43 per cent at the free throw line (3-for-7).

Goodridge, 1-2, hosts Middle River Thursday.

MCC 63
Warroad 42

Marshall County Central jumped out to a 20-7 first quarter lead and rolled to a 62-42 win over Warroad at Newfolden Monday.

The win put the Nordics at 1-1 for the year. They opened the season with a 43-40 loss at the hands of Thief River Falls back on November 25.

The long layoff gave the Nordics' Andrea Kragness time to heal from an ankle injury that forced her to miss the opener. The 5-9 junior scored 14 points against Warroad. She was joined in double figures by Jodi Foss with 17 and Kelli Anderson with 14, a figure matched by Warroad's Rochelle Fausher.

Marshall County Central had a 35-19 halftime lead and a 52-23 third quarter cushion.

"I thought overall, we played well," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We started out strong in the first quarter and we played real good defense."

Marshall County Central shot 28 per cent from the field (27-for-72) and 39 per cent at the free throw line (9-for-21). Warroad shot 29 per cent from the field (18-for-61) and 60 per cent at the line (6-for-10). The Nordics had a 46-30 rebound advantage and Warroad topped the turnover figures, 26-20.

The Nordics host Grygla Thursday.

Paul Lofberg scored 17 points and Chris Beaucage had 10 Monday as the Thief River Falls boys defeated Marshall County Central 49-40 in a freshman basketball game played at the city auditorium.

Thief River Falls led 16-13 at the end of the first quarter, owned a 22-16 halftime lead and maintained a 35-26 third quarter spread.

Shannon Leach scored 12 points for Marshall County Central.

Thief River Falls, 1-1, will host Warren Tuesday in a 4:15 p.m. game at the city auditorium.

Freshman Girls Lose 33-30 Game

Detroit Lakes girls maintained a slim lead at each of the quarter stops Tuesday en route to a 33-30 freshman basketball win over visiting Thief River Falls.

Kaye Dondelinger scored 8 points for the losers, who trailed 10-6 at the end of the first quarter, were within 17-16 at halftime and fell behind 26-22 in the third quarter.

Thief River Falls, 0-4, will be idle until a Monday, January 5, game against Bemidji at the city auditorium.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Seven men were arrested recently by DNR conservation officers in northwestern Minnesota for illegally taking a moose according to Glenn Nyquist, president of TIP (Turn In Poachers), Inc.

Conservation officers from Warroad and Baudette located a moose carcass following a tip from hunters who had witnessed the shooting, Nyquist said. The moose's head was missing.

Officers staked out the area and waited until five men returned to the scene. The men were arrested as they attempted to load the moose onto a pickup truck. One man attempted to interfere with the arrest.

The five were charged with numerous offenses including the illegal taking and transportation of a big game animal and obstructing a peace officer in the performance of his duties.

The men, all from Red Lake, are Darwin John Sumner, Harry Samuel Hanson Jr., Roland Gene Roy, Reginald Thomas Johns and Anthony James Hanson. They posted bond ranging from $1,000 to $1,500.

Two Florida men, Emerson James Owens of Ft. Pierce and Dale Dwight Stringer of Miami were also arrested in connection with the case. Charged in Beltrami County District Court with the illegal taking and transportation of a big game animal, they posted $2,000 bond.

A rented vehicle, driven by the Florida men, was the one observed by the hunters at the scene of the shooting. Officers, armed with a search warrant, obtained blood and hair samples, camera film and a number of firearms from the vhicle. When developed, the film showed several of the suspects with the moose's head.

Laboratory test showed moose parts had been in the vehicle. Shell casings found at the scene of the shooting and bullets retrieved from the carcass matched the high-powered rifle found in the vehicle.

Conservation officers seized a number of firearms, several vehicles and miscellaneous equipment from the alleged poachers.

"This case shows that people are concerned about the illegal taking of our wildlife resources," Nyquist said. "The majority of people who call TIP are more interested in stopping the poacher than in the rewards offered."

Anyone with information about violations of Minnesota's fish and wildlife laws should call their local conservation officer or the toll-free TIP hotline number 800-652-9093.

Free Licenses Available

If you are disabled and a resident of Minnesota, you may be eligible for free permanent or seasonal hunting and angling licenses, explains a new brochure released by the Department of Natural Resources.

For a free copy on special disability permits and licenses write to the DNR Division of Enforcement, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4047, or call (612) 296-4771.

"The Minnesota state statutes legalizing the free licenses have been around for some time," said Nancy Huonder of the Division of Enforcement, "but they are in technical terms, so we consolidated them in a special handout to make the requirements clear to the public." The brochure explains specifically who is eligible and how they can apply for these licenses.

DNR Birdhouse Book

A Department of Natural Resources publication considered one of the country's most complete summaries of birdhouse information and designs is again available to the public, although through a new source.

"Woodworking for Wildlife" can be obtained by requesting publication 9-1458 from the State Documents Division, 117 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155. The cost is $6, plus 36-cents for sales tax (for Minnesota residents only) and $1.50 for postage and handling. Delivery can be expected in four to six weeks.

The 48-page volume contains designs for 27 different structures that attract 46 different wildlife species, including wood ducks, bluebirds, purple martins, house wrens and bats.

Wildlife groups and other conservation organizations may buy quantities of 50 or more at a 40 per cent discount and resell them at the retail price as a fundraising project.

RIM Fund Project

Newly completed Albert's Lake fish barrier in Douglas and Grant counties is the first Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) Fisheries project to be finished. It is one of nine rough fish control structures that will be installed with RIM Fisheries Enhancement funds.

The new fish barrier will deny entrance of carp to approximately 917 acres of fish and wildlife habitat including Albert's, Solbergs, Hubrid, and Davidson lakes. Costs were shared by Douglas county and the Soil Conservation Service.

A total of 37 projects on rough fish control, fishing piers, aeration systems, and other conservation measures are scheduled to be carried out with money designated for fisheries enhancement from the RIM legislation.

TRF Girls Beat Lakers; Host Spuds

Thief River Falls girls passed one North Sub-Region 8AA test Tuesday with a 48-39 high school basketball win at Detroit Lakes, but the Prowlers will be facing another Class AA challenge Thursday when they host Moorhead in the Lincoln gym. Junior varsity game starts at 6:15 p.m., with the varsity game to follow.

The win over the Lakers lifted the Prowlers to 4-0 for the year, but it was their first outing against a North Sub-Region 8AA opponent. The earlier wins came against Marshall County Central (43-40), Warren (46-31) and Roseau (47-31).

"That was a big win for us," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. He hopes the victory over Detroit Lakes will set the stage for another solid effort against Moorhead. "Moorhead is definitely going to be our toughest game so far, but if we play like we did against Detroit Lakes, we'll be competitive," he said.

Detroit Lakes had a 13-7 first quarter lead, but Thief River Falls came up with a 20-point second quarter to go ahead 27-24 at halftime. The Prowlers maintained a 39-32 third quarter point spread.

"We started out very slowly," admitted Schafer. "We were missing our passes in the first quarter. But we really caught fire in the second quarter."

Center Laura Belto led that second quarter surge, scoring eight of her nine points during those eight minutes when the Prowlers were 10-for-14 from the field.

Guards Brenda Russell and Kelly Cornell led the Prowlers with 15 and 14 points, respectively, but Belto added her nine, and Cindy Kruta contributed eight in her best offensive effort of the season. Center Darla Doebbert led Detroit Lakes with a game-high 17 points.

Both sides shot 43 per cent from the field, but the Prowlers were 22-for-51 and the Lakers were 18-for-42. Thief River Falls went 4-for-12 at the free throw line, where Detroit Lakes was 3-for-6. The Lakers had a 21-19 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 17-11. Seven of those 11 Thief River Falls turnovers came in the first quarter, pointed out Schafer. Lisa Lillevold led the Prowlers with seven rebounds.

Marshall County Central boys started their 1986-87 high school basketball season off on the right foot Tuesday with a surprisingly easy 73-50 North Border Conference victory over Greenbush in Newfolden.

The Nordics' pressure defense helped stake the winners to an 18-2 headstart. They led 22-7 at the end of the first quarter, maintained a 36-19 halftime advantage and sat on a 52-33 third quarter spread.

"I'm really quite pleased," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland after the victory over a Greenbush team that is expected to be among the conference leaders this winter. It was doubly nice because it was worth two points in the North Border Conference standings since they meet just once this season. "Aside from the turnovers (22), we did a lot of things well," added Ueland.

Marshall County Central shot 44 per cent from the field (32-for-72) and 64 per cent at the free throw line (9-for-14). Greenbush shot 38 per cent from the field (20-for-52) and 53 per cent at the line (10-for-19). The Tigers had a 31-29 rebound edge, with Jon Kragness grabbing seven rebounds to lead the Nordics. Greenbush also had 33 turnovers.

The Nordics face an early-season North Border Conference test Friday when they host pre-season favorite Warroad. The Warriors were named overwhelming favorites to win conference honors this winter, but a long football season and a tough season-opening schedule has produced back-to-back losses at the hands of Class AA International Falls and top District 32A challenger Hallock in double overtime.

"If we're going to have a shot at the conference title, Warroad is one of the teams we're going to have to beat," pointed out Ueland.

Roseau 45

Sophomore Jason Engelstad hit a 15-foot shot at the buzzer Tuesday to give Grygla an exciting 47-45 season-opening North Border Conference win over visiting Roseau.

Grygla's Reed Engelstad tied the game at 45-45 with a free throw with 1:30 remaining, and the game remained deadlocked until the final shot. Roseau missed a free throw opportunity with 12 seconds left, Grygla rebounded and Jason Engelstad won it.

It was a good way to start the season, acknowledged Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "I was real pleased defensively," he said, giving special credit to forward Bruce Holte, whose defensive work held high-scoring Scott Jaenicke to just five points.

Holte also contributed 12 points and a team-leading six rebounds. Reed Engelstad led the Eagles with 13 points. Rick Stotts had 14 for Roseau.

It was a 13-13 tie at the end of the first quarter. Roseau led 24-21 at halftime, but Grygla went ahead 37-35 at the end of the third quarter.

Grygla was 19-for-47 from the field (40 per cent) and 9-for-17 at the free throw line (53 per cent). Roseau was 20-for-45 from the field (44 per cent) and 5-for-10 at the line (50 per cent). The Eagles had a 24-22 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 20-18.

The Eagles visit Greenbush Friday.

RLF 42

Middle River rebounded from a disappointing season-opening performance in a 66-52 Friday night loss to Lake of the Woods with a 50-42 Tuesday night home court victory over Red Lake Falls.

"A much better performance," acknowledged Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We hustled this time."

The two teams played to a 14-14 first quarter tie. Middle River squeezed out a 25-24 halftime lead, then pulled away to a 39-32 third quarter advantage.

Bradley Kilen, a 5-10 junior, led a balanced Middle River attack with 18 points. Tom Blazek had 10, while Tom Gullikson and Marc Gram both contributed 9. Roy Huot was a one-man offensive force for Red Lake Falls, noted Sparby, with a 22-point game, mostly hitting from the outside.

Shooting figures were identical for the two teams, who were both 20-for-56 from the field (36 per cent). But Middle River went to the free throw line 20 times, making 10 of them, while Red Lake Falls was 2-for-8 at the line. The Skippers enjoyed a 49-35 rebound edge, with Gullikson grabbing 14 of them. Red Lake Falls had more turnovers, 20-16.

The Skippers host Badger Friday.

Goodridge let a 21-16 halftime lead slip away Tuesday as the Huskies dropped a low-scoring 42-35 game at Strandquist.

The Warriors went ahead 30-29 in the third quarter and doubled the Huskies 12-6 over the final eight minutes.

"We left our shooting eye in the locker room at halftime," reported Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We've been shooting the ball extremely well, but we didn't play up to our potential in this one. It's the first game where we just didn't play."

Goodridge, shooting 57 per cent from the field in season-opening losses to Clearbrook and Climax, connected on just 15 of 39 shots vs. Strandquist (38 per cent). The Warriors were 21-for-44 (48 per cent). Goodridge was 5-for-6 at the free throw line, where Strandquist was 0-for-2.

Goodridge will host Fisher Friday in the Huskies' 1986-87 home opener.

Basketball JV Is Winner Over D.L.

Rhonda Rothschadl scored 16 points and Tammy Alberg had 10 as the Thief River Falls girls defeated Detroit Lakes 38-21 Tuesday in junior varsity high school basketball.

The win lifted Thief River Falls to 3-1 for the year.

Northland Community College women have played three basketball games this season. The average margin of victory in those three outings has been 32 points.

However, after opening the 1986-87 campaign with a 36-point win over an alumni team and a 30-point decision over Rainy River, the Pioneers wound up on the losing end of a 30-point spread Tuesday when they fell to a talented Concordia College junior varsity 79-49.

Second-year Northland coach Tom Neibauer was philosophical about the one-sided defeat. "Sometimes you're the kicker, and sometimes you're the kickee," he said. "Tonight we were the kickee."

Concordia's fast paced offense and tenacious defense was too much for Northland to handle this early in the season, said Neibauer. "The scholarship schools are tough for us to compete against. They started captain's practice September 1, and they've been going 100 miles per hour since October 15," he explained, while the Pioneers finally filled out their roster last week. "There's no way we can compete with those people this early in the season. But we play them again (Jan. 8 in Moorhead), and I don't think it'll be 30 points then."

Northland was never in it Tuesday. Concordia ran off a string of nine straight points to erase an early 3-2 Northland edge and the Cobbers were never threatened the rest of the night. They led the error-prone Pioneers 19-10 at the 10-minute mark of the first half and went into intermission with a 43-25 cushion.

It got worse in the second half. Concordia took a 45-27 spread and opened up a 59-27 gap with a run of 14 straight points in a two-minute fast break early in the second half. It was 63-35 at the 10-minute mark.

Northland's 44 per cent shooting from the field would normally be a solid showing, but while the Pioneers were going 20-for-45, the Cobbers were shooting at a 51 per cent 38-for-75 clip. The Pioneers also missed 11 free throws, with the entire 9-for-20 effort at the line occurring in the first half. The Pioneers never stepped to the line in the second half. Concordia was 3-for-9 at the line in one of the Cobbers' few shortcomings.

Concordia out-rebounded Northland 34-25, getting 19 of them on the offensive boards. Northland had eight offensive rebounds.

The Pioneers also had a terrible time holding on to the ball. They turned it over 41 times, and maybe as many as half of those turnovers came when they were passing the ball around their basket. Concordia had 26 turnovers.

Four Concordia scorers hit double figures, led by 18 points from 5-6 guard Angie Pagel of Minneapolis, a niece of Neibauer. Barb Ambuehl, a 5-10 forward from Ada, had 13, and Jane Hilde, a 6-1 center from Glyndon, scored 12. Northland received 12 points from freshman Patti Odberg of Newfolden and 11 points from sophomore Jody Pahlen of Plummer.

Northland will wait until Tuesday, December 16, to host Itasca in a 7:30 p.m. game.

It was a good week for the Bantam B team as the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) team of 13-14-year-olds swept three games to boost their 1986-87 season record to 3-2.

Thief River Falls skated past Grand Forks South 8-3 in a Thursday night assignment at Grand Forks as Brian Gillespie scored two goals, while Darin Teie had a goal and two assists. Troy Coltom and Mark Daniels had a goal and an assist, and Jamie Thomton collected two assists. Shawn Crowser, Corey Delap and Paul Hejlik picked up single goals.

Bryan Cloutier was in goal for the winners, who out-shot Grand Forks 32-26.

Thief River Falls swept Fergus Falls 15-3, 10-2 in a weekend series at the Sports Arena.

In the 15-3 Saturday victory, Daniels scored twice and added an assist, with Troy Coltom, David Kiesow and Teie also scoring two goals. Ross Dalzell and Gillespie scored once and added two assists, while Thane Espie and Derek Larson had a goal and an assist. Tim Stengrim, Hejlik and Thompton had single goals.

Thief River Falls out-shot Fergus Falls 48-11.

Coltom scored twice and handed out an assist in a 10-2 Sunday triumph over Fergus Falls. Daniels also had two goals. Dalzell and Larson both had a goal and two assists. Paul Johnson, Molstad, Gillespie and Teie all scored once.

Cloutier was in goal again as Thief River Falls out-shot Fergus Falls 52-13.

Bantam A

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team lost three times during the week to drop to 1-4 for the year.

Roseau jumped out to a 6-0 lead and collected a 9-3 Thursday night victory over visiting Thief River Falls. Roger Anderson had a goal and an assist for the losers, while Chad Kleinvachter and Paul Borchert both scored once. The goaltending was shared by Ryan Haugen and Todd Stewart, who combined for 31 saves. Thief River Falls was out-shot 40-15.

Fergus Falls scored four third period goals Saturday in a come-from-behind 7-4 victory over Thief River Falls at the Sports Arena. Jeff Novak scored two Thief River Falls goals, while Borchert had a goal and two assists. John Seaverson scored once and Wade Jorde picked up two assists. Fergus Falls out-shot Thief River Falls 34-31, with Stewart making 27 saves.

Thief River Falls let another third period lead slip away Sunday when Fergus Falls overcame a 6-4 deficit to win 8-6. Borchert scored twice, while Jorde, Novak, Seaverson and Dave Stengrim scored single goals. Stewart made 29 saves as Thief River Falls was out-shot again, 37-33.

Pee-Wee B

Thief River Falls Pee-Wee B 11-12-year-olds split a pair of close weekend decisions with Fergus Falls at the Old Arena.

Fergus Falls won 4-3 Saturday, even though Thief River Falls had a 28-19 advantage in shots-on-goal. Jeremy Olson scored twice and Jeremy Fimrite once for the losers.

All the scoring was done in the first period Sunday as Thief River Falls rebounded for a 3-1 win.

Jimmy Olson scored twice and Jason Niemi scored once in the victory. Trevor Haugen handled the goaltending, making 21 saves Sunday. His teammates put 16 shots on goal in improving their record to 1-2-1.

Pee-Wee A

It was a weekend split between the Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team and Fergus Falls at the Old Arena.

Thief River Falls won 10-6 Saturday as Nathan Knutson, Marc Haugen and Jason Svir scored two goals each, and Shane Skeim, Mike Hink, Matt Steinert and Cory Offerdahl scored one goal apiece. Corey Mattson had three assists. Barry Dowers made 31 saves as Thief River Falls was out-shot 37-32.

Fergus Falls came back to win 4-1 Sunday. Rick Ostby scored the lone Thief River Falls goal. Ross Boldt was in goal as Fergus Falls out-shot Thief River Falls 40-27.

Thief River Falls Pee-Wee A team fell to 3-1 with the weekend split.

Thief River Falls Boys Will Take On Moorhead Spuds In Friday Night Basketball Game

Mike Lundgren
Sports Editor

There should be plenty of interest both locally and throughout the North Sub-Region 8AA ranks Friday when Thief River Falls and Moorhead meet in an 8 p.m. boys high school basketball game at the Spuds' gymnasium.

Moorhead is a perennial title contender, and some have suggested that Thief River Falls has improved its once-struggling basketball program to the point where the Prowlers might challenge the Spuds this winter.

Thief River Falls opened its 1986-87 season last Friday with an exciting 66-64 victory over a very good Kennedy team. It was the kind of game that wins over fans. The Prowlers proved even in a first game, they can play some good basketball, and certainly some entertaining basketball that will draw fans to the Lincoln gym.

You don't want to put pressure on a team this early in the season, but Friday's match-up with Moorhead will give the Prowlers a good indication where they stand against the Class AA competition they'll have to beat in post-season play next spring.

Thief River Falls has fared well against Moorhead in the last couple of years. The Prowlers and Spuds renewed their basketball series in 1980-81 and Moorhead won seven straight meetings with the Prowlers (including post-season meetings). But Thief River Falls knocked off the Spuds 57-50 at Moorhead in 1984-85 and a year ago the Prowlers took Moorhead into overtime before dropping a 67-60 decision in Thief River Falls.

Miscellaneous

+ Lonnie Olson, a 1974 Lincoln High School graduate and the son of Mr. and Mrs Henry Olson of Route 3, Thief River Falls, is the new head wrestling coach at the University of Minnesota-Crookston this winter. Olson is a UMC graduate and holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from the University of North Dakota. He was a member of the UMC wrestling and track teams. Olson was named coach of the Trojans too late for 1986-87 recruiting, he told the UMC school paper, so he's limited to a 10-member squad that opened its season Saturday at the NDSSS Wahpeton Open. Olson is also enmployed as the supportive employment specialist at the Occupational Developmental Center in Crookston.

+ Jeff and Brenda Dahl of Newfolden were both letter winners this fall at Northwestern College in St. Paul. Jeff missed most of the 1986 football season with the Eagles because of an injury, but was still awarded a letter as a flanker on a 5-4 team that shared the Upper Midwest Conference title with a 5-1 league mark. Brenda was a hitter on the Northwestern volleyball team that finished one game behind the conference champions with a 14-8 record. She played volleyball and basketball at Northland Community College before moving on to Northwestern, where she showed great sportsmanship both on and off the court, according to school officials.

+ Thief River Falls freshman Michelle Puetz was a member of the University of North Dakota women's swimming team 200-yard medley relay team that qualified for the post-season NCAA Division II national meet when the Sioux competed in the University of Nebraska swim meet over the weekend.

+ Butch Froiland was named new head high school coach at Bemidji Tuesday, succeeding Ray Kavanagh, who stepped down from his post two weeks ago. Froiland has been a varsity assistant with the Lumberjacks since 1975. A 1962 graduate of Dawson High School and a 1968 graduate of Mankato State University, Froiland began his teaching and coaching career in the fall of 1968 at St. Charles at the freshmen and sophomores for three years. He arrived in Bemidji in 1973 to take over the Lumberjacks' freshman squad before moving to the junior varsity and varsity ranks. He has also coached the Bemidji freshman girls basketball teams. Kavanagh stepped down after 14 years as Bemidji football coach to assume the post of athletic director, vacated by the coming retirement of Jack Luoma.

Slow Start Beats Skippers

A slow start cost the Middle River girls Monday as the Skippers lost a 54-46 high school basketball game to Tri-County.

The Rabbits doubled the Skippers 16-8 in the first quarter and had a 29-14 halftime cushion. Middle River out-scored Tri-County 32-25 in the second half, but it was too little, too late for the host Skippers, who trailed 37-25 at the end of the third quarter.

"They (Tri-County) started right away. We didn't start until the second half," said Middle River coach Steve Larson. "We played a pretty good second half, but we played so terrible in the first half we were so far behind we couldn't catch up."

Karen Porter and Stephanie Carlson both had 12 points to lead a balanced Tri-County attack that also included 10 points from Lori Spilde. Rayette Benke and Kerry Nelson both scored 17 points for Middle River.

Tri-County held the upper hand in the shooting department. The Rabbits were 21-for-57 from the field (37 per cent) and 12-for-28 at the free throw line (43 per cent). The Skippers were 12-for-51 from the field (24 per cent) and 12-for-31 at the line (39 per cent).

Middle River, 2-2, visits Goodridge Thursday and hosts Grygla Monday.

Grygla's offense was absent Monday when the Eagles lost a 45-27 decision at Greenbush.

"Our passing was real bad," admitted Grygla coach Mike Gast. "We had a lot of turnovers off our passing."

Greenbush had quarter leads of 10-5, 20-11 and 34-17.

Lisa Sovde, a 5-9 senior, led Greenbush with 19 points. Wanda Clow added 12. Wendy Lawrence scored 10 points to lead Grygla.

Greenbush was 21-for-44 from the field (48 per cent), while Grygla was just 9-for-43 (21 per cent). The Eagles went 9-for-18 at the free throw line (50 per cent), where the Tigers were 3-for-9 (33 per cent).

Grygla, 0-2, visits Marshall County Central Thursday and will be at Middle River Monday.

CCN 37

Plummer's offense met little resistance Monday as the unbeaten Cardinals blitzed over-matched Clearwater County North 78-37 in the Pershing High School gym.

Janelle Konickson scored 19 points, Renae Walter 18 and Robin Brantl 17 as Plummer ran its record to 4-0. Jodi Konickson's 10 points gave the Cardinals four double figure scorers.

Plummer jumped out to a 30-7 first quarter lead and had a 52-13 halftime bulge. Reserves took over in the second half as the point spread remained at 66-27.

In the shooting department, Plummer was 28-for-71 from the field (39 per cent) and 22-for-39 at the free throw line (56 per cent). Clearwater County North was 17-for-75 from the field (23 per cent) and 3-for-7 at the line (43 per cent).

The Cardinals host Red Lake Falls Thursday.

RLF 29

Goodridge broke into the win column for the first time this year despite shooting just 17 per cent from the field in a low-scoring 32-29 victory over visiting Red Lake Falls Monday.

"Amazing," admitted Goodridge coach Patti Johnson, referring to the Huskies' win in spite of an 11-for-63 shooting performance from the field and a 10-for-26 effort (38 per cent) at the free throw line.

"Red Lake Falls has some pretty tall girls, and we had a difficult time trying to adjust to shooting over some arm length," expalined Johnson.

The two teams played to a 4-4 first quarter draw, and Goodridge out-scored Red Lake Falls 6-0 in the second quarter for a 10-4 halftime lead. It was 26-16 after three quarters.

"Our pressing defense worked well for us," pointed out Johnson. "That's probably what won the game for us."

Cindy Vettleson had a game-high 13 points for the winners. Nobody else on either side was in double figures.

Red Lake Falls shot 23 per cent from the field (13-for-56) and 43 per cent at the free throw line (3-for-7).

Goodridge, 1-2, hosts Middle River Thursday.

MCC 63

Marshall County Central jumped out to a 20-7 first quarter lead and rolled to a 62-42 win over Warroad at Newfolden Monday.

The win put the Nordics at 1-1 for the year. They opened the season with a 43-40 loss at the hands of Thief River Falls back on November 25.

The long layoff gave the Nordics' Andrea Kragness time to heal from an ankle injury that forced her to miss the opener. The 5-9 junior scored 14 points against Warroad. She was joined in double figures by Jodi Foss with 17 and Kelli Anderson with 14, a figure matched by Warroad's Rochelle Fausher.

Marshall County Central had a 35-19 halftime lead and a 52-23 third quarter cushion.

"I thought overall, we played well," said Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We started out strong in the first quarter and we played real good defense."

Marshall County Central shot 28 per cent from the field (27-for-72) and 39 per cent at the free throw line (9-for-21). Warroad shot 29 per cent from the field (18-for-61) and 60 per cent at the line (6-for-10). The Nordics had a 46-30 rebound advantage and Warroad topped the turnover figures, 26-20.

The Nordics host Grygla Thursday.

Paul Lofberg scored 17 points and Chris Beauchage had 10 Monday as the Thief River Falls boys defeated Marshall County Central 49-40 in a freshman basketball game played at the city auditorium.

Thief River Falls led 16-13 at the end of the first quarter, owned a 22-16 halftime lead and maintained a 35-26 third quarter spread.

Shannon Leach scored 12 points for Marshall County Central.

Thief River Falls, 1-1, will host Warren Tuesday in a 4:15 p.m. game at the city auditorium.

Freshman Girls Lose 33-30 Game

Detroit Lakes girls maintained a slim lead at each of the quarter stops Tuesday en route to a 33-30 freshman basketball win over visiting Thief River Falls.

Kaye Dondelinger scored 8 points for the losers, who trailed 10-6 at the end of the first quarter, were within 17-16 at halftime and fell behind 26-22 in the third quarter.

Thief River Falls, 0-4, will be idle until a Monday, January 5, game against Bemidji at the city auditorium.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Seven men were arrested recently by DNR conservation officers in northwestern Minnesota for illegally taking a moose according to Glenn Nyquist, president of TIP (Turn In Poachers), Inc.

Conservation officers from Warroad and Baudette located a moose carcass following a tip from hunters who had witnessed the shooting, Nyquist said. The moose's head was missing.

Officers staked out the area and waited until five men returned to the scene. The men were arrested as they attempted to load the moose onto a pickup truck. One man attempted to interfere with the arrest.

The five were charged with numerous offenses including the illegal taking and transportation of a big game animal and obstructing a peace officer in the performance of his duties.

The men, all from Red Lake, are Darwin John Sumner, Harry Samuel Hanson Jr., Roland Gene Roy, Reginald Thomas Johns and Anthony James Hanson. They posted bond ranging from $1,000 to $1,500.

Two Florida men, Emerson James Owens of Ft. Pierce and Dale Dwight Stringer of Miami were also arrested in connection with the case. Charged in Beltrami County District Court with the illegal taking and transportation of a big game animal, they posted $2,000 bond.

A rented vehicle, driven by the Florida men, was the one observed by the hunters at the scene of the shooting. Officers, armed with a search warrant, obtained blood and hair samples, camera film and a number of firearms from the vhicle. When developed, the film showed several of the suspects with the moose's head.

Laboratory test showed moose parts had been in the vehicle. Shell casings found at the scene of the shooting and bullets retrieved from the carcass matched the high-powered rifle found in the vehicle.

Conservation officers seized a number of firearms, several vehicles and miscellaneous equipment from the alleged poachers.

"This case shows that people are concerned about the illegal taking of our wildlife resources," Nyquist said. "The majority of people who call TIP are more interested in stopping the poacher than in the rewards offered."

Anyone with information about violations of Minnesota's fish and wildlife laws should call their local conservation officer or the toll-free TIP hotline number 800-652-9093.

Free Licenses Available

If you are disabled and a resident of Minnesota, you may be eligible for free permanent or seasonal hunting and angling licenses, explains a new brochure released by the Department of Natural Resources.

For a free copy on special disability permits and licenses write to the DNR Division of Enforcement, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4047, or call (612) 296-4771.

"The Minnesota state statutes legalizing the free licenses have been around for some time," said Nancy Huonder of the Division of Enforcement, "but they are in technical terms, so we consolidated them in a special handout to make the requirements clear to the public." The brochure explains specifically who is eligible and how they can apply for these licenses.

DNR Birdhouse Book

A Department of Natural Resources publication considered one of the country's most complete summaries of birdhouse information and designs is again available to the public, although through a new source.

"Woodworking for Wildlife" can be obtained by requesting publication 9-1458 from the State Documents Division, 117 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155. The cost is $6, plus 36-cents for sales tax (for Minnesota residents only) and $1.50 for postage and handling. Delivery can be expected in four to six weeks.

The 48-page volume contains designs for 27 different structures that attract 46 different wildlife species, including wood ducks, bluebirds, purple martins, house wrens and bats.

Wildlife groups and other conservation organizations may buy quantities of 50 or more at a 40 per cent discount and resell them at the retail price as a fundraising project.

RIM Fund Project

Newly completed Albert's Lake fish barrier in Douglas and Grant counties is the first Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) Fisheries project to be finished. It is one of nine rough fish control structures that will be installed with RIM Fisheries Enhancement funds.

The new fish barrier will deny entrance of carp to approximately 917 acres of fish and wildlife habitat including Albert's, Solbergs, Hubrid, and Davidson lakes. Costs were shared by Douglas county and the Soil Conservation Service.

A total of 37 projects on rough fish control, fishing piers, aeration systems, and other conservation measures are scheduled to be carried out with money designated for fisheries enhancement from the RIM legislation.

Basketball Fan Bus

Backcourt Club will sponsor a fan bus to Friday's Thief River Falls high school basketball game at Moorhead.

The bus will leave Lincoln High School at 4:30 p.m. Cost of the trip is $2.

For additional information call Sonia Balmer at 681-3383.

Sports Boosters Meeting

Charlotte Bjorgaard, president of the Thief River Falls Backcourt Club, will be the guest speaker Thursday at the weekly 12-noon luncheon meeting of the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club in the basement of the Rex Cafe.

Hockey Tickets Available

Reserve seat tickets for the 1986-87 Lincoln High School hockey team home schedule at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena are now on sale to the general public.

A ten-game ticket package is priced at $20, or $35 for a pair. They will be sold through Tuesday, December 16, when the Prowlers host Grand Forks Red River in their home opener.

Tickets sold for the yellow and gold sections of the arena bleachers will be sold as a specific seat location. Tickets sold for the green section of the arena bleachers will be sold as a reserved section, but not a specific reserved seat, explained a spokesman for the ticket-selling groups.

Diane Puetz is in charge of the ticket sales, conducted as a joint venture between the Blue Line Club and the Sports Boosters Club. Puetz can be contacted at 681-6642 (home), or 681-7585 (work).

Lawsuit Over Elk

Three groups affiliated with the Audubon Society announced that they are joining in a lawsuit to prevent the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) from moving the state's only elk herd.

The groups are the Minnesota Audubon Council, an association of the 15 chapters of the National Audubon Society operating in Minnesota; the Mississippi Headwaters Audubon Society from Bemidji; and the Agassiz Audubon Society from Warren.

The Audubon groups join the Sierra Club, the Fund for Animals, and Friends of Animals and Their Environment, in the suit.

Thomas P. McGuigan, a spokesman for the Audubon Society, stated "the attempted elk removal last year was one of the worst cases of wildlife mismanagement in Minnesota in recent years."

Myths of Marketplace Present At Christmas

With the great American holiday shopping spree upon us, invariably certain questions and complaints come to the attention of the Attorney General's office. Based on these questions it is apparent that there is considerable confusion over the rights and responsibilities of both buyers and sellers and it may be useful to review some of them.

"I received a sweater as a gift and it's too small. The store refuses to take it back. Don't they have to take it back?" Simply stated, no, there is no state law governing merchandise returns. While we may be accustomed to the liberal return policies of most major retailers, a stroll through any shopping mall will reveal a wide variety of return policies ranging from money back, no questions asked, to absolutely no returns.

Even large retailers periodically offer close out or special purchase items that may have more restrictive return rules than the regular policies. If you don't know, or are not certain of a store's return policy, ask before you buy and be certain to adhere to any requirements that may be necessary for returns, such as sales receipts or time limits.

"I bought an expensive toy for my grandchild and the next day it went on sale for $20 off. Shouldn't they have given me the sale price?" Again, the answer is no. By definition, a sale is a special event where a merchant offers bonafide discounts from regular prices for a specified period to time. Although some retailers will honor sale prices if you make a purchase just prior to the item going on sale, that is strictly a matter of store policy.

In fact, stores adopting such policies must exercise some caution in doing so. Since a sale is a special event, offering sale prices outside of the time frame of the advertised sale could be a form of misrepresentation. For the most part this is not a problem. However, if a sale price is extended too long prior to the sale an argument could be made that the "sale price" was, in fact, the store's regular selling price. In one case a major national retailer was accused of misrepresentation and false advertising because a particular product was almost continuously on sale, and even when it wasn't, their salespeople would honor "sale prices."

"They advertised an item would be on sale all week and when I went to the store they were out of stock. Don't I at least have a right to a raincheck? Once again, the answer is no. Merchants can also set their own policies regarding rainchecks. While many stores do issue rainchecks on most out of stock items, there can be legitimate reasons for any store to refuse this service. Merchandise may be brought in for a sale where the merchant receives a promotional discount to feature an item. That discount is passed on to the customer through the sale price and may not be available to the merchant in subsequent orders. Also, a retailer may be closing out a particular product line and may not intend to reorder that item. Or, a product could be a promotional item brought in solely for the purpose of the sale and no longer be available.

On the other hand, when merchandise is advertised on sale, a seller should have on hand an amount he could reasonably expect to sell during the sale. If the merchant doesn't disclose any limitations in his advertising, and runs out of an item early in the sale, that could represent a problem. In that case, a conscientious seller would either issue a raincheck, or offer a comparable substitute for the sale price.

"I bought this product two weeks ago and suddenly it quit working. The store says it's under warranty, but I think it's junk. Don't I have a right to get my money back?" We'll modify the answer this time to probably not. You should understand that, in general, warranties are issued by manufacturers and are usually limited to some degree. For example, a typical warranty might obligate the maufacturer to repair or replace an item, but provide a refund only at the option of the manufacturer. In some cases, a merchant might offer a separate warranty, or he may be authorized by the manufacturer to establish a store policy to provide refunds. Regardless, it is the express warranty that creates the primary product guarantees and, in most cases, the terms of the warranty will have to be followed.

Many retailers, in the interest of good customer service, will provide assistance in handling warranty problems. They may be an authorized repair center themselves, or they may take care of the problem by shipping the product to a repair center and following up with the manufacturer to be certain your problem is resolved. Also, under Minnesota law there is an implied warranty of fitness, which means, a product should suit the purposes for which it is intended. Under terms of the implied warranty, for example, if you buy a watch and discover it runs backwards, the merchant would have an obligation to provide either a refund or a replacement.

For more information on the rights and responsibilities of sellers and buyers contact the Attorney General's Consumer Division, in St. Paul: 117 University Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155, (612) 296-3353; in Duluth: Room 708 Government Services Center, 320 West Second Street, Duluth, MN 55802, (218) 723-4891.

Road Condition Reports By State More Specific

Callers using touch tone phones may now request road condition information for any of four specific areas of the state including the northern, central, southern and Twin Cities metro areas.

By selecting the area of the state they are interested in they eliminate the need to listen to the entire statewide road condition recording, according to Darrell Schierman, manager of emergency operations for the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT). This means they will now spend less time obtaining the information they want.

Upon dialing road condition information number (612) 296-30776, touch tone callers hear a recording providing them with all directions needed to make a selection. Callers using rotary phones or requesting statewide road condition reports will be automatically switched to the statewide tape.

Drivers Advised To Use Caution Around Snowplows

According to the Marshall county highway department, the blue light atop snowplow equipment should serve as a reminder that safe driving procedures should be practiced concurrent with snow removal operations.

Blowing snow due to snow removal operations restricts visibility and impairs ability to properly judge distance. Be aware that snowplow equipment must sometimes swerve to avoid mailboxes and other roadside obstructions. Traffic should maintain adequate distance behind the equipment. Operators have been instructed to stop periodically and allow accumulated traffic to pass, the highway department said.

Memoriam
In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mickey Booren, who departed this life Dec. 6, 1982

I cannot say and I will not say
That she is dead — she is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It's needs must be, since she lingers there;
So think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here
Think of her still as the same, I say
She is not dead — she is just away!

Sadly missed by her family

Memoriam
In loving memory of Mrs. Olaf (Olga) Ryan who passed away on December 11th, 1977

How do we miss you
We just can't explain
Except since you're gone
Nothing is quite the same
We miss your voice
We miss your smile
And the kindness, part of you all the while
But how sweet the memories remain
Of so many happy times
When we shared with you the love you gave
We love you now, as we always have
In God's kind hands you now abide

Sadly missed by her family

"An Equal Housing Opportunity"

SDA Workshop On Stretching Income On December 13

"How to S-T-R-E-T-C-H your Income" will be the subject of the December adventures in family living program to be held December 13 at 2 p.m. at the Seventh-day Adventist church, 1024 S. Tindolph.

Guest speaker for the program will be Elder Raymond Rouse of Minneapolis, the newly appointed secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota conference of Seventh-day Adventists. Elder Rouse's expertise in the area of finance comes from a degree in business followed by 30 years of experience in both the business world and in church work. His counsel to families interested in making their dollars stretch will be both practical and spiritual.

Elder Rouse and his wife Darlene accepted the call to Minnesota in September. They most recently served in the Illinois conference of SDA's where he was the treasurer. The Rouse's have two children, Arden and Darla.

During the meeting there will be a special program for the children. The community is welcome.

Holiday Services Slated At Warren Settlers Square

Marshall county historical society is planning its second annual holiday celebration for Sunday, December 28, at the Alma church in Settlers Square at the fairgrounds in Warren.

Norman Hagen of Argyle will provide horse drawn sleighs to transport people from the city auditorium building to the fairgrounds. Rides will begin at 1 p.m. and caroling services will begin at 1:30 p.m. and run continuously until approximately 3 p.m.

Conducting the services will be Rev. Lambert of Stephen and Rev. Milo Gudim of Argyle. Refreshments will be served in the museum at Settlers Square for those attending the services. Public participation in the event is encouraged.

Taconite Workers In State Qualify For Assistance

Secretary of Labor William E. Brock has announced that up to 1,000 workers of the Erie Mining company in Hoyt Lakes have been certified as eligible for aid under the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program.

Workers may receive cash benefits, training, job search and relocation allowances, and other employment-related assistance under provisions of the Trade Act of 1974.

Workers at Hoyt Lakes were engaged in the production of taconite, used in the manufacture of steel. Anyone totally or partially separated from a job because of lack of work at the facility on or after July 28, 1985, is eligible to apply for benefits.

The office of trade adjustment assistance conducted a fact-finding investigation, in response to a worker petition filed with the department, which provided the basis for the certification.

The program provides trade readjustment allowances (TRA), for weeks of unemployment, for a total of 52 weeks at the same rate paid weekly for regular unemployment insurance (UI) in Minnesota. Eligible workers receive 52 weeks of benefits minus the number of weeks for which they are eligible to receive UI benefits. TRA payments begin once a worker exhausts his or her eligibility for UI benefits. When enrolled in an approved training program, some workers may receive up to 26 additional weeks of benefits.

Minnesota department of economic security will administer the program through local offices.

Few Cases Heard In County Court During Past Week

Few cases were handled in Pennington county district court, division two, in Thief River Falls during the past week.

Minnesota state patrol cases: Wade Allen Forsberg, Thief River Falls, speeding 67 in a 55 mph zone, $31 with $11 suspended.

Thief River Falls police department cases: Michael Carl Broden, Thief River Falls, allowing a dog to run at large, $16.50; Ronald Kent Helling, Thief River Falls, speeding 40 in a 30 mph zone, $25 with $5 suspended; and Leon Marcell Rogalla, Goodridge, no current registration, $11.

Pennington county sheriff cases: Gerry Lee Mattison, Plummer, speeding 65 in a 55 mph zone, $27.50; Erick John Sorenson, Minneapolis, speeding 45 in a 35 mph zone, $27.50; Gregory Jack Srnsky, St. Hilaire, speeding 65 in a 55 mph zone, $27.50.

Polaris Delays Public Offering Due To Market

Polaris Industries, Inc. is postponing its plans for an initial public offering due to unfavorable general market conditions for initial public offerings, according to W. Hall Wendel Jr., president.

"Of primary importance in going public at this time was that it be favorable terms to the current shareholders and employees. Our expectations could not be met, so Polaris is delaying its plans for a public offering until more favorable market conditions prevail in 1987."

None of the proceeds of the offering were to be received by the company. Consequently, the company will continue to operate its business as it has in the past, and this delay will have no adverse affect on employees, customers or suppliers.

Survey Of Manufacturer Reveals Few Major Problems

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Manufacturers, processors and other major employers, excluding government employers, in Thief River Falls appear to be satisfied with the business climate in the Northwest Minnesota community. Preliminary conclusions from a survey of those employers seem to indicate few problems or negative opinions.

A preliminary examination of the surveys conducted by Jobs Inc. and the community development office appear to indicate few problems and a general satisfaction, said Don Stewart, community development director. However there were a few common problems or thoughts running throughout the surveys.

The survey was part of a new business retention and expansion program and was conducted by a trained interviewer. A statement released by Stewart when the survey began, said "a major portion of the economic well-being of our city and county comes from our manufacturing; processing, distributing, wholesaling, and professional services. Because of their importance to the community, steps were being taken to determine the needs of these firms."

The key element in the study was the survey. The in-depth confidential survey asked a variety of questions from about 33 manufacturers and professionals in Thief River Falls. The survey was in two parts. The first part, filled out ahead of time by the interviewee, asked for detailed information, including payroll information. Part two was a personal interview conducted by Mrs. Vern Treat.

The second part of the survey asked for the manufacturers opinion of the city's economy, whether relocation or expansion of their business is being considered, and if their business has problems the city might help them solve, such as finding financing for expansion or technical assistance.

Some of the problems could have been as simple as asking that a stop sign be moved. In situations where immediate help could be given, the community development office acted as quickly as they became aware of the situation, Stewart said.

Originally, 33 participants were anticipated. At the completion of the surveys last week, 30 had participated. "We had extremely good cooperation from the participants," Stewart said.

One of the goals of the survey was to establish an on-going channel of communication between businesses and representatives of community groups such as Jobs Inc., the chamber of commerce, and local government. A cursory glance at all of the surveys seemed to indicate, Stewart said, that manufacturers believe communications between city and business is at least satisfactory. However, there were some common problems expressed by the manufacturers, Stewart said.

Common thoughts or complaints, Stewart said, include the not so uncommon complaints of a tax and workman's compensation problem in Minnesota, along with high insurance costs. Stewart said his preliminary review of the results also indicate that about one third of the respondents said the poor condition of the high school plant made it difficult for business to recruit new people into the business and community.

Stewart said he wasn't sure why or what the reasons were for the over one-third that responded they have difficulty with capital being available. He said he believes they may be saying they are having difficulty borrowing capital. Another large percentage said transportation was a problem. The manufacturers split on air transportation and poor roads as problems. Many wanted better air transportation and more roads capable of carrying nine tons or higher.

Despite the bad news there was good news to report from the survey also. Roughly one-third, Stewart said, talked about the possibility of renovation, expansion and hiring new employees. "That's good news for the community as a whole," Stewart said.

Stewart said the surveys will be sent to the Department of energy and economic development (DEED) to be compiled and released at a later date. According to a DEED representative, the Thief River Falls' results will be available in two to three weeks, while results from the entire state will not be completed until sometime in February.

The program was initiated by the Jobs Inc borad, which meets monthly, as a minimum, to discuss ways to assure a strong economy for the immediate area. The project was designed by the Minnesota department of energy and economic development.

Remember The Holiday Magic?

by Sharon LaCoursiere
Times Reporter

In the hustle and bustle of holiday preparation we tend to misplace the true spirit of the season, catching only brief glimpses of the peace and love that are the real essence of Christmas. We feel a tug on our hearts as we watch children and grandchildren perform in Christmas programs; memories return of Christmases past as we pause a moment to admire the lights on the community tree, or listen to the carolers on street corners; and the sight of a nativity scene will bring a brief moment of peaceful contemplation as we consider the real reason for Christmas.

The holidays are a time of special magic for children. Eyes shine and sparkle with anticipation of Christmas festivities and Santa's visit; happy laughter bubbles forth as little ones plot and plan their Christmas giving; and sometimes a pensive expression will steal into little faces as they realize the wonder and beauty of this enchanting season. Do you remember the feeling?

Christmas is a time of sharing. It is a time of love and caring, not just for family and friends, but for those less fortunate — especially for children — because Christmas is for children.

K-Mart has chosen to participate in a Christmas program for children this year with a Children's Christmas Tree project. The tree is filled with names of area children ages birth to 12 who are in need of special help to have a happy Christmas this year. Names have been offered by schools, churches, the Area Ag center, and the Women, Infants and Children program (WIC).

Children have been chosen from all around the area: Goodridge, Grygla, St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls, Strathcona, Red Lake Falls, Badger, Greenbush, Karlstad, Strandquist, Plummer, Brooks, Fisher, Oklee, Middle River, Gatzke, Newfolden. In all, there are 409 names of children who need help to have a merry, magical Christmas. Not one of these children should be overlooked in this season of love and sharing.

The Children's Christmas Tree is to the left of the main doors at K-Mart. The tree used for the project was donated by the Thief River Falls American Legion. On it you will find many red and white tags with pictures of angels. On the back of the tags are names of children, ages, and sizes, along with a tag number. You may choose the name and age of the child, and then are asked to take the tag home, buy a gift for the child; wrap it or not, as you choose; and return it to the store by December 18, attaching the original tag to the package.

The gift need not be expensive, but this may be the only gift received by many of the children, so do make it a thoughtful one. Ideally, the gift could contain an article of clothing, a toy and perhaps a candy treat. Hand made clothing items would be very welcome, but please buy any food items and leave in their original wrapping.

This would be a wonderful family project one in which children could appreciate the true spirit of Christmas. It would also be a project for groups and organizations to consider. Instead of exchanging gifts with one another, think of the fellowship and enjoyment that would come from shopping for a specific child and then wrapping the gift or gifts at your Christmas meeting. Area businesses, too, could enjoy the satisfaction of quietly helping those in need who are perhaps patrons and customers.

The Times staff has chosen the names of two children from the tree. The Lincoln yearbook staff under the direction of Sheryl Novacek has also chosen to buy a gift for a child instead of one another. We hope many businesses and organizations will follow our lead. Anyone wishing a name from the tree may also call K-Mart at 681-1301. Dianne Bickler or Marilyn Hoglo will be happy to supply you with the name of a child.

A CANDY CONFECTION in red and white is the Children's Christmas Tree at K-Mart. Names, ages and sizes of 409 area children are on the back of the "angel tags," just waiting to be chosen by families, groups or business places. Sponsors are to buy a Christmas gift for the child and return it to the store by December 18 so that it may be picked up by the child's parents in time for Christmas. The needy children have been selected from several area towns by the Ag Center, WIC, schools and churches. Make Christmas magic for someone who needs your help this year.

Roseau Library Friends Sponsor Artist of Month

Roseau Library Friends note that the 1986 exhibit series will conclude with a showing of paintings by Edith Peterson, December artist of the month. Her exhibit, which opened December 2 at the Roseau library, includes about 20 pictures of varied sizes and media, a sampling of her work during the last 10 years.

Peterson, who prefers to use a broad range of colors, is not afraid of bright tones and unusual textures. Many of her landscapes and still lifes reveal a Southwestern influence. Among her favorites are "Banana Buds" and "Magnolia Seed Pods." Mrs. Peterson recently moved back to Roseau from Texas.

The December exhibit is open to the public during regular library hours from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and on Thursday until 8 p.m.

The 1987 exhibit series will begin with Annette Hermansen as January artist of the month.

Eagles Auxiliary Will Hold Annual Christmas Party

Eagles auxiliary will hold their Christmas party with a potluck supper on Monday, December 15 at 6:30 p.m. at the Eagles club. In place of a gift exchange, each member will contribute $2 which will be used as a donation for the area food shelf.

On Saturday, December 20, the auxiliary will host the district two meeting and Christmas party at 3 p.m. at the Eagles club. Each member should bring a $3 to $5 gift for exchange. Lunch will be served. Each member is urged to attend these meetings of fellowship and good will.

Pennington Co. Farmers Attend NFO Convention

"There are many who say that farmers, at this point in agriculture, are standing at the crossroads but I want to say to you that farmers have crossed that intersection and we now know where we are going," NFO President DeVon Woodland told more than 2,500 delegates at the National Farmers Organization's 31st annual convention, including Joel Stolaas, Gary Lundeen, Donald Horachek, and Tom Lewis from Pennington county.

"It is time that we developed a leadership role within agriculture and make changes take place that are necessary to cash flow our farming operations. As manufacturers, we have the right and responsibility to price our own products," he added.

As a leading farm organization, the national president advised members, "we are taking a leadership role in the dairy and livestock industries." Beginning in February, NFO will pay dairy producers three times per month instead of two times per month as precedented by the dairy industry. "We have our reserves in places and we are challenging the dairy industry to meet this standard. We are tired of the dairy industry operating on our money for 30 days and we are now in a position to force their hands for all producers."

Woodland said NFO dairy producers shipping milk on NFO trucks would receive three checks per month starting in February on the first, tenth and twentieth days of the month. He encouraged members to enroll their neighbors and other dairy farmers' production to make this change come about more rapidly.

In livestock, NFO is now offering open-ended forward contracts for all feeder cattle, slaughter cattle, hog and sheep producers. "A floor price is blocked in but the top price is left open to accommodate rises in the market," Woodland told the crowd gathered for the state of affairs address. "Because of increased production and packers now seeking our services, we have been able to negotiate better contracts for livestock producers. I do not know of any cattleman who could pass up such a contract."

Woodland added that in addition to these new services, NFO has recorded a one per cent growth in all commodity programs in the past year and, at the current point in this fiscal year, the organization has attained a 22 per cent growth factor.

"Our goal in all commodities for fiscal 1987 is 20 per cent," he proclaimed to members. "I say this goal, given these two new programs, is attainable and must be attained if we are to save family farms. With a 20 per cent increase, we can bring prices up 50 cents per hundredweight for all livestock, we can add 20 cents per bushel on all grain, and we can add $1.50 per hundredweight for all milk shipped through the organization. In grain alone, that will add $2.7 billion in the pockets of producers nationwide."

The NFO president concluded that the organization has the programs and staff in place, it is now up to producers to take the leadership role through participation in these programs.

UMC Christmas Program Dec. 18

A Christmas concert will be presented by the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, December 18, in Bede hall ballroom.

Featured in the program will be the UMC Christmas chorale singing the cantata "Emmanuel" by Eugene Butler. The UMC-community band will also perform several selections. There is no admission and free refreshments will be served.

Congratulations Alice

ALICE NISSEN received a special surprise Sunday evening when she attended the Christmas party for Pamida discount store employees at the Best Western inn. She was presented with a congratulatory cake, corsage made by Mrs. Jeff Hayes, gift and a 15-year service pin. Mrs. Nissen began working for the company before the store opened as Gibson's Discount Center in December of 1971, starting work in the stock room late in November. She has served in many areas of the store, including about a year as group manager, and for the past seven years has been an office clerk. She is the only employee who started with the store here to still work at the local store. Several other employees are nearing 10 years of service. During her tenure the company has undergone several ownership changes and she has worked for nine managers. Jeff Hayes (above) has been manager here for the past four years and presented Mrs. Nissen with her service pin Sunday night.

The clover-leaves are looking more like giant doodles. But can you imagine how long it would take to make a left turn at this intersection the old-fashioned way?

For all we've learned about controlling traffic, there are still areas of life where our differing aims and directions create stress, tension, and sometimes conflict.

Our religious heritage is the key to progress here. From the Golden Rule, the Good Samaritan, the Good Shepherd we gain positive insights, a sense of spiritual direction.

God has provided excellent highways for all who are going His Way.

TIMES Around The Region

Bemidji Murder Trial

Bemidji — On the opening day of a murder trial December 2, prosecution witnesses revived a scenario in which a 20-year-old Red Lake boxing champion was fatally injured in an altercation with another 20-year-old Red Lake youth at a county fair. Reggie Stillday is facing charges of second-degree murder, second-degree assault and felony murder in counts of intentionally causing the death of another, assaulting a police officer with a knife and unintentional killing during an assault. Jacques Whitefeather died August 1 at North Country hospital in Bemidji where surgery was unsuccessfully performed to try to repair a hole in his heart after the incident. Prosecuting attorney Tom Keyes produced witnesses who testified that Stillday held a large knife, "like a survival knife," and Whitefeather was unarmed. The prosecution did not present evidence of a motive for the stabbing. Defense attorney Paul Kief presented opening statements December 5 stating that Stillday was simply defending himself from Whitefeather by moving the knife back and forth, and was not aware that he had struck Whitefeather until told of the injury by his friends after the incident. The trial will resume December 9 before District Court Judge James Preece.

Grygla Man Sentenced

Bemidji — Henry Shepard, 20, Grygla, appearing in Beltrami County District Court before Judge James Preece, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, and fined a total of $1,544 on misdemeanors of criminal damage to property and theft for damage to a J & M Construction fuel truck and theft of property of that firm. He was also sentenced to 90 days in jail, ordered to pay full restitution and fined $110 for criminal damage to a 1973 Chevrolet belonging to Tom Jelle. Both incidents took place last June in Benville township.

Tidbits From THE TIMES

Excerpts from the December 10, 1936 Times, rewritten by Sharon LaCoursiere.

The December 10, 1936, Times reported that a small-time milk bottle stealing racket had developed in the city lately. A gang of boys were stealing the milk bottles and any money left in them from outside area homes. Police chief A.B. Stenberg asked cooperation of local merchants in exercising care in buying milk bottles and in reporting any suspicious circumstances they may note.

Santa Claus was coming to town — escorted by a veteran crew of Soo Line employees. Old St. Nick was going to board a special Soo Line train at the Canadian border and would arrive at the Soo station in Thief River Falls at 2 p.m. December 12. Trainmen selected for the privilege of escorting Santa were Martin M. Strom, brakeman; H.W. Kinghorn, engineer; Knute Melby, fireman; E.H. Holmstrom, brakeman; and J.O. Yotter, conductor.

The Civic and Commerce association of Thief River Falls was sponsoring a Christmas home decoration contest. First prize was $10; second, $7.50; third, $5; and fourth, $2.50. The contest was open to every householder in TRF; decorations were to be placed on the lawn, house or inside the house, but judging would be on the exterior effect; competent out-of-town judges would be in charge of deciding which houses were the best some time between December 19 and 25. Residents were urged to "Enter the contest and help make Thief River Falls the Christmas City."

Toys, toys, and more toys were advertised in the Times. A boy's deluxe stream-lined bike must have been at the top of a lot of little boys' lists in 1936. Mom and dad could buy it for $39.95. Red and white scooters sold for $1, with a steamlined model only $1.98. Oh boy, hockey skates were $3.95 and roller skates, $1.59. A little red wagon would cost 89 cents; toy G-man gun, 79 cents; riding locomotive, $1.19; coaster sled, 98 cents; and a three-piece Zephyr train, patterned after the famous speedy model with wind-up mechanism, ringing bell and brakes, complete with track, 69 cents.

The little girls were probably hoping for the "Peggy Jane" doll of their dreams — "She stands alone and goes to sleep" — 16 inches high, for $1.19. Or how about a doll buggy to stroll that new doll in for $1.98, or a sewing machine, just like mom's, to sew dolly some dresses, 98 cents. And there was a 26-piece china dinner set just for "dolly and me" at 79 cents.

Practical moms were more than likely wishing for the new model electric washer, on sale at $29.95, featuring a porcelain tub, balloon-type adjustable wringer rolls, quick-acting safety release, high efficiency agitator, automobile-type clutch control, fully enclosed gear case, and reinforced legs. And if mom wasn't the practical type, dad could always buy her the two-piece lounging pajamas available at Lein's in shades of gold, royal blue, lipstick red and turquoise satin — $3.49 and up. Dad might get a treat out of them too.

And if the lounging pajamas weren't treat enough for dad's eyes, the family could treat his ears with a brand new, 11-tube Airline radio, "the biggest buy in Ward's history." It had a super-dynamic speaker, 40-inch hand-rubbed cabinet, 3 wave bands, metal tubes, tuning eye, high fidelity, and colored flash signals showing tone, volume and wave band. And all for the low, low price of $48.95.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Thoughts On Taxes

Tax situation in Minnesota has been in the news a lot recently with the question being how to handle an expected shortfall in revenue to meet expenses for the coming biennium. With the DFL in control of both houses of the legislature and the governorship, the taxpayers will be at the mercy of that party's leadership.

Quite frankly, we don't expect it to make a great deal of difference which party is calling the shots on taxes this session. There has been a tendency for both major parties of late to slide toward the middle of the road and taxpayers will be hard pressed to find a place where the tracks don't overlap. As usual, the present legislature and administration will have to deal with mistaken judgments made by previous legislatures and administration.

"The most recent forecast made it clear that the state will have to tighten its belt merely to balance the books for the upcoming biennium," states the Minnesota Taxpayers association. "This is caused by several factors. The balance carrying over is only $86 million. Revenues will grow only seven per cent without tax increases. There will be upward pressures on many spending programs because of automatic increases and inflation adjustments.

"Other actions taken in previous years have also shifted expenditures into the 1987-89 biennium and obligated the state to fund programs at levels not previously supported. These are estimated by the department of finance to total $617 million more. The bottom line is — absent any budget cuts — spending would increase by over $1 billion to $11.5 billion while total resources would increase only two per cent to $10.7 billion. An $813 million gap remains."

Revenue projection is a calculated guess at best and expectations often go awry. In 1986, for example, revenues of $10.3 billion were $673 million less than previously estimated. Coupled with unforeseen spending increases, the state was left $734 million short. The problem was "solved" but using up the state's entire $450 million reserve, slapping on $38 million in "revenue enhancements" (additional taxes) and actually cutting spending by $246 million. Projected year-end balance was only $11,900.

Later revenue forecasts indicated a modest increase in money coming in and the balance was raised to an expected $86 million — still less than one per cent of the budget. Efforts to cover the 1986 expenditures, however, left 1987-1988 responsibilities naked as a jay bird.

The Minnesota Taxpayers association concedes that large portions of the state budget are tied to factors over which the state actually has little or no control. For instance, spending on entitlement programs such as aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) is tied to the number of eligible parents and the level of benefits they receive. If more than expected apply and are eligible, the state is committed to paying these benefits. Open-ended appropriations such as property tax credits are another variable.

Recent finance department date indicates that 35 per cent of the general fund goes to entitlement programs and 25 per cent for open appropriations. In total, 60 per cent of the budget is — as the MTA calls it — "self-propelled".

These difficulties on the state level, plus the many changes in a new federal tax system, make individual planning a real guessing game. Will the state extend the sales tax to exempt items, and if so, to which ones? Will state income tax rates be adjusted, and if so, in what way? Will surtaxes be added, and if so, in what areas, for how much and for how long?

There has been a fair amount of talk among legislative leaders about extending the sales tax to a number of items beyond the three major exempt areas of food, clothing and business services. Revenue commissioner Tom Triplett has said there are 40 to 50 such items which could produce several hundred million dollars in revenue if subjected to sales tax.

House Speaker-elect Fred Norton has also said he favors delaying the transfer of $220 million in motor vehicle excise taxes from the general fund to the highway fund to help balance the budget in the next biennium.

It is these types of maneuvers and changes in prior commitments that make planning difficult in all areas.

"The problems of the next budget will be difficult for the legislature and the governor," states the MTA in a bit of understatement. "In dealing with this it is important that serious thought be given to the cause of these problems. It is in all of our interests to keep the state from lurching from harrowing deficits to intoxicating surpluses to ensure that we receive the services we need from our government with a stable and fair tax system."

Food Costs Decline As Percentage Of Income

"If food costs seem too high, compare them with the amount of disposable income spent on food," suggests the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

Back in 1960, 20 per cent of the average American's disposable income was spent on food. That disposable income totaled only $1,986. Since that time, average disposable incomes have grown more than 10 times. Out of a 1985 average disposable income of $11,817, the consumer now spends about 15 per cent on food.

A graph of the difference shows disposable income rising from less than $2,000 to about $5,000 in 1975, then rising sharply to the $11,986 figure in 1985. Percentage spent on food dropped rapidly from 20 per cent in 1960 to 16 per cent in 1973, increased slightly the next year or two, then continued its downward slide to just under 15 per cent.

Housing and medical care are two areas that the statistics service shows as increasing in relation to disposable income. Consumers now spend an average of 14.4 per cent on housing and 10 per cent on medical care, the latter up 7.4 per cent from 1975.

Soviet Farm "Rewards"

Following item is from "Agri-View", published by the Minnesota agricultural statistics service:

Here in the U.S., Americans rightly assume that farmers want to produce to the best of their ability and have access to the many inputs required to do so. That's not necessarily so in the Soviet Union where grower incentives are poor.

The Soviets recently enacted "Gosagroprom" — an all encompassing organization responsible for the entire agro-industrial sector of the USSR. For the new 5-year plan (1986-90), officials have targeted a 14-16% increase in gross ag output.

But there's some doubt whether the goal will ever be achieved because of problems of supplying farms with needed seed, fertilizer, and other inputs. Farmers were told they should be prepared to rely mainly on existing resources (Gosagroprom is the only holder of stocks of materials for the entire agro-industrial complex).

Recently, the Soviet Union announced that Gosagroprom will reward farms that overfill their quota of grain and pulse production. The bonus grants these farms the right to purchase additional trucks, tractors, and hard-to-find material — such as cement and lumber.

The announcement, however, came when harvest was already underway. However, it will help outstanding farms have access to equipment next year.

Soviet farms are divided geographically into groups according to cropping conditions. Group I farms (considered the Virgin Lands) may buy an extra Kamas-55102 truck for each 700 tons of grain produced over the quota. Group II farms (in the Black Soils and high-yielding areas) may buy the same truck for each 500 tons of grain. Group III farms (non-Black Soils and other marginal areas) are eligible with each 200 tons over the quota.

The program also announced a "sweepstakes" for ag sales to the state. The prizes include 2,000 cars and 3,000 buses. All prizes will be awarded early next year.

Ag losses are a big drain on the Russian economy. About 20-25% of farm output is lost between the point of production and the consumer.

Foreign Goods Follies

Reading the instructions or promotional material for foreign-produced goods marketed in the United States can frequently provide a good laugh. Things frequently get lost or added in the translation of languages.

One reporter wrote that it was "more than a little bit amusing to find a Christmas bear (made in Taiwan) that plays '16 of your favorite traditional Christmas songs,' including 'O Little Town in Birmingham'. That was one of the selections marked on the back of the box in which the cuddly critter was packaged."

The reporter then speculated on how other popular songs of the season could be updated to make them more timely. He suggested "O Come All Ye Frightful", a favorite of Vincent Price; "Shepherds Washed Their Frocks by Night," sponsored by the electric cooperatives to lower electric consumption during the day; "I Came Upon Some Mid-day Cheer", a song about the office Christmas party; "Here We Come A Carpooling", sponsored by Minnesota Rideshare; and "Winter Wanderland", a new tourism promotion.

"Then again," the reporter writes, "I think I liked the originals better!"

Delmar Hagen, Gatzke, on "Farming the Farm Programs"

During the year 1972, we sold wheat for $1.28 per bushel and we made a little money. We built a modern home and paid for it that year.

When wheat reached a peak of $6 a bushel in 1973, the Russians bought options on huge quantities of wheat at mostly under $2 per bushel. Later we put a very foolish embargo on the sale of wheat to Russia that we are still paying a price for.

But $6 wheat was the launching pad for the greatest spiral of inflation to come to this country. The price of everything was predicated on $6 wheat — the cost of cars, tractors and wages soon tripled in price. Farmers plowed up pastures and began fence line farming; $15 an acre land soon got up to $1,000 and interest rates got over 20 per cent. Everyone wanted to get a piece of the good farm life.

Expectations were very high along with poor planning. Professionals — business and politicians — all got in on the act with the liberal lending policy. It made it possible for anyone not even knowing anything about farming to get half million or a million dollar loans — some had deferred interest from three to five years — and then file for bankruptcy under Chapter 7, 11 and now 12.

I do not know of a single outside operator with a success story in this area. Some local Bonanza operators that are trying to farm the world on borrowed money do not have much to brag about either. In their greed they have wiped out many farmsteads and hardwood trees. Some of the land is not good farm land. They are now getting it in the 10-year reserve program at $44 an acre...farming the loopholes in another way.

The office at the Ag Center in Thief River Falls, where farmers are supposed to get sympathy and pity, should be closed down and the people that run it sent home. There are too many people serving as ag advisors who are failures at farming but are experts at bankruptcy laws. Bankruptcy is a fraud and a swindle on the taxpayers and should be stopped.

Steve Brant's story in the Tribune on the price of deferred lending policy has pretty well told the story. We have a farm welfare program in place that will make it possible for most farmers to hang on.

With the new and more liberal Congress, support for high farm prices may come but any farmer that needs $20 wheat to survive should look for another job!

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barth who celebrated their 42nd wedding anniversary recently sent me the following news item:

They are happy and proud to share the following (essay or poem) composed by their son, Staff Sgt. Glen Barth in honor of the occasion entitled "This Is A Family," a place of warmth when the world is cold. A place of safety when the world is hostile, a place with light when the world is dark. A family is love around the dinner table. Devotion walking to church together. Friendship laughing under the same roof. A family is mother singing in the kitchen, father whistling around the house, children playing in the yard. A family shares things like dreams, hopes possessions and memories. They share smiles and frowns and gladness. No person is ever alone who is a member of a family. A family is an attic filled with memories, a picture album filled with more memories. A family is the smile of a mother. The hearty laugh of a father. A boy who grows up without a father or mother has only half a childhood. Thank you so much for all the wonderful years. For be it not for you, it would never have been for me. Have a happy anniversary. Love your son, Staff Sgt. Glen A. Barth. Glen who has been stationed in the USA army was leaving December 20 for Germany to bring his wife and son state side.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

"Give me chastity and continence," Saint Augustine prayeed in the 5th century, "but not just now."

Few areas of the human experience are more complex than relations between the sexes, or less susceptible to rational analysis. Whether the expert is Saint Augustine or Sigmund Freud, Saint Paul or Dr. Ruth, the result is always the same — hopeless confusion.

And if people like that can't figure it out, how is some poor corporate executive supposed to do better? Most business people spend their waking hours contemplating market shares and productivity, not gender relations.

But the specter of sexual harassment lawsuits is forcing business to confront this most delicate of subjects. We live in an age when traditional sex roles are changing, and more and more women are entering the workforce. It is inevitable that sparks will fly, and that some people will be burned.

Without question, sexual harassment is anathema to employers. It is illegal and for good reason. People have a right to work without being hassled by unwelcome advances or coerced into situations they do not want. Also, such activities invariably disrupt morale and productivity.

But how is an employer supposed to distinquish between advances that are welcome and those that are not, or relationships that are consensual and those that are not? And when a situation is clearly hostile, how can an employer determine which party is at fault?

The sexual harassment issue is certainly not new, but it was brought to national attention by the Supreme Court's decision last June in "Meritor Savings Bank vs. Vinson." A lower court had ruled that the employer was responsible for sexual harassment in the workplace, whether or not the employer knew or reasonably should have known about it. The court ruled also that provocative dress and behavior by the complaining party was inadmissible evidence.

Fortunately, the Supreme Court refused to impose strict liability on employers, and said behavior of a harassed employee is clearly relevant.

Also, it did make clear that sexual harassment is a violation of law, and that employers bear an affirmitive responsibility to prevent it. In future cases, the court suggested it would consider whether an employer has a policy against sexual harassment, whether there is a viable complaint procedure for people who believe they are harassed and whether the complaining party used that procedure.

Thus, it is clear that all employers must take aggressive steps to prevent sexual harassment from occurring in the workplace, and set up a mechanism to enable employees who believe they are being harassed to seek remedial action.

But be careful! One company that tried to deter a liaison between two employees lost a suit for invasion of privacy.

Christmas Charity Giving Is Good, But Selectivity Required

During the holiday season, many charities solicit donations from a public which is willing, even anxious, to help the needy. On street corners, in shopping malls, by mail, on the telephone and over the airways, we are asked to give so that others may share in holiday good cheer.

While Americans respond with generous contributions to the pleas of hundreds of charities, few of us can give money to every charity which asks for it. The question is, how to determine which charity should receive our donations, notes the Minnesota attorney generals office.

The answer, of course, differs for each person. As a general rule, however, never give to a charity you know nothing about. Following are some ideas of what you can do to learn more about the charity asking for a donation:

+ Ask about the chairty's charitable purposes and don't be afraid to ask for specifics since many charities conduct fund raising drives to finance particular projects. Consider whether the programs and activities are ones you wish to finance.

+ Ask how much of your contributed dollar will be going to the organization's fund raising and management costs and how much is going to the charitable purpose. Beware of vague answers such as, "we only cover our expenses," or "we only spend 20 per cent on soliciting and administration. Eighty per cent goes to the charitable purpose." Many organizations will give you a financial statement if you ask for it.

Be fair in considering the organization's answers to your inquiries. Contrary to what many people believe, most organizations do have management and fund raising costs. A new organization or one with a less popular cause will have higher overhead costs than an organization that is well established. Only you can decide whether the costs are out of line.

+ Ask for a copy of the solicitation literature. Don't rely on information that you are allowed to look at but not to keep. You should know that documents showing incorporation of an organization as a nonprofit organization or registration with the State Department of Commerce do not imply endorsement by the State of Minnesota.

+ Ask for and keep a copy of materials that provide the name, address (something more than a post office box) and telephone number of the organization, as well as the name of the solicitor.

+ State law requires that a charitable organization tell you whether your donation is tax deductible. If you are not told this, ask. Status as a nonprofit organization or a tax-exempt organization does not necessarily mean that your donation will be tax deductible. If you receive something of value for your "donation," you may not have a tax deduction on the entire amount even if the charity is a tax-exempt organization and will use the entire amount for its charitable purpose. This situation is likely to occur if you give money and receive something of value such as a Christmas tree, a wreath, Christmas cards, or some similar item.

+ If possible, pay by check and avoid cash donations. Cash donations are difficult for the charity to control and are impossible to trace should a problem arise.

+ If the charity's solicitor is vague or applies high pressure, don't give. You can always take the name, address and telephone number of the organization and send it a check later.

+ Don't be fooled if the charity has a convincing or impressive name. Some organizations will have a name that closely resembles the name of a separate organization that may have a well established, respected reputation. Others may choose a name that reflects a charitable purpose which is the latest fad. Ask questions before you donate.

+ Don't give only because a "sob story." Some charities will play on your emotions. For this reason it is important to ask about the overall charitable purpose and the use to which the money will be put so that you don't get roped in by an overly emotional "pitch."

+ Ask if the charity is registered with the Minnesota Deaprtment of Commerce. While not all charities are required to register, the documents filed by those which are registered are public records which are available for your review. Also, the Charities Review Council of Minnesota, a non-governmental, independent agency will tell you if a particular charitable appeal meets their standards. Their telephone number is 1-800-328-6795, ext. 331.

Many fine charities depend on public support for their very existence. These organizations are usually happy to answer questions. Once you are satisfied that the charity and its purposes are worthwhile, give generously.

If you have general questions about charities' laws, contact the Attorney General's Charities Division, 340 Bremer Tower, 7th Place and Minnesota, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Bush Foundation Gives Grant To History Society

Bush foundation recently announced it will award the Minnesota Historical society a $150,000 grant over the next four years to purchase rare books, works of art, manuscripts and other items for the society's collections. This grant will enable the society to acquire items with great intrinsic value as evidence of Minnesota's past. The items will appear in exhibitions, be available for first-hand examination through the society's library reference program, and attract scholarly research — all for the purpose of telling the Minnesota story.

In recent years the Bush foundation has provided major financial support for the society's collections program. Examples of items acquired with Bush funds are a library-style end table made by the Minneapolis firm Purcell, Feick and Elmslie in 1912 for the Edward W. Decker residence on Lake Minnetonka; six sketches by artist-soldier Seth Eastman, who was commandant of Fort Snelling from 1840 to 1848; Guillaume Delisle's 1718 map of the Mississippi River valley, which was widely referred to as the chief authority for the Mississippi Valley for more than 50 years; and Samuel W. Pond's manuscript titled "The Dakotas of Minnesota, or, Recollections of the Dakotas of Minnesota as They Were in 1834," the earliest-known version of Pond's valuable ethnograph study, probably written between 1865 and 1875.

The current four-year Bush grant will assist the Minnesota Historical society to develop its collections, in preparation for a greatly expanded exhibitions program in the new Minnesota history center, which is planned for completion by 1990.

Alcohol Impaired Driving Costly For Employees

Off-the-job accidents and injuries are a costly problem for employers as well as employees, and the Minnesota safety council urges a cooperative effort to reduce alcohol-impaired driving.

A company policy statement on the dangers of alcohol-impaired driving is good business and should be supported by an employee assistance program to help problem drinkers. Special training is recommended for employees whose duties include driving. Accident avoidance courses that include alcohol education are available and should be provided for all employees if possible.

If a company has not taken a position on alcohol abuse, concerned employees should urge management to do so. If a program already exists, it deserves employee support and cooperation.

National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week, December 14 - 20, stresses that alcohol abuse affects paychecks for employees and profits and productivity for employers.

Tasting Bee Is Set February 13 At Winter Shows

Red River Valley winter shows will be offering a tasting bee on Friday, February 13, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the national guard armory.

Non-profit groups, such as service or study groups, youth and church groups and auxiliaries are welcome to participate in the food fair by selling a food item.

A small sample will be sold for 25 to 35 cents. Plan to have enough food on hand for the entire tasting bee (300 servings) and recipes should accompany each sample of food. Various categories which might be considered are: Appetizers or entrees such as egg rolls, chicken puffs, kabobs, meat balls or sandwiches; beverages including orange julius, frothy punch or milk shake; breads such as muffins, elephant ears, kringle or tea bread; wheat, sunshine salad or vegetable salads; chili, chowders or knefla soup; and cookies, bars, desserts, tarts or puddings.

There is a limited number of booths available with no food item being sold at more than one booth. Groups will provide the food (none will be prepared on site) and utensils needed with which to eat the food. Tables and electrical hook-ups will be provided. There is a $5 registration fee, payable to the Red River Valley winter shows.

Deadline for reserving a space is January 15 with earliest reservations being honored first. There are limited numbers of foods which are allowed to be sold in each category, so applicants may suggest an alternate category. Coffee will be sold by the winter shows.

Inquiries regarding the tasting bee may be made to Carol Schafer, RR 2, Box 122, Mahnomen, MN 56557, phone 218-935-5915.

Farmers' Food Dollar Share Drops To 25 Cents

American farmers in 1985 received only 25 cents out of each food dollar spent by the nation's consumers, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Thirty-four cents went to pay for the labor involved in processing, handling and distributing food after it left the farm and another 41 cents to pay other marketing costs.

Labor costs are taking an increasing share of food expenditures while the farm share is declining. Reasons for the spread include farm price trends, wage rates and employment in the food industries and changing habits in food consumption.

Of the $344 billion spent on U.S. farm foods last year, the farmers received $87 billion for the original food products. To pay the wages, salaries, tips and benefits of workers in the food marketing system required $117 billion. The remaining $140 billion (41 per cent of total expenditures) covered other marketing expenses such as costs of packaging materials, transportation, fuel, electricity, advertising, property taxes and insurance. Included in this was $17 billion in corporate profits — before taxes — to food processors, wholesalers and retailers.

These "other marketing expenses" have stayed in a narrow range of 37 to 41 per cent since 1975, but labor costs and farm value have shown distinct trends in opposite directions.

In 1975, 33 per cent of food expenditures went to farmers and 29 per cent to labor. By 1980, however, they had pulled even at 31 per cent each. In the next five years, the farm value share dropped six percentage points while labor gained three points.

In dollar terms, the amount of money going back to farmers increased by about 55 per cent between 1975 and 1985. At the same time, however, total food spending more than doubled from $167 billion to $344 billion and the labor bill shot upward by 142 per cent. The bill for farmers' production didn't keep pace. Heavy supplies and steady to weak farm prices held down increases in the food dollars going to farmers.

In contrast, wages and benefits for food industry employees rose steadily and rapidly, the statistics service notes. Higher labor costs usually were passed on to consumers, boosting the food bill and increasing labor's share of it.

Consumer trends have a lot to do with the way the food dollar is divided, the statistics service adds. One effect is that the food industry has added more workers, particularly in food distribution. That reflects strong expansion in the fast food and restaurant sectors as well as supermarkets. Many supermarkets have had to extend their hours, increase checkout counters and add specialized sections (such as bakeries and delicatessens) to keep up with competition.

The food that consumers buy for

Ader Phelps Aspires To Helicopter Pilot Career

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Ader Phelps said that watching "Air Wolf" on television gave her the inspiration to seek a career as a helicopter pilot. She recognizes that the life isn't the glamorous style of the TV heroes, but she isn't letting anything like that spoil her dream. She is going for her goal through the Thief River Falls AVTI aviation mechanics program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Phelps of rural Thief River Falls, Ader is considered to be a "non-traditional" student. Not only is she several years out of high school — she graduated from Lincoln in 1980 — she is also studying in a field which has traditionally been dominated by males. She is presently one of only two females among nearly 140 students enrolled in the program at the Thief River Falls regional airport.

The other female student, Lois Kinnunen of Embarrass, is Ader's roommate and started the program in July. Ader herself enrolled in the program in January of 1985. She took six months off for her second daughter — Madeline, 10 months — and will be qualifying for her airframe certificate in January and powerplant certificate in June of 1987. Her first daughter, Elizabeth, is not four years old.

At first extremely self-conscious about being the only female in the male dominated program, Ader said she has adjusted her thinking and believes many of the male students have changed theirs as well. "I'm the same as the rest of these guys," she said. "We all have to do the work and I expect to do anything the other students will do. They don't give me any more of a hard time than they give each other."

She said she believes there are many opportunities in the aviation field and that a trained person can have a variety of occupations. They range from working for an airline, the Federal Aviation administration or in an inspection role to being a pilot or operating your own shop. For

TRF Advised To Clean Up Its Water Supply

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Exceeding state maximum allowable limits for turbidity is becoming more of a concern among members of the city council in Thief River Falls. The Minnesota department of health and the federal Environmental agency (EPA) are putting pressure on Thief River Falls to clean up its water before the city doesn't have a choice.

Allen Lamm, supervisor of the city water department, said turbidity or the amount of suspended particles in the water supply has been an infrequent problem in Thief River Falls for a number of years. Thief River Falls has done several things to rectify the problem, but now the city must do something more to satisfy state and federal agencies that it is acting to come into compliance with regulations.

As Lamm sees it, the city has two choices — it can be taken to court, in which case it would eventually be forced to comply; or, it can enter into a compliance agreement with the Minnesota department of health. This view is also shared by the city council which voted to proceed with a compliance agreement at a meeting last Tuesday night.

According to a public notice which appears in the Times whenever the state maximum allowable limit for turbidity is exceeded, "Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if is interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level has not created any health hazards because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection."

Lamm assures the public that the water is safe to drink. He said turbidity is not actrually considered a pollutant. However, the concern is that it can interfere with the disinfection process. Standard tests are systematically conducted on water samples to determine the levels of bacteria all the time. Thief River Falls has not had a disinfection problem, Lamm said, which seems to demonstrate that just because the level of turbidity is over the recommended allowance does not mean the water is unsafe. Lamm added that Thief River Falls has not had a problem with disinfection even in times of heavy runoff, like in the Spring.

Christmas Eve Dinner Planned Again This Year

Opportunity for involvement in the annual community Christmas eve dinner exists in Thief River Falls, for volunteer service as providers as well as those who would like to attend, according to Lon Gobell who is handling arrangements.

The dinner will be served on Christmas eve at Lon's Restaurant and is free of charge to anyone who does not have family available and wants to spend Christmas eve with others. The dinner has been served for a number of years with good attendance each year.

Gobell said that donations of cookies, bars, lefse, pickles and relishes as well as frozen uncooked turkey will be welcomed until Monday, December 22. Volunteers will also be needed to serve the dinner on December 24 and cash contributions are welcomed to purchase food items for the event.

Anyone who can help in any way is encouraged to contact Gobell at Lon's, phone 681-3138.

Aune Sentenced To 13 Months In State Correctional Center

Gaylene Arlys Aune was sentenced to 13 months in the state correctional facility for women at Shakopee and ordered to make restitution of $37,650 stolen from the Pennington county social services department by Judge Warren A. Saetre in Pennington county district court this morning.

Aune had entered a plea of guilty November 17 to two counts of theft by swindle and had been released on her own recognizance pending a pre-sentence investigation. She did not contest the allegation that she had stolen the funds, primarily by issuance of checks to a deceased client for whom she had previously been a guardian.

The counts charged in the case involved felony theft of over $2,500 in the months of June and September, 1986. Aune had worked for the county social services department for six years and had been named guardian for the client in 1985. The client died in 1985.

Judge Saetre said he was departing from the sentencing guidelines because the theft involved a major economic loss, was committed over a period of time by a series of acts, required a certain degree of planning to cover up the crime and used a position of trust and confidence in gaining access to the money.

He sentenced her to the 13-month term on the second count and to a similar concurrent term on the first count. The judge agreed with the public defender that the opportunity to commit the crime due to welfare office procedures may have been partly to blame for the amount taken. "But I can't excuse you, Miss Aune," he said, "because you committed the crime."

He also speculated that changes would be made in the welfare department to prevent recurrence of such activity.

County attorney David Olin had recommended the departure from sentencing guidelines since the case met many of the provisions for departure.

Public defender Dennis Murphy noted that while on release following her guilty plea, Miss Aune had secured two jobs in the Twin Cities, one at $6 per hour and a second at $4.50 per hour and that she would be making restitution if the court permitted her to take those jobs. He said that if the court determined imprisonment to be necessary that she would opt to be sent to Shakopee correctional facility.

Murphy blamed poor management and negligence in the welfare department for permitting the theft to reach the scale admitted. "Anyone who runs this type of system is at least culpable," he said. "We would disagree that this is all her fault." He also said that if the defendant served the time she should be freed of restitution.

In issuing the sentence and ordering the court administrator to issue an order of commitment to the Shakopee correctional center, Judge Saetre also told the defendant that the responsibility for restitution will remain. The judge did not specify when the sentence will begin to be served.

Maximum penalty for the crime is 10 years in prison, a $20,000 fine, or both fine and imprisonment.

TRF School Board To Meet Early At Service Center

Thief River Falls board of education will meet tonight at 5 p.m. in the board room of the school district service center. The meeting has been moved to the earlier hour to permit board members to attend an MSBA meeting later in the evening.

The board will consider calling for bids on two 71-passenger buses and two 10-passenger vans, review assumptions made for preparing the 1987-1988 budget, act on the preliminary AVTI revenue budget of $4,906,024 and expenditure budget of $4,907,449 preliminary request, and handle several personnel matters.

Greg [illegible] who will be leaving the board after six and one half years of service will be presented with a service award by the district.

Christmas Charity Giving Is Good, But Selectivity Required

During the holiday season, many charities solicit donations from a public which is willing, even anxious, to help the needy. On street corners, in shopping malls, by mail, on the telephone and over the airways, we are asked to give so that others may share in holiday good cheer.

While Americans respond with generous contributions to the pleas of hundreds of charities, few of us can give money to every charity which asks for it. The question is, how to determine which charity should receive our donations, notes the Minnesota attorney generals office.

The answer, of course, differs for each person. As a general rule, however, never give to a charity you know nothing about. Following are some ideas of what you can do to learn more about the charity asking for a donation:

+ Ask about the chairty's charitable purposes and don't be afraid to ask for specifics since many charities conduct fund raising drives to finance particular projects. Consider whether the programs and activities are ones you wish to finance.

+ Ask how much of your contributed dollar will be going to the organization's fund raising and management costs and how much is going to the charitable purpose. Beware of vague answers such as, "we only cover our expenses," or "we only spend 20 per cent on soliciting and administration. Eighty per cent goes to the charitable purpose." Many organizations will give you a financial statement if you ask for it.

Be fair in considering the organization's answers to your inquiries. Contrary to what many people believe, most organizations do have management and fund raising costs. A new organization or one with a less popular cause will have higher overhead costs than an organization that is well established. Only you can decide whether the costs are out of line.

+ Ask for a copy of the solicitation literature. Don't rely on information that you are allowed to look at but not to keep. You should know that documents showing incorporation of an organization as a nonprofit organization or registration with the State Department of Commerce do not imply endorsement by the State of Minnesota.

+ Ask for and keep a copy of materials that provide the name, address (something more than a post office box) and telephone number of the organization, as well as the name of the solicitor.

+ State law requires that a charitable organization tell you whether your donation is tax deductible. If you are not told this, ask. Status as a nonprofit organization or a tax-exempt organization does not necessarily mean that your donation will be tax-deductible. If you receive something of value for your "donation," you may not have a tax deduction on the entire amount even if the charity is a tax-exempt organization and will use the entire amount for its charitable purpose. This situation is likely to occur if you give money and receive something of value such as a Christmas tree, a wreath, Christmas cards, or some similar item.

+ If possible, pay by check and avoid cash donations. Cash donations are difficult for the charity to control and are impossible to trace should a problem arise.

+ If the charity's solicitor is vague or applies high pressure, don't give. You can always take the name, address and telephone number of the organization and send it a check later.

+ Don't be fooled if the charity has a convincing or impressive name. Some organizations will have a name that closely resembles the name of a separate organization that may have a well established, respected reputation. Others may choose a name that reflects a charitable purpose which is the latest fad. Ask questions before you donate.

+ Don't give only because a "sob story." Some charities will play on your emotions. For this reason it is important to ask about the overall charitable purpose and the use to which the money will be put so that you don't get roped in by an overly emotional "pitch."

+ Ask if the charity is registered with the Minnesota Deaprtment of Commerce. While not all charities are required to register, the documents filed by those which are registered are public records which are available for your review. Also, the Charities Review Council of Minnesota, a non-governmental, independent agency will tell you if a particular charitable appeal meets their standards. Their telephone number is 1-800-328-6795, ext. 331.

Many fine charities depend on public support for their very existence. These organizations are usually happy to answer questions. Once you are satisfied that the charity and its purposes are worthwhile, give generously.

If you have general questions about charities' laws, contact the Attorney General's Charities Division, 340 Bremer Tower, 7th Place and Minnesota, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Bush Foundation Gives Grant To History Society

Bush foundation recently announced it will award the Minnesota Historical society a $150,000 grant over the next four years to purchase rare books, works of art, manuscripts and other items for the society's collections. This grant will enable the society to acquire items with great intrinsic value as evidence of Minnesota's past. The items will appear in exhibitions, be available for first-hand examination through the society's library reference program, and attract scholarly research — all for the purpose of telling the Minnesota story.

In recent years the Bush foundation has provided major financial support for the society's collections program. Examples of items acquired with Bush funds are a library-style end table made by the Minneapolis firm Purcell, Feick and Elmslie in 1912 for the Edward W. Decker residence on Lake Minnetonka; six sketches by artist-soldier Seth Eastman, who was commandant of Fort Snelling from 1840 to 1848; Guillaume Delisle's 1718 map of the Mississippi River valley, which was widely referred to as the chief authority for the Mississippi Valley for more than 50 years; and Samuel W. Pond's manuscript titled "The Dakotas of Minnesota, or, Recollections of the Dakotas of Minnesota as They Were in 1834," the earliest-known version of Pond's valuable ethnograph study, probably written between 1865 and 1875.

The current four-year Bush grant will assist the Minnesota Historical society to develop its collections, in preparation for a greatly expanded exhibitions program in the new Minnesota history center, which is planned for completion by 1990.

Alcohol Impaired Driving Costly For Employees

Off-the-job accidents and injuries are a costly problem for employers as well as employees, and the Minnesota safety council urges a cooperative effort to reduce alcohol-impaired driving.

A company policy statement on the dangers of alcohol-impaired driving is good business and should be supported by an employee assistance program to help problem drinkers. Special training is recommended for employees whose duties include driving. Accident avoidance courses that include alcohol education are available and should be provided for all employees if possible.

If a company has not taken a position on alcohol abuse, concerned employees should urge management to do so. If a program already exists, it deserves employee support and cooperation.

National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week, December 14 - 20, stresses that alcohol abuse affects paychecks for employees and profits and productivity for employers.

Tasting Bee Is Set February 13 At Winter Shows

Red River Valley winter shows will be offering a tasting bee on Friday, February 13, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the national guard armory.

Non-profit groups, such as service or study groups, youth and church groups and auxiliaries are welcome to participate in the food fair by selling a food item.

A small sample will be sold for 25 to 35 cents. Plan to have enough food on hand for the entire tasting bee (300 servings) and recipes should accompany each sample of food. Various categories which might be considered are: Appetizers or entrees such as egg rolls, chicken puffs, kabobs, meat balls or sandwiches; beverages including orange julius, frothy punch or milk shake; breads such as muffins, elephant ears, kringle or tea bread; wheat, sunshine salad or vegetable salads; chili, chowders or knefla soup; and cookies, bars, desserts, tarts or puddings.

There is a limited number of booths available with no food item being sold at more than one booth. Groups will provide the food (none will be prepared on site) and utensils needed with which to eat the food. Tables and electrical hook-ups will be provided. There is a $5 registration fee, payable to the Red River Valley winter shows.

Deadline for reserving a space is January 15 with earliest reservations being honored first. There are limited numbers of foods which are allowed to be sold in each category, so applicants may suggest an alternate category. Coffee will be sold by the winter shows.

Inquiries regarding the tasting bee may be made to Carol Schafer, RR 2, Box 122, Mahnomen, MN 56557, phone 218-935-5915.

Farmers' Food Dollar Share Drops To 25 Cents

American farmers in 1985 received only 25 cents out of each food dollar spent by the nation's consumers, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Thirty-four cents went to pay for the labor involved in processing, handling and distributing food after it left the farm and another 41 cents to pay other marketing costs.

Labor costs are taking an increasing share of food expenditures while the farm share is declining. Reasons for the spread include farm price trends, wage rates and employment in the food industries and changing habits in food consumption.

Of the $344 billion spent on U.S. farm foods last year, the farmers received $87 billion for the original food products. To pay the wages, salaries, tips and benefits of workers in the food marketing system required $117 billion. The remaining $140 billion (41 per cent of total expenditures) covered other marketing expenses such as costs of packaging materials, transportation, fuel, electricity, advertising, property taxes and insurance. Included in this was $17 billion in corporate profits — before taxes — to food processors, wholesalers and retailers.

These "other marketing expenses" have stayed in a narrow range of 37 to 41 per cent since 1975, but labor costs and farm value have shown distinct trends in opposite directions.

In 1975, 33 per cent of food expenditures went to farmers and 29 per cent to labor. By 1980, however, they had pulled even at 31 per cent each. In the next five years, the farm value share dropped six percentage points while labor gained three points.

In dollar terms, the amount of money going back to farmers increased by about 55 per cent between 1975 and 1985. At the same time, however, total food spending more than doubled from $167 billion to $344 billion and the labor bill shot upward by 142 per cent. The bill for farmers' production didn't keep pace. Heavy supplies and steady to weak farm prices held down increases in the food dollars going to farmers.

In contrast, wages and benefits for food industry employees rose steadily and rapidly, the statistics service notes. Higher labor costs usually were passed on to consumers, boosting the food bill and increasing labor's share of it.

Consumer trends have a lot to do with the way the food dollar is divided, the statistics service adds. One effect is that the food industry has added more workers, particularly in food distribution. That reflects strong expansion in the fast food and restaurant sectors as well as supermarkets. Many supermarkets have had to extend their hours, increase checkout counters and add specialized sections (such as bakeries and delicatessens) to keep up with competition.

The food that consumers buy for

Ader Phelps Aspires To Helicopter Pilot Career

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Ader Phelps said that watching "Air Wolf" on television gave her the inspiration to seek a career as a helicopter pilot. She recognizes the life isn't the glamorous style of the TV heroes, but she isn't letting anything like that spoil her dream. She is going for her goal through the Thief River Falls AVTI aviation mechanics program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Phelps of rural Thief River Falls, Ader is considered to be a "non-traditional" student. Not only is she several years out of high school — she graduated from Lincoln in 1980 — she is also studying in a field which has traditionally been dominated by males. She is presently one of only two females among nearly 140 students enrolled in the program at the Thief River Falls regional airport.

The other female student, Lois Kinnunen of Embarrass, is Ader's roommate and started the program in July. Ader herself enrolled in the program in January of 1985. She took six months off for her second daughter — Madeline, 10 months — and will be qualifying for her airframe certificate in January and powerplant certificate in June of 1987. Her first daughter, Elizabeth, is not four years old.

At first extremely self-conscious about being the only female in the male dominated program, Ader said she has adjusted her thinking and believes many of the male students have changed theirs as well. "I'm the same as the rest of these guys," she said. "We all have to do the work and I expect to do anything the other students will do. They don't give me any more of a hard time than they give each other."

She said she believes there are many opportunities in the aviation field and that a trained person can have a variety of occupations. They range from working for an airline, the Federal Aviation administration or in an inspection role to being a pilot or operating your own shop. For

Valley Home News Includes Welcoming Of 13 New Residents

Thirteen new residents were welcomed to Valley Home in November. They were Mabel Curtiss, Raymond Beaucage, Emma Hetland, Donald Horien, Ethel Anderson, Hattie Melin, Henry Melin, Signe Svean, Carl Svean, Alice Engevik, Mabel Norman, Theodore Cuppett and Laurence Lindholm.

Eight residents celebrated their birthdays during the month and the community birthday party was held November 21. Those honored were Hilda Johnson, whose birthday is November 4; Ellen Wralstad, November 5; Ella Overum, November 13; Mathilda Berget, November 19; Tillie Simonson, November 22; Walfred Larson, November 25; Mary Welch, November 27; and Tilda Uggerud, November 29. Rev. Arthur Ortmann of Warroad showed a film on Thanksgiving for the event, and those celebrating their birthdays were seated at a special table to enjoy the luncheon of chocolate dessert. They each received a card and gift from the home and cards from St. Bernard's Catholic Daughters.

For respective birthdays Hilda Johnson served cake and ice cream to friends, relatives, residents and staff; Ella Overum served ice cream and cookies; Mathilda Berget served birthday cake; and Walfred Larson served cake and ice cream to everyone, including several guests. Mary Welch served maple nut ice cream and cake and Tilda Uggerud served dixie cups and cake.

November 26, CAP students, Julie Sevre, Georgette Anderson, Christy Mueller and Dena Froschheiser, presented a Thanksgiving program. The band played several songs and Christy Mueller read the Thanksgiving story. Axel Toft won the turkey contest.

Treats during the month were a variety of muffins provided by St. Bernard's guild and ladies from Our Saviour's Lutheran church. On Thanksgiving day a turkey dinner with all the trimmings was served to residents who chose to stay at the home. Many spent the holiday with friends and relatives.

During the month many residents voted at Skylite apartments and by absentee ballot; purchased their Christmas cards early from Bethany bookstore, who came to the home; enjoyed a special luncheon of lefse with shop and craft workers; attended the council meeting with Jane Crocker and Jane Burke as guests; and enjoyed shopping trips to K-Mart and Pamida, and stopping for coffee at McDonald's.

Entertainment during the month was provided by the Silvertones from Zion Lutheran church; Ada Smerek of Grygla, who brought piano students to give a recital; Andy Roskus of Grand Rapids with his accordion; Pauline Walker, Oklee, who played the piano; and slides shown by Mr. and Mrs. Art Grimstad.

Church services were presented by Lester Brekke, Rev. Ollie Urdahl, Rev. Sheldon Torenson of Evangelical Free church, Rev. Luther Anderson of Redeemer and Black River Lutheran churches, Rev. and Mrs. Les Galland, James and John, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Brodin and grandson, Jennings Jensen, Larry Myhrer and family, and Harvey Dyrud.

Bible study was led by Judith Wold, Alice Hanson and Art Grimstad of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, Dean Paskewitz and Don Johnson led services, as did Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Troehmann and Norris Troehmann, Rev. Burton Hushagen of Abundant Life church, and Rev. Dave Super, Rev. Stan Bourassa and Sr. Doreen of St. Bernard's Catholic church.

November 9, everyone was saddened to hear of the death of Lester Brekke. Memorial services were held November 12 at the home, with Rev. Burton Hushagen officiating. Deloris Berg was organist, and Naomi Rolf, secretary at the home, sang two solos and played the harp. Funeral services were held November 14 at 2 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Brethren church with Rev. Floyd Dalzell officiating.

The Valley Home Christmas program will be at 7:30 p.m. December 30 in the center at the home.

Bonnie Archibald To Wed Brian Stanley Dec. 20

Violet Holland of Greybull, MT, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stanley of Grygla, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Bonnie Sue Gladys Archibald and Brian Marshall Stanley, both of Grygla.

No invitations have been sent for the wedding and everyone is welcome to attend the ceremony at Grace Lutheran church in Grygla December 20 at 5 p.m. Reception at the church and dance at the Steak Knife in Grygla will follow.

Robin Myhre - James Deakins Wed October 25 In Plummer

Robin Myhre and James Deakins were married October 25 at Immanuel Lutheran church in Plummer. Rev. Lane Zaffke officiated at the 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Myhre of Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deakins of Park Rapids.

Anita Carlson, friend of the bride, served as organist, and Beth Wright, cousin of the bride, was pianist, playing "Bridal Chorus" as processional. Charlene Myhre, aunt of the bride, sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Song." The bride's cousin, Karen Seeger, sang "God, A Woman and A Man" and gave a reading of "The Wedding Prayer" accompanied on the piano by Beth Wright. Beth also sang and played "Nobody Loves Me Like You Do."

The church was decorated in candelbra with burgundy, pink and white flowers and burgundy bows gracing the pews.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace with a high neck and long sleeves. Her bridal hat was trimmed in lace with a flowing fingertip veil and she carried a cascading bouquet of burgundy tiger lilies and mauve and white roses with white satin ribbon streamers. Her personal attendant was Mary Westlake.

Maid of honor was Connie Willett of Plummer, friend of the bride. Wendy Myhre was her sister's bridesmaid. They wore identical burgundy floor-length gowns and carried brandy snifters decorated with burgundy and white flowers holding lighted burgundy candles. To compliment their gowns, they wore wrist corsages and matching hair combs, and their gifts from the bride, golden chains.

The groom was attired in white tails with matching bow tie and cummberbund, and wore a burgundy boutonniere. Dan Lachmiller, Park Rapids, friend of the groom, was best man. The groom's brother, Doug Deakins, was groomsman.

Ushers were Dave Deakins, brother of the groom; Darin Myhre, cousin of the bridy; and Gordon Jensen, friend of the couple. Gentlemen of the wedding party wore charcoal grey tuxedos and mauve boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a teal silk gown and the mother of the groom wore blue. They were presented with corsages of mauve and pink roses.

Guest of honor was the bride's grandmother, Dorothy Myhre.

All flowers featured sparkling babies' breath and ribbon and were designed by Karen Fossell.

Sabrina Myhre, Stacy Michalski and Annie Seeger, all cousins of the bride, distributed wedding programs to the guests.

A reception was held in the church parlors by the parents of the bride after the ceremony. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Larson, godparents of the bride. The white, four-tiered wedding cake was baked and decorated by Edna Hyde. It featured a flowing fountain and burgundy and white decorations.

Audrey Carpenter, aunt of the bride from Aurora, and Helmi Becker, Park Rapids, aunt of the groom, served the wedding cake; and Marie Seeger and Barb Myhre, aunts of the bride, poured.

Punch was served by Sheila Gerardy and Shawna Bargmann, friends of the bride; Jody Pahlen, friend, presided at the guest book; and Sara Seeger, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the gifts. Waitresses were Tammy and Stacy Myhre, cousins of the bride, and Steph Gagner, friend.

The couple is at home in Sloan, IA, where the groom is employed at Sioux City Airport as an airframe and power plant mechanic. The bride is a 1984 graduate of Pershing high school and a graduate of the Thief River Falls AVTI LPN nursing program. The groom is a 1983 graduate of Park Rapids high school and of the Thief River Falls AVTI aviation mechanics program.

CANDY-COATED NUTS

1½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup dairy sour cream
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
3 cups nuts — walnuts or pecans, halved or whole almonds or combination of all

Cover a 10 x 15 inch pan with waxed paper.

Combine sugar and sour cream in 2-quart saucepan. Cook, stirring over medium heat until sugar is dissolved. Position candy thermometer so that sensor is well into candy mixture. Continue cooking, without stirring, until mixture reaches soft-ball stage, 234 to 240 degrees. Stay nearby, because temperature rises rapidly once it reaches 220.

The minute soft-ball stage is reached, remove pan from heat. Working quickly, stir in vanilla and nuts. Stir just until mixture looks candy. Turn candy out onto waxed paper and separate the nuts, using two forks. Makes 3 cups.

The INSIDE SCOOP

by GAYLE BORCHERT

The student senate at Lincoln high school has been very busy planning activities that will include everyone. One activity is a survey asking students what they felt some of the problems at the school were and what could be done to change them. The results of this survey are being put together and will be available in a few weeks. The student senate and pride committee has also finished planning the first annual Christmas dance. It will be a semi-formal dance and all Lincoln high students are welcome. Dates are not required. In an attempt to help out the local food shelf, every person who brings a canned food item to the dance will receive .50 cents of the price of admission. The student senate also purchased the school Christmas tree. It is a white flocked tree, decorated with red bows and satin ornaments. It sits by the windows in the cafeteria. The windows in the cafeteria were also sprayed with snow to spell out Merry Christmas.

The advertising for the Christmas choir concert took on a festive air last week. The glassed in trophy case was decorated with flashing Christmas lights.

The Lincoln choir will be taping their choir concert on Monday, December 15 at Lincoln. This tape will be braodcast on WDAZ channel 8 at 3 p.m. December 23.

The custodians at Lincoln high school received their new uniforms. They look very nice and have a patch on the sleeve.

Students and staff alike will enjoy their Christmas vacation. For all of the athletes involved it will be a busy vacation. Both the boys and girl's basketball teams will be participating in Christmas tournaments. The boy's swim teams will host the Prowler relays over vacation.

Activities for all of Christmas Vacation

December 16 — Boys varsity hockey vs. Grand Forks Red River; 9th grade boys basketball vs. Crookston (home).

December 18 — Girl's basketball tournament in Warren; 9th grade boys basketball at East Grand Forks.

December 19 — Girls basketball tournament in Warren.

December 20 — Girls basketball tournament in Warren.

December 23 — Hockey at Bemidji; boys basketball tournament in TRF.

December 24 & 25 — Merry Christmas.

December 26 — Boys basketball tournament in TRF.

December 27 — Hockey at Baudette; boys basketball tournament in TRF.

December 30 — Boys swim team at the Brainerd Invitational; hockey at Fergus Falls.

January 3 — Hockey vs. Roseau (home); boys basketball at Bemidji; 9th grade boys basketball at Bemidji.

FRIENDSHIP CLUB held its Christmas party Wednesday in the basement of the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls. The 30 or so members in the club include people returning from the state hospital in Fergus Falls and also clients at the Occupational Development Center in Thief River Falls. The club meets on a regular basis twice each month. It is sponsored by United Way, Pennington county social services and a variety of clubs in the community. Wednesday, Abundant Life Fellowship served the luncheon. Some of the individuals actively involved in promoting the Friendship club include Val Chommie, Inga Shetler, Gelene Peltier, Pat Markstrom and Clarice Collins.

Spring and Fall runoff is of special concern because it usually carries more dirt, pollutants, disinfectants, pesticides and a variety of other substances with it to the river. Surface water, as compared to ground water, has a higher standard for turbidity, because it usually carries more pollutanta with it.

Lamm concedes that the higher the turbidity level, the higher the health risk. The current turbidity problem is attributed to a carryover of calcium-carbonate, which is part of the hardness in the water. These particles are of concern because they may act as a shield against the disinfection process.

Alderman Kenneth Murphy, chairman of the utilities committee, said at the last council meeting that the public should not be afraid to use the water. "It is completely safe," he said. But the fact that there is a problem may have serious implications for the city's financial situation.

The cost involved in bringing Thief River Falls into compliance could be staggering. In 1983 phase 1 of a two phase plan to update the water treatment plant in Thief River Falls was completed. The $680,000 phase included changes and modifications to instrumentation controlling the flow of water through filters, the recarbonation and flocculation basin (to cause particles to aggregate), the replacement of troughs and filter piping and the addition of more charcoal to the filter process.

Improvements in the levels of turbidity were seen, Lamm said, but not enough to bring the levels of turbidity below recommendations. The problem is that improvements in technology and advances in research have outstripped the original and estimated capabilities of the water plant which was built around 1951.

Reaching acceptable levels may become a more difficult task to attain if proposed changes in standards are adopted. The present standard is one NTU or Nephelometric unit, which has to do with the surface area of the water. The proposed operational level is .5. Most of the readings for Thief River Falls average above one and are not about to change overnight.

Phase two could put turbidity levels in the acceptance range of EPA standards, but cost the city over $2 million (1982 estimate) and take anywhere from three to 10 years depending on when the plans are completed, land purchase made and financing arranged.

Phase two involves the construction of a large addition to the current plant located on Pennington avenue. A new pre-sedimentation base for taste, color and odor would be built along with two new primary softening units, and a new recarbonation basin. Lamm said more or less could be added to the project depending upon current research, updated standards and-or design limitations.

Lamm explained that turbidity is an infrequent problem in Thief River Falls because the water plant has exceeded its capabilities. The water treatment plant in Thief River Falls went on line around 1951. At that time it was "state of the art." But many advances have outmoded the plant. Research and higher standards as well as run-off from fields are among the many factors contributing to the turbidity level at the plant. The addition of many previously unfarmed acres, methods of farming including the addition of many new herbicides and pesticides have made it more difficult for the plant.

In 1982 when the city was looking for options to building a large addition to the water treatment plant, the city looked at ground water as a possible supply. Surface water, which is used by Thief River Falls, often has higher bacterial and viral problems as well as a higher amount of suspended solids in the water.

Ground water has a definite advantage, but the closest well large enough to supply the city of Thief River Falls is 12 miles away. At a cost of $150,000 per mile to move the water from its location to Thief River Falls (1982 estimates) building the water plant addition became more acceptable. Lamm said that even if they decided to go with ground water addititons to the water plant would have to be made. He also said that with more and more contaminated wells being found, tougher restrictions are just a matter of time in coming.

Lamm and the city council are hopeful that a compliance agreement will give them time to come up with enough funds to pay for the phase two project. They also hope that the concern over the water turbidity level in Thief River Falls will push them up on priority lists for grants and assistance, but they do not foresee any easy answers or the problem to go away overnight.

the home is quicker and easier to prepare. More labor is required for convenience foods so more "value" is added to food items between the farm and the consumer.

Americans now spend 43 per cent of their food dollars away from home compared to 36 per cent 10 years ago. That means more labor in the restaurant and fast food business. In 1975 there were eight million people employed in food processing and distribution. By 1985 that number had climbed to 11 million.

Phelps Aspires To Career As Helicopter Pilot

Ader, the goal is becoming a pilot with helicopters as a first love.

"A helicopter gives you more to do than when you're flying a plane," Phelps said. "I think the mechanical knowledge you get in this program is a good idea for pilots, although it maybe isn't necessary. Most of the students here would like to become pilots. I think having the mechanical knowledge helps your confidence. I know someone who knows about the mechanics of a plane should be able to give a much better pre-flight check."

If all goes as she hopes it will, Ader will complete the airframe and powerplant program and attend flight school here. She will then move to the Twin Cities area where she believes she can work and get the flight time and training needed for becoming a helicopter pilot. Flight time is more than double that for fixed wing aircraft, she said, and she expects it will cost her a minimum of $6,000 to learn to fly the whirlybirds.

Ader said she has always been somewhat interested in mechanical things. She helped her dad repair cars and worked on plumbing and other repair work around the house. She took hydraulics and auto body programs while in high school and in 1981 attended the East Grand Forks AVTI where she completed the parts service course.

She said she will put in 56 hours on helicopter repair and maintenance in the program at the AVTI here. A chart on the wall of the instructional building lists the hours required for completing various programs — 205 hours for basic electricity, 200 hours for advanced electricity, 115 hours for landing gear, 49 hours for sheet-metal, 13 hours for non-electrical instruments, 165 hours for engine cooling and reciprocating engines....and the list goes on.

But Ader says she isn't intimidated by the instructional schedule. "We have to learn an area before we can move on to another," she said. "The instructors are really good and they give you a lot of help. I think anyone who completes this program is really well prepared for the world of work."

As a mother of two daughters who are pre-schoolers, Ader is helped by the fact that her mother lives next door and serves as a babysitter. She noted that child care assistance is available through the AVTI and provides 50 cents per hour for six hours a day.

Ader is one of six Phelps children. Frances Moen lives at Clearbrook; Gary lives in Grand Forks, ND, and works for American Crystal sugar company in East Grand Forks; Mrs. Larry (Debbie) Mogen lives at St. Hilaire; Dan lives at home and works at Appliance and TV Showcase; and Lisa is a student at Lincoln high school.

"Attending the aviation program is an experience I'll never forget," she said. "I would encourage any lady who wants to work on aircraft to come on out."

Although she has heard that it may be easier to find work because she is female and some airlines and other employers have employment quotas, she doesn't think too highly of the special consideration.

"If they're not going to hire me because they believe I can do the job, forget it!" she said. "When I'm done with the program here I'll be just as ready for a job as the next guy — and I'll be able to do it, too."

Watch out, Air Wolf, Ader Phelps is coming after you.

Grain Drive For Kyle Arveson Is Success Friday

Grain drive for Kyle Arveson, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Arveson of Trail who has received a liver transplant, was considered a successful venture Friday although not a lot of grain was collected.

"We didn't collect much grain, partly because of the cold weather and partly because farmers in the Oklee and Gully area didn't have much grain on hand," stated Gordon Henrickson, who helped arrange the drive. "But the cash contributions were very good and showed that people care and are willing to respond when there is a need."

Collection points had been arranged in Goodridge and at Nazareth Lutheran church southwest of the Neptune bridge in southeastern Pennington county.

Another fund-raiser for the Arveson family is a chili feed to be sponsored by Branches 6195 and 1695 of Aid Association for Lutherans from 4:30 to 8 p.m. Friday at the Goodridge school. Funds raised at the event will be matched dollar for dollar by the AAL branches.

Persons wishing more information or to donate funds may contact Clarence Peters, Route 1, Goodridge, MN 56725 or call him at 378-4356. Checks should be made payable to AAL Branch 6195 and marked for the Kyle Arveson fund.

Deaths And Funerals

David LeBlanc, 76

Crookston — David J. LeBlanc, 76, of Crookston, died early Thursday at Riverview hospital in Crookston. Funeral services for David LeBlanc will be held today (Monday) at 2 p.m. in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery in Crookston. The Stanshoel-Houske Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

David J. LeBlanc was born in Gentilly Aug. 13, 1910, the son of Arthur and Flora Corbin LeBlanc. He was baptized and confirmed at St. Peter's Catholic church in Gentilly and was a 1929 graduate of Cathedral high school in Crookston.

He was employed by the Crookston Coca-Cola bottling company for many years. He was united in marriag to Pearl M. Johnson of Crookston in May of 1933. During World War II, the family moved to Hartford, CN, where he was employed by the Hamilton Standard Propeller company. The family then moved to Grand Forks, ND, where he was employed by the Armour Meat plant. He later transferred to Armour plants, first in West Fargo, then in Mandan, ND. He retired in 1972 after 25 years of service with Armour. Pearl LeBlanc died July 2, 1975.

Following a year spent living in Lake of the Woods in northern Minnesota, he entered the Riverview nursing home in Crookston nine years ago. He was a former member of the Mandan Knights of Columbus and a former member of the Crookston Eagles Aerie. He had been active in softball, basketball and bowling during the years when he and his family had lived in Crookston.

David LeBlanc is survived by three sons, Richard, Crookston, Stephen, Bismarck, ND, and Martin, San Diego, CA; three daughters, Rosemary, Thief River Falls; Debra Johnson, Newfolden, and Mrs. John (Terry) Fitzgerald, Missoula, MT; seventeen grandchildren; 12 great grandchildren; three brothers, Frank and Anne, both of Grand Forks, ND, and Elmer of Sacramento, CA, as well as several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his wife; a son, Donald, who died in [illegible] and a great-granddaughter, Amy, who died in 1983.

Conrad Engelstad, 63

Crystal — Conrad Engelstad died Thursday afternoon at his home in Crystal at the age of 63. Funeral services will be held today (Monday) at 1 p.m. at First Lutheran church in Crystal with a second service Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Belmont Funeral home in Thief River Falls with Rev. Richard Larson, pastor at Zion Lutheran church, officiating.

There will be visitation at the funeral home for one hour prior to the service. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery in the spring. A complete obituary will follow in a later edition of the Times.

For fast relief of headaches caused by other health care plans, take two and call us in the morning.

The pressure of running your company's health care plan can have some unpleasant side effects. Like different rates—and a different set of paperwork—for each plan.

For fast relief, call Blue Cross and Blue Shield. Through our affiliate HMO Minnesota, we've taken many of the features of AWARE Gold and added them to the special cost efficiencies of an HMO plan: HMO Gold. So you can offer a choice of quality health care plans without all the administrative headaches of working with multiple companies.

Everything you expect from an HMO. And more.

With HMO Gold, your employees are covered in full for services provided by a doctor chosen from a network of HMO Gold physicians. If they choose to see a physician other than their selected HMO Gold physician, they still receive 80% coverage for services within the AWARE Gold network—Minnesota's largest physician network. Even services outside the AWARE Gold network are covered at 80% after a deductible. And HMO Gold is backed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield worldwide, so your employees are covered wherever they travel.

We've made two plans as easy to run as one.

When you offer AWARE Gold and HMO Gold in combination, your employees enjoy the choice of fee-for-service or HMO health care. Pack 57 Holds Flag Folding Contest At Dec. Pack Night

by Mary Sjaaheim
Pack Reporter

Pack 57 of St. Bernard's held its November and December pack night on December 1. Three new scouts received their Bobcat awards and were welcomed to the pack: Andy Mehrkens to den one, Tom Koehmsyedt to den two, and Kyle Seaverson to den three. Also during the meeting, six geology pins were awarded to Webelos: Joe White, Chris Tveitbakk, Brian Fogarty, Kent Larson, Ben Foust and Jon Hendrickson, who also received his naturalist pin.

To commemorate the donation of a new flag to the pack from the VFW post, a flag folding contest was held. Honored guests of the event were Paul Halverson and Harold Anderson, past VFW commanders, and Paul Casavan, an Eagle Scout from Troop 199. The Webelos supervised and judged the competition for accuracy and speed. Den one placed first and dens two and three tied for second place. Each of the dens received a ribbon for their den flags.

The Webelos presented their geology projects. Den three Bear cubs displayed the Bear plaques they had painted. Den two reported on their field trip to the Law Enforcement center in Thief River Falls. The Bobcats in den one also showed their plaques and told of their field trip to the bakery.

There will be a winter family fun outing at the Old Mill state park on Sunday, January 4, 1987 at 2 p.m. Details will be sent home from the den leaders.

The January pack night is slated for January 27 when a Space derby will be held. Each cub will be purchasing his own kit at their last December meeting. Parents are also encouraged to purchase a kit and join in the competition.

Our Saviour's To Present Christmas Program Tuesday

Our Saviour's Christian academy will present their Christmas program, "Children's Messiah," Tuesday at 7 p.m. Kindergarten through grade 12 will share in the program that evening. There will be a free will offering for the ministry of the academy.

4H CLUB

Leader's Council

Pennington county 4-H leaders council meeting was held December 1 at 8 p.m., called to order by Myrna Erickson. The 4-H plays were postponed from December 15 to January 9 and will be held at Lincoln high school. The Kansas exchange was left up to Andrea Nord, extension agent in 4-H, to communicate further. Date for the ski trip is still not decided because of schedule conflicts between Goodridge and Thief River Falls.

New business was the Wisconsin exchange funding. Ideas for raising money were a 4-H slave trade and a car wash. The committee would decide on these ideas and bring it up at the next meeting. The hot dog award was presented to the awards banquet committee members.

Agency Sought To Conduct Campaign On AIDS Spread

A coalition of 10 public agencies and private groups in Minnesota has taken the first step in launching a statewide public information campaign on AIDS, to help stop the spread of the disease.

Minnesota AIDS media campaign consortium is seeking an advertising or public relations agency to plan the campaign, and develop some of the initial materials for the effort. The campaign is believed to be the first statewide, collaboratively planned effort of its kind in the country.

The agency chosen for the campaign will be hired through the Minnesota department of health, which is funding the first phase of the effort. The department has issued a formal request for proposals (RFP), inviting qualified firms to apply for the project.

Deadline for agencies to submit proposals is January 5, according to Karen Heckert of the department's AIDS unit.

The department has budgeted $30,000 for the part of the information effort covered by the RFP, with an additional $70,000 in department funds available for later phases of the campaign. However, the consortium hopes to generate substantial additional funds for the project through a private sector fundraising effort.

EDITORIAL OPINION

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

A Reminder To Write

Today's issue carries the third of the new "YOUR Times" column. The first three have provided a variety of areas of opinion — exactly what the column was intended to do. We want it to be a forum for writers who have something of interest to share with others.

This is a reminder and a word of encouragement for the public to use the column for their own interests and ideas. It's free and anyone can contribute, regardless of age or location. We would like to have a column in every issue, but we will run it only when we have contributions of material.

If you have something to get off your chest, put it in words and send it to: YOUR Times, P. O. Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. We're waiting . . . .

Holiday "Cheer"

It has always bothered us that so many people equate drinking with celebrating the holiday season, and the term holiday "cheer" as it relates to alcohol is a sorry misnomer. Most often holiday "sorrow" would be a more appropriate description.

Recognizing that people do an excessive amount of drinking during the holidays, however, the national safety council and its Minnesota affiliate encourage various methods of keep drunks off the road. It's a worthwhile effort. It's bad enough that the drinkers damage themselves and their own families, but it is additional tragedy when innocent outsiders become their victims in traffic crashes.

"Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk" is one of the safety council themes, and the idea is that party hosts have a responsibility to their guests. If the host furnishes or permits the drinks, he or she is responsible for the conduct and safety of the drinker. That includes the post-party trip home.

We know of someone who used one of the bumper stickers with the above slogan, and another one clipped with scissors to read "Friends Don't Drive Drunk". That conveys the message that the individual is also responsible to his or her passengers — a responsibility that is too often ignored.

This week (December 14-20) is national drunk and drugged driver awareness week. One of its suggestions is the "designated driver" plan where one or more members of a group accept the responsibility of driving and therefore abstaining from drinking. It's probably a good idea, but we don't know how practical. The prospect of squiring a bunch of drunks around for an evening doesn't sound like an enjoyable way to spend a night out.

The safety council also attempted to appeal to the popularity factor among teenagers. The idea was that non-drinking teens can be very popular people because drinking teens can use them as drivers. If that's looked on as peer acceptance, it is a perverted viewpoint. Nobody wants to be "used" at any age. Who wants to be included on the basis of: "Hey, let's ask old Horace to the party. He's a nerd but he can drive and his old man won't let him drink. He can just kind of hang around until we have to go home."

"Give a friend who has been drinking a ride home," the safety council suggests. "If you play it right, you can get the car keys without too much trouble. If your friend is a guest at your home, suggest an overnight stay."

We would carry the advice a step further. If your friends are the kind who are likely to get plastered — and you know your friends as well as anyone — collect the car keys when they arrive. Don't give them back until the person is in sober enough condition to drive. If an overnight stay is required, so be it. The safety council says it takes about an hour for each drink to be cleared out of the body.

Having been in the newspaper business for a number of years, we have been called to the site of too many crashes where drunk drivers have killed or injured themselves or others. It's too late to do anything about it after it has happened. There's nothing cheerful about a holiday accident. The time to prevent tragedy is before it happens. Hosts can help.

Profile Of A Senior

When you see the term "senior citizen" used, did you ever wonder who or what a senior citizen is? The following description may give you a better idea, but we don't have a source to give credit for the explanation:

A Senior Citizen is one who was here before the Pill and the Population Explosion. We were here before television, penicillin, polio shots, antibiotics and frisbees. Before frozen food, nylon dacron, Xerox, Kinsey, radar, flourescent lights, credit cards, and ball point pens. For us time sharing meant togetherness, not computers; a chip meant a piece of wood, hardware meant hard wear and softwear wasn't even a word. Coeds never wore slacks.

We were before pantyhose, and drip-dry clothes, before ice makers and dishwashers, clothes dryers, freezers and electric blankets. Before Hawaii and Alaska became states. Before men wore long hair and earrings and women wore Tuxedos. We were before Leonard Bernstein, yogurt, Ann Landers, plastic, the 40-hour week and the minimum wage.

We got married first and then lived together. How quaint can one be? Closets were for clothes, not for coming out of, bunnies were small rabbits and rabbits were not Volkswagens. We were before Grandma Moses and Frank Sinatra and cup-sizing for bras. Girls wore Peter Pan collars and thought cleavage was something butchers did.

We were before Batman, Rudolph the Red-nosed Reindeer and Snoopy. Before DDT, vitamin pills, disposable diapers, Jeeps, the Jefferson Memorial and pizza, Cheerios, instant coffee, decaffeinated anything and McDonald's were all unheard of. We thought fast food was what you ate during Lent. We were before Boy George, J.D. Salinger and Chiquita Banana. Before FM radios, tape recorders, electric typewriters, word processors, MUZAK, electronic music, disco-dancing and that's not all bad!!

In our day grass was for mowing, Coke was a refreshing drink and pot was something you cooked in. If we'd been asked to explain CIA, Ms., NATO, UFO, NFL, JFK, ERA or IUD we'd have said alphabet soup. We are today's SENIOR CITIZENS, a hardy bunch when you think of how OUR world has changed and of the adjustements WE have had to make!

Borrowed Nonsense

Mother: "Well, Bonnie, what did you do in school today?"

Bonnie: "We had show and yell."

Mother: "Don't you mean show and tell?"

Bonnie: "Usually it is, but today Billy brought his pet snake."

Good Advice: "If you're a bird, be an early bird, and catch the worm for your plate; if you're a bird, be an early bird, but if you're a worm — sleep late!"

Teacher: "Who can tell me what is raised in countries that have wet climates?"

Student: "Umbrellas?"

"I have to apologize for the way my room looks," the teenager said to his visiting buddy. "My Mom made me clean it up this morning."

Following his presentation to the fourth graders on the dangers of rat infestation, the agriculturist received this thank-you from one of the students: "Thank you for coming to talk to our class. Some of us didn't even know what a rat looked like until you came."

Common Science

by Joe Jeffers, Ph.D.

When our hands get dirty we head to the lavatory to wash them and, out of habit, we grab the soap. Our experience has shown that soaps and detergents help clean body parts, clothes, cars and even pets. How do they work?

If we have something like syrup on our hands, we really do not need soap. Syrup will dissolve in water and wash right down the drain. Greasy or oily substances do not dissolve in water. To put it simply, they are too different. Water and syrup have some chemical characteristics that are alike, so they mix easily. Grease and water do not share common characteristics, so they avoid one another.

The problem, then, is to get "water-hating" grease to dissolve in water. That is where soaps and detergents come in. They are composed of long molecules that have distinctly different parts. A long part of a soap molecule is just like grease and will not mix with water. At the other end of the molecule is a part that really likes water.

Think of a broom with a very long handle. Imagine the straw as the part that likes water and the handle as the part that does not. Now if these "molecules" are forced into water, the part that doesn't like water will try to get away from water. How does it do it? By clumping together with parts of other soap molecules that also want to avoid water.

Think of arranging your brooms so the handles of 50 brooms are all pointing toward the center of a sphere. Where is the straw? On the surface of the ball of brooms. All of the handles are in the middle interacting with one another; the straw is on the surface interacting with water. In effect we now have small "grease-loving" pockets (micelles) suspended in water. When we use soap to clean greasy materials from our hands, the grease leaves our hands and dissolves in the middle of micelles. Since each micelle is suspended in water, when we rinse our hands, the grease goes down the drain.

Soaps differ from detergents in that soaps are made from natural products like fats, while detergents are synthetic molecules made by chemists. As long as the molecules contain a long part that doesn't like water and another part that does, micelles will be formed and the cleaning will take place.

YOUR TIMES

Supt. Leo Ruberto Discusses "Our Schools In the Future"

Since 1980 our local school district has had to weather a series of traumatic events that have produced significant changes in how we operate. These changes have at times split our community into opposing groups. Labor relations, building closings, budget reductions, declining enrollments and building bond issues have focused public attention on our local education system. This public dialogue has been good for our community even if it has been painful at times.

In the spring of 1986 the board of education approved a five-year plan for instructional improvement in our school district. This plan seeks to focus our district toward the future. It reflects our need to plan ahead rather than react to each crisis as it arises. This future focus will hep us avoid mistakes of the past and, at the same time, it will assist us in forging a community consensus about solutions to future problems.

During phase one of this plan the district is developing a mission statement for the future. A draft of this is contained below:

It is the mission of the Thief River Falls public schools to provide for students within the mandated age ranges a quality basic education designed to prepare them for entry into a complex and changing world.

As a secondary focus, it is the mission of the district to provide expanded educational opportunities to students and community members where resources allow.

In the provision of these services the board recognizes that it is crucial to develop an educational climate that is conducive to decision participation by staff, students and citizens within the district and that the district's staff is the primary resource by which the schools accomplish their educational mission.

In light of the above district mission statement, the following goals are adopted:

(1) To review and modify, if appropriate, the district's curriculum in order to "focus" on the primary mission of our schools.

(2) To continue implementation of the district's five-year plan with specific emphasis on the following goals:

(a) To encourage school-site management with considerable autonomy in determining the exact means by which the goals and expectations of the district and building are to be met.

(b) To initiate building level staff development programs directed toward the school's goals and closely related to the instructional program.

(c) To more actively involve parents in their child's education and to encourage parental support of the goals and expectations of the school.

(d) To develop a written district curriculum and organize the school day to provide appropriate time for planned, purposeful instruction focused on the desired outcomes and coordinated across grade levels.

(e) To assist teachers in designing instruction that maximizes substantive learning time, monitors student progress, and gives regular feedback to the students regarding their progress.

(3) To provide facilities appropriate for the accomplishment of the district's mission.

The board of education is seeking public input on this draft. As our mission statement, it will guide our future actions. It is significant in that it sets direction for the future and prioritizes our actions.

The schools belong to all of us. Our basic freedoms are perpetuated by our ability to inculcate children into our society. As citizens we can direct our schools. Your input on this mission statement will help in that process.

TIMES Around The Region

A Fact Of Life

Red Lake Falls — In his weekly column, "AOK," Keith Axvig, editor and publisher of the Red Lake Falls Gazette, makes a brief statement to be considered as we anticipate holiday party plans: "There are two kinds of people at parties, those who want to go home early and those who want to be the last ones in the place. The trouble is, they're usually married to each other."

Go To Gonvick

Gonvick — The Gonvick-Trail music department will present a "Holiday Band Concert" December 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. Admission is just right — free, and lunch will be served after the concert by the Band Booster club. First section of the show will feature the junior high band, and the senior high band will perform after a short intermission. Vernon L. Christianson conducts both bands. A variety of music will be featured, from Sousa to Rock.

Burglary Charges

Erskine — An 18-year-old Erskine man pled innocent December 8 to charges stemming from seven burglaries in Erskine and McIntosh. Frank Barrett III was charged with felony theft, aggravated criminal damage to property, second-degree burglary and six counts of third-degree burglary in connection with breaking into the Johnson Service Station in Erskine September 5, Mac Cooperative Association October 15, McIntosh Farm Service company October 15, Dan's Standard Station in McIntosh October 23, and McIntosh Motors October 23 and 24. Earl Thomas, 19, and Elmer Nelson, 23, both of Erskine, have also been charged in the burglaries. All three men are in custody in Northwest Regional Correction center in Crookston.

Boys And Toys

Red Lake Falls — The Cub Scouts of pack 52 in Red Lake Falls are making wood building blocks and collecting used toys to brighten the Christmas of children in Majuro of the Marshall Islands in the Pacific Ocean. Leader Barb Seeger received a letter from friends on the island, telling of the need for toys in the pediatric ward of the hospital there. The scouts responded with their usual enthusiasm for a worthy project, stating, "This is our present to those kids," and "It's nice an fun, and we like doing this."

Working Together

Warren — Parents and teachers in the city of Warren are in the process of forming a new parent-teacher organization. They are gathering information from neighboring cities to use in the formation of the new endeavor. Sandy Hapka has been elected chairman and Deb Myrfield, secretary.

Llama On The Loose

Detroit Lakes — A loose llama took a short trip on the highway just outside Detroit Lakes recently, perhaps causing passing motorists to take a second look. Owner of the llama, Ray Saranson, said the llama was just trying to get downtown to do his Christmas shopping early. The shopping expedition was cut short, however, when he was returned to his owner at STC Campers in Detroit Lakes.

Chase Complaint

East Grand Forks — A group of irate citizens presented a petition to Mayor Louis Murray of East Grand Forks recently, complaining of the behavior of a police patrolman as he attempted to apprehend a 14-year-old boy who was illegally driving a dirt bike on city streets October 19. The petition stated that patrolman Andrew Olson "chased with utter disregard for life or property (the boy) who found it necessary to continue speeding to avoid being run over." They called Olson's behavior "Rambo-like" and said he played "bump and run" with the cyclist. Olson eventually crashed into the bike with his patrol car, imbedding part of the bike in his grill. Police chief Kermit Sundin was present at the meeting to answer the allegations presented in the petition, and stated that neither an investigation by the Polk county sheriff's department nor the area state patrol found fault with patrolman Olson's behavior.

Anticipating The Holidays

Crookston — Horticulture students at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, began making Christmas plans three months ago when they began working with poinsettia crops the first week of classes. They followed a strict program of care for the plants that included working in teams to uncover plants precisely at 4 p.m. and uncover them at 8 a.m. every day, including weekends, in order to produce the familiar red leaves. The students now have over 400 poinsettia plants ready for Christmas.

No More Of Those

Red Lake Falls — Lafayette high school has banned the formation of human pyramids over 3 and one-half feet high by cheerleaders, announced principal and athletic director Steve Swiontek. He stated that the action had been taken to safeguard the students since the death of a NDSU cheerleader who was injured while performing in a pyramid. Cheerleading advisor Mona Thibert, former Lafayette and college cheerleader herself, said her squad will comply with the ban, but she isn't in total agreement with the decree. She said that proper safety precautions are taken by the cheerleaders in their stunts, and the girls are aware of their own limitations.

Christmas Time-Sharing

Roseau — The Roseau library will be the setting for an afternoon of festivities Christmas day. "Don't Spend Christmas Alone" is the theme for the planned activities to be provided at no charge to people who just can't find time to be with families on the holiday. A ham dinner will be served from 3 to 5 p.m.; there will be a Christmas tree that will be decorated by those participating; gifts have already been donated by area businesses that will be shared during the day; and musical entertainment will begin at 3 p.m.

Summer Plans

Warroad — The Warroad Summer Theatre has announced its selections for 1987 productions: "Some Enchanted Evening" will be March 26 to 30; "You Can't Take It With You" June 19-21 and 24-28; "One Thousand Clowns" July 3-5 and 8-12; "Annie" July 29-August 2 and August 5-9; and "Bus Stop" will be the last presentation of the summer.

Mini Money Creativity

Hallock — The Hallock board of education instituted a new "mini-grant" proposal at their regular meeting December 8, which will enable teachers to submit applications for grant money from the school district to try out new ideas in the classroom. Grants will be available to teachers in secondary and elementary schools with a total limit of $2,000. The board also approved the installation of emergency radio facilities in the school's van and activity bus to enable them to call for emergency personnel if needed.

UNIFORMS are now being worn by custodians in the Thief River Falls public schools. Shown with the identifying outfits are Ward Sinn, who has 21 years with the district at Franklin and Lillian Rux, who has 18 years at the AVTI. Each of the 29 custodians in the district was issued four uniforms as part of the union settlement package.

NFO To Pay Its Dairy Producers 3 Times Monthly

Because of the severe financial pressure facing dairy farmers, the National Farmers Organization has called for two immediate changes in the present dairy legislation under the 1985 farm bill.

NFO delegates, at the organization's 31st annual convention in Nashville, TN, proposed the following changes to improve prices for dairy farmers nationwide:

(1) Immediate discontinuation of the assessment on dairy producers to fund the dairy termination program; and

(2) Elimination of the scheduled drop in price supports, which is scheduled to begin Jan. 1, 1987. The organization strongly opposes the first 25-cent cut as well as any additional cuts which may be made during the year.

"Pending new and more desirable legislation, immediate changes are necessary in present dairy legislation," NFO dairy director Al Scott emphasized. "More dairy farmers have sold out because of financial difficulties than the total number who sold out during the dairy termination program.

"With reduction in supply of milk far beyond expected levels, the affects of further price cuts would only be harmful to farmers, the dairy industry and to consumers," he concluded.

Given these circumstances in the dairy industry and the severe financial stress facing dairy farmers, NFO has proposed these immediate changes as well as the implementation of a three-prong payment schedule to dairy producers in Minnesota and Wisconsin beginning in February. As of Feb. 1, 1987, the organization will pay its dairy producers in these states three times per month instead of the traditional two times per month established by the dairy industry. The payment schedule is expected to be expanded to other states in upcoming months.

"We are certain that if enough dairy producers participate with us, we can effect a permanent change in the dairy payment schedule," Scott asserted. "We ask all dairy producers to consider our efforts to raise prices and to ship with us to make this necessary change in the dairy industry. We also ask producers to write or call their dairy plants and legislators supporting these changes to improve price levels for all farmers."

Nancy Myrom Joins Farm Credit In TRF

Nancy Myrom, Newfolden, has been named special credit office assistant for the Thief River Falls branch office of Farm Credit Services (FCS) of Grand Forks.

Myrom is a native of Benson, MN, where she graduated from high school in 1981. Myrom earned a bachelor's degree in office administration-management in 1985 from Moorhead State university. She worked for more than two years as a secretary for KFGO radio in Fargo. Before joining FCS, Myrom was a typist for the Pennington county abstract company, Thief River Falls.

Myrom's husband, Lonnie, is a secondary education teacher in the Newfolden, MN School System

Singers Invited To Compete For Career Award

This year's category in the career award competition held annually by the National Society of Arts and Letters is in vocal music. The Northern Minnesota chapter has set Saturday, February 14 as the date for its competition, to be held at the high school in Park Rapids. It will be open to U. Krietemeyer To Lecture Tonight At St. Bernard's

Ronald T. Krietemeyer

The Catholic Bishops of the United States, in a national meeting in November, approved the final draft of their new extended pastoral letter entitled: "Economic Justice for All: Catholic Social Teaching and the U. S. Economy." In this letter, they state that the fundamental moral criterion for all economic decisions, policies and institutions is this: "They must be at the service of all people, especially the poor." (Par. 24) They emphasize this principle by writing: "as individuals and as a nation therefore, we are called to make a fundamental 'option for the poor.'" (Par. 86)

Although this document does not condemn capitalism, it does seriously criticize many elements of capitalism as it is practiced in the United States.

Ronald T. Krietemeyer will lecture on the content and significance of this document at St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls 7:30 p.m. December 15.

Krietemeyer is director of the office of Domestic social development at the United States Catholic conference. This is the staff office responsible for advising and assisting the Catholic Bishops at the national level on domestic social policy issues. He holds a Masters degree in public affairs from the Humphrey Institute, University of Minnesota and a Master's degree in theology from St. John's University at Collegeville, MN. Mr. Krietemeyer has served as the chief staff person to the special committee of bishops that prepared the first draft to the pastoral letter on Catholic social teaching and the U. S. Economy.

These lectures are sponsored by St. Bernard's Parish and the Justice and Peach Commission of the Diocese of Crookston. The public is invited.

High School Hockey Home Opener Tuesday . . .

Prowlers Take On Roughriders

High-scoring Grand Forks Red River will be the opponent Tuesday when Thief River Falls opens its 1986-87 high school hockey home schedule at the Sports Arena. Junior varsity game starts at 5:15 p.m., with the varsity game scheduled to begin at 7:30.

Red River is 5-0, out-scoring the opposition 45-6 in the process. The Roughriders routed Fargo Shanley 20-1 and blanked Grafton 9-0 in back-to-back starts last week.

Thief River Falls, meanwhile, is also unbeaten, but with just one game to date — a 5-2 victory over Grand Forks Central back on December 6. Central was 3-0 when the Prowlers opened the season against the Redskins.

The 10-day lay-off in the Thief River Falls schedule prompted a scrimmage arrangement between the Prowlers and highly-regarded Greenway Saturday afternoon at Coleraine.

"Coleraine is a very, very good hockey team," reported Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "We felt it would be desirable for our kids to face some outside competition during the lay-off. I think it (the scrimmage) was very beneficial to us."

The two teams had 1½ hours of ice time. The Prowlers scored the only goal through about 40 minutes of playing time, but the Raiders wound up "winning" 4-1, despite some outstanding goaltending by the Prowlers' Shayne Anderson.

Thief River Falls' season-opening line-up is expected to remain intact for Game 2. That means forward lines of Jim Breiland-Scott Novak-Blair Lund; Bob Geatz-Marty Levin-Jeff Grand; and Rick Looker-Chris Solheim and either Sean Krepp or Chad Gunderson. Solheim, though, has been bothered by a groin injury, and his status for Tuesday night is unclear. If he isn't able to play, Krepp and Gunderson would be the wings flanking Looker.

Dave Johnson-John Dondelinger and Bill Dicken-Jason Lee are the defensive pairs. Anderson will be in goal.

The Prowlers will also be at home Saturday vs. East Grand Forks.

NCC Men Third In Tournament . . .

Pioneers Split Two Games

Participating in the second of three consecutive four-team invitational tournaments to start the 1986-87 season, the Northland Community College men's basketball team won the third place trophy Saturday at the Rainy River Invitational in International Falls.

Itasca, rated No. 5 in the latest Minnesota Community College Conference state rankings, edged Northland 96-94 in Friday's opening round semifinals, and the Vikings went on to handle host Rainy River 95-73 in the finals. The Pioneers rebounded to beat the University of Minnesota-Waseca 93-84 in the third place game. Waseca fell to Rainy River 84-69 in the semifinals.

"We felt going up there that the championship game would be played Friday night when we faced Itasca," pointed out Northland coach Chet Engelman, "and nothing that happened after that changed our mind."

Northland was a runner-up finisher at the Austin Invitational the week before. The 3-3 Pioneers will be at the Itasca Invitational this week, meeting the University of Minnesota-Morris junior varsity Thursday at 6 p.m. Itasca plays the Grand Forks Air Force Base at 8 that night. Third place and championship games will be played Friday at 6 and 8 p.m., respectively.

"We played well at times," said Engelman after the trip to International Falls, "but at other times we didn't play so well. We had trouble with turnovers and free throws.

Northland 94

Itasca built a 61-46 lead in the second half, then held on as Northland battled back before the Vikings were able to subdue the Pioneers 96-94.

Northland, down 46-44 at halftime, got within two again at 96-94 and had the ball for a final shot, but missed.

Anthony McCullough, who was to be an all-tournament team selection at the conclusion of the event, scored 17 points for the Pioneers. Rodney Wilson also had 17, while Greg Campbell had 16, Morris Matthews 14 and John Honek 11. Randy Henrickson of Goodridge also played a key role for the Pioneers, said Engelman, as he came off the bench to contribute eight points and five rebounds.

Both teams shot well. Northland was 39-for-74 from the field (53 per cent), and Itasca was 35-for-68 (52 per cent). The Pioneers were 12-for-17 at the free throw line (71 per cent), where the Vikings were 19-for-30 (63 per cent). Northland had a 49-38 rebound advantage, but also topped the turnover charts 26-20.

Northland controlled play throughout as the Pioneers rolled to a 93-84 win over the University of Minnesota-Waseca in the third place game.

Anthony McCullough scored 27 points and grabbed 14 rebounds for the Pioneers, who led 49-39 at halftime. John Honek scored 18 points and helped out with nine rebounds, while Rodney Wilson had a 16-point, 14-rebound game. Greg Campbell joined them in double figures with 10 points.

Northland was 38-for-85 from the field (45 per cent) and 16-for-26 at the free throw line (62 per cent). Waseca was 30-for-65 from the field (46 per cent) and 20-for-26 at the line (77 per cent). The Pioneers had a big 31-31 rebound advantage. The turnovers were even at 25-apiece.

McCullough Is Named To All-America Football Team

Anthony McCullough, a 6-4, 255-pound sophomore defensive tackle from Canton, OH, became the first Northland Community College football player to be given National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) All-America honors, it was announced Friday by NJCAA officials and Northland head football coach-athletic director Rick Nelson.

McCullough was named to the NJCAA All-America Second Team as a defensive lineman.

He earned the honors after being nominated by Nelson following the 1986 season when he led the Pioneers to a 5-3 Northwest Division title-tying record — their first-ever winning season at the school. Northland made its first appearance in the Minnesota Community College Conference state football playoffs this fall, losing to eventual state champion Vermilion 28-13 in the opening round semifinals.

McCullough led the Pioneers in defensive points this season, including 16½ quarterback sacks.

Nelson said McCullough's post-season recognition was a deserving honor. "He's probably the best athlete to ever play at Northland Community College," said Nelson. "He has the potential to play big-time college football someplace."

McCullough, who is currently a member of the Northland basketball team, has attracted the attention of a number of four-year schools who are interested in his football talents. He will receive his two-year degree this spring at Northland.

Aune Completes Cross Country Season With UND Sioux Team

Lon Aune, a senior at the University of North Dakota, recently completed his third season on the Sioux cross country team.

Aune, a Thief River Falls product, competed in every meet for the Sioux this season with his highest finished coming in the UND Invitational where he placed ninth. Invididually Aune finished second for UND in every meet behind freshman Andy Lawrence of Grand Forks, ND.

"Lon ran very consistantly this year. Considering he came off surgery a year ago, he has steadily imporved and did a good job for us this season," commented coach Mike Grandall.

In the North Central Conference meet held in Fargo recently, Aune finished 14th while placing 15th in the NCAA Regional which was run at the same time. UND finished fifth in the NCC and regional as a team.

Grandall added, "We are looking for good things from Lon this spring and next year in cross country."

Aune's wife Kristy also runs cross country for the Sioux. Kristy recently made her second trip the the NCAA II Nationals improving from her 59th place finish last season. Aune had hopes of finishing in the top 25 which would have earned her All American honors but came up 36th. Aune was the only cross country qualifier for the women this season.

Johnston Plays For Cobbers

Brian Johnston of Thief River Falls' is a member of the 1986-87 hockey team at Concordia College in Moorhead.

Under the direction of first-year coach Stephen Baumgartner, the Cobbers hope to improve their 1985-86 record of six wins, 10 losses. Last year they finished at sixth place in the league. Having graduated only two players, the squad has an abundance of players with MIAC experience and is looking forward to being a top conference contender.

"My main concern is the number of goals that we allowed last season," Baumgartner said. "With four new goaltenders to choose from and an experienced group of defensemen, we should cut considerably the goals scored against us this year."

The coach noted this could be a banner year for the Cobbers as the team got off to a fresh start with new coaching changes. "We have a good mixture of young talent and the attitude of the players has been excellent. If we get a strong effort from everyone, we could be a force in the MIAC."

Prior to joining Concordia, Baumgartner served as the sports program technician for the city of Regina, Saskatchewan. He is a 1982 Concordia graduate who set several hockey scoring records for the Cobbers.

Brian Johnston

Johnston is a sophomore majoring in business administration.

Concordia College, a four-year liberal arts institution of the American Lutheran Church, offers 78 majors in 40 academic areas and course work in 16 pre-professional programs.

TRF Girls Handle Spuds 45-27

Moorhead, a name synonymous with championship-caliber high school basketball, felt the rare sting of embarrassment Thursday when the Thief River Falls girls squashed the visiting Spuds 45-27.

Thief River Falls won it with defense. Even in winning by 18, the Prowlers' offense wasn't anything special. But their defense was. Moorhead scored just nine second half points, and after trailing only 15-2 at the end of the first quarter, the ineffective Moorhead offense netted just 15 points over the final three quarters.

It was the second win over a North Sub-Region 8AA opponent in three nights for the 5-0 Prowlers, who beat Detroit Lakes 48-39 on the road the previous Tuesday. Moorhead fell to 2-2 with wins over Breckenridge and Perham, but losses to Glyndon-Felton and Thief River Falls.

"Defensively we shut them down," confirmed Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "Offensively, they played tough defense against us. We had trouble running the patterns on offense. Fortunately we picked up some fouls on drives, and we rebounded really well."

Those fouls the Prowlers drew put them at the free throw line 18 times, and they made 11 of them. Most came in the first half when Thief River Falls was 10-for-16 at the line and Moorhead was 2-for-3. That helped create a 28-18 point spread at intermission. The Spuds wound up 3-for-7 at the line for the night.

Thief River Falls also did a number on the boards against a Moorhead team that included 6-1 senior Julie Richman, 6-1 sophomore Janelle Berg and 6-0 sophomore Amy Gernand. The Prowlers out-rebounded the Spuds 38-30, including a 19-16 edge on the offensive boards.

Nobody got a bunch of points for the Prowlers, but all five starters contributed offensively as Kelly Cornell scored 11 points, Brenda Russell 10, Laura Beito 9, Cindy Kruta 8 and Lisa Lillevold 7.

"That was Lillevold's best game by far," said Schafer in praise of the 5-10 senior forward who has rebounded and played defense in the past, but came up short in the point department until Thursday night. It was a 10-foot jumper by Lillevold with 2:13 remaining in the second quarter that produced a 10-point halftime cushion.

Thief River Falls led from start to finish. Getting a free throw from Lillevold just 10 seconds into the game, the Prowlers took a quick 1-0 lead that never disappeared.

Moorhead was within 18-16 with 5:46 remaining in the first half when 5-9 favorward Tammy Hanson scored off a drive following a Thief River Falls turnover.

But the Prowlers took control of things at that point by scoring the next eight points. Cornell pulled up on a short base line drive jumper to start the streak, Beito connected on a short turnaround jumper, Russell drove through the middle of the lane and Beito put in a rebound shot for a 26-16 spread with 4:02 to play in the half.

There was only a rebound basket by Berg and Lillevold's jumper over the final four minutes of the half, and the offenses didn't exactly keep the scorekeepers busy in the third quarter, either, when Moorhead "out-scored" Thief River Falls 6-5 for a 33-24 game.

Thief River Falls clinched it, though, by scoring the first eight points of the fourth quarter as Russell hit from the side, Kruta drove the base line, Cronell pulled up on a short jumper and Lillevold dropped in a short turnaround jumper for a 41-24 gap with 4:13 to play.

The Prowlers wound up 17-for-48 from the field (35 per cent). The Spuds were 12-for-59 (20 per cent).

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Moorhead	12	6	6	3	27
Thief River Falls	15	13	5	12	45

Moorhead — Lynnelle Sorenson 4, Paula Lovgren 4, Brenda Wilson 2, Missy Olsen 2, Kerri Smerud 3, Julie Richman 2, Amy Gernand 4, Tammy Hanson 4, Janelle Berg 2.
TRF — Cindy Kruta 8, Brenda Russell 10, Kelly Cornell 11, Laura Beito 9, Lisa Lillevold 7.

Moorhead 69-45 Basketball Winner Over TRF Boys Friday

Moorhead spotted Thief River Falls an early lead, but the host Spuds carried most of the play after the first quarter Friday en route to a surprisingly-easy 69-45 boys high school basketball victory.

It was supposed to be a match-up of top North Sub-Region 8AA contenders this winter. The Prowlers appeared to be living up to their preseason billing with a 17-8 head-start. They were up 17-12 at the end of the first quarter and trailed just 26-24 at halftime. But Moorhead out-scored Thief River Falls 43-21 in the second half to win going away. The Spuds had a 48-32 cushion at the end of the third quarter.

"It was a good first quarter, and a fair second quarter, but. . .," said Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt, failing to complete the sentence describing the Prowlers' second half performance. "We just didn't do anything offensively in the second, third and fourth quarters (25 per cent field goal shooting, for example). It was a poor performance offensively. You can't afford to leave the offense at home against a team of Moorhead's caliber."

Chris Nelson was the lone Thief River Falls scorer in double figures, hitting 12. Chris Bjorgaard had 8 points — all in the first quarter. Three Moorhead scorers reached double figures, led by 6-8 center Mike Bjelland's 20 points.

Moorhead shot 53 per cent from the field for the game (34-for-64), while Thief River Falls shot only 32 per cent (18-for-57). The Spuds were 7-for-14 at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 9-for-15 (60 per cent). Moorhead finished with a 38-31 rebound advantage. Turnovers were minimal on both sides, nine charged against the Spuds and eight against the Prowlers.

"The kids played hard," pointed out Hunt. "We had poor shot selection offensively, and I think if we do a better job offensively, that would have improved our defense."

Moorhead went to 2-1 with the win, beating Alexandria and losing to Fargo South in overtime in earlier starts. It was the second outing of the year for the Prowlers, who opened the week before with a 66-64 win over Kennedy.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Thief River Falls	17	7	8	13	45
Moorhead	12	14	22	21	69

TRF — Geoff Newland 4, Chris Bjorgaard 8, Brian Stark 6, Chris Nelson 12, Todd Solsten 6, Jarred Rolsness 7, Tom Knoff 2.
Moorhead — Craig Grundstrom 12, Larry Patnoude 8, Rob Edness 10, Pat Dew 3, Neil Oleson 4, Scott Gnadt 2, Chris Peterson 6, Geoff Pemble 4, Mike Bjelland 20.

Cook Wins TRF Bantam Title

Little Cook (population approximately 800) brought a goalie and nine skaters to the first Thief River Falls Bantam B Invitational hockey tournament and left the Sports Arena Sunday afternoon with a big first place trophy after beating Crookston, Thief River Falls and Bemidji in the eight-team, two-day Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association-sponsored event.

Cook drilled Crookston 11-2 in the opening round quarterfinals Saturday morning, out-scored Thief River Falls 12-9 in the semifinals Saturday afternoon when Robert Dejno scored nine goals, and broke a 5-5 third period tie to beat Bemidji 8-5 in the Sunday afternoon finals.

Host Thief River Falls opened the tournament with a come-from-behind 5-4 overtime win over Grand Forks North Saturday morning when Paul Johnson scored with 1:22 left of an eight-minute sudden-death period. But the Mark Enge-coached team of 13-14-year-olds fell to Cook in the semifinals and dropped a 4-3 contest to Moorhead in Sunday's third game.

Grand Forks North bounced back from the first round loss to Thief River Falls to win consolation championship honors with one-sided wins over Crookston 12-1 and Fargo North 11-3.

Tournament Results

Quarterfinals — Thief River Falls 5, Grand Forks North 4 (ot); Cook 11, Crookston 2; Moorhead 5, Grand Forks South 3; Bemidji 5, Fargo North 2.
Semifinals — Cook 12, Thief River Falls 9; Bemidji 4, Moorhead 2.
Finals — Cook 8, Bemidji 5.
Third place — Moorhead 4, Thief River Falls 3.
Consolation semifinals — Grand Forks North 12, Crookston 1; Fargo North 3, Grand Forks South 2.
Consolation finals — Grand Forks North 11, Fargo North 3.
Seventh place — Crookston 4, Grand Forks South 1.

Wednesday's 1986-87 Northland Community College hockey season home opener against Fergus Falls at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena will have a little added interest for the fans when the Pioneers, in conjunction with the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Thief River Falls will offer a Pepsi-Cola Hilton Hotel weekend prize package giveaway.

Northland athletic director Rick Nelson has kept himself busy in his short tenure at the school in promoting several prize incentive giveaways during Northland athletic events in an effort to create additional interest and fan support for the Pioneers. Field goal kicking contests at halftime of Northland home football games, and shooting contests at basketball and hockey games have become standard fares for the Pioneers.

Wednesday, a free drawing will be held between the second and third periods of the Northland hockey game against Fergus Falls. The winner will receive a three-day, two-night stay for two on a Friday-Saturday date of their choice at any one of more than 200 selected Hiltons.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. It'll be the only home appearance for the Pioneers until a January 16-17 weekend series here vs. Rainy River.

Huskies Lose Another Close Game

Goodridge boys watched their string of close season-opening losses reach four Friday night in a 47-46 overtime defeat at home against Fisher in Polar Conference high school basketball action.

First-year Goodridge head coach John Rahn has watched his team lose to Clearwater County North 66-65, Climax 73-69, Strandquist 42-35 and now Fisher to start the 1986-87 season 0-4.

"Give us 13 points and we'd be 4-0 right now," he said. "We're playing good ball, but we just can't seem to win the close ones."

In Friday's game, the Huskies' home opener, the two teams played to an 8-8 first quarter draw. Goodridge went ahead 22-20 at halftime and led 33-28 at the end of the third quarter. The Huskies led by as much as 10 points in the game, but had to settle for a 44-44 draw at the end of regulation time. There wasn't any scoring after Fisher's Jade Klein tied the game with 1:10 remaining. Goodridge used up most of the final minute working for a final shot, but threw the ball away. The Huskies got it back, though, on a Fisher turnover with five seconds left, but weren't able to present a serious scoring threat.

Fisher took a 47-44 lead in overtime on three free throws before surrendering a Jeff Wayne lay-up at the end.

Goodridge shot 36 per cent from the field (16-for-45). The Huskies were 8-for-15 at the free throw line, where the Flyers were 5-for-7.

Aaren Sorenson of Fisher led all scorers with 13 points, while Klein had 10, all in the fourth quarter. Jeff Berg led Goodridge with 12 points. High-scoring Shawn Groven was held to just six points by the Flyers.

The Huskies visit Warren Tuesday and will host their own Holiday Invitational Thursday and Friday. Opening round semifinals Thursday match Plummer vs. Grygla at 7 p.m. and Oklee vs. Goodridge at 8:45 p.m. Third place and championship games will be played at 7 and 8:45 p.m., respectively, Friday.

Goodridge — Dean Wiskow 2, Steve Ariel 6, Shawn Groven 6, Jeff Berg 12, Roger Cain 9, Tommy Quam 2, Jeff Wayne 9.

Badger 44

Middle River dominated Badger on the boards Friday in winning a 63-44 North Border Conference basketball game.

The host Skippers out-rebounded the Rockets 34-17 in climbing to 2-1 for the year.

"We didn't shoot very well, but we really beat them on the boards," mentioned Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "The kids did an excellent job blocking out and positioning for the rebounds. Outside of our shooting, we played pretty well."

Badger had a 14-10 first quarter lead, and maintained a 30-28 halftime edge. But Middle River dominated the second half, out-scoring the Rockets 35-14. The Skippers led 46-39 at the end of the third quarter.

Brent Peterson led the Skippers with 14 points, but the balanced attack also included 12 points from Tom Blazek and 10 each from Marc Gram and Larry Korpi. Scott Erickson led Badger with 10 points.

Bryce Nelson led Middle River's assault on the boards with 12 rebounds, while Korpi had 11 and Tom Gullikson 10.

Middle River shot 33 per cent from the field (28-for-84). Badger shot 32 per cent (18-for-55). The Skippers were 7-for-10 at the free throw line, where the Rockets were 8-for-22. The turnovers were even at 15-apiece.

The Skippers host Roseau Friday.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Badger	14	16	9	5	44
Middle River	10	18	18	17	63

Badger — Scott Erickson 11, Brian Lange 10, Robby Dave 10, Jason Isane 8, Brian Jensen 2, Steve Utte 3.

Grygla 55

Grygla, after opening the season last Tuesday with a last-second shot 47-45 victory over Roseau, was on the other side of the fence Friday night when a late-game shot by Greg Pulczinski of Greenbush beat the visiting Eagles 56-55.

"It was an emotional week," acknowledged Grygal coach Vern Johnson.

Grygla should have won the game, said Johnson. The Eagles led 16-7 at the end of the first quarter, had a 29-16 halftime lead, owned a 38-31 third quarter edge and led by five with just 40 seconds left.

But a turnover, a missed free throw, a four-point play off the no-foul-out rule and Pulczinski's basket gave the Tigers a game-winning flurry of points down the stretch.

"We played well," offered Johnson. "I was satisfied with everything but the final score."

Grygla received strong performances from Reed Engelstad with 18 points, Paul Holthusen with 16, and Brad Monson, who helped lead the Engles to a 30-27 rebound edge, pointed out Johnson. Greg and Scott Pulczinski scored 19 and 16 points, respectively, for the Tigers.

The Eagles were 17-for-53 from the field (32 per cent) and 21-for-32 at the free throw line (66 per cent). The Tigers were 22-for-60 from the field (37 per cent) and 12-for-20 at the line (60 per cent). Grygla topped the turnover figures 16-12.

Grygla has a tough assignment Tuesday when the Eagles visit North Border Conference favorite Warroad.

Marshall County Central turned in a strong defensive effort, but the Nordics' offense had a tough time of it Friday in a 48-37 loss to North Border Conference power Warroad in Newfolden.

The Nordics owned a 12-8 lead when the first quarter ended, but ran into Warroad's shot-blocking defense in the second quarter in falling behind 17-16 at halftime. The Warriors moved out to a 33-28 third quarter advantage and out-scored the Nordics 15-9 down the stretch.

"We played a very good team though," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland, who said the Warriors' shot-blocking abilities, along with some 20 Marshall County Central turnovers, were deciding factors in the game. "It was a good game defensively," he noted. "We did a good job on them defensively, and we did an excellent job rebounding considering the size differences."

Warroad, with 6-6 Tim Fast in the middle, out-rebounded the smaller Marshall County Central squad by just a 25-21 margin.

Lance Sage led the Warriors with 21 points. Jon Kragness had 10 for the Nordics.

Marshall County Central was 17-for-47 from the field (36 per cent) and 3-for-8 at the free throw line. Warroad was 21-for-54 from the field (39 per cent) and 6-for-8 at the line. Warroad had 18 turnovers.

The Nordics, 1-1, host Lake of the Woods Friday.

Northland Hockey Team Wins Two Over Brainerd

Northland Community College hockey team began its 1986-87 Minnesota Community College Conference schedule with a weekend sweep at Brainerd, winning 9-3 Friday night and taking a 5-2 Saturday afternoon decision.

Coach Scott Bergland's Pioneers, 3-0 overall, will host Fergus Falls Wednesday in an MCCC home-opener at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Brainerd 3

Northland's best hockey of the weekend came in the first period of Friday's series opener when the Pioneers jumped out to a 5-0 lead en route to a 9-3 victory.

Chad Swendseid, Steve Wiskow, Lee Hamre and Chad Bottem made it 4-0 in the first 9½ minutes, and Wiskow's second goal of the period made it 5-0 at 15:44.

Hamre scored again to start the second period, which ended 6-1. Troy Miller, Steve Ristau and Steve Mahoney added third period Northland goals.

Scoring

First period — NCC, Chad Swendseid (Eric Anderson), 1:50; NCC, Steve Wiskow (Al Erickson-Bill Desrocher), 3:23; NCC, Lee Hamre (Stacy Lies-Swendseid), 5:11; NCC, Chad Bottem (Steve Mahoney-Joe Blankenfeld), 9:31; NCC, Wiskow (Erickson-Steve Ristau), 15:44.

Roseau Falls To TRF

Roseau didn't get many shots, didn't make many shots and didn't rebound many of the misses. As a result, the Rams lost a one-sided 80-41 boys high school basketball game to Thief River Falls Saturday.

In rebounding from a 69-45 loss at Moorhead the night before, Thief River Falls limited Roseau to a 10-for-42 night from the field (24 per cent), and hammered the Rams on the boards to the tune of 51-28.

"Defensively we did all right," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "We did a better job on the boards."

Thief River Falls posted quarter leads of 21-7, 41-22 and 69-31.

Chris Bjorgaard scored 23 points to lead the winners. Brian Stark had a 13-point, 9-rebound game, while Chris Nelson contributed 11 points and 10 rebounds. Eleven Rams scored, but none of them reached double figures.

The Prowlers were 30-for-65 from the field (46 per cent). It was a busy night at the free throw line for both teams, who combined to shoot 78 free throws. The Prowlers were 20-for-38 at the line (53 per cent), and the Rams were 21-for-40 (53 per cent), scoring more points at the free throw line than they did from the field. Those in charge of charting turnovers were also kept busy as the visiting Rams turned the ball over 25 times and the Prowlers did it 20 times.

Thief River Falls, 2-1, will be idle until Tuesday, December 23, when the Prowlers begin their annual Northwest Christmas Classic.

MOORHEAD CENTER Janelle Berg, a 6-1 sophomore, went to the basket with this shot when she slipped behind Thief River Falls defender Lisa Lillevold during Thursday's high school basketball game played in the Lincoln gym. The Prowlers beat the Spuds 45-27 to remain unbeaten at 5-0 for the year.

Area Sports Briefs

Thief River Falls boys held off a fourth quarter Warren rally Thursday to claim a 33-31 freshman high school basketball win at the city auditorium.

It was the second win in three starts for Thief River Falls. The winners led at the quarter stops 12-7, 21-13 and 27-17.

Kurt Kainz led Thief River Falls with 9 points, and Chris Baucage hit the winning basket with five seconds remaining.

Thief River Falls hosts Crookston Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. at the city auditorium.

Area Girls High School Basketball . . .

Nordics' Fast Break Rolls Up 90-45 Win Over Eagles

Four Marshall County Central girls hit double figures Thursday as the Nordics' fast break offense buried Grygla 90-45 in a North Border Conference high school basketball match-up at Newfolden.

Jodi Foss scored 21 points to lead the Nordics, while Kelli Anderson hit 19, Natalie Ueland 18 and Andrea Kragness 10.

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 28-14, 44-21 and 68-28 in climbing to 2-1 for the year. Grygla fell to 0-3.

It was an outstanding effort, reported Nordics Tom Mjelde. "I'd say it was the best basketball that a Marshall County Central team has played in five-six years," he noted. "They ran the fast break like I don't think a Marshall County Central team has ever run it."

Grygla coach Mike Gast was impressed, too. "They have a nice fast break, and things were going well for them," he said. "I don't think we're as bad as the score would indicate. They played well."

Nikki Lian scored 12 points and Alison Stanley had 11 for the Eagles.

Marshall County Central shot 47 per cent from the field (36-for-77), according to the Nordics' charts, and 58 per cent at the free throw line (18-for-31). Grygla shot 38 per cent from the field (18-for-46) and 56 per cent at the line (9-for-16). Marshall County Central figures gave the Nordics a 29-16 rebound advantage and showed Grygla topping the turnover charts 28-17.

Grygla will try to break into the win column before the holiday break tonight (Monday) at Middle River. Marshall County Central will participate in a four-team invitational tournament hosted by Tri-County tonight and Tuesday. Tonight's opening round semifinals match Marshall County Central vs. Stephen at 6:30 p.m. and Argyle vs. Tri-County at 8. Third place and championship games will be played Tuesday at 6:30 and 8 p.m., respectively.

RLF 44

Plummer ran its record to 5-0 Thursday with another one-sided win, this time a 72-44 conquest of visiting Red Lake Falls.

The Cardinals began the game with a 20-0 lead. They led 31-8 at the end of the first quarter, had a 48-16 halftime cushion and opened up a 70-30 third quarter gap.

Janelle Konickson led the winners with 18 points, while Renae Walter and Robin Brantl both had 16 and Angie Delage contributed 13. Tiffany Smith scored 18 points to lead Red Lake Falls.

It was a good, solid effort by his starters, pointed out Plummer coach Rick Koivisto, who cited the play of Walter, a 5-1 junior who was 7-for-9 from the field, 2-for-2 at the free throw line and had eight assists.

Plummer enjoyed a great shooting night. The Cardinals started by making 11 of 12 first quarter field goal attempts and finished the game 28-for-51 (55 per cent). They were 16-for-23 at the free throw line (70 per cent). Red Lake Falls was 20-for-62 from the field (32 per cent) and 4-for-5 at the line. Plummer had a 32-24 rebound edge.

The Cardinals will be idle until this weekend when they host the Plummer Invitational. First round games Friday will match Oslo vs. Oklee at 7 p.m. and Plummer vs. Climax at 8:30. Third place and championship games will be played Saturday at 7 and 8:30 p.m. respectively.

Goodridge 29

Middle River's defense held Goodridge to single-digit scoring in each quarter Thursday en rout to a 61-29 victory over the host Huskies.

The Skippers owned quarter leads of 14-6, 24-13 and 54-21.

Rayette Benke led the winners with 22 points, while Stacie Sparby had 14, Kim Koehmstedt 11 and Kerry Nelson 10, along with 13 rebounds. Carla Manderud scored 15 points for the Huskies.

Middle River was 23-for-69 from the field (33 per cent) and 17-for-30 at the free throw line (57 per cent). Grygla was 11-for-39 from the field (28 per cent) and 7-for-19 at the line (37 per cent). According to the Skippers' charts, Middle River had a sizeable 48-25 rebound advantage.

The Skippers were playing without their two starting guards — Brenda Olson and Nikki Christopherson. Olson is expected to play tonight (Monday) vs. Grygla. Christopherson is sidelined with a recent ankle injury. The 3-2 Skippers also host Greenbush Thursday.

Goodridge, 1-3, will participate in the Warren Invitational Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Huskies draw East Grand Forks as an opening round quarterfinal opponent Thursday at 8:45 p.m.

Pepsi-Northland Hotshot Basketball Skills Contest Set

Pepsi-Northland Hotshot skills competition, a year-round recreation program, is coming to Thief River Falls in January, according to NCC officials. The competition, which is being made possible through the sponsorship of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Thief River Falls in conjunction with Northland Community College, will be held at the Northland gymnasium Saturday, January 24, 1987.

Open to boys and girls ages 9-14, the Pepsi-Northland Hotshot competition tests youngsters in speed, dribbling, shooting and rebounding abilities. There are six categories for competition: boys 9-10, 11-12, 13-14; girls 9-10, 11-12, and 13-14.

Two finalists in each of the six categories of the morning round will receive awards and play off for the age categories. The girls will play off at halftime of the women's basketball game between Northland and Mesabi starting at 12-noon. The boys will play off at halftime of the men's basketball game between Northland and Mesabi starting at 2 p.m.

Forms to register for the Pepsi-Northland Hotshot program will be available at 9 a.m., Saturday, January 24, at Northland Community College. For more information contact Rick Nelson at 681-2181.

Girls Edge Spuds In JV Overtime Contest Thursday

Rhonda Rothschadl connected on a short jumper from the side at the buzzer Thursday to give the Thief River Falls girls a dramatic 53-51 junior varsity high school basketball win over Moorhead.

It was the fourth victory in five starts for the winners.

The two teams played to a 10-10 first quarter tie before Thief River Falls opened up a 28-18 halftime lead. But Moorhead stormed back for a 36-60 third quarter advantage. It was deadlocked 44-44 at the end of regulation time when Thief River Falls' Kari Torkelson scored from the side with 32 seconds left for a 44-43 Thief river Falls lead, but a Moorhead free throw with seven seconds left tied it.

Trailing 51-49, Thief River Falls won it in the final seconds of the three-minute overtime when Tammy Beito, on an in-bounds pass from the side, drove the base line and scored for a 51-51 tie with three seconds left. She missed a free throw that could have completed a three-point play, but there was a jump ball call on the rebound, and on the alternating possession rule, the ball went to Thief River Falls on the side of the court near the winner's basket with just one second left on the clock. The in-bounds pass went to Rothschadl, who quickly turned and put up the game-winner.

Beito had 19 points and Rothschadl 15.

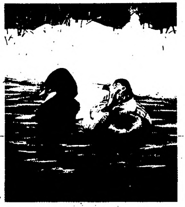
Basketball JV Tops Moorhead, Roseau

Thief River Falls boys junior varsity high school basketball team upped its record to 3-0 with weekend wins over Moorhead and Roseau.

Ryan Walseth scored 17 points, Dean DuChamp 14 and Jason Tangquist 11 as Thief River Falls edged Moorhead 64-62 Friday.

Moorhead led at the quarter stops 20-15, 36-29 and 50-43 before Thief River Falls out-scored the host team 21-12 over the final eight minutes.

Todd Brandon scored 23 points Saturday night as Thief River Falls overwhelmed visiting Roseau 73-19, jumping out to a 27-2 first quarter lead, maintaining a 34-8 halftime spread and opening up a 49-16 third quarter gap.



Waterfowl Group Print Available

Minnesota Waterfowl Association (M.W.A.) announces the release of their 1987 20th anniversary contributing membership print. "Carrying On The Tradition — Minnesota Canvasbacks" by nationally renowned Minnesota artist Daniel Smith is available for a $35 donation to the Minnesota Waterfowl Association and includes one year's membership.

M.W.A. is a private non-profit organization dedicated to the creation, restoration and preservation of wildlife habitat in Minnesota. The Minnesota Waterfowl Association, through proceeds from memberships, fundraisers, and donations, has benefitted Minnesota's wildlife for twenty years.

This year's contributing membership print depicts a pair of "cans" utilizing Minnesota's habitat resources. Smith recently has won five major stamp competitions, including Minnesota's first of state pheasant stamp and Alaska's first of state waterfowl stamp. His individual syle combines intricate brush work and dramatic lighting to make this a prized work for any collector. Its smaller size and vertical format makes this print very unique. Image size is 14x17½ inches, with ample margins for framing. Edition size is 1,250, all signed and numbered.

"Carrying On The Tradition — Minnesota Canvasbacks" would make a great Chrismas gift for those on your list who enjoy quality artwork, point out MWA officials. Send check or money order to: Minnesota Waterfowl Association, 5701 Normandale Road, Minneapolis, MN 55424. VISA and Mastercard accepted. Call 612-922-2832.

Results are in and the "eyes" have it. According to International Wildlife magazine, an experiment conducted by Japan's All-Nippon Airlines found that painting large eyes on the engines frightened birds away from the plane, reducing the number of "strikes." In the past year, the airline recorded only one bird strike per engine on the painted 747s while the unpainted 767s were struck 22 times per engine. The airline is preparing to paint eyes on all of their commercial jets.

Dying Canada Geese

Death this fall of at least 1,500 Canada geese at the Lac qui Parle Wildlife Management Area in west-central Minnesota continue to puzzle Department of Natural Resources officials, particularly after laboratory tests confirmed that the birds did not die of lead poisoning.

The die-off represents only about 1 per cent of the record number of geese at the refuge, but "I don't want to be complacent about the loss of more than a thousand birds," said Robert Jessen, a DNR waterfowl specialist stationed in Bemidji.

The problem became apparent this fall, when hunters and wildlife managers brought in several dead birds that showed the symptoms of lead poisoning. But laboratory analysis by the DNR and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service showed that the birds suffered a malady called "crop impaction."

"The bird is starving to death with a full stomach," Jessen said. "It has been known to occur before, but not at this rate."

Occasionally, impaction is caused by a tangle of bristly grain awns in the birds' crop or by soybeans, which swell and plug the digestive tract. But neither seems the cause of the die-off at Lac qui Parle, Jessen said. Instead, the dead geese are stuffed with an interlayering of grass and corn.

Jessen and others are examining the possibility of paralysis caused by fungus, herbicides, heavy metals other than lead, or other agents.

Despite the death of a small portion of the flock, the other geese are in excellent shape. In fact, conditions at Lac qui Parle have been so favorable, with warm weather, lack of snow cover and standing crops, that the birds have piled in from the north and have refused to head farther south.

The result was a flock of about 150,000 Canada geese in November, a record number for Lac qui Parle and about two-thirds of the eastern prairie population.

"They're not going to leave with that food source there," Jessen said. Especially now, with the hunting season finished, "they are free to come and go and to eat undisturbed."

With normal weather, the geese would have flown south to Missouri by now, Jessen said.

"If those birds were to stay all winter, they would be stressed heartily," Jessen said. "But they aren't going to stay." They'll leave with the onset of bitter, snowy weather, he said.

Hunters in Iowa and Missouri have noticed the birds' absence. Their hunting season came and went — though few geese did.

Minnesotans had the geese to themselves, despite a poor opener that falsely led many hunters to believe few geese were available.

In the days that followed, said Lac qui Parle manager Ken Bonnema said, "hunting generally could be summed up as super."

Snowmobile Trails

Minnesota snowmobilers will have 241 more miles of marked and groomed trails to use this year than last year, said Thomas R. Danger, trails operations supervisor for the Department of Natural Resources. The new trails are near the towns of Slade, Olivia, Bagley and Hallock.

These trails, stretching across Murray, Renville, Clearwater and Kittson counties, bring the statewide total to more than 10,000 miles. They are financed by money from snowmobile registration and a portion of gasoline taxes, which makes them "very much self-supporting," said Danger.

Two major trails in northern Minnesota offer an intensive snowmobiling experience. The 165-mile Taconite State Trail runs from Grand Rapids to Ely through forests of birch, aspen and pine, leading past many isolated lakes and streams. It leads into an additional 150 miles of state park and forest trails. The 154-mile North Shore State Trail weaves through some of the most beautiful scenery in the Upper Mdwest.

Snowmobilers interested in a free directory of Minnesota's snowmobile trails and accommodations can call 1-800-652-9747 in Minnesota and 1-800-328-1461 outside of Minnesota.

Winter Bird Poster

Minnesota winter bird poster, first published by the Department of Natural Resources in 1984, has been reprinted and is available for $4.24 (including tax) plus $1.50 for shipping and handling from the State Documents Division, 117 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55155.

The 17-by-22-inch full-color reproduction of a painting by Susan Southwick protrays 16 species, including a cardinal, downy woodpecker, blue jay, pileated woodpecker and ring-necked pheasant.

For more information about this or other posters, call the State Documents Division toll free from outstate Minnesota at 1-800-652-9747.

Gifts For Christmas

Still looking for Christmas stocking stuffers? Consider these ideas for people interested in the great outdoors.

For cross-country skiers who use groomed public trails, buy a state cross-country ski license. The annual individual license costs $5. A husband-wife license is $7.50

Licenses are available at more than 300 locations, including any state park, designated trail locations, county auditors' offices and the DNR Bureau of Licenses at 500 Lafayette Road in St. Paul. For more information on licenses and the sales locations nearest you, call the DNR Information Center toll-free at 1-800-652-9747.

Kids will like the Water Safety Coloring and Activity Book. It's free from the DNR Information Center.

An annual state park permit is a great gift for a visitor to any of Minnesota's 64 state parks. The cost is $15 ($7.50 for senior citizens). Other gift ideas, the proceeds from which support the state park system, include the 1987 State Park Calendar ($5.95); the All-Season Guide to Minnesota's Parks, Canoe Routes and Trails ($9.44); and the State Park Heritage Series of guidebooks. Other items are available, too. Deals are available on park permits and calendars sold together. Call the DNR Information Center.

Explore Minnesota on Skis, the 1986-87 guide to downhill and cross-country ski areas published by the Minnesota Office of Tourism, provides a list of 2,700 miles of cross-country trails in the state and indicates which require licenses. Explore Minnesota by Snowmobile describes snowmobile trails. Both publications are free from the Minnesota Office of Tourism, 375 Jackson St., 250 Skyway Level, St. Paul, MN 55101. Call toll-free at 800-652-9747. Toll-free outside of Minnesota, call 800-328-1461.

State Park Report

Skiers and snowmobilers interested in state park snow depth and conditions can call (612) 296-6157. The seasonal service of the Department of Natural Resources offers information on snowmobile and cross-country ski trail conditions weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. throughout the winter.

State park personnel report overall trail status each Wednesday and update their reports Fridays if snow depths change measurably. The service is a cooperative effort of the DNR Trails and Waterways Unit, the DNR Forestry Division and the state Climatology Weather Reporting System.

Franklin Middle School

Franklin Middle School eighth grade boys opened their 1986-87 basketball season Monday with a home court split against Warren.

The Spartans won the A game 45-41 as Pete Balmer scored 14 points, Brian Delorme 11 and Travis Lewis 10, but Warren won the B game 31-21 with Mark Fuller scoring 7 points and Jeff Latousky 6 for the Spartans.

Franklin beat East Grand Forks 61-51 in a single Tuesday game as Lewis scored 17 points, Balmer 13 and Delorme 10.

ORDER AND NOTICE OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL AND APPOINTMENT OF PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE IN SUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION AND NOTICE TO CREDITORS

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 23rd day of December, 1986, at 10:15 o'clock A.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the formal probate of an instrument purporting to be the will of the above named decedent, dated June 5, 1981, and for the appointment of Eileen Hillman whose address is 513 N. Main Ave., Warren, MN 56762, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and that any objections thereto must be filed with the Court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Court Administrator within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

International 500 Snowmobile Race Will Be Revived

A new International 500 snowmobile race will revive cross-country snowmobile racing between Canada and the Twin Cities with a 500 mile point-to-point race slated for Saturday, January 31 and Sunday, February 1.

The Jeep I-500 follows in the footsteps of the Winnipeg-to-St. Paul International snowmobile race, which ran from 1966 to 1980. Like the earlier race, this race will have 500 miles as the longest point-to-point snowmobile race in the United States. An estimated 300-350 racers will participate.

Unlike the Winnipeg event, the new, two-day race starts in Thunder Bay, Ont., makes an evening stopover in Duluth, and ends in Minneapolis. The old race, which was sponsored by the St. Paul winter carnival, ran between Winnipeg and Lake Phalen in St. Paul over four days.

Dick Sand, promoter, said the new race will maintain the adventurous spirit of the old Winnipeg race, but will feature additional safety controls. "The planning committee strategically mapped-out a new race course to keep the racers on a safe, uncongested path," he said. "This is definitely a race for the 1980s, and not simply a reprise of an old race."

The 1987 race route includes portions of the Minnesota state snowmobile trail system, local grants-in-aid trails, vacant railroad right-of-ways, and public highway and park properties.

In keeping with tradition, the new race will end as a timed event on Lake Phalen, but snowmobilers will continue through the Twin Cities to their final destination at the Riverplace-St. Anthony Main area in Minneapolis, where ceremonial checkered flags and $75,000 in cash and prizes await their arrival.

Proceeds from the race will benefit The Variety Club children's hospital — a "hospital within a hospital" at the University of Minnesota — which opened in April and is the center for pediatric patient care at the university.

Grand prize will be a 1987 Jeep Cherokee with snow plow.

To qualify, entrants must be 18 years of age or older and licensed or registered as required by their home state. Racers' snowmobiles must be box-stock consumer trail sleds. No high-performance or special machines will be allowed. A $410 registration fee, along with an official entry form, are required to participate in the race.

Entry forms are available from: Jeep I-500, Metro Square, Suite 226, St. Paul, MN 55101 (612) 293-0845.

Area Schools Are Considered For MN Pilot Studies

Twenty-two applications involving 37 school districts in Minnesota — including Goodridge, Oklee, Plummer, Erskine, McIntosh, Crookston and East Grand Forks — have been named by the state board of education to be considered for a state "performance-based" alternative education program. Ten to 15 of those applicants will be selected next spring to be pilot sites.

"In performance-based programs, learner outcomes — specific knowledge and skills thatr students are expected to demonstrate upon a completion of study — are spelled out and determine all other program components — such as instruction, materials, assessment and professional development," said Wayne Erickson, Minnesota department of education curriculum services manager. "The theory holds that students learn best when these components are perfectly aligned with outcomes."

"The performance-based education program — helping districts develop a variety of approaches, assessing their effectiveness and disseminating them to other districts statewide — is the top priority of the state board of education," said board vice president Marjorie Johnson, Lake Park.

Selected state education rules may be waived for pilot sites.

"Existing rules are necessary to ensure a minimum quality of education, but other approaches properly developed may be equally beneficial," Johnson said. "A pilot demonstration program needs flexibility to develop alternative education programs."

"Flexibility is needed also because performance-based education measures effectiveness by outputs, not inputs — by what students learn, not by what is taught, what programs are required, or how much seat time is spent per class," said Erickson.

MDE will help the 22 sites develop four-year implementation proposals before the state board chooses the 10 to 15 pilot sites in March. Final selection will include districts of different sizes, wide geographic distribution, and varying stages of involvement with performance-based education, Erickson said.

The 22 applicants include the Southwest-West Central educational cooperative service unit (ECSU) and 21 school districts.

The districts in the ECSU application include Canby, Clarkfield, Hills-Beaver Creek, Hutchinson, Morgan, and Willmar.

The school districts involved in the other 21 applications include Alden, Amboy, Benson, Breckenridge, Chaska, Chisago Lakes, Climax, Cold Spring, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Erskine, Fertile, Fisher, Fosston, Garden City, Goodridge, Jordan, Lake Crystal, Lake Superior (Two Harbors), Mahtomedi, McIntosh, Minneapolis, North Branch, North St. Paul, Oklee, Plummer, St. Paul, Sauk Rapids, South Washington county, Winona and Worthington.

Washington School Christmas Program Set For Dec. 18

The fifth grade will perform: "I Can Feel the Christmas Spirit," "Bah, Humbug," "What Would the World Be Like Without Christmas," "Who Needs Love," "365 Days of Christmas," and "What is the Meaning of Christmas."

The fourth grade will perform: "The Stable Song," "Shepherds, Awake," and "The Wise Men."

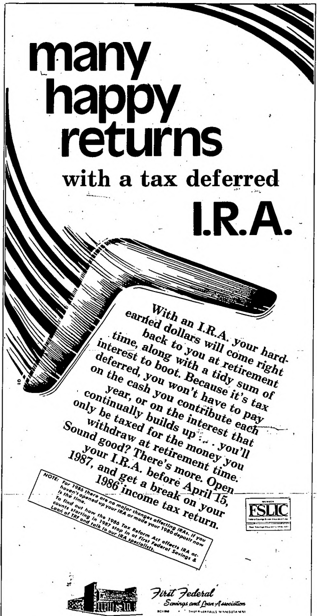
Grades four and five will perform "Silent Night," "God Must Be Happy Tonight," and "Finale."

Titles of other performances include: "It's Christmas Time" by grade 3; "It's Christmas Time With Santa Clause" by the Kindergarten; "It's Christmas Time When It Snows" by grade one; and "The Hustle and Bustle of Christmas Time" by grade two.

Neil Jacobson Elected Regional MDHA Director

Neil Jacobson of Thief River Falls has been elected a regional director of the Minnesota Deer Hunters association at the annual membership meeting at Deep Portage conservation reserve, Hackensack.

MDHA is a state organization begun in the fall of 1980, with a present membership over 18,000. It is dedicated to achieving the best possible deer herd, promoting quality deer hunting and educating hunters and the general public on the values of conservation and preserving natural deer habitat.



many happy returns with a tax deferred I.R.A.

With an I.R.A. your hard-earned dollars will come right back to you at retirement time, along with a tidy sum of interest to boot. Because it's tax deferred, you won't have to pay on the cash you contribute each year, or on the interest that continually builds up . . . you'll only be taxed for the money you withdraw at retirement time. Sound good? There's more. Open your I.R.A. before April 15, 1987, and get a break on your 1986 income tax return.

NOTE: For 1986 there are no major changes affecting IRAs. If you haven't opened up your IRA or made your 1986 deposit now is the time. To find out how the 1986 Tax Reform Act affects IRA accounts starting in 1987 stop in at First Federal Savings & Loan of TRF and talk to our IRA specialists.

City Council Appoints Reeve From Fifth Ward

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Thief River Falls city council selected Bob Reeve to represent fifth ward residents Tuesday night. Council members voted four votes for Reeve, two votes for Dave Beito and one vote for Don Goodrich and then voted unanimously to accept a motion approving Reeves appointment. Reeve will begin his one year term beginning January 1, 1987.

During the Tuesday night meeting the city council also approved a purchase agreement for the downtown Piggly Wiggly building; and, agreed to purchase a Zamboni ice resurfacer by rejecting a low bid by Olympia.

Reeve, a retired student services coordinator at the Thief River Falls AVTI and past state commander for the American Legion in Minnesota, has lived in the fifth ward for 23 years. He lives at 235 South Maple avenue. His education includes a bachelor of science degree from Bemidji state university and a masters degree from the University of Minnesota. He is also active in several civic, service and fraternal organizations.

Reeve said that since his retirement his interest in public government has been renewed. He anticipates no problems with schedules or working with members of the council. He added that he retired under a different plan than Clayton Restad and would not have any problems between his retirement plan and work as a city councilman.

The other candidates for the position were Don Goodrich, a former city council alderman at large, Wayne C. Smith, an American Family Insurance agent in Thief River Falls; and Dave A. Beste, owner-general manager of Stone's Mobile Radio, Inc., in Thief River Falls. All are residents in the fifth ward.

The vote was made by ballot and is open to public inspection. All members of the city council were

School Board Declines To Make DAC Proposal

Decision not to submit a proposal for developmental achievement center services, authorization to request bids for purchase of two 71-passenger school buses and approval of a preliminary AVTI budget for 1987-88 took place when the School District 564 board of education met Monday at the school district service center in Thief River Falls.

The board adopted a resolution in support of the administration's decision to not submit a proposal to the Pennington county department of welfare and human services to provide selected vocational services. The department issued requests for proposals for developmental achievement center services to involve about 31 clients in Pennington county.

In addition to development of specifications and call for bids on the two 71-passenger school buses, the district will receive bids on two 10-passenger vans and a midsize, front-wheel drive station wagon for the mine safety and health act program.

Preliminary AVTI revenue budget of $4,906,024 and expenditure budget of $4,907,449 were approved by the board. Also approved was establishment of a Lowell Swenson temporary loan fund at the AVTI with Swenson's consent. The fund will be used to pay tuition and fees for students awaiting confirmation on financial aid packages until their financial aid arrives.

Marcia Sandahl reported on activities conducted by the superintendent's office to increase community awareness in what the schools are doing in the community. Letters were read from Winona state university, commending Kevin and Heidi Ryan on their concert and from American Legion Post 117 thanking the school district for cooperation during Veterans Day ceremonies at Lincoln high school.

Resignation of Marlys Furuseth as accounts receivable and records reconciliation clerk was accepted effective Jan. 5, 1987. Angie Sinn was hired as assistant girls swimming coach for 1987-88, Charles Kruse as Franklin skating rink attendant and Jeff Wilkens as regular route bus driver.

Vern Treat was hired as AVTI associate director and Bob Bolleson as AVTI assistant director effective Jan. 1, 1987; Tammy Swick as half-time business department teacher aide and William May as AVTI architectural drafting instructor. Jan Hoff was granted an increase from $12 to $12.50 per hour as small business development coordinator and authorization was given by the board to post for an AVTI electronics lab assistant.

It was reported that no further negotiations were planned with Northern Woodwork for possible purchase of that property since the price requested was higher than the district was prepared to pay.

Joint AVTI governance with Bemidji school board was discussed and it was noted that the two boards will meet January 18 in Minneapolis during the Minnesota School Boards association convention. Meeting with the boards will be Joe Graba, state director of vocational-technical education, members of his staff and representatives of AVTI faculty. The meeting is intended for the boards to share information on facilities, identify questions and issues and further define avenues of cooperation.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Greg Pribula was presented with a plaque recognizing six and one-half years of service to the school district as a board member. Pribula was defeated in the November election. He commented on some of the positive changes that have taken place in the district during the past six years.

Next meeting of the board will be January 9 at 7 p.m. when the board will reorganize with Ron Martin and Dennis Kiesow as new members. Next regular meeting will be January 12 at 7:30 p.m.

James Haviland New Vice Provost At Northland CC

Selected from among 105 applicants, Dr. James Haviland of Presque Isle, Maine, has been named vice provost of Northland community college in Thief River Falls. He has accepted the postition and will begin his duties here shortly after the first of the year.

Dr. Haviland is currently chief executive officer of the Aroostock Medical Center foundation and previously was director of special and external programs at the University of Maine in Presque Isle, according to Dr. Allen Nichols, provost at Northland. Special and external programs will be among his primary duties in the vice provost position, Dr. Nichols said.

The new vice provost holds a master of education degree and doctorate in education with an emphasis in educational administration from Western Michigan university at Kalamazoo, earning the former in 1975 and the latter in 1982. He and his wife Alicia have five children, ages five, four, three, two and less than a year.

"The search committee at Northland spent many hours deliberating the selection of a vice provost," Dr. Nichols said. "The committee feels the selection of Dr. Haviland will enhance the educational environment at Northland because he has such a wealth of experience in curriculum design and several years of educational supervisory experience."

The vice provost position has been open since the resignation of Madeline Novelino July 1.

Eldora Paradis New Postmaster At Plummer PO

Eldora Paradis, postmaster at Goodridge since April of 1985, has been appointed postmaster at Plummer effective December 20.

"We welcome her as postmaster at Plummer and are delighted that she has been selected to head up postal operations there," stated Duane Bellefeuille adding that Dick McCloskey, postmaster at Thief River Falls, will administer the oath of office in the Plummer post office at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, January 6.

Paradis succeeds Nadine Johnson who retired October 3. In the interim, Judy Yutrzenka of Viking has been officer-in-charge. She will return to her regular position as rural carrier at Fergus Falls.

Paradis joined the postal service as a clerk in 1980 at Oklee. She and her husband Bryon, have two children.

Stumpf To Chair Subcommittee On MN Sales Taxes

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer recently received his new senate committee assignments for, the next four years, and he was named chair of the Senate tax subcommittee on sales taxes.

"My selection to chair this key subcommittee excites me," Stumpf said. "Tax reform, and consideration of the state's current sales tax, will be a priority issue facing the next legislature."

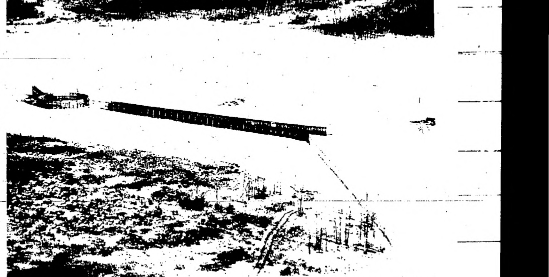
Stumpf, beginning his secod term in the Senate and third in the legislature, said his experience as a member of the new senate tax committee from 1982-1986 will serve him well in his new role.

"In addition to my responsibility heading this new committee," Stumpf added, "I will also be serving on a number of other important committees including environment and natural resources, agriculture and education, all of which cover issues that are vital to the future of our own area."

Monday Times To Carry Christmas Greeting Ads

Monday's edition of the Times will carry a number of Christmas greetings from area business and professional firms and individuals. The greetings are being published in the Monday edition so they will reach all subscribers prior to the Christmas holiday.

The Times will publish on its regular schedule Wednesday, December 24, and the paper will be on area newsstands that day. Because of the Christmas holiday on December 25, however, subscribers receiving their paper in the mail will not receive it until Friday.



IN ALL LIKELIHOOD this corral constructed by the Minnesota department of natural resources to capture the state's last remaining elk herd in the Grygla area will be used no more. Judge Bertrand Poritsky has issued an order in Ramsey county district court (St. Paul) restraining the DNR from any more capture efforts until the legislature meets or until a means can be found for moving the animals without harm to them. Judge Portisky acted on petitions filed by Minnesota chapters of the Sierra club, Fund for Animals and Friends of Animals and Their Environment (FATE), later joined by the state Audubon society. Efforts to capture and remove the elk from the area to prevent crop damage met with only moderate success. Several animals were captured and transferred to the Red Lake Indian reservation but escaped or were injured and had to be destroyed. One large bull shot with a tranquilizer dart from a helicopter drowned when it went down in water. Jerry Maertens, manager of Thief Lake wildlife management area, said the DNR will resume its elk feeding project on an expanded basis now that the capture effort has been restrained. Feed had been placed only in the corral area this winter. Maertens said a herd of about 20 elk had been located north of the Mud river in Valley township late last week. The round-up effort had been ordered by the state legislature after farmers in the Grygla area successfully lobbied for removal of the herd which they said caused extensive crop losses.

Gayleen Bjorgan-Kenton Kainz Wed In Red Lake Falls

Gayleen Marie Bjorgan and Kenton Dayle Kainz were married August 23 at Bethany Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls. Rev. Trueman Daniels officiated at the 4 p.m., double ring ceremony before 215 guests.

Parents of the couple are Maurice Bjorgan, Red Lake Falls and Dayle and Delores Kainz of Goodridge.

Ann Manderud, friend of the groom, served as organist, playing the traditional "Bridal March" as processional. Kurt Kainz, brother of the groom, sang "Wedding Song," accompanied by Mary Rogalla on guitar. Deb and Tim Panek sang "Endless Love" as duet, and Deb sang a solo of "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with a special banner designed and fashioned by the bride and groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white taffeta and chiffon gown with Chantilly, Wedgewood and Venise lace. A high neckline of Venise lace was accented with pearls, and Chantilly lace graced the bodice with Venise lace and pearl accents. A basque waist with peek-a-boo window trimmed in lace ruffles of Wedgewood and one of Chantilly. Appliques of Chantilly lace with irridescents graced the front of the skirt, and panels of chiffon trimmed in Wedgewood lace, and a chiffon bowed waist were back features. A scalloped, cathedral-length train was accented with Wedgewood lace and Chantilly lace appliques.

To compliment her gown, the bride wore a tiara headpiece of Chantilly lace and pearls with a fingertip veil and pouf accented with pearls. She carried a fan with purple and white roses and flowing satin ribbon. The bride designed all flowers for the wedding party. Her personal attendants were Julie Heaton, Thief River Falls, and Mary Beth Hruby, Fargo, ND.

Maid of honor was Maureen Bjorgan, sister of the bride from Red Lake Falls. Other bridesmaids were Diana Brunelle, Crookston, and Duanna Scholin, Roseau, both friends of the bride. All attendants wore violet taffeta gowns with high lace necklines and tulip-shaped skirts and carried small bridal fans covered with white silk roses and tiny purple carnations. They wore pearl-trimmed hats covered with violet taffeta.

Wade Hruby, Fargo, ND, friend of the groom, served as best man. Other groomsmen were Kurt Kainz, brother of the groom, and Kevin Sanders, friend of the groom, both from Goodridge. Ushers were Kraig Kainz, brother of the groom, Thief River Falls; Joe Kainz, cousin of the groom, Brooklyn Center; and Richard Thorfinnson, friend of the bride, Red Lake Falls.

All gentlemen of the wedding party wore grey tuxedos with lavender ties and cummerbunds with silk rosebud and carnation boutonnieres. The groom wore white tails with white accessories and a purple carnation and white rose boutonniere.

The mother of the groom wore a lavender tea length gown with purple accessories, with a corsage of white and purple roses and rosebuds, white daisies and tiny purple carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the American Legion clubrooms in Red Lake Falls. The three-tiered, marble cake was frosted in white, featuring tiny purple blossom decorations, and a ceramic bride and groom placed in front of a crocheted fan, made by the bride. Sally Cardinal made the wedding cake and the bride and groom cake top.

Host couples at the reception were John and Carol Columbus, Red Lake Falls, and Frank and Mary Kainz, Brooklyn Center. Sandy Fontaine, Red Lake Falls, and Cathy Kainz, Goodridge, cut and served the wedding cake, and Dawn Scholin, Red Lake Falls, and Kim SeyKora, St. Paul, poured.

Kyle and Michelle Hopkins served punch; Lynelle Bjorgan presided at the guest book; and waitresses were Kay Kainz, Jennifer Kainz, Linnae Longtin, Mindy Schneider, Jennifer Waldock and Paulette Casavan. In charge of gifts were Ann SeyKora and Stacy Crowell.

A groom's supper was held at the home of the bride's father following the rehearsal.

The bride is a graduate of Lafayette high school, Red Lake Falls, and the Thief River Falls AVTI cosmetology course. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school and Northland community college in Thief River Falls and Bemidji state university and will attend Northwestern college of chiropractic in Bloomington. The bride was employed at the Head Quarters in Red Lake Falls and is presently employed at Great Clips in Bloomington.

Campanula Club Hears About 50's Activities

The Campanula garden club met December 10 at the Eleanor Tornes home. A dessert luncheon was served at the beginning of the meeting.

President Ruth Holmes conducted the meeting, which was begun with the reading of the purpose of the club and the December poem. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read, along with the cheer report. The president reported on the gifts purchased for a girl and a boy with money donated by the club members instead of having a Christmas gift exchange.

Marie Fischer read excerpts from secretarys' reports from 1950 and 1951. President at that time was Mrs. Albert (Hulda) Swanson, who had been president since the beginning of the club in 1948. Vice president was Geneva Overum; secretary and treasurer, Ella Brokke. The club brought flowers to each teacher in elementary and high schools on the opening day of school, a tour of garden was made each year, and the club of 1950 participated in the district flower show.

Officers in 1951 were president, Geneva Overum; vice president, Mrs. Hardy Bjerk; secretary and treasurer, Dorothy Berve. The club continued to give flowers to teachers for several years.

Members enjoyed reminiscing about the history of the club and made a donation toward a program. Luncheon was served before adjournment. There will be no meeting in January as there will be planning of the program booklet.

Jana Budke Will Study In Germany For Five Months

Twenty-eight St. Cloud state university (SCSU) students will leave in early January for five months of study in France and West Germany through SCSU's center for international studies. Among them will be Jana Budke, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Melvyn Budke of Thief River Falls.

Half of the students will attend classes at the University of Toulouse in the French city of the same name, and the other 14 will study the German culture and language in Ingolstadt, West Germany, where SCSU operates its own study center. Jana will study in Germany.

The SCSU students in Ingolstadt will study German history, Geography, literature, art and politics in classes conducted in German, taught by German instructors at local college-preparatory schools.

Students will live at first in pensions in downtown Ingolstadt and then will have the opportunity for homestays of four to six weeks with local families. They will also have opportunities for individual travel and group excursions.

7 p.m. Christmas Eve program at Seventh-day Adventist church, TRF.

Zion Christmas Concert Sunday Features Choir

Zion Lutheran church Christmas concert will be conducted Sunday at 4 p.m. with a potluck supper to follow the program. Phyllis Dalager and Olga Engevik will be directors of the concert with Jerry Joringdal and Ida Norvall as accompanists, Rev. Roger Hanson as reader and Faye Erickson as flutist.

Senior choir will sing "Salvation Is Created" by Tschesnekoff; "Mexican Christmas Procession," a Mexican Christmas carol; "Away in a Manger," an American carol; "The Three Kings," old Catalan nativity song; "Out of the Orient Crystal Skies" by R. Zgodava; "I Saw Three Ships," English carol; and "A Christmas Carol" by Charles Ives.

"The Silvertones" will present "While Shepherds Watched Thier Flocks" and "Star of the East." Jodi Anderson and Rachel Ness will combine on "Carol of the Children" and David Morken will sing "Sweet Little Jesus Boy."

Elaine Larson, Melba Penning and Phyllis Dalager will form a trio for "What Child Is This," an English carol. Piano duet, "Halleluia Chorus" by Handel, performed by Rebekah Bortnem and Anne Nabben. Ladies chorus will sing "Infant Holy," a Polish carol, and the program will also include congregational singing and responsive reading. Public attendance is invited.

"AN EVENING of Christmas Music" will be presented at the Seventh-day Adventist Church Saturday at 7 p.m. First half of the concert will feature selections about "God's Gift of Love" performed by the students of the Adventist elementary school, directed by Mrs. Marion Madden, who teaches grades one through four. Second half of the program will feature selections from "Night of Miracles" performed by the church choir under the direction of guest conductor, Tim Rittenour. Guest soloist is Cindy Buchholz, Crookston, and male vocalists are Tim Tittenour, Bill Simpson Jr. and Jamie Madden. Mrs. Ida Nordvall will accompany both choirs. Following the program refreshments will be served. A warm invitation is extended to the community.

Roseau Library Friends Sponsor Discussion Group

Roseau Friends of the Library will sponsor a "Let's Talk About Books" adult discussion group beginning January 8. "Minnesota Sampler" is the theme chosen for this series in which a wide variety of literature written by and about Minnesotans will be read. This is the third series of book discussions sponsored by the Library Friends.

The titles include Ole Rolvaag's "The Third Life of Per Smevik;" "The Great Gatsby," by F. Scott Fitzgerald; "Main Street," by Sinclair Lewis; "Staggerford," by Jon Hassler; Carol Bly's "Letters from the Country;" Garrison Keillor's "Lake Wobegon Days;" "Second Heaven," by Judith Guest; and the new novel by Bemidji author Will Weaver, "Red Earth, White Earth."

Several people have signed up for the discussion group; those who are interested or would like more information may contact the Roseau library at 463-2585. Some of the books are available now and the rest will be available throughout the month. They may be checked out for a three-week period. Because the supply is limited, readers are encouraged to "read and return."

There is no charge for the discussion sessions which will be held every other Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Refreshments will be served by volunteers among the participants.

Legal Outreach Seminar Tonight At Country Roads

Area Ag Information center in Thief River Falls and Kevin Duffy, attorney, will be holding a "Legal Outreach Seminar" Wednesday (tonight) at the Country Roads supper club in Red Lake Falls from 7 to 9 p.m. This seminar is open to the public and free of charge.

Those who have any legal questions, such as on FmHA, Federal credit, public benefits or questions regarding the center and its services are encouraged to attend.

Crookston Area Bird Count Set This Saturday

Saturday, December 20, is the date set for the 14th annual Crookston Christmas bird count. Participants should meet at Handy Farms in Crookston at 7 a.m., according to Tom Feiro, organizer and senior lab technician in the natural resources area of the agriculture division at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

The Crookston count will be one of over 1,500 similar counts taken from Hawaii to Labrador and from Alaska to Venezuela, during the period between December 18 and January 4.

This marks the 87th anniversary of the original Christmas bird count. The results are sbumitted to the National Audubon Society, which supervises the affair and publishes all the counts in its journal, "American Birds."

By tradition the "count area" is a 15-mile diameter circle. The Crookston count is centered at Harold station and covers the area between Crookston, Gentilly, Melvin's Slough and Greenview. Within the circle of land and water, count organizers attempt to field as many birders as possible. They are grouped into "parties," each with a section of the circle which they alone search. There is no limit ot the number of participants.

Interested persons do not have to be experts to participate, according to Feiro, but there will be a $3 participant's fee this year.

"The parties are divided up with a leader who can show everyone what to look for. If someone is unable to be outside we can use their help in another way. Winter bird feeders are an important hot spot for the count day," Feiro said. If anyone has a feeder and would like to count from inside, he or she should contact Feiro.

For those willing to help in the count, Feiro reminds all to dress warmly because the count takes place regardless of weather conditions.

"Last year with only five observers, we counted 20 species and 23,294 individuals," Feiro said.

Other counts taking place in the area include Grand Forks on December 21 and Warren on January 1. For information on those counts, contact Gladwin Lynne at 218-745-4457.

All birders interested in the Crookston count should meet at Handy Farms at 7 a.m. Saturday, December 20. Usually the count lasts from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., but birders are needed for any part of the day.

For more information, contact Feiro at UMC at 218-281-6510, ext. 312 or after 5 p.m. at 218-281-5515.

Living Nativity Scene Slated By St. John Church

Nativity scenes are a familiar decoration at many homes during the Christmas season, but St. John Lutheran church will be adding a touch of realism from 4 to 8 p.m. on Sunday with a live portrayal of the story on the front lawn of the church.

This is the fourth year that members of the congregation will portray characters involved in the Christmas narrative. Live animals, including a donkey and possibly sheep and cattle, will also be a part of the scene. In addition, outdoor speakers will broadcast Christmas music and a reading of the Biblical account of Christ's birth as found in the book of Luke, chapter two.

The handbell choir will perform at 6 p.m. inside the church. Public attendance is welcomed and refreshments will served inside the church, located on the corner of First street and Pine avenue, just west of highway 59 in Thief River Falls. St. John's festival worship services will be at 5 p.m. on Christmas eve, and at 9:30 a.m. on Christmas day.

TRF Schools To Close Friday For 2-Week Holiday

There will be no classes at Thief River Falls public schools from regular dismissal time this Friday until regular class time on Monday, January 5. School offices will be open except for Wednesday and Thursday of both weeks and the school switchboard will be in operation, according to the office of Dr. Leo Ruberto, superintendent.

CAPITOL COMMENTARY

by LeRoy Stumpf

State Senator — District I

"I have always thought of Christmas as a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of, in the long calendar of the year, when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely" — Charles Dickens.

In this holiday news column, my family and I want to wish all of you and yours a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Our rural economic problems are still facing us, and federal government disclosures of alleged malfeasance seem to dominate the television air waves. But we must always remember we still have much to be thankful for, since we live in a great country, and should continue ap*preciating the blessings of our democratic way of life.*

In this Christmas season, then, I would like to call for more "sharing and caring" among everyone, to help those who go without, and to think about others who have less but are too proud to ask for more.

Our nation and state are going through difficult times, with changes occurring almost daily.

However, the Christmas spirit of sharing and caring knows no season and should be remembered at all times of the year.

The holidays, nonetheless, do offer all of us a chance to stop and consider the common bonds that unite us — as a nation, a community and a family.

In rural Minnesota, we need to encourage more cooperation among our farmers, our government officials and our main street businesses if we are going to solve these problems.

As 1986 draws to a wintery close, and holiday greetings give way to New Year's resolutions, we should all look forward to what we can do as individuals and as communities to provide the sharing and caring needed in rural areas of our state.

I look forward to receiving your suggestions on what has been done, what should be done and how it can help our state and its people. We need to look at ourselves as individuals to see what we've done to aid the needs, clothe the poor and serve their best interests throughout the year.

If you have any comments or suggestions about how we can best improve our economy and renew the great spirit of our state, please feel free to contact my office at: 306 State Capitol Building, St. Paul, MN 55155 or call (612) 296-8660.

Happy 30th

Council Names Robert Reeve To Serve Fifth Ward

present at the council meeting and all seven votes were cast.

At the meeting Tuesday night the council also passed a motion to enter into a purchase agreement with Clark Brenna of Cook, MN, for the downtown Piggly Wiggly store in Thief River Falls. Piggly Wiggly is currently planning to move to a new location on Pennington avenue within two years. The negotiated price of the building at this time is $160,550, nearly $20,000 more than the appraised value of the building.

The purchase agreement includes provisions for a continued use of the property by Nash-Finch (Piggly Wiggly) for a period of two years at $800 per month with taxes and utilities to be paid by Piggly Wiggly. Members of the committee negotiating the purchase, J.J. Womack and Ken Murphy, said they felt satisfied with the agreement and that they were as close as they could get to the appraised value of the building. They were also satisfied because they believe the location is ideal and could possibly enhance liquor sales. The purchase agreement would take effect January 1, 1987.

The low bid on an ice resurfacer for the Sports Arena was turned down because members of the committee did not feel it met the needs of Thief River Falls. Rejection of the low bid in favor of a bid for a Zamboni means a $4,049 difference in cost. The low bid, an Olympia, was $30,395 while the bid on a Zamboni was $34,444. Committee members working on the purchase noted that choosing the Zamboni would mean a savings in parts and on blades because the city already owns one Zamboni, with which the parts are interchangeable. The council accepted a motion to purchase a Zamboni 520 at a cost of $34,444.

In other business the council: paid regular and special bills from Wagner construction of $7,325 and McFarlane sheet metal of $4,500; accepted an engagement letter for the 1986 audit by Anderson, Poissant, Kayes, and Co.; and approved the sale of licenses for cigarettes, on-sale beer, off-sale beer, junk dealers, taxi license, auctioneers, plumbers and sewage dumping for the 1987 year.

Information on the 1987 budget was tabled and the meeting adjourned until December 29 at 5 p.m. to work out the details of the 1987 budget.

It was noted by the council that Dave Kildahl, city engineer representing Stewart and Walker Engineering will no longer be the city's liason with Stewart and Walker. Kildahl has accepted a new position with a competing firm in Crookston. Jim Walker and Art Larson of Stewart and Walker will fill in until a replacement is found.

At the end of the meeting Mayor Bob Carlson appointed Tim Delorme to replace Wayne Liden on the HRA committee and reappointed Paul Ihle to the HRA committee.

Denise Ayers And Edna Johnson At Youth Conference

Denise Ayers, daughter of Eva Ayers Anderson of Thief River Falls, and Edna Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson of Thief River Falls, represented Red Lake Electric cooperative at the 31st cooperative conference for youth. Both girls are juniors at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

Approximately 200 youths, representing cooperatives throughout Minnesota, attended the event recently at the St. Paul Radisson hotel. The conference is an opportunity for youth to learn basic cooperative principles.

Tuesday the youth had an opportunity to visit various cooperatives in the metropolitan area. Red Lake electric cooperative sponsors two youths to attend the conference each year.

The 41st annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Cooperatives (MAC) was held in conjunction with the youth conference. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lambert of rural Thief River Falls attended as representatives of Red Lake Electric cooperative.

Keynote speaker for the conference and meeting was Bob Bergland, former U.S. Representative from Roseau and former U.S. Secretary of agriculture, who is now executive vice president and general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative association. His address was entitled, "Cooperatives — Our Future."

Legal Notices Can Lead To Bargains In Home Property

How can you get rich reading the legal notices? A real estate broker and investor from California suggests that the first place to look for bargain property is in the legal notice section of community newspapers. "It's an avenue to wealth in buying discount property," he says.

"A common misconception is that foreclosures only happen to poor people" he said. "But because of constant changes that can affect anyone's life, some homeowners are losing or walking away from valuable property in every community across the country.

"It is possible to find really good deals even in the best neighborhoods where property values are up and owners possess higher equities," he says. "Smart investors search the newspaper notices to find bargain properties in default or foreclosure."

A legal notice of default and sale is published in a newspaper of genreral circulation once a week usually for three weeks. The notice serves two important purposes. First, it notifies the owner that he is behind in his payments and unless the account is brought current the property will be sold at public auction. Second, it directs potential buyers to property that can usually be purchased below market value at a substantial saving to the buyer.

Information contained in the notice includes the date and the amount in default; a source to contact for updated information; the name of the trustee or person who will conduct the sale; the original date and amount of the trust deed; the name of the person being foreclosed on; the legal description and address of the property; and the name address and phone nuumber of the person or company forecIsoing.

By following the information in the legal notice, a buyer can make necessary arrangements to purchase a property prior to the foreclosure sale.

Race Horse Oats Topic Of Meeting

NCC Notes Alcohol Awareness Week

by David Hill
Times Reporter

Northland community college students were given an opportunity to experiment with alcohol in a controlled environment last week. Five happy volunteers agreed to drink enough alcohol to impair their coordination in an experiment during alcohol awareness week at the community college in Thief River Falls.

After students consumed alcohol provided by the Municipal Liquor store, Police Chief Froschheiser, Officer Tim Miller, Investigator Dennis Kiesow and Cliff Matson of the state highway patrol conducted coordination exercises and discussed the importance of alcohol awareness with the students. County Attorney Dave Olin was also present to inform them of the penalties and problems that accompany driving under the influence violations.

Chief Froschheiser said he hopes the individuals that participated in the exercise learned something from it and take the use of alcohol seriously. Froschheiser takes driving under the influence of alcohol violations seriously. Statistically 650,000 people were injured, crippled or maimed in 1985 and 26,000 killed in alcohol related accidents. The statistics show that one of every 10 drivers on the road are intoxicated.

While statistics in Minnesota show fewer violations, the statistics are still alarming. A roadside survey at 16 different sites in Minnesota in 1985 showed that one out of every 42 drivers was intoxicated everyday of the week. The survey was taken before 11 p.m. A similar survey taken in 1982 or 1983, Froschheiser said, however, showed that one out of every 20 drivers were intoxicated every day of the week before midnight.

Froschheiser said people seem to be more aware of the consequences of driving under the influence, but another variable contributing to the statistical improvement is enforcement. In Minnesota during 1976 there were 19,419 arrests for driving under the influence. In Minnesota during 1985 there were 35,383 arrests for driving under the influence. Driver's license revocations due to an alcohol and driving relationship were also up. In 1976 there were 14,251 revocations, but in 1985 there were 40,807.

Froschheiser said that he would have liked to see a longer period of time between the consumption of alcohol and testing at the college. "Most of the students did quite well, however most had difficulty standing on one foot and counting to 25," Froschheiser said. All tested over .05 on an intoxilizer and the ratings increased as time elapsed.

Under Minnesota law, it is unlawful to drive with a concentration of .10 per cent or more alcohol in the blood, or while under the influence of alcohol. A concentration of .10 can be influenced by a person's body weight and the food eaten before drinking. And a person can be legally under the influence even below .10. A concentration of .07 can be recorded on the driver's license, according to the Minnesota drivers manual.

It also doesn't matter whether a person is drinking beer, wine or whiskey, it's the amount of alcohol that enters the blood that counts. One ounce of alcohol, 86 proof, is equal to roughly 12 ounces of beer, or four ounces of wine.

Common misconceptions about the effects of alcohol are slow in evaporting under the flood of information reaching the public. However, some still remain fixed. Cold showers, black coffee and food will not speed up the process of alcohol leaving the body. Alcohol is quickly absorbed into the body, but it takes its time leaving the body. It takes an estimated 10 hours before alcohol in a person with a blood alcohol concentration of .10 will be completely out of the body.

When a person is stopped by police because the police suspect something is wrong or the driver has already demonstrated that something is wrong by violating a law, and then the officer determines that alcohol may be a factor, the driver must submit to testing under the implied consent law. The implied consent law provides that a person who drives a motor vehicle on the public roads of Minnesota is deemed to have given consent to a test of blood, breath or urine to determine the alcohol concentration.

A person signs a promise to give consent to be tested when getting a driver's license. If a person fails to give consent when it is asked, or if too drunk to give the consent, their driving privileges may be revoked for six months. Revocation takes place even if the person is found not guilty of the charge, or the charge is later reduced or dismissed, according to the Minnesota driver's manual.

If a person is convicted of driving while under the influence, the first conviction can result in: revocation of the driver's license for not less than 30 days, a fine of not more than $500, up to 90 days in jail or both. A second conviction becomes a gross misdemeanor and the penalty is a license revocation of not less than 90 days and a fine of not more than $1,000 or up to a year in jail, or both. Subsequent convictions carry even stiffer penalties.

The cost of a DUI is staggering in its loss of life and physical and permanent disabilities; and staggering in its cost in fines and penalties also. But one cost which is often overlooked is the cost of insurance after a DUI conviction. Depending on the age of the driver, vehicle and number of violations a single violation can, in some instances, almost double insurance premiums.

Those individuals in charge of the test at Northland are hopeful that this information will disuade their fellow students from driving under the influence. The five subjects also learned how long alcohol can remain in the blood stream. According to Carla Dick, an organizer of the event, at least one student was still impaired at 5 p.m. that day. The students were kept at the school the entire day or until they were able to operate a vehicle, which means they were no longer impaired by the effects of alcohol.

That evening a non-alcoholic party at the Family Bowl in Thief River Falls was sponsored by the student association. Dick said that while attendance was lower than what they had hoped for, she believes the exercise was worthwhile.

BSU To Sponsor Trip To Norway Again Next Year

Bemidji state university will sponsor a two-week trip to Norway and Denmark next summer, July 22 to August 4, with Art Lee as tour director. Lee is professor of history and the author of several "Lutefisk" books about Scandinavians in America.

The group travels from Minneapolis non-stop to London where it boards a plane to Bergen, Norway.

After two days in Bergen on the scenic west coast, the group takes the all-day train journey from Bergen to Oslo, a ride that starts at sea level and ends at sea level but goes through high mountains and around glaciers, even if it is late in July.

Oslo becomes a kind of "base camp" for eight days. Each morning a professor from the University of Oslo comes to the hotel to lecture on some phase of Norway; each afternoon the group voes out by bus to visit the many sites around the city.

No one is obligated to attend any of the morning sessions or go on any bus tour. People are free to do what they want to do — and many choose to visit relatives. The last few days of the tour are spent in Copenhagen.

The total costs for all plane-train-bus fares, all rooms and meals, all museum tickets and the like is $1,789. Interested persons should contact: Foreign Studies, BSU, Bemidji, 56601 (218-755-2840) for more information. Or contact Art Lee at same address.

Parents Advised Not To Lecture On Drunk Driving

Talking about drinking and driving with teen-age drivers is not as difficult as some parents think if, the Minnesota safety council warns, it is a discussion and not a lecture.

It is important that both parents and child understand the age 21 drinking law. A 19-year-old can purchase and use alcohol if born before Sept. 1, 1967. If born after that date, it is illegal for him or her to purchase and consume beverages containing alcohol.

Find out what the son or daughter thinks about the drinking and driving problem and what he or she would do if a friend had too much to drink and wanted to drive. Show respect for the youngster's maturity and sense of responsibility and set a good behavior example, the council suggests.

National drunk and drugged driving awareness week, December 14 - 20 emphasizes the designated driver concept where one member of the group drives and doesn't drink. Non-drinking teen-agers become very popular companions.

Finally, make sure that the son or daughter knows that the parents consider their safety more important than getting the car home, and that nothing justifies driving after drinking alcoholic beverages.

Party Givers Are Responsible For Lives Of Guests

Employers sponsoring an office party or friends hosting a gathering at home are responsible for seeing that their guests have every chance of getting home safely, according to the Minnesota Safety council.

If serving alcoholic beverages, provide plenty of food. Snacks can slow down the rate at which the body absorbs alcohol. High protein foods like cheese and meat stay in the stomach longer. Set up the food and beverages so that guests are encouraged to eat throughout the party.

Since it is easy to underestimate the amount of liquor poured straight from the bottle, use jiggers or one-ounce bottle dispensing spouts. Standard measures usually result in less excessive drinking and drinks taste better, the safety council says.

Good hosts do not push drinks on their guests. When a glass is empty, don't rush to refill it. Provide non-alcoholic beverages for those who don't drink alcohol and for those who want to switch.

National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week, December 14-20, suggests that hosts stop serving alcoholic beverages at least an hour before the party is expected to end.

Warning Signs Can Alert Public To Drunk Drivers

"You can help get drunk drivers off the road and protect yourself by being aware of warning signs that indicate that another driver has been drinking," according to the Minnesota safety council.

"By learning to spot the warning signs, you can avoid being involved in an alcohol related traffic accident," the safety council said. It also recommends reporting the driver by calling 911 and advising authorities of the location, make and color of car and license number, if possible.

Be on the lookout for unusually wide turns, straddling the center line, weaving or swerving, excessive speed or unusually slow speed or nearly striking an object or other vehicle.

Other signs include stopping with no apparent cause, abrupt or illegal turns, rapid acceleration or deceleration, drifting from one lane to another or driving with the window down in cold weather.

Sponsors of National drunk and drugged driving week December 14 - 20 urge public cooperation to save lives.

Use Inquiring Mind As Well As Eye When Purchasing Anything

by David M. Maxfield
Smithsonian News Service

When it comes to gift giving, whether for the holidays, birthdays or other special times, deciding what to give family and friends on your shopping list may be far easier than assuring that their presents are the best your money can buy. As prices soar — especially for art, antiques and crafts — many people are making out another kind of list to help them judge the quality of possible purchases.

In today's auction and sales markets, that task often requires the skills and eye of the connoisseur, a person defined as having expert knowledge and keen discrimination in matters of taste. Whether shopping for an antique quilt or a handcrafted, contempory chest, buyers should "approach every object with an inquiring mind as well as with an inquiring eye." That's the practical advice offered by one expert. Says another, "Connoisseurship is not just having a wonderful eye, but being able to express the reasons you like or do not like at work."

The stakes in connoisseurship can be unbelieveably high. The things made and used by a civilization are a basic expression of its people. "To know man we must study the things he has made," says cultural historian E. McClung Fleming, long associated with Delaware's Winterthur Museum. Inarguably, Michelangelo's Pieta, Rembrandt's portraits and Van Gogh's landscapes are all superlative treasures.

One nation's borrowing from another is in itself a form of connoisseurship, one making a judgment about the other. At Syon, the Duke of Northumberland's house just outside London, visitors almost always stop to admire the meditative, dying warrior made of bronze. The figure was copied from a marble version at Rome's Capitoline Museum, and that in turn was based on an ancient Greek bronze.

During the culturally dark centuries of the medieval age, the matter of aesthetic judgment hardly arose at all. In the Renaissance, however, a gentleman was expected to exhibit a knowledge and appreciation of the fine arts. By the 18th century, the Italian Giovanni Piranesi's fanciful drawings of ancient structures — art that itself today is highly valued — quickened the appreciation of the past.

Without an ancient cultural history on which to draw, American industrial barons of the 19th century — collectors like J.P. Morgan, Henry Frick, Andrew Mellon and John D. Rockefeller — looked to time-tested European art treasures as the perfect shortcut for topping their newly made wealth with status and culture. Luckily for today's great American museums, where many of their purchases now can be found, these men turned to influential connoisseurs to monitor their voracious collecting appetites.

A new breed of art enthusiasts — Philadelphia's Albert Barnes, Washington, D.C.'s Duncan Phillips, Baltimore's Cone sisters and the Steins of San Francisco among them — arrived on the scene as abstract modern art burst into new 20th-century galleries. These Americans were interested in the work of living artists and felt compelled to explain — and defend — modernism to the public. Because of their tastes and outspoken views, the nation's attitudes about art matured. By the 1920s, almost every fair-sized American city that did not have an art museum moved to build one.

Undoubtedly, these connoisseurs capitalized on the shaky reputation of modern art and buy first-rate works for a sou. Today, explains Christopher Burge, president of the international auction house Christie's, a "scarcity" of superb works of older art is driving many prices through the roof. In New York this fall, an 18th century Philadelphia tea table sold for $1 million — the first piece of American furniture to do so. A 1959 Jasper Johns painting sold in November for an unprecedented $3.63 million.

Burge attributes these prices to three factors: export controls enacted by some governments on the sale of artworks abroad and the collecting prowess of many museums: "a greater competition for works of art fueled by publicity hype," and the "democratization of art" in recent years. "New buyers," he says, "are caught by trends. They often do not seek good advice, unlike last century's industrialists, and end up paying more than an object is worth. This inflates the market."

Burge was speaking to members of the Smithsonian Resident Associate Program, which recently conducted a course to advise budding connoisseurs on market strategies and to give tips on taste. As for the prices, one participant, a gallery owner, maintained that "auction fever" has tended to obscure fine quality objects that are available from other sources at far lower cost.

Kendall Taylor, moderator of the course and herself an arts consultant, offered eight factors by which possible purchases can be judged: special aesthetic quality, provenance, rarity, technique, condition, historical significance, authenticity and artist's reputation. But first ask, "Do I enjoy this? Does this object ring true?"

"Some objects just have the ability to make a deep and lasting impression on you — they affect you emotionally," Taylor said, listing such characteristics as unity, harmony, order, rhythm, clarity and strength — assets that the connoisseur might seek in the coveted item. When there is ornament applied to an object, consider why it is there. Does it accomplish its purpose?

And yet "there are things that just can't be explained" by any checklist about what makes a work exceptional — "a Rembrandt self-portrait, for example," noted National Gallery of Art curator Arthur K. Wheelock. "You can't explain the painting's power by brushstrokes, technique, whatever. You almost don't want to say anything."

A small oil sketch by 19th-century American landscape painter Albert Bierstadt is a work filled with such special qualities. "The artist is looking right at the sun. That shows a certain courage," says Ted Cooper, a Washington, D.C., gallery owner. "And though the work is devoid of figures and action, there is a stillness. This serene quality is the painting's strength."

Furniture collectors Richard and Gloria Manney of New York offered a practical tip related to quality: "What usually loses value is the mediocre object — not the style or period of the work. You should buy the best you can afford in your area of interest." Suggests Cooper: "Look and read and ask. But buying for investment is the wrong thing to do. The only reason to buy art is to enhance your life."

An object's intrinsic value may be a subjective matter, but there are other factors that are not. Provenance and historical significance, for instance, often influence an object's value, so potential purchasers should try to find out who created the work as well as who has owned it. "The famous artists are the ones who come up with new ideas," Taylor told the aspiring connoisseurs attending the Smithsonian course. "They establish a trend by working in a new way."

The item also might have played a unique role in history. Did the painting cause a scandal? Was it mentioned in someone's memoirs? Was a treaty signed on this table? The answers can affect prices.

Rarity and condition are critical in evaluating art works. It helps to be a chemist these days, Taylor and Wheelock agreed, but many people are stalking art and antiques with inexpensive black lights that show up troublesome repairs and overpainting. "Older paintings may have some restoration," Gloria Manney noted, "but you don't want the high points, the hands, the face, the nose to be restored." However, the rarer the object, the more restoration the connoisseur is prepared to accept, one scholar notes. "Each person must be his own judge and set his own criteria."

The reputation of the artist enters the picture, but it's important to distinguish between an artist whose reputation is based on fine work and one just being marketed effectively, Taylor commented. Moreover, some artists have good ideas, but their technique is not exceptional. "You're looking for an artist where these come together."

Could this find be a fake? Is it a reproduction? Nowadays, photocopy processes are so sophisticated that sometimes the only way one can tell an original print is by looking at the paper, Taylor observed. But there are a number of things you can do to protect yourself when buying antiques, Gloria Manney suggested. "Take the chair out into the light. Is there wear on the side? Do all the legs match?"

Connoisseurship comes with years of work — seeing and inquiring. "Quality can only be learned by making the purchase, making the mistake, making another purchase, making a better purchase," Taylor said. "You have to have hands-on experience." New York collector, Arthur Sackler, donor of a great collection of Asian art to the Smithsonian, may have spoken the last word on this matter. "The acquisition of a great aesthetic statement is a work of art itself, an act of passion."

Bell To Reduce Inside Telephone Service Jan. 1

On January 1, in response to an order by the Federal Communications commission (FCC), Northwestern Bell will transfer the installation and maintenance responsibility of inside telephone wire for residence and one and two-line business services to the customer.

This means that in the event customers have trouble with telephone wire inside their homes or business, Northwestern Bell will no longer repair it without charge.

The company is explaining the change in notices and promotional materials being sent with customer bills in November. When the change takes place next year, customers with trouble can:

(1) Repair the inside wiring problem themselves;

(2) Have the repair work done by another provider of services, such as an electrical contractor;

(3) Have Northwestern Bell repair the inside wire under terms of its hourly rate plan at charges that range from $30.75 (residential) for the first 15 minutes and $10 for each additional 15-minute period of work on the residence customer's premises (business rates start at $34.50 for the initial 15 minute period);

(In addition, for both residence and business service there may be a customer requests Northwestern Bell to send a repair person to the premises and the service problem is found to be in the telephone instrument or inside wiring. The company is awaiting approval from the Minnesota public utilities commission for a $12 reduction to $30 for this service.)

(4) Subscribe to Northwestern Bell's maintenance plan at a charge of $1 to $2 per month, depending upon the level of maintenance services desired.

The company will continue to maintain wires and cables leading up to the customer's premises without additional charge. The shift to customer responsibility of inside wire is one of a continuing series of changes nationwide in the telephone industry.

Regulators generally, and the FCC in particular, advocate that customers who incur the costs of a service pay those costs rather than spread the costs over the overall body of rate payers.

Customers will continue to call repair service to report trouble with their telephone service. Persons with questions about the change may call 681-5290 between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. for further information.

Training Meeting For Volunteers Set In Bemidji

"Inadequate funding, inexperienced board members, insurance needs, apathy of some board members, need for volunteers....." Sound familiar? These needs were reflected in a May survey of board members in a seven-county area adjacent to Bemidji.

As an outgrowth of the expression of need, a training seminar was developed by the Minnesota extension service, and will be offered to northern Minnesota residents Jan. 7, 1987 at the Holiday Inn convention center in Bemidji.

Anne Huntley, executive director of the United Way of Greater Grand Rapids since 1982, will be the keynote speaker with "The Role of the Board Member of a Non-Profit." This was the primary need expressed in the survey results. Huntley is a council member for the city of Grand Rapids, former president of the Grand Rapids League of Women Voters, current board member of the Minnesota Project and Grand Rapids Players, and current president of the Minnesota Association of United-Ways.

Huntley will also lead "Board-Staff-Volunteer Relationships," one of the eight focus sessions included in the day-long training. The other sessions are: "Getting the Most from Committees," "The Legal Matters," "Getting Incorporated," "Fiscal Management," "Financing and Fundraising," "Grantsmanship," and "Accounting-Bookkeeping."

A panel will address the topic, "Publicity and Visibility for Your Non-Profit Organization," and respond to questions.

"The decision-making process is a problem when there is no real boss came up in several responses," according to Jean Castle, area extension agent in community economic development, who conducted the survey and developed the seminar. "We tried to address the major concerns expressed by survey respondents, and keep the cost affordable at the same time."

More information is available at the Pennington county extension office. Call 681-2116 for registration materials.

Small Business Group Hears Of Tax Reform Act

Richard W. Anderson, partner in the accounting firm of Anderson, Poissant, Kays and Company in Thief River Falls, was guest speaker at the December meeting of the Small Business management program at the Thief River Falls AVTI.

Anderson discussed the recently passed tax reform act of 1986 and how it affects the individual and small business. He noted that changes brought about by the tax reform act of 1986 are quite complex, therefore, it may be in the best interests to consult with a tax advisor before completing any last-minute transactions.

The Small Business management program serves active businesses within a radius of approximately 70 miles of Thief River Falls, with an annual enrollment of 30 businesses from area communities. Over 150 area businesses have participated in the SBM program, including businesses from Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Warren, Karlstad, Gonvick, Newfolden, Grygla, Goodridge, St Hilaire, Greenbush, Middle River, Badger and Crookston.

For additional information about the program, call the Thief River Falls AVTI adult extension division 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

Incidents of fleeing a police officer, hit and run accidents, and an accident involving a pedestrian were reports to the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls during the past week.

POLICE NEWS: Fleeing a police officer incidents. On December 12 at 12:23 p.m. an on-duty police officer was driving east m 11th street when he almost collided with a snowmobile which was going south on LaBree avenue. The officer turned on his red lights, but the snowmobile left at a high rate of speed. The siren was engaged and the snowmobile was followed. Randy Ray Erickson, 21, Thief River Falls, was contacted at a local citizen's home and was placed under arrest. Charges are pending against him for fleeing a police officer.

On December 13 at 9:40 p.m. on-duty police officers observed two ATV's in the Pizza Hut parking lot. One had no light and the other was doing some erratic driving. When the officers approached ATV riders took off. One driver was apprehended and charges are pending against James Aagenes, route two, Fertile, age 22, for fleeing a police officer.

Hit-and-run accident reports. On December 9 at 11:24 p.m. John Brahosky, Thief River Falls, reported his pickup was parked at the Family Bowl and was struck on the front by an unknown vehicle which left the scene. Damage was estimated at $400.

On December 12 at 3:30 p.m. Laura Dunning, route four, reported her car was parked at the AVTI on the frontage road when it was hit by an unknown vehicle on the front causing $300 damage. The other vehicle left the scene.

On December 13 at 11 p.m. a car owned by Arthur Anderson, Thief River Falls, and being used by Mike Anderson, was parked in the 200 block of South Kendall. It was struck by a Ford pickup that left the scene. Damage to the Anderson vehicle was to the left rear and estimated at $1,400.

Accidents. On December 11 at 6:30 p.m. a pickup driven by Richard Haugen, route one, Newfolden, was going north on LaBree, and turning left onto Third street and pedestrian Grace Lindquist, Newfolden, was also northbound crossing Third street in the crosswalk. Lindquist was struck by the mirror on Haugen's pickup, knocking her to the ground. Lindquist sustained a cut on the left forehead and was checked in at the Northwest Medical center. No damage was done to the pickup.

On December 9 at 9:11 p.m. a car driven by George Benson, route one, Trail, was going north on Duluth and a pickup driven by Rowdy Harger, Thief River Falls, was going west on Fifth street. The two vehicles collided in the intersection. Damages were estimated at $550 to Benson and $400 to the Harger vehicle.

On December 11 at 6 p.m. a car driven by Kenneth Gudmundson, Mountain, ND, was going west on Fourth street and a car driven by Sharon Paquin, Thief River Falls, was going south on Knight. The two vehicles collided in the intersection. No damage was reported to the Gudmundson vehicle but $500 to the Paquin vehicle.

On December 12 at 10:37 a.m. a car driven by Adlore Boutain, St. Hilarie, was going west on LaBree, and a car driven by Lorie Moe, Thief River Falls, was going east on Fourth street, when the two vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to Boutain and $800 to Moe.

On December 13 at 7 p.m. a car driven by Jared Davidson, Thief River Falls, which was going east on Second street, and a car driven by Voreen Johnson, Thief River Falls, collided in an intersection. Damages were estimated at $2,000 to Davidson and $1,500 to Johnson. Johnson was was checked at the hospital for possible injuries.

On December 15 at 4:05 p.m. a car belonging to Lewis Stenseth, route four, was parked in Norwest bank parking lot and a pickup driven by Barbara Trontvet, Thief River Falls, was backing up and bumped into the Stenseth vehicle. Damages were estimated at $500 to Stenseth and none to Trontvet.

On December 15 a car driven by Thomas Bray, route three, was going west on Third street, while a car driven by Dennis Jenson, Thief River Falls, was going south on Davis and turning left onto Third street, when the two vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $2,000 to each car.

Theft recovery reports. On December 9 at 6:30 p.m. a snowmobile stolen from the Travel Host motel lot and reported stolen by Mark Holen was located by a citizen. It was found in the woods near Aaseby Trailer court. It was damaged quite extensively. Two juvenile boys, age 15, Thief River Falls, were contacted in connection with the theft and will be charged in juvenile court.

On December 12 ornaments previously stolen from Don Lykken were found by a local citizen in the snow south of Knox school and returned to the owner. Also on December 12 a local citizen found the figurine of the baby Jesus in a garbage can. It had been taken from the nativity scene at Redeemer Lutheran church.

Theft reports. On December 11 Pamida caught a shoplifter. He was observed putting something under his jacket. He ran off and was caught by store employees. Dale Sorenson, 22, Thief River Falls, was found with a new pair of jeans under his old jeans and is facing charges of theft.

On December 12 a leather coat belonging to Tracy Larson, route one, was taken from an apartment in the city. Following an investigation by the city police, charges are pending in the case.

Vandalism reports. On December 13 the fire hall reported that someone had broken a window in the hall. Tracks were followed and a 17 year old juvenile was caught and faces charges in juvenile court for criminal damage to property and drinking by a minor.

SHERIFF NEWS: On December 4 a resident of North township reported that he had some damage done to some mailboxes. The damage and loss was estimated at $25. Also on December 4 a resident of Sanders township reported a theft of $800 from their home. The incident is under investigation.

On December 8 a vehicle driven by Gary Mosbeck was traveling east on county road 59, one-half mile east of county road 12 in Sanders township, when he hit an icy spot and the vehicle slid out of control into the south ditch and rolled. Damage was $35.

On December 14 a snowmobile driven by Lenny Johnson of Thief River Falls was traveling south to St. Hilaire when in the ditch he hit a hard snowdrift and the ski caught rolling the snowmobile and throwing Johnson. He had a broken wrist and bruised back.

December Named Awareness Month For Leukemia

Each year leukemia strikes about 26,000 Americans and kills 17,000 nationwide. More than 350 Minnesotans will die of leukemia this year, says the Minnesota chapter of the Leukemia Society of America (LSA).

Minnesotans now will get the chance to strike back against leukemia as December has been designated as "Leukemia Awareness Month;; in Minnesota. During this time various statewide fund raising activities will be sponsored by the Minnesota chapter of the LSA.

The drive is an annual volunteer effort by state residents and businesses to raise more money for leukemia research. The 1986 goal is $330,000.

This year the LSA has funded more than $500,000 in research grants at the University of Minnesota and Mayo clinic. The LSA funds nine researchers in Minnesota.

More than 85 per cent of the money raised by the LSA goes to leukemia research. The overall survival rate has doubled in the last 20 years, increasing from 15 per cent in 1965 to 33 per cent in 1986.

Erosion Costs Are Studied At MASWCD Meeting

Sources and costs of urban erosion, agricultural runoff and public policy needs for ground and surface water quality are highlighted topics of the 50th annual convention of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation districts (MASWCD) running through Tuesday at the Radisson South hotel in Bloomington.

Featured speaker Robert Gray, senior consultant with the American Farmland Trust in Washington, D.C., joined a panel of state conservationists in presenting a Minnesota conservation forum at the opening session today.

The 75-minute forum examined annual state and local costs of erosion through damage to farmland, residential property and recreational areas. Urban erosion and water quality concerns will be emphasized. A question-and-answer period will allow conference participants and the media to ask questions directly of panel members.

Additional conference proceedings are scheduled on the new state Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) resources act, water management proposals and state and federal conservation programs.

Dorothy Waltz, MASWCD executive secretary, estimates that annual costs of off-site erosion are three times that of cropland productivity losses. Runoff pollution from farm fields and feedlots, construction sites, storm sewers and lakeshores cause an estimated $60 million damage to Minnesota waters annually, she said.

"The MASWCD hopes that these and other figures discussed at the convention will spark renewed interest in lawmakers and other public policy makers to study soil erosion issues and appropriate needed resources for conservation efforts," Waltz said.

The MASWCD convention is the kick-off of a year-long public education program in which conservation forums and school curricula will be presented in communities around the state.

The MASWCD is a non-profit professional organization for the 91 soil and water conservation districts statewide, whose responsibility as local units of state government is to implement local land and water quality protection measures.

AVTI Aviation Program Okayed For GI Bill Aid

Dr. Orley D. Gunderson, director of the Thief River Falls AVTI, recently received confirmation that the Associate of Applied Science degree in airframe and powerplant technology has been approved by the Veterans Administration as a course for which students may receive VA benefits.

This includes benefits under the GI bill, Chapter 24; Post-Viet Nam Era Veterans Assistance program, Chapter 32; and the GI bill, Chapter 106, which includes national guard and armed forces personnel who are eligible due to participation in selected reserve activities.

Furthermore, Dr. Gunderson said, students in all AVTI programs that are in a selected reserve unit under Chapter 106 may be eligible to receive additional monthly living expenses, repayment of guaranteed student loans and bonuses for signing up in a selected reserve unit. These programs are in addition to the regular financial aid which is available to them at the Thief River Falls AVTI.

Students seeking further information about these programs may contact the financial aid office at the Thief River Falls AVTI, 1-800-222-2884, for Minnesota residents, or (218) 681-5424 for out state residents. They may also contact their county veterans service officer for information about programs which may enable them to return to school and utilize the Veterans administration's benefits that are available to them. Students should not delay due to limitations on the duration of time for which they may apply for benefits.

December Skies Dominated By Bright Planets

December's skies are dominated by bright planets set against the deepening darkness of winter. Winter arrives officially at 10:02 p.m. on the 21st, when the sun sinks to its most southerly point in the sky. At that time the sun will be directly over the Tropic of Capricorn, and we will experience the longest night of the year, according to the University of Minnesota starwatch.

It gets cold this time of year not because Earth is farther from the sun, but because the sun's rays strike the Northern Hemisphere at a more oblique angle. Earth is actually closer to the sun than during summer; if you were to carefully measure the sun's apparent size in January it would be slightly greater than in July.

Jupiter remains high in the south at sunset, while Mars, still bright but fading, swings close to the giant planet on the 18th. Venus, low in the pre-dawn sky, reaches its greatest brilliance of the year.

Mars begins the month about 10 degrees west of Jupiter, approaching steadily until the 18th, when it brushes half a degree north of Jupiter. This may be the prettiest conjunction of planets this year. Mars will be seven degrees east of Jupiter at year's end. On the 7th, the two planets will bracket the first-quarter moon.

Venus rises about three hours before the sun and is bright enough to see in daytime. It reaches its greatest brilliance with a magnitude of minus 4.7 on the 11th. The cloud-shrouded planet passed in front of the sun November 5 and now appears as a thin crescent through binoculars or a small telescope.

The Geminids meteor shower occurs between the 4th and 16th. This shower is famous for its many bright meteors radiating from the eastern sky before midnight. The shower's peak is the 13th, but this year a nearly full moon will hamper visibility.

The Geminids are produced by tiny dust particles burning up as they fall through the atmosphere. They come from an asteroid or comet nucleus two kilometers across, which orbits the sun every one and a half years in a path that takes it inside Mercury's orbit and outside Earth's.

The moon will be new twice this month, on the 1st and the 30th. A very young moon will appear in the "handle of the teapot" in the constellation Sagittarius just above the western horizon on the 3rd. The full "cold" moon comes shortly after midnight on the 16th, so the moon will look roundest the evening of the 15th.

Winter brings the familiar constellations of Orion, Taurus and the Pleiades, all of which are now up in the east. Trailing to the lower left of Orion is Sirius, the Dog Star, in the constellation Canis Major. Sirius is the brightest star in the sky, but is outshone by Jupiter and Venus this month.

The Pleiades and the V-shaped Hyades cluster in Taurus are some of the most beautiful objects for binocular viewing in the winter sky. In Greek mythology, both groups represented daughters of Atlas. The Hyades cared for Zeus and Dionysius as infants and the Pleides, or Seven Sisters, were placed in the sky to keep them safe from the amorous advances of Orion, the hunter.

Josephson And Lillevold Attend Motel Convention

Diana Josephson, manager of the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls and Susan Lillevold, Thief River Falls chamber of commerce executive, recently attended the Minnesota Motel association's convention in Bloomington.

Speakers at the convention included Lieutenant Governor Marlene Johnson; Hank Todd, director, Minnesota office of tourism; and Ginger Sisco, director of marketing for a Twin Cities radio station. Programs included presentations by the Minnesota department of health and other programs dealing with employee relations, taxes and management.

Lions-Lionesses Sponsor Contests For Students

Lions and Lioness clubs from Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire are working together with Lions and Lionesses throughout northwest Minnesota to sponsor a contest in our high schools aimed at the prevention of alcohol use among teenagers. Sponsoring the contest are the Noon Lions club, Noon Lioness club and Evening Lioness club from Thief River Falls and the St. Hilaire Lions club.

Students in grades 7, 8 and 9 will be competing in a poster contest, vying for the grand prize of a 19 inch color television set and other prizes, including an AM-FM clock radio and a personal telephone.

Students in grades 10, 11 and 12 will compete in an essay contest for the grand prize of an electronic correctable typewriter, an AM-FM stereo "ghetto-blaster" radio with cassette player, AM-FM clock radio and a personal telephone. Any student attending a school in Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake or Roseau counties is eligible to compete for the prizes offered.

Students in grades 7, 8 and 9 should create a poster which carries a message that will help prevent alcohol use among teenagers. The poster's message could focus on teenage drinking, school and family problems caused by drinking, dangers of drinking and driving, or any other alcohol-related topic.

Posters may be designed in any way the students wish, using photographs, hand drawn lettering. There are no size limits on the posters, although they should be large enough to be eye-catching and not so large as to be cumbersome. Each student may submit as many entries as he wishes, but only one prize will be awarded per student.

Posters should be submitted to Pam Carlson at Franklin middle school or Bill Stock at Lincoln high school by January 10.

Students in grades 10, 11 and 12 are invited to write an essay of at least 1,000, but not more than 1,500 words which carries a message that will help prevent alcohol use among teenagers. The essay may focus on teenage drinking, school and family problems caused by drinking, the dangers of drinking and driving, or any other alcohol-related topic. Essays may use humor, stories for illustration, statistics, facts and figures or any other method that is interesting and effective in getting the points across.

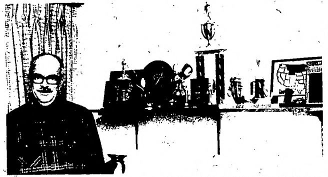
The essay may be typed or legibly printed or hand written. Several entries may be submitted, but there will be only one prize awarded per student. Identify each page of the essay with full name and page number (John Jones — Page 2). At the end of the essay, put name, address, phone number, grade in school, and use the name of the school the students attends. Entries should be submitted to Bill Stock at Lincoln high school by January 10.

Winners of the contests will be selected by a panel of judges at the Lions district 5M-11 midwinter convention in Moorhead January 16, 17 and 18. Winners will be notified if they have won a prize and prizes will be distributed by local Lions and Lioness members who sponsor the event.

Soo Discontinues Quarter Dividend

Soo Line's board of directors has voted to discontinue its quarterly dividend policy in favor of declaring all future dividends on an individual basis. The action means the board will no longer consider dividends on a regular basis each quarter as had been the case for the past six years.

Soo paid quarterly dividends of 30 cents per share in the first and second quarters of 1986, but omitted dividend payments in both the third and fourth quarters of this year. Soo began paying quarterly dividends in 1981.



OVER THE YEARS he has spent in the pest control business, Don Thompson has earned a number of awards from the company for sales and performance. Some of the trophies and plaques are on the wall shelf in the Thompson home. He has won trips to Boston, MA; Brownsville, TX; Disney World; Nashville, TN; and Vail, CO, based on his sales efforts.

Suggestions For Safer Holiday Parties Listed

This is the primary party season of the year and, with it comes the potential dange of people drinking during their partying and attempting to drive home, usually during night hours.

Commissioner Paul Tschida of the Minnesota department of public safety offers a list of 10 suggestions for those attending holiday parties:

(1) Make sure everyone knows that overdrinking is not a good idea.

(2) Ensure everyone's good time by planning a party where no one gets drunk.

(3) Hire a professional bartender to serve and observe. Eliminate doubles, free pouring, pitchers and punch bowls.

(4) Offer nonalcoholic beverages like fruit drinks, soft drinks and coffee.

(5) Serve food to show that drinking is not the sole reason for the party and to slow down the rate of alcohol absorption.

(6) Alternate between alcoholic and nonalcoholic drinks.

(7) Arrange alternative transportation.

(8) Consider having the party at a hotel. Reserve a few rooms, just in case.

(9) Close the bar an hour before the party ends. Use the time to open door prizes and play party games.

(10) Do whatever is necessary to keep your friends from driving drunk, even if it means taking their keys, or calling the police.

Private Spiering Completes Basic Marine Training

Marine Pvt. Richard D. Spiering, a 1986 graduate recruit training at Marine Corps recruit depot San Diego, CA.

During the 11-week training cycle, Spiering was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skils, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Thompson Retires After 20 Years Of Pest Control

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Most people in business have to deal with pests from time to time, but Don Thompson of Thief River Falls has made pests his business. Thompson is retiring after 20 years of solving rodent and insect problems with Lystad's, Inc., a growing pest control company.

Thompson's early retirement is health related, as he noted in a letter to his many customers, and he will miss the challenges of helping them with their problems. His successor will be Perry Smith, who moved here from Williston, ND. Smith is a 1974 Minot, ND, high school graduate, and he and his wife Sue have one son, Jesse, a first grader at Washington elementary school.

In his 20 years with the company, which originated in the Grand Forks and Devils Lake, ND, areas, Thompson has become known as a specialist in rodent control. He has contracted with grain elevators and other similar operations for 12-month control programs as well as working with individuals who have occasional severe infestation problems.

"Mice can proliferate at an amazing rate," Thompson said. "I can remember working at one farm where they seemed to be everywhere. Even a compartmentalized tool crib with a swing-out cover had mouse nests in nearly every compartment. It doesn't take long for them to take over if they have access to feed and no controls."

According to Thompson, mice are easily contented rodents which can live an entire lifetime from birth to reproduction in a six to 10-foot area. A mouse can even live its lifetime in a sack of grain, taking what moisture it needs for survival from the 10 to 13 per cent moisture in the grain kernels themselves.

"I don't like mice," Thompson said. "I would prefer working with rat populations any time." He said that rats will move up to two miles a day to find food and habitat and require much more moisture in their diets than mice do.

In addition to rodent problems, Thompson dealt with insect control in hotels, motels, schools, restaurants and other public and private facilities. In this area of the country the main insect pests have been roaches, ants, silverfish and spiders, with the emphasis placed on prevention of infestations. He also controlled insects in stored grain. Don admits that even an experienced operator like himself hasn't had any success controlling mosquitoes.

It could be expected that 20 years of experience would teach a person quite a bit about the pests he controls. Experience helps, but training is also important. Don was one of the first pest control specialists certified by test in Minnesota. His company now requires a 19-month correspondence course as well as one week of training a year.

"We are more regulated now than we have ever been," Thompson said, "but I think the regulation has made us better professionals. We have to use our tools — insecticides and rodenticides — more effectively and efficiently to achieve control without excessive use." The primary regulatory agency for pest control has been the agronomy division of the state department of agriculture. Pollution control agency and environmental protection agency regulations also apply.

Many new chemicals and control products have been developed and put into use in the past two decades with much of the research and development being done by chemical and petroleum companies. Safer but more effective and selective rodenticides have been developed, and with the development has come increases in cost.

Thompson is a native of Thief River Falls, graduating from Lincoln high school in 1953. He served in the U.S. air force from 1953 to 1957 during the Korean war, serving overseas in Guam and Japan. Following his discharge he graduated from Brown Institute of Broadcasting and Electronics and worked in broadcasting for four years in Florida. His service included being an engineer for Paul Harvey in St. Petersburg.

He returned to Thief River Falls and was employed as assistant manager for Peterson-Biddick company before going to work with Lystad's. The company had about 100 employees at that time and now has 436 in 37 states, expecting to grow to 540 representatives in 45 states in 1987. It is presently owned by Economics Lab, Inc., of St. Paul.

Don has two sons living in Canada and his wife Barbara has a son in Thief River Falls and a daughter in Rochester. They have two grandchildren.

While Don said his emphasis over the years has been prevention of infestation problems, he has taken a good deal of ribbing about not taking his own advice. He had a mouse problem in the back of his extermination truck for a few days.

It seems Don was too soft to kill a few mice caught in a live trap by one of his customers, so he dumped the animals in a bucket in the back of his truck. They promptly escaped and it took him a few days of experienced technique to rid his own pickup of the unwanted intruders.

Taking over the business from Jim Richter 20 years ago, Thompson has served an area bounded on the west by North Dakota and the north by Canada and extending south to highway 2 and east to the Bagley and Baudette areas. Smith will be serving about the same area and said he is looking forward to meeting people in the territory and helping them with their insect and rodent-control problems.

Contributions To Charity May Be Deductible Items

Latest tax laws have created some concern and confusion for taxpayers. Most people are unable to tell at this point whether or not they will be winners or losers under the new tax act. It has become a wait and see situation. However, there are things people can do right now to take advantage of the existing tax laws that will no longer be available in 1987 and later years.

One of these tax breaks is the deduction of charitable contributions for nonitemizers. For 1986, any charitable contributions you make will be fully deductible even if you don't itemize. Beginning in 1987, this deduction will not be available.

You can donate cash or you can contribute property to a charity. Here are a few donations some people overlook and ways you can contribute to charity and get a tax deduction before the tax laws change:

(1) Clean out your closets, basement or attic and donate items to a charitable institution such as the Salvation Army or Goodwill.

(2) Purchase tickets to fundraising events. The amount of the ticket above the normal price for the entertainment event is deductible.

(3) Drive children or others who need help (who are not family members) to and from meetings or events, such as church or youth groups. The mileage you drive (that you would not otherwise drive) on behalf of a charity is deductible.

(4) If you bake cookies or other items for a bake sale for a charitable organization and all the proceeds go to the organization, you may deduct the cost of the ingredients for the donated baked goods.

(5) Items you donate to sell at church or other charity bazaars are deductible, as well as your transportation to and from the bazaar for the purpose of performing volunteer services, such as setting up displays or selling the items.

These are just a few of the deductible charitable contributions that are available. Look over your records for 1986 and plan your charitable activities for the last few weeks so that you can take full advantage of this deduction while it still exists.

Red River Breaks Open Close Game In Third Period . . .

Roughriders Spoil Prowlers' Hockey Home Opener 5-3

Grand Forks Red River turned what had been a close game into a one-sided affair in the third period as the Roughriders skated past Thief River Falls 5-3 in a high school hockey game at the Sports Arena.

Unbeaten Red River, having out-scored the opposition 45-6 in five season-opening wins, was held to a 2-2 tie through two periods by the 1-0 Prowlers. But the Roughriders out-shot Thief River Falls 22-3 over the final 15 minutes, scoring three straight goals in the process.

Three third period Thief River Falls penalties helped swing the momentum to Red River, pointed out head coach Wendell Grand of the Prowlers. "Obviously you can't take stupid penalties and win against a team of that quality," he said. "Red River is obviously a good hockey team. Eliminate a few of the big mistakes we made, and I don't think we played that bad of a game."

Thief River Falls goalie Shayne Anderson played well in making 38 saves, 20 more than Mike Blank, his Red River counterpart. Several of the goals surrendered by Anderson were of the tough-luck variety.

Tied at 1-1 to start the second period, Anderson maintained the deadlock with a big kick save on a shot from the left point by Brann Molstad, only to have the puck carom out to Mike Beiswenger on the right point. He nailed the long rebound, putting it over Anderson's right shoulder and just under the crossbar at 5:38.

Tied again at 2-2 to start the third period, Anderson came up with another big save when he stopped Jim Karner on a rush. But John Schmelka, the trailer on the play, got a piece of the rebound that trickled under the netminder at 2:18.

Molstad made it 4-2 at 4:33 when his power play slap shot from the point went off the stick of Thief River Falls defenseman Jason Lee.

Red River was in full command at 11:08 when the Roughriders caught the Prowlers in a line change in their own end, picking up the puck along the boards and walking in on Anderson 2-on-0. Jim Karner got the goal.

Bob Geatz converted a nice fee from Scott Novak for the final goal of the game at 12:10 as the Prowlers cut the deficit to 5-3.

Scoring started when Greg Trostad put a quick backhand past Anderson on a centering pass from Karner out of the corner at 7:43 of the first period.

Blair Lund tied it at 12:38 when defenseman Bill Dicken intercepted a Red River clearing pass, shot and watched Lund tap the rebound behind Blank.

Red River went ahead 2-1 on Beiswenger's goal to start the second period, only to have Geatz tie it at 2-2 at 7:33 as Lee teed up a slap shot in front that Geatz got a piece of.

Thief River Falls wasn't able to answer those third period goals, though, and fell to 1-1 for the year.

The Prowlers host East Grand Forks in a Section 8 match-up Saturday at the Sports Arena.

Scoring

First period — RR, Greg Trostad (Jim Karner-John Schmelka), 7:43; TRF, Blair Lund (Bill Dicken), 12:38.

Second period — RR, Mike Beiswenger (Brann Molstad-Jason Spaeth), 5:38; TRF, Bob Geatz (Jason Lee-Dicken), 7:33.

Third period — RR, Schmelka (Karner-Trostad), 2:18; RR, Molstad (un.), 4:33; RR, Karner (Chris Cambell), 11:08; TRF, Geatz (Scott Novak), 12:10.

Goalie saves — TRF, Shayne Anderson 4-13-19, game total 38; RR, Mike Blank 7-9-2, game total 18.

TRF Girls Participate In Warren Invitational

Unbeaten in five starts, the Thief River Falls girls will be one of eight entries in the 1986 Warren Invitational high school basketball tournament, starting Thursday.

Upper-bracket pairings will feature opening-round quarterfinal games in the school's old gym, matching Thief River Falls vs. Ada-Borup at 7 p.m. and East Grand Forks vs. Goodridge at 8:45.

Lower bracket pairings will have opening-round quarterfinal games in the school's new gym, with Crookston meeting Hallock-Kennedy at 7 p.m. and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart going against Warren at 8:45.

Semifinals will be played Friday at 7 and 8:45 p.m. Championship round games will be played in the new gym, while consolation round games will be staged in the old gym.

Finals will be staged Saturday night. Third place and championship games will be played at 7 and 8:45 p.m., respectively, in the new gym. Seventh place and consolation championship games will be played at 7 and 8:45 p.m., respectively, in the old gym.

Plummer girls and Goodridge boys will be hosting four-team invitational high school basketball tournaments this week.

The boys' tournament at Goodridge is planned Thursday and Friday nights. In the opening-round semifinals, Plummer meets Grygla at 7 p.m. and host Goodridge takes on Oklee at 8:45.

Third place and championship games will be played at 7 and 8:45 p.m., respectively, Friday.

The girls' tournament at Plummer will be played Friday and Saturday nights. In the opening-round semifinals, it'll be Oslo vs. Oklee at 7 p.m. and Plummer vs. Climax at 8:30.

Third place and championship games will be played at 7 and 8:30 p.m., respectively, Saturday.

— Youth Hockey —

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A hockey team snapped a four-game losing streak with a doubleheader win Sunday, 3-2 at East Grand Forks and 13-3 at Grand Forks North.

Wade Jorde scored with 1:56 remaining in the game for the win over East Grand Forks. Steve Sabo and Paul Borchert scored earlier, with Borchert also adding an assist. Goalie Ryan Haugen had a strong 25-save performance for the winners. The East Grand Forks netminder made 24 saves.

John Seaverson scored three goals and added three assists in the one-sided victory over Grand Forks North. Corey Poole also had a six-point game with two goals and four assists. Paul Kezar scored twice and had two assists, Sabo collected four assists, Borchert scored twice and added an assist and Jorde picked up two goals. Derek Lee and Roger Anderson also scored, while Jeff Novak was credited with two assists. Todd Stewart was in goal for the winners, who out-shot North 44-25.

Those two teams came after a 5-4 Thief River Falls loss at Warroad Saturday. Seaverson, Jorde, Anderson and Kezar scored goals in that one. Seaverson also had an assist and Borchert picked up two assists. Haugen made 20 saves. Warroad goaltending made 15 saves.

The 3-5 Thief River Falls team will participate in the Grand Rapids Invitational Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Pee-Wee A

Warroad edged the Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team 5-4 in overtime Saturday by tying the game with 28 seconds left in regulation time and winning it 52 seconds into overtime.

Aaron Broten and Marc Seaverson both scored twice and Jason Svir had a single goal for the visitors. Matt Steinert and Nathan Hunt both had two assists. Barry Dowers was in goal, kicking out 26 shots. Warroad goaltending made 31 saves.

A scheduled Sunday meeting with Crookston was canceled. Thief River Falls is 3-2 for the year heading into weekend games against Crookston and East Grand Forks.

Bantam B

Hosting its first Thief River Falls Bantam B Invitational Saturday and Sunday, the host Thief River Falls 13-14-year-olds edged a strong Grand Forks North team 5-4 in overtime, but lost to eventual champion Cook 12-9 in the semifinals and fell to Moorhead 4-3 in the third place game of the eight-team event.

Paul Johnson scored the game-winner at 6:27 of sudden-death overtime to start the tournament as Thief River Falls reversed a 5-4 loss suffered at the hands of Grand Forks North two weeks earlier. Jamie Thornton picked up an assist on the play. Thornton also scored a goal, along with Troy Coltom, Paul Hejlik and Duane Molstad. Bryan Cloutier was in goal for the winners, who out-shot North 29-23.

Robert Dejno of Cook scored nine goals to lead his team to a high-scoring 12-9 semifinal victory over Thief River Falls. Darin Teie scored two goals and had an assist for Thief River Falls. Ross Dalzell and Jerod Kolden also scored twice. Coltom had a goal and two assists. Johnson and Molstad scored once. Hejlik has two assists. Cloutier made 30 saves. The Cook netminder stopped 22 shots.

Kolden, Teie and Hejlik scored in the third place game setback at the hands of Moorhead. Thief River Falls had a 31-17 shots-on-goal edge.

Thief River Falls is 4-4 for the year, with three of the four losses being one-goal games. The team faces Crookston and East Grand Forks to start District 16 play this weekend.

Pee-Wee B

Hallock defeated the Thief River Falls Elks Pee-Wee B team 5-2 Sunday at the Old Arena.

Peter Antonenko scored both Thief River Falls goals. Trevor Haugen was in goal for the losers, who were out-shot 24-13.

Thief River Falls, 1-3-1, plays Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks this weekend.

Red River Is 6-1 JV Game Winner

Grand Forks Red River defeated Thief River Falls 6-1 in junior varsity high school hockey action Tuesday.

Jason Brunkhorst scored the lone Thief River Falls goal. Paul Antonenko and Kent Holmes shared the goaltending duties.

The loss dropped Thief River Falls to 0-2 for the year.

BATTLING FOR THE puck along the boards behind the net, Thief River Falls forward Jeff Grand was wrapped up by Grand Forks Red River defensemen Brann Molstad (7) as Roughrider teammate Jim Karner reached for the puck during the third period of Tuesday's high school hockey game played at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. Red River won the game 5-3 by snapping a 2-2 tie in the third period.

Pioneers Host Spartans In '86-87 Hockey Home Opener

Home opener for the 1986-87 Northland Community College hockey team is scheduled tonight (Wednesday) when the Pioneers meet Minnesota Commmunity College Conference rival Fergus Falls at 7:30 p.m. at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

Northland started the season with three road wins, beating the University of Minnesota-Crookston 6-3 in a nonconference opener, then sweeping an MCCC series at Brainerd over the weekend by 9-3 and 5-2 scores.

"I can't complain, being 3-0," said Northland coach Scott Bergland, "but I don't think we've really played up to our potential yet."

Fergus Falls, figured Bergland, should give Northland a good test. The Spartans are coming off a surprisingly easy 9-2 victory over MCCC foe Vermilion.

Bergland doesn't anticipate any line-up changes for the Pioneers. That would mean four line combinations of Al Erickson-Steve Ristau-Steve Wiskow; Steve Mahony-Joe Blanckenfeld-Chad Bottem; Jim Speidel-Troy Miller-Darrin Abernathy; and Eric Anderson-Stacy Lies-Lee Hamre. Four defensive sets are Chad Swendseid-Bill Desrocher; Stacy Monkman-Brian Nelson; Tony Hagen-Russ Cagnoni; and Darrin Elliot-Tim Sand.

Dean Hanson and Kurt Chaffee are the goalies.

Only changes would be if Bottem (shoulder) and Monkman (ankle) aren't able to shake off minor injuries.

Tonight's game is the lone Northland home appearance until mid-January.

"Hopefully they (Pioneers) will put on a good show," said Bergland, who is high on his team's chances this winter. "If they skate and move the puck like they're capable of, they're fun to watch. I know I had fun watching them in the first period at Brainerd."

Northland will be in International Falls this weekend for a two-game MCCC series with Rainy River. They play Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 1 p.m.

TRF Boys Open 1986-87 Swimming Schedule . . .

Prowler Relays Set Saturday

Seven of the 13 Section 8 members will be on hand Saturday for the expanded Prowler Relays high school swimming meet at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Host Thief River Falls will be joined by Bemidji, Brainerd, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Fosston and Park Rapids for the 1:30 p.m. meet. It'll be the 1986-87 season-opener for the Thief River Falls boys.

Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney says it should be a fun, competitive meet.

The Prowlers are coming off a 9-1 dual meet season when they placed seventh in a 12-team Section 8 field. There were only three seniors on that team, but they were big point-producers for the Prowlers — Mark Antonenko, Jim Amundson and Eric Ose.

Twelve lettermen return, but only diver Shon Thompson was a post-season Section 8 finalist, placing fourth and earning a state meet trip.

"Shon is in a strong position to challenge for a top three spot in the section meet," mentioned Forney. Thompson is a junior.

Others on the current roster include senior Tom Mickelson; freshmen Geoff Antonenko, Shane Defreece, Mike Jorde, Ed Krystosek, Aaron Marshall and Trevor Swanson; eighth graders Morgan Bernier and Mark Tiani; seventh graders Russ Bollesen, Steve Conley, Jeff Nelson and Dan Pagnac; plus sixth graders Matt Carlson, Daryl Kiesow, Sean Odegaard, Tony McEnelly and Jeff Polson.

There are a number of experienced swimmers in that group, acknowledged Forney, but none in the sectional championship-caliber mold.

"The guys are working hard in practice," said Forney. "I think we'll be as competitive as we can be. I think we'll be competitive in dual meets, but at the section level. . ."

The Prowlers will be two-deep in all swimming events, but with Tofte as the only sophomore on the roster, several freshmen will be called upon to add the necessary depth to be a dual-meet winner. That's tough task, admitted Forney. "We'll be experienced," Forney confirmed, "but it'll just be a matter of how fast they can go."

Middle River Girls Beat Grygla

Middle River coach Steve Larson was complaining that his team wasn't putting in a full-game effort each time out, but the Skippers did enough things right in the first half of a Monday night girls high school basketball match-up with Grygla to register a 55-46 win to put them at 4-2 for the year. The Eagles fell to 0-4.

"We had a good first half," reported Larson, "but we played only half a game again.

Middle River posted a 16-10 first lead and had a 37-20 half-time cushion. Grygla managed to get it down to 47-36 in the third quarter, but couldn't make up the rest of the deficit in the final eight minutes.

"We knew it would be a tough pre-holiday schedule," acknowledged disappointed Grygla coach Mike Gast, "but we thought we'd be at .500. I can't really seem to put my finger on just what's wrong, but the teams we've been playing against have really been playing well."

A balanced Middle River attack included Rayette Benke with 15 points, Kerry Nelson 13, Nanette Berg 12 and Stacie Sparby 10. Nikki Lian led Grygla with 12 points.

Grygla shot charts showed the Eagles 18-for-47 from the field (38 per cent) and 10-for-17 at the free throw line (59 per cent), while the host Skippers were a solid 24-for-59 from the field (41 per cent), but only 7-for-23 at the free throw line (30 per cent). Middle River had a 25-20 rebound edge.

Both teams play Greenbush next, but Middle River hosts the Tigers Thursday, while Grygla will be idle until January 5.

Sports Briefs

Hockey Contest

Introduction of the new Sure Shot contest between periods of Lincoln High School and Northland Community College home hockey games at the Sports Arena was featured in the Prowlers' 1986-87 home opener Tuesday, and will be offered again tonight (Wednesday) when the Pioneers host Fergus Falls in a 7:30 p.m. Minnesota Community College Conference meeting.

Sponsored by KTRF and RV Sports, through cooperation with the new Blue Line Club, the event offers a free ticket to fans attending the games, with two ticket numbers drawn at each of the home hockey games. Those with the ticket numbers that are drawn have the opportunity to shoot a puck from the center red line at a target hole in a board placed over the goal mouth.

A successful shot that finds its way into the net will win the shooter a new Arctic Cat snowmobile.

The contest was well-received at the Prowlers' game against Grand Forks Red River, and should create additional fan interest in the games — the Blue Line Club idea behind the contest.

Archery Club Meeting

Annual Thief River Falls Archery Club meeting will be held Tuesday, December 30, at 7 p.m. at the indoor archery range located above the Old Arena.

Discussion will center around the upcoming indoor archery league season.

Those interested in participating in the league may contact Dana Klos at 681-7592.

Sports Boosters

Head high school boys basketball coach Tom Hunt will be the guest speaker Thursday at the 12-noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club luncheon meeting in the basement of the Rex Cafe.

Warming House To Open

Warming house at the Eastside Park skating rink will open for the first time this season December 19.

Thief River Falls Park and Recreation Department said the warming house will be open from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. weekdays, and from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. on holidays and weekends.

Freshmen Lose To Crookston By 49-42

Crookston out-scored Thief River Falls 16-7 in the fourth quarter Tuesday for a come-from-behind 49-42 boys freshman high school basketball win at the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Thief River Falls had an 8-6 first quarter lead, carried a 22-17 advantage into halftime and held on to a 35-33 edge through three quarters.

Jason Kempert scored 14 points for Thief River Falls, 2-2 for the year. All four outings have been decided by nine points or less.

Thief River Falls will visit East Grand Forks Thursday for a 4:15 p.m. game.

ONE OF VERY FEW fast breaks for the Itasca Community College women's basketball team Tuesday evening in the Northland Community College gymnasium took place on this play early in the first half. Jackie Adamich of Grand Rapids led the break but was thwarted by Sheila Jaeger (30) of Plummer for the Northland Pioneers who hustled back on defense to prevent a layup. Trailing the play for Northland are (left to right) Janelle Lorsung, Angie Enerson, Jody Pahlen and Becky Knutson. Pahlen scored 28 points and Lorsung 19 to lead the Pioneer attack. Northland defense caused many turnovers and easy baskets in the Itasca defensive end, resulting in a 52-6 lead at one time, 62-16 lead at the half and 119-33 final score.

NCC Women Drill Itasca

A trend continued for the Northland Community College women's basketball team Tuesday as the Pioneers crushed visiting Itasca 119-33.

In four season-opening starts, the 3-1 Pioneers haven't been involved in a game that has been closer than 30 points at the final buzzer. They beat an alumni team by 36 points, handled Rainy River by 30, lost to the Concordia College junior varsity by 30, and last night probably set a school record with an 86-point victory margin.

Northland led 52-6 at one point of the first half before settling for a 62-16 halftime difference.

The Pioneers, who came up one basket short of hitting the 100-point mark in a 98-68 rout of Rainy River earlier this month, reached triple digits when guard Patti Odberg of Newfolden picked up a loose ball and drove half the length of the court for a lay-up that gave the winners their 100th and 101st points.

All 11 Northland players scored during the game, seven of them hitting double figures. Sophomore forward Jody Pahlen of Plummer led the Pioneers with 28 points. She also had six assists, four rebounds and two steals. Janelle Lorsung had 19 points. Forward Jackie Adamich led Itasca with 11 points.

Northland was 53-for-94 from the field for the night (56 per cent), including a 24-for-37 second half (65 per cent). Most of those were lay-ups. The Pioneers were 13-for-23 at the free throw line (57 per cent).

Coach Tom Neibauer's Pioneers drive to Mayville Thursday for a 7 p.m. game against the Comet junior varsity.

MCC Girls Claim Basketball Title

Marshall County Central defeated Stephen 60-32 Monday and beat Argyle 50-39 Tuesday to win championship honors at the Tri-County Invitational girls high school basketball tournament at Karlstad.

Tri-County, a 56-53 loser to Argyle in Tuesday's opening round semifinals, bounced back to beat Stephen 43-29 in Tuesday's third place game.

Marshall County Central, 4-1 for the year, will be idle until Thursday, January 8, when the Nordics play at Greenbush.

MCC 60
Stephen 32

Kelli Anderson, a 5-9 sophomore center, scored 15 points and grabbed 19 rebounds Monday as Marshall County Central handled Stephen 60-32 in opening round play.

"Kelli Anderson had an outstanding game," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde, whose charts showed Anderson with 14 offensive rebounds. The Nordics dominated the boards 44-21, including a 29-9 advantage on the offensive boards.

Natalie Ueland, a 5-9 junior, joined Anderson in the double figure point and rebound category with 10 points and 15 rebounds.

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 12-9, 26-14 and 41-20.

The Nordics were 27-for-68 from the field (39 per cent), but struggled through a 6-for-19 night at the free throw line (32 per cent). Stephen was 10-for-53 from the field (18 per cent) and 11-for-19 at the line (58 per cent). Stephen topped the turnover charts 23-13.

Trailing 12-6 three minutes into the game, Marshall County Central went on an 18-6 scoring tear the next five minutes for a 24-16 first quarter lead that wound up as a 50-39 championship game victory over Argyle Tuesday.

"We changed a couple of defenses and got some turnovers," explained Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "That really got us going."

The Nordics led by 10-15 points most of the rest of the game, owning a 34-23 halftime lead and sitting on a 44-27 third quarter cushion.

"I was pleased with the way we played," said Mjelde. He was especially happy with a balanced scoring attack in which the five starters all scored between 8 and 11 points. Jodi Foss led the way with 11.

Marshall County Central shot 40 per cent from the field (21-for-52) and 47 per cent at the free throw line (8-for-17). Argyle shot only 25 per cent from the field (16-for-64) and 70 per cent at the line (7-for-10). The Nordics had a 28-27 rebound edge.

Grinde, Cards Beat Hornets

Wade Grinde scored a game-high 26 points and pulled down a team-leading 10 rebounds Tuesday in leading Plummer to a 56-44 boys high school basketball victory over visiting Clearbrook.

Plummer ended a week's lay-off by grabbing a 12-5 first quarter lead, carried a 27-17 advantage into halftime and maintained a 42-27 third quarter spread to improve the Cardinals' record to 2-1.

"I was pretty satisfied, especially after having a week off," reported Plummer coach Jim Baron. "We did some things well. We ran the ball well, and we handled their press."

Grinde had an outstanding night, pointed out Baron. The Cardinals also received 12 points from Shane Freyholtz and 10 from John Fisher. Barry Voxland led Clearbrook with 17 points.

Plummer shot 44 per cent from the field (25-for-57) and 43 per cent at the free throw line (6-for-14). Clearbrook shot only 30 per cent from the field (15-for-50), but shot 78 per cent at the line (14-for-18). The Hornets had a 27-26 rebound edge.

The Cardinals will join Grygla, Goodridge and Oklee at the Goodridge Invitational Thursday and Friday.

Grygla 27

Grygla, after starting the 1986-87 season by splitting a pair of one and two-point decisions, was involved in a blow-out Tuesday. Unfortunately for the Eagles, they were on the short end of a one-sided 65-27 loss to North Border Conference power Warroad.

"I don't think we're as bad as the score would indicate," explained Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "They (Warroad) have a real good team. The middle two quarters they really played well."

Grygla was within 12-6 at the end of the first quarter, but Warroad outscored the visiting Eagles 43-15 over the next two periods in posting a 30-15 halftime lead and a 55-21 third quarter advantage.

Tim Fast led the winners with 26 points. Jason Engelstad had 10 for the Eagles.

Grygla was 13-for-46 from the field (28 per cent) and 1-for-4 at the free throw line. Warroad was 31-for-69 from the field (45 per cent) and 3-for-7 at the line. The Warriors had a 28-18 rebound advantage and the Eagles topped the turnover charts 23-9.

The 1-2 Eagles will participate in the four-team Goodridge Invitational Thursday and Friday.

Ice Fishing

Freeze-over of shallow lakes marks the beginning of the 1986-87 ice fishing season. Department of Natural Resources fisheries specialists caution anglers that additional time and cold weather are needed for safe ice fishing on deeper lakes.

"Ice fishing is a chance to enjoy the outdoors and catch some fish," said Duane Shodeen, regional fisheries supervisor for the Metro Region, "but I wouldn't be the first one out. Don't be a pioneer if you don't know the area." Even for those familiar with the area, he suggests they test the ice in front of them with an ice chisel before walking on it this early in the season.

"Nobody can guarantee when the ice is absolutely safe," Shodeen said. "But the general rule of thumb in the Twin Cities area is at least mid-December for walking on most ice and after the first of the year for driving vehicles on ice."

For those venturing out this early in the season, Tim Smalley, DNR boating safety specialist, offers the following advice:

+Wear a life jacket underneath your regular clothes. It will add warmth and, if necessary, keep you afloat if you fall through the ice.

+Check with local bait shop owners and county sheriff offices for known thin ice areas, such as those created by aeration systems or currents.

+Avoid alcohol. Drinking alcoholic beverages slows your reaction time if the ice should crack. It also makes you more susceptible to hypothermia.

Details on the ice thicknesses and other safety facts are contained in the DNR pamphlet, "Danger! Thin Ice", available free by calling (612) 296-6157.

To increase your chances to catching fish, Shodeen suggests fishing for panfish, walleye and northern pike. "Fishing success tends to decline later in the season, usually bottoming out by late January, and does not pick up again until shortly before the ice breaks up, usually late March or early April in the Twin Cities," said Shodeen.

Walleye and northern pike season closes Feb. 15. Sunfish and crappies, which make up nearly 80 per cent of the metro fish population, can be fished anytime of the year.

Anglers Donate Prizes

Winners of the 1986 walleye fishing championship tournament sponsored by the Manufacturers Walleye Council provided a conservation award to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources in a ceremony Dec. 10 at the DNR headquarters in St. Paul.

The top-place team, Jerry Anderson of Onamia and Bruce Samson of St. Cloud, designated their $5,000 award for the Lake Winnigigosh walleye spawning reef.

Second-place winners Mark Dorn of Osakis and Gary Grable of Oshkosh, WI, split their $3,500 award between the Minnesota and Wisconsin DNRs. Dorn's share is earmarked for the Mille Lacs walleye catch-and-release program.

Randy Randall of Osakis and Loren Tank of Sauk Centre, the third-place team, are designating their $1,500 award for a Glenwood fish-hatchery distribution tank and gear to transfer walleye fry to area lakes.

The championship tournament was held Sept. 19-20 on the Missouri River near Bismark, ND.

Record Bear Season

In a state with an increasing bear population, hunters in northern Minnesota harvested a record 1,430 black bears this season, an increase of 90 bears over 9985's hunt.

"Not only did the number of bears killed increase," said Department of Natural Resources bear project leader David Garshelis, "but the rate of hunter success increased from 16 per cent in 1980 to more than 40 per cent this year.

"The only explanation of the steadily increasing hunting success is the growing bear population," said Garshelis.

Some residents in Pine and Kanabec counties, however, consider the bears a cause for concern and would like to see more taken. According to Garshelis, those counties "will likely get more bear-hunting permits next year."

The high bear population is most likely a result of the limited permit system begun in 1982. In 1971 the number of hunters was only 1,388. But by 1981, the number had escalated to 11,400, causing pressure on a dwindling bear population. In 1982, the DNR instituted a lottery for a limited number of permits, which effectively reduced the number of hunters and allowed the bear population to recover before this year's record bear harvest and hunter success rate.

'Twas the day before Christmas and all through this Inn, Not a creature was stirring to Granny that's a sin. The maids were all settled all snug in their rooms, it's time for a cigarette break, I could tell by the fumes. The stockings were hung on the cupholder with care, in hopes that the others were willing to share. And out of the blue there rose such a clatter, I ran to poolside to see what was the matter. And what to my wandering eyes should appear, Rudolph was missing, oh my dear! What will I do now Betty exclaimed — Jim will be furious — who's to blame? Then appeared Pat all happy and glee, we'll find the culprit, just you wait and see. We won the contest she said with a smile but we knew we'd win all the while. Laying a finger a side of her nose, she grabbed her clipboard and then she rose. She whistled to her girls and said with some cheer, let's finish these rooms and go have a beer! On Patsy, on Heidi, on Debbie and Pam, go help Dorothy do up the band. As Theresa was leaving she said have a ball. Happy New Year and Merry Christmas Y'all!!

MSHSL News

Representative Assembly of the Minnesota State High School League has approved two emergency amendments — one establishing a hardship provision to the transfer rule and one changing the deadline dates for cooperative sponsorship applications from January 15 to April 1 and from October 15 to November 15.

Voting on the amendments was as follows:

Hardship provision transfer rule — Yes: 80; No: 4.

Cooperative sponsorship deadline dates — Yes: 83; No: 1.

Listed below is a brief explanation of the provision of each amendment:

1. Transfer and residence rule — Hardship Provision:

A transfer student is eligible for A squad competition under any one of the following conditions:

If a death, divorce, separation or change in economic status in a family unit forces a transfer from one school to another without a corresponding change of residence of the student's parent(s) or guardian(s).

These facts shall be verified and documented on official MSHSL forms by the designated school representatives from both member schools. The forms should be completed independently by each member school and forwarded to the MSHSL office. The student will not be eligible for A squad (varsity) competition until approved in writing by the Executive Director of the MSHSL or his designee.

2. Cooperative sponsorship — Deadline Dates:

Requests for fall and winter activities must be submitted to the MSHSL (Board of Directors) by April 1 to be considered for the following school year.

Requests for spring activities must be submitted by November 15 to be considered for the spring of the same school year.

Decision for applications for fall and winter activities will be determined by the MSHSL (Board of Directors) no later than April 30 for implementation the following school year.

Decisions on applications for spring activities will be determined by the MSHSL (Board of Directors) no later than December 15 for implementation in the spring of the same school year.

To dissolve a cooperative sponsorship, the governing boards of the participating member schools must jointly make an application to the MSHSL (Board of Directors).

TRAIL . . .

Albert Aaknes and Lorenzo Eck attended the funeral of Rudolph Anderson at the King's Lutheran church at Fosston on Wednesday afternoon. Rudolph Anderson passed away Sunday, November 3, 1986 at the Municipal home at the age of 92 years. He lived in the Trail area as a child with his family where they made their home and farmed. He moved to Fosston about 15 years ago. He is survived by one niece (Ruth) Mrs. Nordahl Solberg of Fosston and two nephews, Bert and Gilman Anderson both of Twin Valley. He was preceded in death by his parents, five brothers, John, Albert, Amund, Lewis and Bennie and one sister, Mary. Sympathy goes out to all relatives of Rudolph Anderson.

Tuesday forenoon coffee guests of Mavis Christopherson were Bertha Woods and Rose Aaknes.

THINGS TO REMEMBER!!!

REMEMBER . . . You haven't seen them all until you have seen the choice exclusive listings . . . properties listed and shown only by All Seasons Realty!!!

REMEMBER . . . We work full time for you . . . we need farms . . . hobby farms . . . building sites . . . and homes in all price ranges!

REMEMBER . . . Points are down . . . interest is down and it is a good time to buy and sell . . .

REMEMBER . . . Signs don't sell real estate. Qualified realtors do!!! We use signs if you want them!!! We have found the longer a sign is on a property, the harder it is to sell and the lower an offer comes in . . . it's qualified realtors that get the job done right!!!

REMEMBER . . . We work full time for you!!! It's the extensive advertising and working full time that makes the difference . . . we put out northern Minnesota's only REAL ESTATE NEWSLETTER . . . we advertise in many newspapers . . . KTRF, KKAQ, KSNB and you'll be seeing us on Channel 6 CNN . . .

REMEMBER . . . "NLS" . . . New location specialists. The sign of helping you relocate any place in the nation . . . we can help you make your move easier . . . call for your "pri "private" appointment!!!

REMEMBER . . . We are looking forward to helping you in 1987 . . . we are your home town . . . full service real estate office.

REMEMBER . . . Our realtors have their GRI designation. This means they have successfully met the qualifications of the "realtors institute", a nationally recognized designation.

REMEMBER . . . We make happy buyers and happy sellers!!!

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls Water Utility announced that the state maximum allowable limit for turbidity was exceeded for the month of November, 1986.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level has not created any health hazards because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with state health department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen Lamm, water department supervisor, at 681-3809.

Card of Thanks
We would like to take this opportunity to express our deep appreciation and thanks to everyone for the help, comfort, thoughts and prayers given us during the long illness and death of our loved one, Fern.
Thank you to Drs. Herber and Bray, CNC I and CNC II nursing staff for your care while she was a patient here, neighbors and friends for telephone calls, food, cards and floral arrangements.
A special thank you to pastor Bortnem for his comforting service, Grace Hammer for musical selections, the pallbearers, and the Green Funeral Home for arrangements.
A special thank you also to the housekeeping staff at Northwest Medical Center for never forgetting your co-worker and friend and to all of you who visited Fern while she was a patient. God bless each of you.

County Board Proceedings

December 17, 1986

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
NOVEMBER 12, 1986

Pursuant to adjournment, the Board of Commissioners of Pennington County met in the Commissioners' room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, November 12, 1986, at 10:00 a.m. Members present: Koop, Swanson, and Hoffman. Commissioners Stenberg and Grabanski were absent.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Swanson to approve the A.M.C. dues for 1987 in the amount of $3,783.00. Motion carried.

Discussion was held on liability insurance coverage for the County. The present insurance carrier has sent notices of non-renewal.

Discussion was held on the OTH-B receiving station. Board decided to send a letter to Don Dyrdal stating that the Board endorsed the OTH-B station for information purposes and based on information received at the meeting we have seen NO FACTS to change that position.

Welfare Director Erickson was in to discuss the Falls Day Activity Center. The Board asked that the FDAC Board meet with the Welfare Board on November 18, at 7:00 p.m. Mr. Erickson will confirm this with the Board.

Engineer Olson presented the Board with an estimate to improve Judicial Ditch 18, 13 and 30 running East and West. Estimate totals $3,729,906. He will discuss this with the Red Lake Watershed Engineers.

Rick Nordhagen, along with a representative of Argonne Laboratories, Argonne, Illinois, gave an overview on the testing being done at Future Fuels. They are adding a binder similar to lime at varying rates on 300 tons of pellets in which they will test burn with coal to hopefully reduce dioxins by burning both together. They also agreed to meet with MNPCA officials to discuss their findings. Rick also discussed the cans and composting at the site. The County Board requested a meeting with the MPCA, Waste Management Board officials to discuss the solid waste facility.

Sheriff Richards and Sheriff-elect Wold appeared before the Board to discuss the law enforcement center. A water main has broken on the north of the building again. Asked permission to advertise for a deputy. This was approved. Discussed again the possibility of obtaining a POSSE-VT computer program. Software and program would amount to $23,900. The Board had approved this purchase at an earlier meeting this year. The Board asked if they had talked with the City for their approval to pay 50 per cent of this cost. Approval has been granted.

Engineer Olson reviewed cleaning County Road Ditch No. 63. Would like to call both parties in to discuss this before the Board. SA No. 11 Ditch was discussed. Ray Olson and Harvey Loeslie want a culvert opened that had been abandoned several years ago. The landowner now agrees on the culvert being reopened. The Board approved the reopening of this culvert.

The Board gave approval for the accountant and bookkeeper in the highway department to attend word processing training at the AVTI.

Jeff Dahlen cleaned a county ditch without a permit. Engineer Olson is to draft a letter which will be signed by the Chairman explaining procedures for ditch cleaning and handicaps for not following these procedures.

Treasurer Jorgenson was in on investments. Also requested the purchase of a chair and typewriter for the office. Purchases were approved.

The following warrants were presented, audited and approved for payment.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
NOVEMBER 25, 1986

Pursuant to adjournment, the Board of Commissioners of Pennington County met in the commissioners' room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, November 25, 1986, at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Hoffman, Koop, Swanson and Grabanski. Commissioner Stenberg was absent.

County Assessor DeHaan and Al Gustafson from the Pennington County Soil Conservation Service appeared before the Board to discuss the use of computerized land use maps for Pennington County. The present computerized soil survey system shows the types of soils in any section but does not distinguish between tillable and non-tillable. The Land Use Maps would overlay the Soil Survey showing what the land is actually used for at present and would be of much use to the Assessor. The University of Minnesota estimates the cost to provide this software to be $4,850. The Pennington County Soil Conservation and the County Extension would also see this as an improvement that should be made to the Soil Survey Software and would both utilize it. The Board requested the Assessor include this amount in his 1987 budget. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to approve the University of Minnesota to create computerized land use maps for Pennington County at an estimated cost of $4,850. Motion carried. It was noted that since Pennington County went forward on the soil survey mapping before many other counties, we were able to complete it at a much reduced cost.

Engineer Olson advised the Board that a meeting with the Mn Pollution Control Agency and the MN Waste Management Board had been set for December 4 at 2:00 p.m. at the MPCA Board room in St. Paul. They will discuss the Pennington County solid waste facility in regards to air quality issues on burning pellets and composting. As many of the commissioners as possible should attend.

Engineer Olson discussed the jurisdictional study the 1986 Legislature mandated. This is a study of all state, county and township roads which would require making recommendations concerning whose jurisdiction these roads should be under. Also brought up the fact that an update should be considered on our 5 year road plan.

Engineer Olson brought up the injury of John Wolbeck. This injury was non-work related to his county employment but would require him to be on non paying status for some time. He has asked about his health insurance coverage. The Board decided due to his non-pay status he would have to pay the total premium if he wishes to stay on the county insurance plan.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Swanson, Engineer Olson was authorized to sign an agreement with the DNR allowing Pennington County to install a boat landing at the Highlanding Bridge site. Motion carried.

Treasurer Jorgenson and Scott Hedberg from Smith Barney Investments appeared before the Board. Discussion was held on investing County funds.

Welfare Director Erickson was in to discuss the Falls Day Activity Center. If the State suspends the license for the FDAC, was Mr. Erickson to advertise for requests for proposals to provide Developmental Achievement Center Services. The Board felt that the September payment and part of the October payment to the FDAC should be paid as it was incurred prior to any allegations. The motion by the Welfare Board did not say payments to the FDAC were terminated but were withheld until the audit is completed. The remaining payments will be withheld until the audit is complete. The Board did ask the FDAC Board if funding is detrimental to their financial condition and if it was the Board would reconsider this motion if they were presented with financial data showing this.

The Board discussed the offer of Jim Winjum on the Unemployment Office building. No action taken.

Minutes of the meeting held on October 28 were read and approved.

Chairman Koop will contact Red Lake County to discuss the contract with them to haul their solid waste to our facility.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski, the liquor license application of T-N-T was approved. (Trapper & Trader)

Discussed the requests of the Fair Board. No action taken.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to reappoint Sam Honebrink and Dr. Penny Langland to a three year term on the Quin County Board. Motion carried.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to appoint LaRue Johnson to the Quin County Community Health Advisory Committee. Motion carried.

Moved by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to make the following transfers:

Revenue Sharing to Revenue Fund	$85,121.41
Revenue Fund to Solid Waste Bond	59,827.74
Revenue Fund to Solid Waste Facility	14,314.00

Motion carried.

Discuss bill from Life Star ambulance for mileage to Grand Forks for an autopsy. County Coroner advised Board this bill was excessive. Decision of the Board not to pay this.

Discussed the non-renewal notice from our insurance carrier on public officials errors and omissions coverage.

Commissioner Hoffman introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board would not object to the transfer of refuse as described in the permit application at the site owned by Kenneth Halvorson subject to approval of the site by the MN Pollution Control Agency along with approval of the Town of North, subject to the storage of recyclable materials approved by the MN Pollution Control Agency in accordance with plans and specifications designed to minimize environmental impacts on the air, water or land resources of the State of Minnesota.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Swanson and upon vote, unanimously adopted.

Moved by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski, the foregoing resolution was adopted. BE IT RESOLVED that all offices in the courthouse close at 3:00 p.m. on Christmas Eve, December 24. Resolution was unanimously adopted.

Moved by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Hoffman, meeting was adjourned until December 2, 1986, at 5:00 p.m. to discuss budgets for 1987. Motion carried.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
DECEMBER 2, 1986 - 5:00 p.m.

Pursuant to adjournment, the Board of Commissioners of Pennington County met in the commissioners' room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, December 2, 1986, at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Stenberg, Swanson, Koop and Grabanski. Commissioner Hoffman arrived at 5:30 p.m.

The Department Heads from the Attorney's Office, Assessor, Recorder, Treasurer and Extension Offices were in to discuss the budgets for 1987, for their prospective offices.

Welfare Director Erickson was in to ask the Board if they still wanted requests for proposals for providing Developmental Achievement Center Services. The Board instructed him to proceed. Proposals will be taken until January 5, 1987. The Board discussed the space problem in the Welfare Department and the offer of Jim Winjum's for the Unemployment Office building. No action taken.

Engineer Olson discussed the highway department budget for 1987. Requested $587,633 levy.

County Board requested a meeting with Red Lake Board on Monday December 8 at their regular Board meeting in Red Lake Falls to discuss tipping fees.

Board requested that Rick Nordhagen meet with them on December 9 with a financial statement.

Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg to waive bond for lost warrant and issue a duplicate check No. 16588 to Kevin Duffy. Motion carried.

Discussion was held on Jim Winjum's offer. Discussed whether the County was in a position to invest in a building. There would be costs of remodeling and installing phone lines along with maintenance. No action taken.

Auditor Olson reviewed the remaining budgets with the County Board.

Moved by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski, the meeting adjourned until the next regularly scheduled meeting on December 9, 1986. Motion carried.

4-H Judging Teams Compete At Ag Activities Day

Twenty Pennington 4-H'ers competed in ag activities day contests held at the UMC campus on December 5.

The 4-H consumer judging teams placed third and sixth. Individuals on those teams were: Tom Mickelson, Kratka 4-H club; Nicki Mostrom-Ose, Jenny Alterdorf, Mike Jorde, Wayne and Melissa Rausch, all of the Steiner 4-H club. Mike Jorde placed first and Melissa Rausch placed fifth individually.

The horse judging team placed seventh. Members included Lisa Rahn, Rodney and Sterling Joppru of the Happy Acres club and Ryan Browning of the Sanders club.

Competing on the dairy judging team were Nancy Geske, Smiley; Ira Johnson, Sanders; Tim Carlson, Satellite; and Crystal Sorteberg, Smiley. The dairy team placed 15th.

Six 4-H'ers competed on the general livestock judging team. Team members include Paul and Susanne Johnson and Troy and Matthew Carlson, Happy Acres; Beth Natvik, New Solum; and Jayson Otteson, Sanders.

Gas Prices Will Remain Stable For The Holidays

Gas prices will remain stable for the Christmas and New Year's holidays, according to the Minnesota automobile association (AAA). With unleaded gasoline supplies exceeding 1985 levels, inventory is not a problem and wholesale and retail prices should remain in a fairly stable pattern for the time being.

The statewide average retail tas price for all grades of fuel is $.999, up slightly from $.996 at Thanksgiving. Average full-service prices are: regular, $1.027; unleaded, $1.061; and premium unleaded, $1.219. Average self-service prices are: regular, $.837; unleaded $.868; and premium unleaded, $.984. Northern Minnesota self-serve prices average $.882 for regular, $.8975 for unleaded and $1.015 for premium unleaded.

Drivers are advised to fill up before the Christmas holiday. Less than one-fourth of the 120 stations reporting to AAA will be open Christmas day. However, almost half have planned for regular hours on New Year's day.

The best gift you can give yourself and your family this holiday season is safety, says AAA. Wear your seat belts. Don't drive while under the influence of alcohol or drugs. Drive according to weather conditions.

ANOTHER $100 for the Thief River Falls swimming pool fund was received recently when Toni Bryl of the Goodridge Lioness club presented a check to Janeen Kalsnes, treasurer of the swimming pool committee. Contributions and pledges to date have totaled about $30,000 toward the construction of an outdoor pool in Thief River Falls. Mrs. Bryl, president of the Lioness club, noted that the donation was made in recognition that the Goodridge community had lost one of its young people last year when swimming in an unsupervised area.

Sparby Attends State-Federal Assembly Meeting

Rep. Wally Sparby, Thief River Falls, joined legislators from other states at the winter meeting of the federal assembly in Washington D.C. The assembly is a branch of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL).

Agricultural concerns were brought up for discussion, with emphasis on the 1985 federal farm bill. Sparby asked that pressure be applied to Congress to reopen the bill and modify it to better address the dilemma that faces Minnesota farmers and rural communities, as well as farming states across the nation.

According to Sparby, two of the otherleading issues examined at the comference are also of importance to Minnesota — welfare reform and the liability insurance crisis. The meeting also dealt with the changing nature of federalism, which was discussed at one of the sessions by former Virginia Governor Charles Robb.

"It is helpful to attend these national conferences and have the opportunity to meet legislators from other states that are confronted with similar concerns as we are here in Minnesota," Sparby said. "It gave me the chance to discuss the agricultural situation, welfare reform ideas and the insurance issue with legislators from other states that have already enacted legislation in these areas and to find out personally how their programs are working or if they are not working. At the same time, these legislators were interested in hearing about Minnesota's new initiatives and programs designed to bring assistance to rural areas.

Delegates to the conference heard from U.S. Undersecretary of Education Gary Bauer and Congressman Harold Ford (Tennessee) on the topic of welfare reform. U.S. Senator Paul Simon of Illinois addressed one session on suggestions to solve the liability insurance crisis.

Other topics discussed at the NCSL meeting included state and federal issues in groundwater protection, the federal fiscal crisis and its effect on state and local governments, and the 1986 anti-drug abuse act as it impacts on states.

The NCSL represents all 50 state legislatures and is often the springboard for innovative ideas to help solve state government concerns. It also acts as a liaison between the states and Congress and lobbies on behalf of legislation beneficial to the states.

District Court Gives Sentences To Three

Three additional cases were handled in division one district court in Thief River Falls, besides the Jaylene A. Aune case reported on Monday, during the past week.

In Minnesota vs. Bruce D. Timchuk of Thief River Falls, Timchuk was sentenced to 12 months and one day which was stayed five years with supervised probation. He is to serve 90 days in the county jail with a work release arranged and pay $450 plus costs for aggravated criminal damage to property. The court directed that $225 be given to the public defense fund. Timchuk's attorney was Kevin Murphy. Dave Olin represented the state.

In Minnesota vs. Raymond H. Scott of St. Hilaire, Scott was sentenced to one year in the county jail to be released for treatment. The court found him guilty of aggravated driving while intoxicated. Scott was represented by Kevin Murphy. Dave Olin represented the state.

In Minnesota vs. Emile A. McFord of Thief River Falls, imposition of McFord's sentence was stayed for 10 years and he was placed on probation. He was remanded to custody in the county jail for 60 days with credit for time served. The fine and surcharge and law library costs were waived. McFord was found guilty of simple armed robbery (two counts). McFord was represented by Kevin Murphy. Dave Oljn represented the state.

New Physical Therapy Program Helps Patients Adjust At Home

Physical therapy is now available as a home health service through a cooperative arrangement between Inter-County Nursing Service and Northwest Medical center.

In addition to the skilled nursing and home health aide services that have always been available through Inter-County Nursing, physical therapists from Northwest Medical center will now be able to make home visits and help set up a therapy program to be used in the home and carried out by the therapists and the nursing service staff.

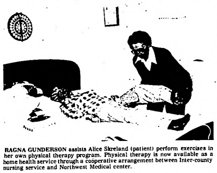
"We are pleased to be able to participate in this co-sponsored venture, which will enable the continuity of therapy and therapists from an inpatient or outpatient setting to the home setting," said Jon Braband, associate administrator of Northwest Medical center. "We are pleased to participate in this service offering, helping to develop a broader spectrum of service to people within our service area."

The service is eligible to be paid for by Medicare. Also many other insurance companies, Veteran's administration and Medical assistance recognize physical therapy as a major part of home health care and provide payment for such service.

"We have always wanted to offer the most complete care possible to the people in Pennington and Red Lake counties; and we feel now that we have greatly added to our ability to do that," stated Susan Olson, director of Inter-County Nursing.

The first person served under this new arrangement is Alice Skreland in Oklee. She was one of the first home health aides trained by the nursing service and is now a recipient of that same service. "I am so grateful for the care given to me at home," Alice said.

Anyone who wants to know more about physical thereapy as a part of home health care should talk to their physician or call Inter-County Nursing Service or Northwest Medical center.



RAGNA GUNDERSON assists Alice Skreland (patient) perform exercises in her own physical therapy program. Physical therapy is now available as a home health service through a cooperative arrangement between Inter-county nursing service and Northwest Medical center.

NFO Members Told To Inform Public

As the National Farmers Organization's 31st annual convention got under way Tuesday night, more than 800 members and delegates were urged to "get out and be candidates for NFO," talk to consumers and urban businessmen about rural problems, and utilize the courts to ensure the rights of farmers.

Presenting thses messages to members were a panel of three longtime farm advocates and leaders: Delores McClernon, a 26-year member of NFO and a former candidate for the Minnesota legislature; Naloma Benson, president of Women Involved in Farm Economics; and Roger Blobaum, executive director of the Family Farm Defense Fund.

Mrs. McClernon, who was a candidate for a Minnesota state representative in the November election, explained the steps she took as a candidate to become known and present a gppd public image. She advised the members that these steps are not unlike those they should take as NFO members to increase the visibility of the National Farmers Organization and present it as the organization that can save family farms by increasing farm prices.

Mrs. Benson concurred with her comments and added: "We, as rural people and farmers, need to get out and talk with consumers and the public. One thing we can say is that office space in cities is going up per square foot but land values in rural areas are declining rapidly. This is one concept to which they can relate."

She added that urban people are not aware of farm problems and do not blame farmers for high prices, costly government subsidy programs or other agricultural woes; they need to be made aware of these problems and the reasons why they exist.

Blobaum carried the program one step further by urging farmers to not only seek help or understanding from the urban communities but also from the court system. The Family Farm Defense Fund, which was created by several farm organizations through the help of Farm Aid, he said, is an unprecedented initiative in agriculture. "It's the first time in history that farmers have mounted a broad effort to protect their rights in court.

"I want to stress the importance of farmers using the courts as other groups have in this country to guarantee their rights to credit and due process under the law," he added.

The Family Farm Defense Fund executive concluded the public information meeting by explaining current cases being handled by the public interest law firm and answering farmers' questions.

ATV Use Results In Head Injuries To Many Youths

Children driving all-terrain vehicles risk brain injury, according to a report by the head injury service at a children's hospital in St. Paul.

Although popular as recreational vehicles, three-wheelers cause problems for young drivers. Their instability and relatively high center of gravity make handling difficult. Fifteen per cent of all the children admitted to the hospital's pediatric head injury service from 1984 to 1985 were treated for severe brain injuries caused by all-terrain vehicle accidents.

The hospital recommends that children under the age of 16 should not operate all-terrain vehicles. Before allowing older children to drive such vehicles, parents should warn them of the hazards, enroll them in safety training programs and insist that they wear protective helmets.

Family Physician Of The Year Open For Nominations

Minnesota Academy of Family Physicians is accepting nominations for the 1987 Minnesota family physician of the year.

Minnesotans are encouraged to send letters of nomination for their family physician. Letters should describe reasons for nominating the physician and his or her special qualities. The selection committee is looking for family physicians who provide compassionate, comprehensive and caring medical service on a continuing basis and who are involved in their community.

Nomination letters should be sent by January 10 to Robert Kaiser, M.D., Chairman, Public Relations and Patient Education Committee, Minnesota Academy of Family Physicians, 2221 University Avenue S.E., No. 426, Minneapolis, MN 55414. The award will be presented in April at the academy's annual meeting.

Valley Potato Growers In The Chips With Price

Stan Erickson, marketing director for the Red River Valley Potato Growers association, expects chip potato prices to be among the price leaders for valley potato growers.

According to Erickson, unbelievably bad weather this past fall created harvest losses and storage problems in most of the other major chip potato growing areas. As such, Red River valley potato growers will be called on to supply markets that historically have not used valley potatoes.

Erickson states that the problems in other areas are the reason for an increased movement of potatoes from the valley.

Based on a survey of four scales, truck shipments out of the valley are up 58 per cent from last years' total. Shipment from these four scales through November this year totaled 4,323 truckloads averaging 460 hundredweight per truck compared to 2,740 truckloads in 1985.

The truck shipments from these four scales to the end of November are up 728,180 hundredweight or 58 per cent. Rail shipments are also running well ahead of last year's pace. According to railroad numbers, 726 potato cars had been shipped by mid-November, up 23 per cent from last year's total of 590 cars. Erickson feels that with good movement to date and chip potato storage problems in other areas, the best is yet to come.

Arkansas Gems To Play Local Basketball "Team"

"Arkansas Gems," a world-wide known all-girls basketball team, will meet – the Thief River Falls all No-Stars – a group of local men and play them under men's rules. All this competition or lack thereof will take place 6:30 p.m. January 2 at the Lincoln high school gym.

The Arkansas Gems have played in all 50 states, as well as overseas before thousands. This world championship troupe will bring a record of 161 wins in thier last 163 games to a game in Thief River Falls against a group of men from the Law Enforcement center and Jaycees.

According to a press release from the Gems, the team boasts a magnificent shooting percentage that few, if any, men's teams could match. The Gems ask for no set-ups and will furnish the local men's faculty all the opposition they will need. Playing good, solid basketball is a trademark with the Gems. Outstanding passing and ball handling add a great deal to the color of this group of female court wizards, plus all kinds of antics that are allied with comedy.

Members of the Thief River Falls All No-Stars may provide their own brand of comedy. Members of the team include: "Jumping" Jeff Hendrickson, Paul "The Moon" Williams, "Flying Father" Dave Super, "Dribbling" Don Howe, "Dunkin" Dwight Tangquist and "Mumbling" Jeff Mumm.

In addition to the entertaining ball game, a special half-time show is promised by the Gems.

Tickets are available at TG Sporting Goods, Realty World, Pamida, Godfathers Pizza, Erl's Market, KTRF and KKAQ and Plummer's Coop and Creamery. Advance tickets for children 12 and under are $1.50 and for teens and adults 13 and up, $2. Tickets at the door will cost $2 for children 12 and under and $3 for teens and adults.

Proceeds from this event will benefit the Swimming Pool Committee in Thief River Falls.

Goodridge School Names Teachers, Students Of Month

Goodridge public school has begun a practice of naming students of the month and teachers of the month in its newsletter mailed to district residents each month. An elementary, junior high and senior high student is to be selected and one or more teachers listed and interviewed.

Students selected for the month of December include Travis Kotrba, fifth grade son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kotrba; Karla Quam, eighth grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Quam; and Cindy Vettleson, 12th grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vettleson.

Travis enjoys sports, won third place in the regional run, punt and pass competition, plays fifth grade basketball, is a member of the band and a 4-H club member.

Karla likes working with computers, playing in the band, sports and serves as secretary-treasurer of her class. She takes part in volleyball, basketball, band and pep club.

Cindy is vice president of the honor society, plays varsity basketball, has won the school leadership award, been in vocal contests and belongs to the student council, letterman's and pep clubs and is on the yearbook staff.

Teachers of the month selected are Eloda Knutson, fourth grade teacher in Goodridge since 1965; Del Peters, home economics teacher at Goodridge for 22 years; and Patti Johnson, teacher in the science area of the school for the past five years and coach of the girls basketball team.

Eloda Knutson and her husband Sheldon live at rural Goodridge. She was raised at Warroad and is a graduate of Moorhead state university with additional credits from Bemidji state university. She raises roses, enjoys cross-country skiing, sewing, knitting, crocheting and music.

Del Peters, her husband Glenn and daughter Kimberly Soo live in Thief River Falls. She has a bachelor of science degree from Southern university in Baton Rouge, LA, and continues her education with additional credits in home economics. She notes the home economics curriculum has expanded beyond cooking and sewing to include consumer foods and nutrition, family living, consumer housing, child development and parenting, textiles and clothing and consumer education.

Pattie Johnson's husband Vern is boys basketball and assistant football coach at Grygla where they live. She played basketball at Lakota, ND high school. She teaches fifth and sixth grade science, seventh and eighth grade life and earth science, ninth grade physical science and 10th grade biology. She coaches volleyball in addition to basketball and is the school yearbook advisor. Her double major in biology and psychology is from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks and her main hobbies are sports, sewing and taxidermy.

Times' Capsule

Wednesday

Christmas party notices are flocking into the Times at top speed as the holidays near. Check the calendar of events, Times Around the Region, and check for individual articles to find dates, times and places.

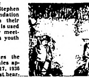
A humorous management policy appears in Times Around the Region. Many employers and employees will probably get a laugh out of it.

In Times Around the Region:

Stephen — The city of Stephen recently received a Hartz Foundation grant of $15,000 to use on their community center. The center is used by senior citizens for weekly meetings and activities by various youth groups.

In Tidbits of the Times:

..Sharon LaCoursiere relates the bare facts about two bear tales appearing from the December 17, 1936 edition of the Times. It's almost bearable.



In Turning Back the Times:

— 70 years ago it cost the county a total of $1,297 for road upkeep in 1916, according to a report by Highway Engineer W.E. Monks.

— 20 years ago 78 building permits amounting to $149,990 were issued in Thief River Falls during 1966, according to Roy Langevin, city building inspector.

NORM HOLEN:

— Those folks with the smug looks on their faces are the ones who have finished their Christmas shopping.

WEATHER

No significant precipitation

No significant precipitation is expected through Saturday. Highs are expected to be in the 20's and lows from 0 to 5 above.

Grygla

Lillian Sundberg, Grygla

In spite of 20 degree below temperatures, a group of Grygla Go-Getters 4-H club members and their leaders came singing Christmas carols on Friday evening. They visited many of the people in town, including those in the White House, the Blair House and the Independence Hall. The carolers were Ada Smerek, Jennifer Lian, Carlye Schuler, Jill Schuler, Kristi Benson, Abby Schuler, Sue Schuler, Linda Smerek and Cheryl Sistad. Everyone enjoyed the songs and the visit. We wish to thank them and wish them a Merry Christmas!

The Grygla senior citizens met at the community center on Wednesday, Dec. 10th. Cards given and games were played. Several members attended the dinner served at noon. The birthdays of Barnett Benson, Hulda Hanson, Mabel Sundberg and Gail Lian were celebrated. The birthday song was sung. Among the guests, besides regular members, were Allard and Margaret Morken, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Johnson, Mrs. Roland Klamar, Leonard Newhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sundberg, Mrs. Raymond Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Johnson and Kathryn Svenpladsen.

Among the people from a distance who enjoyed partaking of the lutefisk dinner sponsored by the Lion's club on Sun. were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ness, Mrs. Tillie Sabo, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Lusignan, Mrs. Mabel Sletten and Mr. and Mrs. Scott Jelle all of Thief River Falls. The dinner was delicious and proves that the men are excellent cooks.

A large number of senior citizens enjoyed the Christmas treats at the meeting at the community center on Friday, December 12th, that the ladies of the VFW auxiliary brought and served for the afternoon lunch. Several delicious kinds of cookies, bars, sandwiches and ice cream were served. The senior citizens wish to thank the ladies. It was much appreciated.

Diane Yager of Warroad spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Yager. Other guests on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sundberg and Mathew and Mr. and Mrs. Orvis Byklum, Jessica and Lisa. They helped Ed Yager celebrate his birthday. Happy birthday, Ed!

Guests at the Steven Holte home on Sunday in honor of the birthdays of Alex who was six years old and Natalee who will be three this week were Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Holte, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Grabowska and Mr. and Mrs. Donie Grabowska, Chris, Scott and Don all of Goodridge, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grabowska and Kevin and Mrs. Keith Nelson, Jessica and Meghan all of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller and Aaron of Goodridge, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Anderson, Garrett and Laura, Mrs. Lyle Anderson, Chris and Lindsay and Alvin Holte. A birthday lunch was served and visiting enjoyed. Happy birthday, Alex and Natalee!

Look Who's Here

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Howland received word that they are great-grandparents of a baby boy, born on December 12th. Proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Greg House of Ray, grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Oral Howland of International Falls, formerly of Grygla, and great-grandmother is Ida Mae Hubbell of International Falls. Congratulations!

Visitors at the Ernest Selle home this week were Billy Wikert, Roger Amundson of Thief River Falls, Cheryl Stinar, Norma Jokela and Sanve Johnson.

Mrs. Anna Schumaker of Plummer spent a few days visiting at the Steven Sundberg home.

On Sunday afternoon, a group of neighbor ladies met at the Ray Benson home for a cookie exchange party. Hostesses for lunch were Mrs. Lee Sundberg and Mrs. Ray Benson. Others who enjoyed the party were Mrs. Steven Sundberg, Mrs. Paul Sundberg and Mathew, Mrs. Wade Sundberg, Katie, Heidi and Lars, Mrs. Jerry Rychlock and Rachel, Mrs. Clayton Sundberg, Mrs. Mike Hogensen and Dawn, Mrs. Mac McCormack and Mrs. Anna Schumaker of Plummer. The ladies enjoyed sampling some of the good cookies and brought bags full of cookies back to their homes.

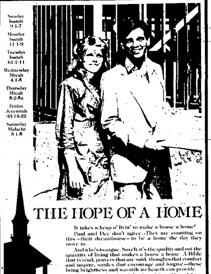
Mr. and Mrs. Norval Torkelson of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Halvorson of Goodridge and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Paulson were guests at the Edna Paulson home in Thief River Falls for dinner on Tuesday.

A bridal shower was held on Sunday, December 14th, at Grace Lutheran church for Bonnie Archibald, bride-to-be of Brian Stanley. Those attending were Violet Holland of Wyoming, Gladys Haugen of Warren, Mabel Sletten, Brenda Kraska and Dawn Engelstad of Thief River Falls, Ida Stanley, Debbie Stanley and Kathryn, Dona Jelle, Stacie Jelle, Donna Smith, Hazel Smith, Kaye Wilkens, Alison Stanley, Eunice Schulz, Myrna Lawrence, Wendy Lawrence, Sandy Bernstein and Melissa all of Grygla. Sending gifts but unable to attend were Rosemary and Kathy Spinder, Donna McLean, Kristine Satre and Mark Lobergs. Hostesses were Lynette Jelle and Tammy Anderson. Brian and Bonnie will be married at Grace church on Saturday, December 20th.

Several ladies of the Grace Lutheran church met at the church on Monday morning to pack cookies in cans to give to senior citizens, bachelors, and shut-ins. The cookies were furnished by all of the ladies of the church. The treats are for Christmas and are much appreciated by all who receive them. Thank you and merry Christmas!

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foss and Mr. and Mrs. Stegen Foss and Farrin were visitors at the Harland Lee home on Wednesday evening.

Weekend guests at the Harland Lee home were Mrs. Judith Kotrba, Brian and Cara of Thief River Falls. Duane Kotrba came on Saturday to visit at the Lee home.



THE HOPE OF A HOME

It takes a heap o' livin' to make a house a home! Paul and Dee don't agree. They are counting on this—their dreamhouse—to be a home the day they move in.

And who's to argue. Surely it's the quality and not the quantity of living that makes a house a home. A Bible that is read, prayers that are said, thoughts that comfort and inspire, smiles that encourage and forgive—these bring brightness and warmth no hearth can provide.

Nearby there's a church in whose life and friendships Paul and Dee will find growing faith and enrichment. Sunday after Sunday they (and soon their family) will bring its glow home with them.

God bless you, Paul and Dee—and millions like you who turn houses into homes.

LEAFING THROUGH YOUR LIBRARY

by Margaret Moeglein
Bookmobile Branch Librarian

Northwest regional library bookmobile branch has a festive atmosphere for the holiday season with gold garlands draped around the interior and Christmas music playing in the background. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to everyone!

Happy recipients of books won during Children's Book Week in November are: Rebecca Demarais, Plummer; Nicholas Boucher, Brooks; Jaclyn Haack, Grygla; Anthony Holthusen, Grygla; Caleb Holthusen, Viking; Jennifer Flatten, Newfolden; Nicole Dahl, Roseau; Gwen Borgen, Badger; Jeanette Walsh, Halma; and Abi Kuznia, Stephen.

Large print readers will be very pleased to know that 14 books by popular authors will be added to the large print books collection by the end of February 1987. The books were purchased with a gift of $200 from the Karlstad auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, and are available through inter-library loan to all patrons served by the Northwest regional library system.

The new purchases are "Down the Long Hills" and "Last of the Breed" by Louis L'Amour; "War Party" by Max Brand; "Impetuous Masquerade" and "Seasons of Mist" by Anne Mather; "The Doctor Makes a Choice" and "So Young, So Fair" by Elizabeth Seifert; "Second Chance at Love" by Zara Holman, "The Inheritance," "Master of Morley" and "No Gentle Persuasion" by Kay Thorpe; "The Homesteaders" by Lauren Paine; "By Love Bewitched" and "The Man She Married" by Violet Winspear.

New bookmobile schedules for January through June 1987 have been printed with latest schedule alterations, and are currently being distributed to patrons at all bookmobile stops. Schedules are also available at other NWRL branch libraries located in Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Greenbush, Roseau, Hallock, Warren and Warroad; at post offices in communities with scheduled bookmobile stops; and at area newspaper offices.

American Cuisine Is Melting Pot Of Culinary Influence

by Ink Mendelsohn
Smithsonian News Service

If you still think of tacos and pizza as "junk" food, you may want to reconsider. Regional American specialties like the taco and such European borrowings as pizza, blended with the spices of personal creativity, are the ingredients of an emerging eclectic American cuisine. The taco, it seems, is one of America's most historic dishes, and today in this country's top restaurants, pizza is not only hot but "haute."

"Haute cuisine" — French classical cooking — has been a bone of culinary contention in America at least since Patrick Henry accused Thomas Jefferson of having become "so Frenchified that he had abjured his native victuals." In truth, the president was ever seeking the best in food and was always ready to try anything. Jefferson took pride in serving his ever-present dinner guests Virginia's regional foods along with such European "curiosities" as macaroni and cheese.

After 200 years, America's culinary establishment and much of the citizenry are shedding rigid ideas of what an American cuisine should or should not be and coming around to Jefferson's broad-minded way of thinking. Culinary historian Michael Batterberry recently explained to a Smithsonian Resident Associate Program class the difficulty of defining America's style of cooking: "A cuisine is a living thing and that's sometimes a problem for historians." Continual interchange and mingling of food customs were inevitable in the American melting pot.

When the first Europeans arrived in America, they found Indian tribes in several parts of the county who were sophisticated cooks. Some delicious Indian gifts to American cooking are clam chowder, cranberry sauce, roasted peanuts, hominy, corn bread, pumpkin soup, Brunswick stew, maple syrup and "Boston" baked beans. The Powhatans "invented" Smithfield ham with their hickory-smoking technique. But they couldn't have done it if Spanish explorer Hernando de Soto hadn't brought 13 hogs to Florida in 1542.

By the sea in New England, clam chowder was a favorite. In the coastal South, a rice-growing region, "Hoppin' John" — rice with bacon and red peas — was a specialty. Maryland crabcakes emerged from the bounty of Chesapeake Bay. The thrifty Pennsylvania Dutch produced scrapple from butchering scraps. Corn, the staff of life of the American Indian, was featured in regional dishes everywhere from Rhode Island "jonnycakes" to posole, the classic New Mexican stew. And Texas chili was legendary.

A fiery Louisiana combination was Creole cuisine — New Orleans city cooking — and its Mississippi Delta country cousin, cajun cooking. The two cooking styles teamed up to make a distinctively American culinary statement. The contributors to this Louisiana-French style of cooking were American Indians, Spaniards, Africans, French Acadians, West Indians, Germans, Mexicans and Chinese. No wonder that Louisiana specialties are multi-versioned mixed delights such as gumbos and jambalaya. Paul Prudhomme, chef of New Orleans' K-Pauls Louisiana Kitchen, says, "You would find a different gumbo on every stove."

The marriage of American Indian and European cusines began in the 16th century with the torrid union of Indian cookery featuring the chili pepper and highly spiced Spanish medieval cooking, according to culinary historian Ariane Batterberry. "One of the most ancient foods you can eat is a good old-fashioned taco," she told the Smithsonian class.

The tortilla, once a staple in the Aztec kingdom of Montezuma, was an Indian contribution to this handy, wholesome dish. Mexican Indians brought their cornmeal cake to the American Southwest in the early 17th century. Inside the tortilla's protective shell, Spanish lettuce, cheese and beef mingled with Indian tomatoes and peppery chili sauce.

"The Mayflower carried spices," James Baker, another lecturer in the Smithsonian series of culinary history classes, pointed out. According to Baker, research librarian at Plimoth Plantation (Mass.), it's a myth that early New England's "English yeoman cuisine" was bland. "The Pilgrims ate hearty, plain meals, but for special menus, they enjoyed spiced dishes and artful presentation." With or without flavorings and frills, English culinary traditions would become a dominant force in middle-class American homecooking.

In the homes of the very wealthy and in much restaurant cooking, however, French standards of gastronomy would prevail. The Franco-American culinary alliance dates from the American Revolution when such prominent Americans as Jefferson and Franklin called attention to French cooking and it became fashionable among the elite. To show sympathy with the American cause, the French began eating turkey — stuffed with truffles.

After the French Revolution began in 1789, the Reign of Terror propelled aristocratically allied chefs and pastry cooks to America. These skilled refugees and others who followed over the years introduced French cooking techniques and spread such Gallic tastes as soups, salads and bon bons. They opened cafes and restaurants — two of the words of a new language, "culinary French." Filet, souffle, fricassee, puree, consumme, pate — but not hors d'oeuvres — rolled merrily from many American tongues. Way out west, a Denver hotel by mid-19th century was serving "bear's paws en gelee."

Many Americans, however, were not exactly swept away by Gallic gastronomic gusts. Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," sniffed, "Oh, we can't give time here in America to go into niceties and French whim-whams." Stowe's concern reflected the mid-19th-century regionalism in American cooking. Before refrigeration and railroads, Americans depended on seasonal local ingredients and family culinary traditions.

Space continually had to be made in the American culinary kettle as immigrants from the world over came to these shores, some bearing dishes that would become daily fare. German arrivals to Midwestern farmlands and such cities as Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee brought hamburg steak, sauerkraut, hot dogs and potato salad. Macaroni, once a feather in Jefferson's cap but jistaken for onions by one of his guests, was by the late-19th century called, "a favorite American food." In New York City in the Gay Nineties, spaghetti began to wind its way around American hearts. But the big love affair with Italian food began after World War II when GIs returned from southern Italy dreaming of Neapolitan pizza, and pizzerias began to pop up around the country.

Millions of Americans became more adventurous eaters as they encountered exotic dishes during wartime service and postwar travel in Europe and Asia. During the 1950s and '60s, "gastronomic gurus," — as food writer Ellen Brown describes New York Times food editor Craig Claiborne, Julia Child and the late James Beard — began to write and talk about, not the nourishing qualities of food, but its pleasures. Brown stresses Child's electronic influence: "Three million people learned to debone chicken from Julia Child."

Meanwhile, out West a young woman was reinventing the meal. In 1971, Alice Waters opened her Berkeley, Calif., restaurant, Chez Panisse, founded on her bulinary philosophy of faith in fresh ingredients and respect for the seasons. She recalls today "lettuce with the snails still on it" and "trout that tried to jump out of the sink." At the time Chez Panisse opened, thousands of "Continental" restaurants in America were serving meals reheated from a frozen state, prompting one wag to decide that the continent in question must have been Antarctica. Sunny California's new cuisine flowered in the San Francisco Bay Area and in Los Angeles and soon affected chefs and restaurants across America.

"People today have more educated palates because they eat out more," Thomas Peer of the Culinary Institute of America says. Peer trains chefs of the future in the American Bounty Restaurant of the Hyde Park, N.Y., culinary academy. This CIA is filled with eager students who are looking forward to creative careers and even possible stardom.

Eating out today has become a form of entertainment for the 1980s lifestyle with its growing population of singles and working couples. Kitchens often are front and center in the restaurant, offering diners a culinary show. Chefs, too, are coming out of the kitchen and into the limelight to mingle with admirers in the dining room. Wolfgang Puck, chef and owner of Spago and Chinois on Main in Los Angeles, smiles a Puckian smile when asked about the demands of celebrity. "It's easy to be a showman if you love what you do."

Puck, one of America's most renowned chefs, has a specialty — pizza. Puck's pizzas are topped with duck sausage, smoked salmon, golden caviar and California goat cheese. Chefs around the country are practicing personal pizza panache typical of the new American cuisine using squash blossoms, salad greens, truffles, mussels and quail eggs. From Santa Cruz, Calif., comes word of Chinese pizza with Szechwan or sweet-and-sour sauce.

"Food is to nourish, but it should also comfort, nurture and have a sense of humor," Anne Rosensweig thinks. Rosensweig, chef and owner of New York City's Arcadia, is one of a growing number of female chefs in America. She acknowledges "a passion for food."

The "mother" of the evolving and experimental new American cooking style is still passionate about it. Alice Waters enthuses: "We could come up with something fantastic."

How About Trade Of U.S. Food For Iran Hostages?

by Russ Schwandt
President, Minnesota
Agri-Growth Council

For the past month, you really haven't been able to pick up a newspaper or turn on a radio or TV newscast without hearing the raging controversy about secret arms deals with Iran. I am not particularly interested in jumping into the fray of whether the U.S. gave armaments to the Iranian government in exchange for release of hostages. Too many people are already adding their voice to the confusion on that score.

What saddens me is that we have been unable to find some sanity in the international community of nations that would allow our government to provide the humanitarian aid of food rather than arms and ammunition to the Islamic Jihad.

Here we sit, the abundance of our domestic harvest literally sitting on the ground in storage bunkers throughout Minnesota. At the same time, beyond the foreign shores of many emerging Third World nations, people are either starving or living on minimal amounts of food and nourishment.

I know it's beyond our power as citizens to make it happen, but I don't hear voices of reason being raised anywhere in the world community. I wish that the powerful moral leadership of the world's great religions could all get together on this.

We are told that the hostages are being held as part of an Islamic revolution against Western support for Israel. Perhaps if the Pope, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the head of the Eastern Orthodox Church and others of similar stature would issue a common plea for the Islamic Jihad to accept humanitarian supplies in exchange for release of the hostages, it could have some effect.

In such an instance, our U.S. government could assure these church and religious leaders that the American farm community would put up millions of tons of food from our national surplus as ransom for these hostages. No more talk of armaments. Offer them life, not death. Send them the grain that this nation is holding in storage. After all, this grain was produced to give life and sustenance, why not keep it working for that goal someplace on the face of the earth?

Certainly, somebody in Washington will react to such a suggestion by saying it would cost too much to give away this surplus grain. Well, from what I can tell looking at the U.S. defense appropriations, when it comes to the cost of guns versus the cost of butter, food is one helluva lot cheaper.

TIMES Around The Region

Giggles From Bagley

Bagley — The Farmers Independent of Bagley recently published "Instructions on the Death of Employee." Perhaps the rules are applicable to your business or office.

To all concerned:

It has been brought to the attention of this office that many employees have been dying while on duty for apparently no good reason. Furthermore, that some employees are refusing to fall over after they are dead. This in some cases has resulted in unearned overtime payments which do not fit into our economy program.

Effective immediately — this practice must be discontinued.

On or after today any employee found sitting up after he has died will be dropped from the payroll at once, without investigation under Regulation Number 42, Section D (nonproductive labor).

When it can be proven that the employee is being held up by a desk, typewriter, drawing board, telephone or any other means of support which is the property of the company, a 90-day period of grace will be granted. The following procedure will be strictly adhered to:

If after several hours it is noted that any employee has not moved or opened at least one eye, the department head will investigate. Because of the highly sensitive nature and origin of some employees and the close resemblance between death and their normal working attitude, the investigation will be made quietly to avoid waking the employees, if he or she is asleep (which is permitted under the present regime and union contract).

If some doubt exists as to the true condition of the employee, a pay check will be used as the final test. If the employee fails to reach for the check, it is reasonable to assume that death has occurred.

(Note:) In some cases, the instinct is so strongly developed that a spasmodic clutching action may occur. Do not be misled by this manifestation.

In the event that any employee fails to abandon whatever he is doing at the coffee break time, no investigation is necessary, as this is conclusive proof that rigormortis has set in.

— The Management

Winter Fun Site

McIntosh — After the city of McIntosh burned down the old sewer plant, the Men's Action Club (MACs) decided to turn the area into a winter playground for the city. Fill was added and a toboggan and sledding hill was developed, an ice rink is in the final stages and a warming house is being constructed. The warming house will have electric heating and wiring.

Right Down The Middle

Baudette — The Lake of the Woods school board has applied to the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) for a special sharing agreement in which Indus students from the west half of the Indus school attendance area would pair with Lake of the Woods school to play hockey, and students from the eastern half of the attendance area would play hockey with International Falls. The board expects the proposal to be refused by the MSHSL, but they say that Indus will have a problem in the near future that there won't be enough students to keep the hockey program going. There are 17 players on the Indus hockey team this season, and seven of them are seniors. There are only six ninth graders including the squad's second and third-leading scorers on the roster.

He Strikes Again

Williams — Williams' mailboxes are still not safe from vandalism or theft by the "Mailbox Bandit." He struck again last week, reports the Baudette Region, stealing two mailboxes and vandalizing another.

Wait 'Til Next Year

Warren — The Warren Lions club presented the Oslo Lions with a "beautiful Christmas tree last week. The Warren Sheaf said "The tree was the subject of many thoughts passed about the room," in the caption with the picture of Lion dignitaries and the tree. To describe the beauty of the tree, I would say it resembled one from last year — that had been saved under the back steps and just dragged back in by the cat in time for this momentous occasion. Wonder what will be exchanged next year?

That's The Spirit

Greenbush — Everyone in town is being invited to join in the spirit of Christmas and carol through Greenbush December 22 at 1 p.m. People are asked to meet at the Blessed Sacrament church at 1:15 p.m. and carol all around until 3:30, when they will return to the church for hot cider.

Granted To Stephen

Stephen — The city of Stephen recently received a Hartz Foundation grant of $15,000 to use on their community center. The community center is used by local senior citizens for weekly meetings and activities, and by various youth groups. There is no charge for utilization by non-profit groups.

Ya, Sure, Ya Betcha

Grygla — The Grygla Lion's club had a "Luta-Feast" December 14, with a menu of lutefisk and lefse for the "Scandahoovians," meatballs for the Norskies who just can't stand the stuff, potatoes and gravy, coleslaw, rolls, cranberries, milk, coffee and ice cream.

Jing, Jing, Jingling

Warren — The Marshall County Historical society is planned a good old-fashion Christmas celebration this year with horse drawn sleigh rides, bells and all, carrying everyone from the city auditorium to Settlers Square in Warren for a caroling church service in the Old Alma Church December 28. Fr. Rick Lambert of Stephen and Rev. Milo Gudim of Argyle will conduct the church services and refreshments will be served to all attending. Services will begin at 1:30 p.m. and be continuous until 3:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend the holiday celebration. Norman Hagen of Argyle is providing the one, two, three or whatever horse-drawn open sleighs for the event.

Langlie Benefit

Middle River — There will be a dinner benefit at the American Legion clubrooms in Middle River December 20 from 5 to 8 p.m. with the proceeds to assist Dan Langlie of rural Newfolden, who was seriously injured in a car accident near Newfolden in August. He is in the Rehabilitation hospital in Grand Forks, ND. The event is sponsored by St. Joseph's Catholic church, Middle River.

Annie, Get Your Gun

Newfolden — Crystal Vixie of rural Newfolden got her first deer this year, an 11-point buck, while hunting with her family on the Floberg farm west of Newfolden. The buck weighed 165 pounds, field dressed. Crystal is the 17-year-old daughter of Dalle and Anna Vixie.

They Don't Belong Outside

Crookston — A Shelly, MN nurseryman is threatening to sue the city of Crookston after the city council denied him a permit to display his Christmas trees on a city sidewalk. Joe Swenson, manager of Swenson's Tree Service, said that the city is discriminating against his business and that they have allowed other businesses to sell products on city-owned sidewalks and he should be allowed the same privilege. Swenson presented his case in a vocal manner, sometimes shouting at alderman and city officials, while a city policeman stood nearby.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

More Talk On Taxes

"As a guy who spent a lot of years in the 70 per cent tax bracket and never participated in shelters, well, you just can't tell me that the prospect of keeping 72 cents of every dollar you make is not going to blast business people out of bed in the morning. And just as importantly, investment will be spurred by what makes a profit, not what looks good on the tax form."

These are a couple of comments by Sen. Rudy Boschwqitz about the Tax Reform Act of 1986 which has created so many uncertainties and indecision throughout the nation this year.

"You can practically hear the buzz of the adding machines and the tapping of calculators as taxpayers pencil out how the act will affect them," Sen. Boschwitz said. "Despite cries of anguish from some corners, I think most will find that the tax law is a great step toward fairness and will contribute to economic growth."

The senator said that some experts predict the act will mean a tax cut for four out of five taxpayers. He says he considers it a major triumph of this Congress and perhaps this President.

Well, we would like to share his enthusiasm but we have a little trouble doing so. First of all, no matter how taxes are rearranged, they will have little affect in the nation as long as spending continues rampant. Secondly, you can count on the government to make decisions which encourage long-term commitments, then change the rules to its benefit without regard to harm done to individuals. Witness what the new bill does to long term capital gains. Sen. Boschwitz disagrees with this portion of the bill and says he will work to modify it. And well he should.

"For many, a long-term capital gain results from a once-in-a-lifetime sale of a business or farm, culminating years of work," the senator rightly points out. "Under the new law the combined effect of the federal and state tax on capital gains would amount to an 85 per cent increase in the capital gains tax to be paid by a Minnesotan . . . This kind of tax bite would be devastating to the net worth of many people.

This type of action by the government is totally irresponsible. How can government build faith and confidence in the people when it can wipe out the results of a generation or more of planning in a stroke of the pen?

The senator's review of the new tax law is quite good, however, and the following is his assessment of what the bill does and does not do:

It does make everybody a taxpayer. We've all seen the stories about large corporations or very wealthy individuals who massage the tax code to the extent that they pay no taxes at all. This bill includes a very strong minimum tax, so that only the poorest in our society will be able to avoid taxation. By broadening the base like this, we spread the tax burden more fairly and evenly.

It does lower rates. When fully in place (in 1988), the new tax law will have just two brackets — 15 per cent and 28 per cent. It is estimated that 80 per cent of all taxpayers will be in the 15 per cent bracket. (Next year will be a transition year with five tax brackets with rates up to 38.5 per cent.) If you file a joint return, the first $29,750 of taxable income will be taxed at only 15 per cent, with any additional income taxed at 28 per cent. Remember, taxable income is not gross income, but is gross income less deductions. As explained below, a substantial increase in the standard deduction and the personal exemptions mean that a substantial amount of gross income — $12,600 in 1987 for a family of four — would be completely tax-free. So, that family could have a gross income of $42,350 and pay only $4,462 in tax — only slightly over 10 per cent — not too bad! The benefit of the 15 per cent rate is phased out for certain higher income taxpayers. However, under no circumstances would a taxpayer have to pay more than 28 per cent of his or her total take to Uncle Sam.

It does increase substantially the standard deduction and personal exemption. Fewer people will need to itemize their deductions because the bill raises the standard deduction from $3,670 for a joint return to $5,000. For a single person, the standard deduction jumps from $2,480 to $3,000. The personal exemption will virtually double from $1,080 to $1,900 in 1987, and $1,950 in 1988 and $2,000 in 1989. This is considered a "pro-family" bill because these higher personal exemptions make kids a better tax bargain. For instance, a family of four would pay no taxes on its first $12,600 of income in 1987.

It does not mean your taxes will be simpler. Don't fire your accountant yet! In fact, you may want to book an appointment early. While President Reagan set a goal of simplifying it, at least for most taxpayers. The forms will look the same as they do now, and, unless you go from being an itemizer to being a non-itemizer (as many will now be able to do because of the increased standard duction), you will still need many of your same records and that fancy calculator.

Noble . . . But Worthless!

Following editorial is from the Tracy Headlight Herald and written by Seth Schmidt:

Never in the course of government endeavors has so much time and money been spent on something so worthless.

I refer to the comparable worth law the Minnesota legislature enacted in 1984. The statute was passed in the aftermath of a Supreme Court decision that found the State of Washington discriminated against workers in female-dominated fields.

The law has the noblest of intentions: equal pay for comparable jobs. For example, if a secretarial job requires roughly equal skills and responsibilities as say, a street department worker, then the two positions should be paid the same, all other things being equal.

Good idea. Except for two things.

First, how can you get two people to agree on which jobs and which responsibilities are comparable? Is a snow-plow operator comparable to a radio dispatcher? If not, how do their responsibilities differ? How much stress does each job have? What is the difficulty? Which should be paid more? Less?

Answers to these types of questions of course have to be made all the time on a subjective basis by employers. But how can you legislate those decisions on the basis of whether the job field is dominated by women or men?

Secondly, how does the law of supply and demand fit into all this?

If there are 50 qualified and willing applicants for a secretarial position, and one willing and able candidate to be a backhoe operator, which position will command the most pay? Should arbitrary government regulations set pay levels at artificially high or low levels, regardless of the number of people available to fill the positions?

What comparable worth boils down to is a bunch of high sounding nonsense.

Locally, the concept of comparable worth has come up innumerable times for the Tracy City Council. To comply with state law, the city as forced to spend over $3,000 of taxpayer money for a comparable worth study.

For all this money, a Twin Cities consultant has provided the city with a neat little portfolio of scattergrams, ratings, charts and statistics on city employees that basically says the city is not guilty of pay discrimination for male or female-dominated job fields.

The information compiled in this worthless study will probably never be used again. But at least the city knows it is complying with the law of the land.

Borrowed Nonsense

Quote of the Day: From the Monterey, CA, Herald — "The area in which Miss Garson was injured is spectacularly scenic."

Teacher: "Johnny, you copied Mary's answers during yesterday's test, didn't you?"

Johnny: "Yes, sir, but how did you know?"

Teacher: "Well, on question number nine, Mary wrote 'I don't know' and you wrote, 'me neither'."

Lady: "I'd like to buy a pair of alligator shoes."

Clerk: "Certainly, madam; what size does your alligator wear?"

"Up-The-Hill and Down"

Reminiscing by Dorothy Berve

Red Lake Falls seems like home, because of the hills. This is noticeable in autumn when the trees along the river have turned red. I was born and brought up in southern Iowa. At that time there were miles of red oaks, grape vines and Virginia creepers that twined about logs in the ditches and in woods.

Red brush was the sign of the back woods. Travelers going through the country might stop and ask, "Is this Red Brush?" They were told that Red Brush was a little farther on. No one wanted to admit that he was a backswoodsman.

We were not far from the Missouri border. There was little travel across the border. Automobiles were few, and the feeling left from the Civil War might have caused this reluctance to mingle. A Missourian was said to drink sugar in his tea, the Iowans drank their tea straight. They all drank tea. Coffee was too strong and too expensive.

The country church was the social center. There were five churches in the circuit. The circuit rider had to work hard and the pay was small, so the preachers left after a short stay. Brother Pickworth was different. He came from London, England and stayed three years. The church gave him a young filly to ride to the five churches.

Pickworth was not a horseman. At the slightest downward toss of the horse's head, he would go over the horse's head onto the ground. He had a London made suit which he would change into before he reached his church, or he would come on Saturday, put his horse in the brethren's barn, feed it corn and hay, then go to the house for a meal.

If the brethren were not at home, he would prepare supper for them and in winter he would build a fire in the parlor stove as well as the cook-stove. When the family returned home, the wife thought it so nice to find the house warm and supper ready. . .while the husband thought the preacher was using too much corn to feed his horse!

It was on a Sunday in autumn that Brother Pickworth left his horse in a neighbor's barn and walked to church. After the church service, he walked the long hill to the Thatches home where he had been invited for dinner.

Nellie Thatcher had stayed home from church to have dinner ready for the pastor. Her house was newly cleaned. Her hair had been done up in kid curlers the night before. She wore a grey calico dress she had made herself. She had purchased the goods from Herr's for six cents a yard. She bought five yards.

She prided herself by doing everything better than anyone else and telling about it at Ladies Aid. Her sewing was the best in the neighborhood; so was her cooking and gardening. Even the work she did for the church was best.

Today Nellie was upset and furious. Dinner was prepared for Brother Pickworth but he was late. The fried chicken was cold and the mashed potatoes soggy. She looked out the front door. There was the old preacher enjoying the autumn beauty of the hills.

Finally Brother Pickworth arrived. He was radiant as he reached Thatchers' front door.

"You know, Sister Thatcher, as I was comin' up this 'ill, I felt I was goin' right on up to 'eaven," he beamed.

Mrs. Thatcher was a killjoy. She thought Brother Pickworth was disgusting. He couldn't even ride a horse. She thought of her soggy mashed potatoes, her cold soda biscuits and cold fried chicken. What she said to him was: "Brother Pickworth, what will you feel like when you're goin' down the hill?"

Turning Back — THE Thief River Falls TIMES

1916 - 70 YEARS AGO

George L. Sterns was elected master of the local Masonic Lodge Monday night. — The county board adopted a resolution asking the state highway commission to furnish plans and specifications for a projected bridge across Red Lake river at Highlanding. — It cost the county a total of $4,297 for road upkeep in 1916, according to a report by Highway Engineer W.E. Monks.

1936 - 60 YEARS AGO

Miss Lyda Batten, principal of Central school, succeeded Dreng Bjornara as president of the local PTA unit. — Sixty friends of Mr. and Mrs. E.O. Mogenson honored them at a farewell party preceding their departure for Pasadena, CA. — E.M. Bennes was named to succeed B.F. Urnland as master of the local Masonic Lodge.

1936 - 50 YEARS AGO

The building formerly owned by the closed Citizens State Bank was turned over to the depositor's corporation. — W.H. Kinghorn was engineer and J.O. Yottor conductor of a special train that brought Santa Claus to Thief River Falls. — C.W. Pope was elected to succeed R.H. Burrell as master of the Masonic Lodge.

1946 - 40 YEARS AGO

Vernon R. Jacobson, 19, was killed December 7 while working in a gravel pit six miles west of Thief River Falls. — James Batten was named master of the Masonic Lodge. — Carl R. Anderson was reelected chairman of the Pennington County AAA committee. — Constantine Hoffman, 78, of Holt, lost his life in a highway accident two miles north of Thief River Falls.

1956 - 30 YEARS AGO

Don Olson, manager of radio station KTRF, will take over the presidency of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Gordon Ballingrud. — The Mavie 4-H club was chosen one of the top 16 clubs in the state. — Dr. Wallace E. Anderson of Clearbrook, formerly of Thief River Falls, was elected president of the Red River Valley medical association.

1966 - 20 YEARS AGO

Jim Winjum, owner of Hartz supermarket in Thief River Falls, was advanced to the presidency of the local Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Donavon Narverud. — Seventy-eight building permits amounting to $449,990 were issued in Thief River Falls during 1966, according to Roy Langevin, city building inspector. — Thief River Falls junior college won its first ever athletic event as coach Cy Dickenson's wrestling team beat Crookston technical college 24-11.

1976 - 10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Clinton Theroux escaped injury but suffered from smoke inhalation when a fire destroyed the West Side Grocery store in Plummer. — Red Lake county attorney Jaroslav Kruta was seriously injured and his vehicle totalled when he skidded into a Burlington-Northern train at the railroad crossing at Sixth street west in Thief River Falls. — The main entrance to the new medical office building of Northwestern hospital will be open for business December 14, although clinics will remain in their present quarters until at least January 1. — Eleanor Bothman was elected as second ward alderman in Thief River Falls, the first woman alderman in the city. — Roger Alan Walker, 19, of St. Hilaire, and Randy Haglund, 19, of Thief River Falls, have been arrested and charged by the Thief River Falls police department in connection with an armed robbery at the Best Western motel December 13.

Common Science

by Joe Jeffers, Ph.D.

In 1672 Sir Issac Newton demonstrated that ordinary light could be broken into bands of different color by using a prism. He described in order red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. He also showed that if one takes a second prism and "collects" the colors, they will emerge again as ordinary white light.

Today's students of color rarely use indigo in describing the colors of the visible spectrum, but the fictitious name Roy G. Biv is still used to remember the correct order of the colors. Visible light is part of a continuous electromagnetic radiation that includes X-rays, ultraviolet rays, visible light, infrared radiation, and radiowaves. These energies have different wavelengths ranging from X-rays at the short end of the scale to radiowaves at the long end.

Even within the visible region, waves differ by length. Red represents longer waves; violet represents shorter ones. A prism separates the light by wavelength with each color coming out at a different angel. Rainbows can be seen when enough moisture is in the air and the sun is at the proper angle. The water droplets act like tiny prisms. Those droplets at the top of the rainbow refract the light into all the colors, but we are at the proper angle to see only the red. Similarly, the droplets a bit lower refract all the colors, but we are in position to see the orange. Lower droplets send us yellow and so on until we see the entire spectrum.

So why is the sky blue? An astronaut looking out of his window would see a black sky. Here on earth, however, we see light from the sun as it passes through our atmosphere. If the light encounters particles smaller in diameter than the wavelengths of light, some of the light will be scattered out of the beam. Short wavelengths of light are more affected than the longer ones, so blue is scattered. When we see the sky, we are looking at that scattered blue light. This phenomenon is often called the Tyndall effect, named for an Irishman who described it about a century ago.

You can demonstrate this light scattering effect by putting one or two drops of milk into a glass of water. Milk contains tiny particles that are not truly dissolved. They are suspended instead. By placing the milk drops in water, you are diluting them to a level where light scattering can be observed. In a dark room shine a flashlight through the glass from the side. The water should appear blue. It will be a pale blue, so look carefully.

Now move the flashlight around behind the glass and view the light through the glass. You should see orange. When you look directly at the light, the blue has been scattered out, so only the reds and yellows come through, producing orange. This is the effect one observes with sunsets, since now one is looking directly toward the sun and seeing the light with the blues scattered out. Other particles in the air can intensify this effect, so it is not uncommon for "dirtier" air with its increased particles to yield really beautiful sunsets.

The Tyndall effect can also be seen other places. A body of water will often appear quire blue due to the presence of tiny suspended particles causing light scattering. The blue jay of the eastern United States appears blue because of light scattering. If one takes a blue jay feather and looks through it, it will appear grey. There is no blue pigment. Instead there are tiny particles in the feathers of the proper size to cause light scattering.

Tidbits From THE Thief River Falls TIMES

Excerpts from the December 17, 1936 Times, rewritten by Sharon LaCoursiere.

If you can bear it, both of these bear tales appeared in the Dec. 17, 1936 Times. Please bear with me, as I think they bear retelling — barely.

Roseau — With visions of a bear chasing them and thoughts of what might happen running through their minds, Ernest Klema and Barton Rhine had no recollection of the fact that the bear story involves the mama bear, the papa bear and the baby bear, and they did not realize that the one bear which made them so miserable was in reality four bears which they had killed.

Coming to a place in the woods north of Salol, where many trees had fallen making traveling rather difficult, Ernie was surprised to see a bear stick its head from a hole in the windfalls. He raised his gun and fired twice, but the bear kept coming. He shot again, but with no apparent luck.

Only two shots left, he started madly through the entanglement, thinking that the one bear was still in pursuit. Barton saw what had happened and after he had fired twice they saw four bears lying dead. The first bear appearing from the hole had been followed by three others and four shots had killed them all.

Wheaton — A banquet, the menu of which centered around roast bear and venison, resulted in the story of a bear hunt, although only a dream. One of the guests at the dinner related the following story the next day, and it is attributed to the fact that the bear meat, which was unusually palatable, was consumed in generous amounts:

"I barely made the bear feed but if you will bear with me I will bare some of the details. I ate so much I could hardly bear the thought of going to bed, but I was barely in it when I went to sleep and dreamed that for some reason I was bare and the bear was hunting me. I climbed up a tree and out to the end of one of the bare branches which would hardly bear my weight. The bare fact was that I could not bear to think of that bear bearing down on me baring his bare teeth so fiercely that I could barely bear down on the branch with my bare skin enough to hang on. If I had only had a bear skin to cover my bare skin, I would have been barely able to bear the bear hunt, but as it was — well, I woke up."

Sorry, just one story was a bear tale; the other was a bare tail tale.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

Checking into a hotel for a small business conference, I discovered two other conventions were already underway. The National Right to Life committee and the National Organization for Women were here and hard at work

While NRLC and NOW were not at the same hotel, their representatives were visiting each other's conference sites and demonstrating. Some NOW supporters paraded with signs and taunts, fighting for the abortion right. NRLC proponents were circling the NOW hotel, letting everyone know how strongly they felt about "the abortion killing of 40 million babies."

The NOW President, Eleanor Smeal, said that the abortion issue had been resolved in a 1986 U. S. Supreme Court 5-4 decision supporting the right of women to have abortions. Her organization is now concentrating on getting more women elected to political office who will support NOW program. These programs include federally financed day care, an expansion of birth control clinics near high schools, elimination of all forms of sex descrimnation and enactment of an equal rights amendment.

The NRLC speakers, including presidential hopefuls; Jack Kemp and Pat Robertson, plugged away at their single issue, elimination of abortion, which they claimed exceeded live births in some cities, and results in the loss of one third of the potential future Americans. They noted the Supreme Court has moved closer to the pro-life position with each case it hears, with votes of 7-2, 6-3, and, in 1986, 5-4. One more convinced judge would "turn the tide."

Those were the leader positions. What impressed me, in conversations with participants from both groups, was the contrast of the leaders and followers. The leaders were excited and inciting. The followers appeared calm, smiling and tolerant. Many had come to Denver despite fund shortages, so they shared rooms, cabs and newspapers, and jointly tended their children.

I saw leaders inciting problems for media coverage. Two leaders told me they had to rush to their room TV's to see what impact their demonstrations had made on local and national news coverage. Some of the politicians were here with the intent of stirring up support for their 1988 presidential campaigns. It was apparent that the demonstrations were aimed at TV and newspaper cameras, starting when cameras were operating and stopping when the cameras departed.

Pat Robertson said something that bothered me. Pat is a minister, lawyer, TV network owner and a solicitor of contributions through his 700 club. He is an intelligent and educated man who knows how our American governmental system works. He attacked the Supreme Court. He said that the court's reaffirmation of legalized abortion was caused by the "runaway excesses of five unelected men in black robes."

Those five unelected black robed supreme court judges were confirmed by the Senate in accordance with our constitution. Some were even confirmed with his father's Senate vote. I am concerned about anyone who believes in "supermarket justice," praising what he likes and disavowing what he doesn't like.

I haven't expressed any views on abortion. I am concerned about leaders who incite and use others, and who may even have ulterior motives, like the fawning politicans on vote-hunting safaris. These leaders and politicians, who claim infallibility and cleverly incite level headed Americans to violence against those with whom they disagree, don't get my vote as "good guys."

That's Straight Talk!

History has a way of repeating itself for both nations and individuals. Driving along Interstate Highway 90, I saw my electronic gas gauge start flashing. I was running out of fuel sooner than I had anticipated. I got off the highway and started searching for a gas station. As I drove into a station "on fumes," I looked around and noticed that it was familiar.

Five years earlier, almost to the day, driving along the same interstate highway, my diesel car started overheating a half hour after most auto repair shops had closed. This interstate had so little traffic that my son and I locked up the car and jogged into the closest town. There we found one service station open for completion of tractor repairs for a farmer who urgently needed his equipment. I explained my problem to the men making the repairs. One stopped, had his two pre-school grandsons hop into the back of his pickup truck while my son and I were to climb into the cab, and drove to the highway.

My car was pushed from the interstate to the service station. The phone was ringing. It was grandma wondering when grandpa and the grandsons would be home for dinner. Instead of putting me off until the morning, this man started checking my car with his assistant. He discovered the problem. He solved the problem with what he had available. It took more than an hour, and the work continued in spite of some additional calls from grandma.

Since this service station operator didn't accept credit cards, according to a posted sign, I wondered how I would pay for this very special after hours attention. When the repairs were finished, and the anti-freeze system was filled. A $9 total bill was presented. I asked the station operator, who had a crutch to get around, but certainly wasn't disabled when it came to making repairs, how more than two hours in time, adapted parts and anti-freeze could only add up to a $9 bill.

The answer was interesting. This man, Vernon Larson of Ridgeway said, "If I had been more alert, I would have found the problem, worked out the solution, and had you out of here in 15 minutes. I never charge anyone for my stupidity."

There, in 1981, was a responsible and proud American. I never forgot him or his grandchildren. I have told others about this man's philosophy many times.

Then, in 1986, I found myself, coincidentally, in trouble at the same spot on the highway. I drove in to what I remembered as the same service station, with some modernization and a brand change, and filled up. The blond boy who put in the gas looked familiar. I asked him he had a grandfather who used one crutch to get around. He told me that his grandfather operated this station until he had died last year, and that the two young boys were his brother and himself. He asked me to repeat my story to his Dad, who now operates this service station. This young man was obviously proud of his grandfather. He should be!

I only met Vernon Larson once in my life. He was gruff. He said what he thought. He was fair and honest in his dealings. He had high ethical standards and he lived by them. He made a lasting impression on me and my son. He was the kind of man that makes you proud to be an American!

Like everything else these days, garbage — the good old-fashioned stuff that we dump in our trash cans to be "taken away" to be dumped in a dump or buried in a landfill — just isn't what it used to be. A typical family's garbage is no longer just orange peels and coffee grounds and newspapers.

A typical family's solid waste — which includes all discarded solid material that has been purchased, brought into the home, and then later thrown away — is no longer harmless unwanted stuff to be "gotten rid of." Think about your own garbage. Does it ever include old medicine, pesticides, herebicides, household cleaners, old car batteries, half-empty paint cans, solvents, or used motor oil?

Such commonly dumped items as these are more than solid waste: They are sources of hazardous waste, a category of waste which includes toxic chemicals, acids, corrosives, explosives, and other potentially harmful materials, which should not be buried in the ground where they can contaminate water supplies.

According to U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the average American family's garbage accumulates to hundreds of pounds of solid waste per year. And, hidden among the year's accumulation of potato peelings, pickle jars and magazines is one full pound of hazardous waste disposed of by that family.

What does that mean? It means that a landfill which services 20,000 families will accumulate 20,000 pounds — or 10 tons — of hazardous waste each year. And that hazardous waste material is not being stored and monitored as hazardous waste. It is simply being stored in open dumps or underground, mixed in with the solid waste accumulating in that landfill.

Such wastes can take many years to degrade — and some of them do not degrade at all. In the meantime, water entering a dump or landfill may become contaminated by these wastes as it percolates through them. The newly contaminated water continues to move through the soil, until it reaches the groundwater.

Once contaminated, groundwater may remain so for hundreds or even thousands of years. Lack of sunlight, oxygen and significant water movement inhibit the process of degradation, and contamination may remain unchanged for generations, rendering that groundwater unsafe as a source of drinking water.

To be truly sanitary, a landfill must have very little infiltration of water. An EPA study conducted from 1972 to 1980 revealed that 30 per cent of the nation's 181,000 waste disposal facilities were sited above usable aquifers on thin or permeable soil. Fewer than 2 per cent of the sites were far enough away from a drinking water source (one mile) to prevent potential contamination problems.

Waste is an inevitable reality of society. We have to accept the fact. But we must also accept the fact that even our household wastes are not harmless — that each of us is in part responsible for the increased accumulation of hazardous wastes, and that these family wastes must begin to be recognized and treated as potential hazardous wastes. We must begin to understand that these wastes must not end up in water — but they often do.

The connection between waste and water is inevitable. The quality of our water supplies is directly dependent on how well we manage our wastes to protect our water supplies. Our lives depend on it.

Air Express Flying High As Old Idea Is Getting New Lift

by Rita Cipalla
Smithsonian News Service

This may be the "season to be jolly," but that message is sometimes difficult to keep in mind during the holiday crunch, as temperatures plunge, tempers rise and packages to and from loved ones go astray. In decades past, getting holiday parcels delivered on time was an iffy proposition. Most wound their way through the mail to be delivered several days later by truck. Some went by air, but with loose guarantees on delivery time.

Today, however, consumers are able to ease their frustrations by choosing among eight air express services including the U.S Postal Service that provide reliable overnight delivery from coast to coast and in some cases, around the world.

Although the concept of next-day delivery has a space-age ring to it, the service actually began in the mid-1800s, sayd R.E.G. Davies, curator of air transport at the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum in Washington, D.C. "The first record of express service of any kind in the United States occurred in 1839," Davies says, "when one W.F. Harnden began carrying small packages in a handbag between New York and Boston."

The advent of the airplane added a new twist. On Jan. 12, 1914, the world's first scheduled airline, the St. Petersburg-Tampa Airboat Line, carried a consignment of hams across Tampa Bay, the route was 18 miles and took 23 minutes. Although the line closed down three months later, the air express industry was airborne — if only temporarily.

Although the terms are used interchangeably, there is an important distinction between air express and air mail. "Air express involves a package sent by air at a surcharge by a specialist agency using its own aircraft and it gets there quickly as the name implies," Davies explains. "Air mail, on the other hand, is sent through the post office and in most cases, is not overnight delivery. Although the post office has an excellent overnight express service, it does not operate its own aircraft."

The trend toward using airplanes for express delivery was seen as a natural outgrowth of the transport industry. "For over a century, the express service has utilized each new type of transportation service," Robert McLain, a former executive of the American Railway Express Company, once said. "The early train, stage coach, steamboat, pony express, electric line, highway truck, ocean liner and streamliner... It was no more than natural that express service should turn to air transportation as the newest and fastest way to transport property."

AREC was one of the first to make a go of air express. In 1919, the company conducted an experimental flight to carry a 600-pound cargo from New York to Chicago using a converted World War I British Handley Page bomber. The aircraft was forced to land near Pittsburgh because of bad weather. Within 20 minutes after landing, the plane's cargo was taken to the nearest depot and put on the next train for Chicago. Although the flight itself was a failure, it did introduce a new concept — that of coordinating aircraft and rail service.

In 1925, the Ford Motor Company took up the challenge. Company officials flew packages, urgent messages and occasionally automobile parts between their plants in Dearborn, Mich., and Chicago — a distance of some 260 miles. It was not until 1927, however, that the first regular and sustained commercial air express service in the United States was begun at Hadley Field, near New Brunswick, N.J., under a cooperative arrangement between National Air Transport and AREC.

AREC's business consisted mainly of high-valued shipments, such as jewelry, or time-dependent goods, such as newspaper photographs. But the company also boasted of handling mules, radio consoles, truck tires, hundreds of pounds of baby chicks and even wooden Indians — all bound for overnight delivery. During its first year of operation, AREC chalked up 17,000 shipments; by 1934, that figure topped 100,000.

The air express industry grew steadily, doubling in volume every two or three years during the 1930s. "Throughout its history, AREC never had its own aircraft, preferring instead to subcontract to other airlines. The comapny, which later became the Railway Express Agency, was nonetheless an integral part of the U.S. air transport system. It provided invaluable service during World War II," Davies says, by assuring reliable overnight delivery of vital materials such as medical and relief supplies.

The benefits of air express were felt after the war years as well. During a 1945 United Nations conference in San Francisco, for example, both the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Times air-expressed daily up to 500 copies of their newspapers to conference participants. Typewriters, documents, luggage and dozens of other articles — including one desperate reporter's laundry — reportedly went via air express during the two-week conference.

In 1949, a remarkable experiment that would have far-reaching implications for the industry more than 20 years later was conducted in India. In cooperation with the Indian Post Office, the Indian Night Air Mail began to use Douglas DC-3s to carry overnight air mail between India's four major cities: Delhi, Calcutta, Bombay and Madras. "The unique part," Davies explains, "was the hub system they employed. The four planes converged on the centrally located city of Nagpur at about midnight, the loads were sorted and the planes returned to their respective bases in time for the mail to be delivered by first post the next morning."

A few packages as well as the mail were carried on this pioneering experiment, which came to a halt in 1951, according to Davies, mainly because of political unrest and other internal problems, including the nationalization of the Indian airline system.

The hub system, which connects cities with each other through a central point like the spokes of a wheel, is crucial to the successful company launched by Fred Smith — Federal Express Corp. In 1972, drawing from an idea he had previously submitted in an economics paper at Yale (for which he received a mediocre grade), Smith, not yet 30, demonstrated the economic feasibility of the hub system. Established in 1973 in Memphis, Tenn., Federal Express' hub at first connected only 25 cities; today it links more then 300 major market areas and serves more than a half million customers.

"The hub concept provides a clearinghouse for a company's air express traffic," says Davies. "It is very efficient and centralizes all the resources of its operation."

Smith's company also pioneered other important features, including the use of a fleet of aircraft devoted exclusively to flying overnight deliveries and providing personalized door-to-door service.

Since Federal Express burst on the scene, six new companies, each with its own fleet of aircraft, have joined the air express industry: Airborne, Burlington Northern, DHL, Emery, Purolator and United Parcel Service.

Their systems are similar: The planes, from giant 747s and DC-10s to small commuter types, fly at night, converging upon the hubs — all located in the central United States — between the hours of midnight and 3 a.m. The sorting is done by part-time workers, often college students, who unload, handle, sort, file, weigh, check and reload an amazing assortment of boxes, tubes, packages and envelopes.

In 1985, approximately 260 million packages were delivered overnight, including hazardous materials, computer parts, birthday cakes, roses and even a human cornea destined for transplant.

Although more expensive than posting a letter, sending an air express parcel is quite simple. A telephone call to the local express agency brings the radio-controlled van to the door no later than the end of the day, sometimes within a few hours. The transmittal information is completed by the agent and the zip-code sorted package is delivered to the addressee the next morning.

Today, the industry is moving in new directions, including rapid and dependable delivery to most of Western Europe with 48 hours and to the Far West as well.

In today's highly competitive world, when getting information quickly can often mean the difference between success and failure — or even a happy holiday — air express appears to be here to stay.

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended, prohibits discrimination on the basis of age against any person between the ages of 40 and 70. There is no upper age limit with respect to employment in the Federal Government. The law applies to all public employers, private employers of 20 or more employees, employment agencies serving covered employers, and labor unions of more than 25 members, according to "A Working Woman's Guide to Her Job Rights," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q I am a veteran of World War II and a former prisoner of war. I understand a law recently passed by Congress makes several changes in a veteran's eligibility for Veterans administration health care. Are any veterans exempt?

A Yes. The following veterans are exempt from the eligibility assessment procedures: service-connected veterans, former prisoners of war, veterans exposed to certain herbicides while serving in Vietnam and to ionizing radiation in connection with atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons and in the occupation of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, veterans receiving a VA pension, veterans of World War I, the Spanish-American War and the Mexican Border period, and veterans eligible for Medicaid.

Q My son was killed while on active duty and I am receiving dependency and indemnity compensation benefits from the Veterans administration. Am I entitled to the CHAMPVA medical benefits program for dependents and survivors?

A No. Dependent parents are not entitled to CHAMPVA.

Q I am applying for a Veterans administration home loan and have received my certificate of eligibility. Does this guarantee approval of my loan?

A No. The certificate of eligibility means you meet the service requirements for a loan, but you must still meet income and credit requirements. Your income must be sufficient to meet the anticipated mortgage payments on the loan, as well as take care of your other obligations and expenses. You must also be a satisfactory credit risk.

Q I recently sold a house that I had purchased using my Veterans administration guaranteed loan. I was told that I have been released from all liability. Can I now use the full $27,500 maximum guaranty to purchase a new home?

A. Not unless your mortgage was paid in full as part of the sale. The release of liability. Can I now use the full $27,500 maximum guaranty to purchase a new home?

A. Not unless your mortgage was paid in full as part of the sale. The release of liability granted a veteran does not entitle the veteran to restoration of used entitlement. However, if the purchaser is a veteran and substitutes his or her entitlement, yours may be restored.

Travel Agencies Take Worry Out Of Planning

As the long Minnesota winter sets in, the typical Minnesotan's thoughts turn to flights of fancy, which is to say, flights anywhere with warm, sunny days; lush, green golf courses and smooth, sandy veaches. As such, the appeal of various tour brochures can be mesmerizing with their romantic descriptions and appealing illustrations, according the the Minnesota attorney general's office.

So what do you do when, after setting out on one of these fantastically described sojourns, you wind up on a boatload of old folks whose bedtime is 9 p.m. and you wanted to party all night. Or, after checking into your hotel you find a squalid little room in the middle of an industrial park located 25 miles from the beach. Or, when the advertised stops in several of the cities on the tour turn out to be 10 minute stops at a wayside rest. There's probably not much you can do but "grin and bear it" and bemoan the fact that your vacation has been considerably diminished in value.

Of course, when you get home you can complain to the tour operator and demand at least a partial refund because of the misrepresentations in their brochures. Or can you? Often these tour "deals" come from out-of-state companies. If they chose to ignore your complaint, you must have to hire an attorney, or even travel to where the firm is located to bring legal action. Moreover, you have to analyze if, in fact, the tour was misrepresented to you.

Did the brochure say the cruise was designed to appeal to "swinging singles?" Did it say the hotel was located on the beach, or was that little detail omitted? Or, when the borchure states "see Mexico City," is it sufficient to view it from your bus window, or do you actually have to stop and be allowed time for some sightseeing? "Caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) is still an important phrase for consumers to remember.

What can you do to assure you don't get "burned" on your vacation plans? There are really two ways you can approach this. One, you can do a great deal of detective work yourself. Or, as an alternative, you might consider the services of a reputable travel agent. A travel agent is a trained professional who can provide a wide variety of expert and personalized services. Agents have knowledge of hundreds of different tour offers. With that capability they can offer you a much broader selection than you would have otherwise and they can help you select the tour that is most suitable for your wants and needs.

If a tour does not suit your needs and a more personalized itinerary is what you want, travel agents can offer a wide range of advice and planning. They can arrange for virtually every aspect of your vacation including air, sea and ground transportation, lodging, sightseeing and special events. In addition, if you have special needs such as a handicap, dietary restrictions or, perhaps traveling with children, a travel agent can make certain that the accommodations you select will provide the services you require.

In working with a travel agent there are a number of questions to keep in mind to assure your trip is staisfactory.

+ What lodging is available and are meals and tips included in the price?

+ What do sightseeing tours include?

+ What travel documents or foreign currency are needed?

+ Where is the hotel located in relation to the things you want to do?

What climate conditions can be expected (not necessarily guaranteed) and what type of clothing is appropriate?

+ What are the cancellation provisions?

A fairly common fallacy about travel agents is that they are too expensive, or that you can save money by making arrangements yourself. In general, travel agents work on a commission paid by suppliers — airlines, hotels, cruise lines, etc. — not on fees paid by the client. If anything, a good travel agent can save you money by taking into consideration what you want and what you can afford and making sure there are no surprises. Remember that travel agents rely a great deal on repeat business and referrals from satisfied customers. It is simply not in the best interest of a reputable agency to create a disgruntled customer for a few extra dollars in commission.

In addition, to assure customer service and satisfaction, travel agencies must meet established national standards of financial responsibility and bonding requirements. Also, many agencies belong to the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA) which has established rules of professional conduct to protect consumers from unethical practices. Finally, if a problem should arise you are likely to have a much easier time and less expense in dealing with a problem through a reputable, local agency.

If you have questions or complaints regarding vacation and tour offers or travel agencies, contact the Consumer Division of the Attorney General's Office: in St. Paul at Room 124 Ford Building, 117 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55155, (612) 296-3353; or in Duluth at Room 708 Government Services Center, 320 W. 2nd St., Duluth, MN 55802 (218) 723-4891.

The Christmas Story

The spirit of Christmas is sharing, and the origin of such sharing is the gift which God made to man in the form of his only Son. Celebration of the birth of Jesus is a major event throughout Christian nations, and we join in the celebration by continuing our custom of publishing the Bibilical Christmas story. It comes from the familiar King James version and includes the first 20 verses of the second chapter of the book of Luke:

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were so afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you, Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

Religious Survey

About nine in ten American adults believe in God or a universal spirit and three-quarters of all adults believe God has a plan for their lives even if they don't know what it is yet, according to results released today in a Gallup survey.

The survey is one of several that The Christian Broadcasting Network has commissioned to find out what Americans think about religious and social issues.

The study showed that 94 per cent of the people surveyed believe in God or a universal spirit. Most of those believe God is a personal God. Eighty-four per cent said that "God is a heavenly Father who watches over us and can be reached by our prayers." About 74 per cent of all American adults believe God has a plan for their lives. That figure rises to 87 per cent among those who believe in God as a heavenly Father. More than two-thirds (69 per cent) of all people in America believe that at some time in their lives God has led or guided them in making a decision.

About three in ten adults (31 per cent) said they were born-again or evangelical Christians. The survey shows that there are significant numbers of evangelicals in many walks of life but that those people are more likely to live in the South (44 per cent) or Midwest (32 per cent) and be black (42 per cent) or Hispanic (38 per cent). They also are more likely to have less than a high school education or to have earned a high school diploma (37 per cent and 36 per cent, respectively), to earn under $25,000 a year (36 per cent), to identify with the Republican party (37 per cent) and to be Protestant (44 per cent). Born-again Christians are least likely to be found among residents in the East or West (20 per cent and 26 per cent, respectively), college students or college graduates (26 per cent and 23 per cent, respectively), Independents (26 per cent), and Catholics (14 per cent).

The survey was drawn from 1,013 phone interviews with adults, 18 years and older. The margin or error is said to be four percentage points in either direction.

Borrowed Nonsense

"It amazes me the strength of the stitches
That hold together designer britches."

Counselor: "What first attracted you to your wife?"

—Husband: "Her forthrightness, straightforwardness and frankness."

Counselor: "And why do you now want to end the relationship?"

Husband: "Her forthrightness, straightforwardness and frankness!"

Two little boys were talking about their homes. "Does your daddy have a den?" one asked. "No," the other answered. "He growls all over the house."

YOUR TIMES

A Response To Criticism
by Garnette Hanson, Director
Area Ag Information Center, Inc.

I am the director of the Ag Center in Thief River Falls and I would like to respond to some of Mr. Delmer Hagen's remarks he made in the December 10th "Your Times."

The farmers and small business persons that come into the Center are offered far more than sympathy and pity. I don't know where Mr. Hagen gets his information concerning the Ag Center since he has never been in the Center to anyone's knowledge. He's obviously writing letters to newspapers based on hearsay only.

The following quotation made by Martin Luther King Jr. is an excellent description of why the Ag Center was formed and has continued on for over a year.

"The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stand at times of challenge and controversy. The true neighbor will risk his position, his prestige, and even his life for the welfare of others. In dangerous valleys and Hazardous pathways, he will lift some bruised and beaten brother to a higher and more noble life."

If Mr. Hagen is really the success he claims to be, sharing his knowledge with those less fortunate would be a most kind and neighborly deed.

I would like to cordially invite Mr. Hagen to contact the Center at 681-6236, Monday through Friday, and we will arrange a time for him to meet our board of directors and staff so that he might find out, first hand, just who he is writing about.

cancer answers

Q. My teenage son has cancer. I take him to the clinic once a week to have his chemotherapy treatments. More recently he's been getting sick even before he receives the treatment. Have you ever heard of this problem? Is there anything I can do to help him?

A. The problem you son is experiencing is not uncommon for cancer patients. It is called anticipatory nausea and vomiting. This problem results from anxiety about receiving treatments and the expectation of being sick afterward.

Some patients begin to feel ill from just thinking about their treatments. Other patients feel ill at the sight of places or things they associate with their treatments. For example, just the sight of the clinic or hospital or riding a familiar route to the clinic week after week can induce nausea.

Patients have used a variety of methods to relieve this anxiety. You might try some with your son. For example, he might find it helpful to lie down in a quiet place for 15 to 40 minutes before chemotherapy. Just before receiving the chemotherapy have him place a cool washcloth over his eyes. Making conversation with him can help to keep his mind occupied with other thoughts and thus relieve the feeling of nausea. Some patients have used stereo head sets with relaxing music to distract themselves. If he begins to feel ill on the way to treatment, try changing routes to the clinic once in awhile.

If these methods are not helpful, your son's doctor might consider prescribing anti-nausea medications. In some cases, these medications can be taken before the drugs are given to help control anticipatory nausea.

For more information on coping with chemotherapy treatments and a copy of the free booklet, Chemotherapy and You: A Guide to Self-Help During Treatment, call the Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.

'Tis The SEASON To Be SMILING

Merry Christmas

Dr. Donald R. Goodrich, D.D.S.

Q. Our little girl has leukemia. We just foumd out, and it's been such a terrible shock for my husband and me that we don't know how to tell our daughter or our older son. Do you have any advice?

A. The amount of information you give your children and the way in which you present it will, of course, depend upon their ages and intellectual maturity. As a rule, a gently, open and honest approach is best for all children.

Talking to others might help you decide what to say. Health professionals like your daughter's doctor, nurse, or social worker can offer suggestions based on their experiences with other families who have children with cancer.

The National Cancer Institute has two publications you may also find helpful. "Talking With Your Child About Cancer" is written for parents of childhood cancer patients. It offers suggestions for different ways to talk about cancer with children of different ages. It also offers help with answering questions your daughter may ask and gives suggestions for how you can continue to give your daughter emotional support during her treatment for cancer.

The second publication, "When Someone In Your Family Has Cancer," is written for children who must deal with a family member's illness. It includes information about cancer and its treatment. It also discusses how cancer can affect families, what children in these families can expect and how they might feel. It also helps the child understand how others in the family may feel and encourages communication between the child and other family members.

Both booklets are available free from the Cancer Information Service. The toll-free number is 1-800-4-CANCER (1-800-422-6237).

Q. I recently flew to California to visit relatives. When I checked in at the airport I requested a seat in the non-smoking section of the plane. I was told all the non-smoking seats were filled, and only seats in the smoking section were still available.

I was miserable sitting in the midst of all those smokers for three hours. I thought the airlines were obliged to provide non-smoking seats for anyone who requests them. What are the rules?

A. On U.S. commercial airlines the department of transportation rules state that non-smokers have the following rights.

(1) A seat in the non-smoking section on all flights, including charters, with 31 or more seats — even if the non-smoking section must be expanded. The passenger must arrive before the airline's minimum check-in time in order to claim this right.

(2) No smoking on planes with 30 or fewer seats.

(3) No unreasonable amounts of drifting smoke. Passengers seated in the non-smoking section bothered by smoke drifting from the smoking section may request that no smoking be allowed.

(4) No exposure to cigar or pipe smoke. Use of these tobacco products is not allowed in any seating section.

(5) Smoking to be permitted only when aircraft ventilation systems are functioning fully.

Airlines can be fined by the federal government if they do not provide these rights to non-smoking passengers.

If you would like a copy of your non-smoker rights to carry with you as you travel, send a stamped self-addressed envelope to: Action on Smoking and Health, D.O.T. Card, 2013 H. St. N.W., Washington, DC 20006.

May the stars shine brightly on you and yours as we celebrate the wonderous miracle of His birth. Blessings of the joyous season to all!

Leonard and Shirley Yonke spent Monday and Tuesday last week in Fargo. They visited Raymond Rausch at the Dakota hospital Monday and reported that he looked very well and was looking forward to getting home. They also enjoyed having coffee with Irene in the cafeteria. She has been staying in Fargo the three weeks Ray has been hospitalized, following a three-way by-pass heart surgery. On their way home Tuesday the Yonkes stopped in Crookston where they visited with Leonard's aunt, Marie Schipper, who is a resident at the Riverview Nursing home.

Mrs. Alpha Halvorson attended the TLCW "Christmas Celebration of Food, Word, and Song" at the Trinity Lutheran church Monday evening with a supper of chicken kiev, catered by Lillian Rux, served at 6 o'clock, followed with a program of the Christmas story, lighting the Advent Candles, a Christmas message and the singing of carols. Mrs. Ethel Moe also attended the event as a guest of Gena Gunderson of Rocksbury.

Monday evening Lloyd and Harryet Larson and Ray and Marion Gusa of rural Middle River helped Mrs. Nina Halvorson celebrate her birthday which is December 10 at her home with a potluck supper.

Lunch guests at the Alfred Solem house Monday afternoon last week were Mrs. Carrie Solem and her son, John Solem, both from Grygla.

Eldon Moe and Alvin Anderson were Saturday visitors and overnight guests at the Bob Bartz home in Grand Rapids. They returned home Sunday afternoon, December 7.

Sunday afternoon visitors and supper guests at the Leonard and Shirley Yonke home were Carl and Olga Lindblom of Kratka and Clarence and Norma Swanson of rural St. Hilaire.

Lloyd and Harryet Larson were Monday forenoon callers at the home of Eugene and Dianne Kleinwachter at Strandquist.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem attended funeral services for Mrs. Thomas (Anna) Matson at Our Saviour's Free Lutheran church in Thief River Falls Tuesday afternoon. The Matsons were neighbors before they mved to Silverton township in Pennington county. Sincere sympathy is extended to the family.

Among the guests who attended open house at the parsonage home of Pastor and Mrs. Dick Ewing in Viking Sunday were Alvin and Nina Halvorson and Eldon and Evonne Moe. The event was sponsored by the Ewings in honor of the Christmas season in glory of Our Savior's birthday, December 25.

Harold and Alpha Halvorson were noon dinner guests Saturday at the home of Alvin and June Larson of Oklee.

Supper guests at the Lloyd and Harryet Larson home Wednesday evening were Raymond and Marion Gusa of rural Middle River, Mrs. Dianne Kleinwachter and Stacy of Strandquist and Robert Thompson of Thief River Falls.

We are happy to report that Raymond and Irene Rausch returned home Friday from Fargo where Ray had been a patient at the Dakota hospital for three weeks. He was a patient at the Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls a week before being transferred to Fargo, so it has been a long session of hospitalization for them. We hope for Ray a complete recovery and many more years of good health.

Birthday

Alfred and Rebecca Solem helped their great-grandson, Zakary Nikolas Solem, celebrate his first birthday Thursday evening, December 11 at the home of his parents, Roger and Jody Solem. Among other guests were Roger Solem, Jeff and Kathy Vacura, and Jana, Douglas and Cindi Kilen, and Mrs. Celia Koropatnicki and Peggy. Cindi baked and decorated the delicious chocolate birthday cake, served with ice cream. Zak received many cards and gifts.

Birthday

Guests at the home of Carmen Gustafson Wednesday afternoon, December 10 to help Carmen celebrate her birthday were LuAnn Giles, Edna Gunderson, Lena Williams, and Iris Floistad. In the evening Dennis and Ruth Pederson, Shawna and Shelli came with birthday wishes.

Bill and Connie Stock attended the annual Lincoln high school Christmas concert Sunday afternoon in the high school auditorium. In the evening the Stock family together with Mavis Hillyer attended the Sunday school Christmas program at the Silver Creek Lutheran church.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem attended the Christmas party of the Friendship club at the meeting room of the courthouse Wednesday afternoon. Women from the Abundant Life church served lunch and presented bags of peanuts, candy and fruit to everyone. Santa Claus arrived and presented cards and gifts to the guests.

Thursday visitors at the home of Mavis Hillyer and the Bill Stock family were Knute and Connie Knutson and also Mrs. Adeline Halvorson from Minneapolis, who, together with her brother-in-law and sister, Stuart and Doris Efteland had been to Larimore, ND to visit their father, Elmer Everson, who is in a home for the aged and who were on their way back to the Cities.

Harold and Alpha Halvorson attended the Christmas party at the Armory Friday evening, December 12 for hospital employees and guests.

Keenagers' Christmas Dinner

Among the many who enjoyed the Keenagers' Christmas dinner at the Holt Community center Friday were Melvin Saugen, Alvin and Nina Halvorson, Harold and Neva Matzke, Leonard and Shirley Yonke and Lloyd and Harryet Larson. Following the noon dinner there was a gift exchange and Santa Claus arrived to distribute treats.

Robbie Stock had as his overnight guest Saturday and Sunday visitor his good friend, Ryan Kolden.

Olive Rondorf and Rebecca Solem attended a meeting of the Trinity Lutheran church Rachel circle at the library lounge Thursday afternoon. Circles have been scrambled for the 1987 year and everyone is anxious to learn in what new circle she has been placed.

The East Steiner homemakers, together with their families, enjoyed their annual potluck dinner Sunday afternoon at the community center in Holt. Santa Claus arrived about 4:30 with bags of treats for all the youngsters.

LaVerne and Olive Rondorf were Saturday afternoon luncheon guests at the Leonard and Sylvia Rondorf home of rural St. Hilaire Saturday afternoon.

Indoor Moisture Is Winter Problem In MN

Along with colder weather, a common and sometimes severe problem has returned to Minnesota — high levels of indoor moisture.

Rare in the era of cheap heating fuels, complaints about too much indoor moisture have increased in frequency in recent years as homes were weatherized to lower heating bills, according to energy specialists at the Department of Energy and Economic Development (DEED). Moisture that used to leak out of those houses along with the heated air now stays inside.

It's a common practice now to use caulk and weather stripping to keep the warm air in and the cold air out. Huge amounts of cold air can infiltrate into a house around windows and doors, while warm air leaks out through holes around plumbing pipes, electrical outlets and other gaps. When energy prices went through the roof, home owners began taking the logical step of plugging those energy-losing holes. Such actions have had an interesting side effect: where it was once routine to operate a humidifier to combat dry indoor air during the winter, the concern now is how to keep the humidity down to acceptable levels in a properly sealed home.

Problem indoor moisture usually shows itself as a heavy buildup of ice, water and mold on windows, walls and other surfaces. Although the high humidity can cause odors to linger on for several hours and even days, for practical purposes an indoor moisture problem is really an indoor condensation problem. The usual causes are damp basements, family activities, a large amount of wood stored inside for stoves or fireplaces, and malfunctioning or improperly used heating equipment.

"Obviously, if you have water leaking into your house from outside you're going to have a high level of humidity," said Phil Smith, an energy specialist with DEED's Energy Information Center. "Most of the problems we hear about are caused by poor drainage around the house. The soil around the basement may slant the wrong way and trap water next to the foundation, or the gutters may be clogged. Both of these can lead to moisture in the basement, which can result in indoor humidity problems in the fall. It may not be that much of a problem until the house is closed up for the heating season and the moisture can't escape as easily.

"Other causes we find this time of year are family activities, wood stored in the house, insufficient ventilation, and problems with heating systems and stoves. I want to emphasize that conserving energy doesn't cause the problem; in our energy-conscious society, managing indoor moisture is just something we have to do."

Moisture condensation can be more than just an inconvenience — it can seriously damage your house and cause your heating bills to rise, as well as possibly contribute to respiratory ailments. An indoor moisture problem can have a single large cause or it can be coming from several small sources. It is important to deal with it because over time it can damage windows, rot the building structure and damage interior surfaces with water or mold stains.

In extreme cases, the moisture can migrate into walls and the attic and saturate the insulation. It may even freeze into large chunks of ice; wet and frozen insulation has bery little ability to keep the heat in and the cold out.

Most of the complaints the energy specialists hear can be broken into two categories, Smith said. Some are purely seasonal in nature and crop up when the daily temperature outside drops in the fall. Usually, these will disappear without any effort on the part of the home owner. The other type, however, is caused by the way the house is being used and won't go away unless the causes are addressed.

"Most often the cure is simple," Smith said. "Usually, it's just a matter of running the bathroom or kitchen fans. Sometimes home owners will have to make some life-style adjustments, such as storing their firewood outside instead of in the basement. Sometimes it's a matter of combining ventilation with a few changes around the house. But the issue can be addressed relatively simply and cheaply in almost every case. There's no need for it to progress to the point where its's a serious problem — IF the proper steps are taken."

Indoor moisture trouble is often limited to late fall when the house is first closed up for the heating season. During the warmer months moisture isn't usually a problem because open windows and doors help send it outside. But when the doors and windows are closed because of cold weather, the moisture is trapped and builds to unwanted levels.

In addition to the moisture in the air, there can be several hundred pounds of water stored in the woodwork, furniture, books and other places in the house. As the humidity of the air outside drops — which it will do when the weather turns colder — the moisture will come out of hiding. And as the outside temperature drops, the moisture begins condensing on colder surfaces, such as windows, doors and walls. When the excess moisture has left the places where it built up during the summer, the heavy condensation will simply disappear.

Other times, the problem is caused by the life styles of those who use the house. An average house will have three or four quarts of moisture in the air at any given moment. A family of three typically generates two and a half gallons of additional airborne moisture in a single day. Bathing, cooking and washing clothes are heavy contributors to home humidity. One shower can release a half pint. A washing machine can release up to two quarts during every load. Hanging that load up to dry in the basement, or venting the clothes drier inside can add another gallon of water vapor in a very short period of time.

Another — and potentially more dangerous — cause, is a malfunctioning home heating system. Water vapor is a product of combustion. Normally, it is vented out of the house along with the rest of the heating system's exhaust. However, if the furnace heat exchanger is cracked, or if the venting system isn't working properly, the moisture can remain in the living space. In those cases, carbon monoxide gas can build up and cause headaches and illness. In high enough concentrations it can kill.

Using an unvented room heater, such as a kerosene heater, can have the same result. At a minimum the heater pollutes the indoor air quality with carbon dioxide and carbon monoxide while pumping water into the home's atmosphere.

Smith offered a check list of steps to take care of a moisture problem, or to prevent one from happening.

— Do call the DEED Energy Information Center with your questions and concerns.

— Do have your heating system checked if you suspect it of leaking exhaust into the house. If you suddenly get very large amounts of moisture in the house, without any life-style having changed, it could be a cracked heat exchanger on your furnace. A cracked heat exchanger can also cause a buildup of carbon monoxide and carbon dioxide. Symptoms are heavy moisture buildup, frequent headaches, and a burning feeling in nose and eyes.

— Do caulk and weatherstrip your house to cut down on cold air infiltration. A leaky house is expensive to heat. Cold spots can also develop around cold air leaks: moisture can then condense there and lead to problems.

— Do insulate your walls and attic adequately. Without proper amounts of insulation you can face the same problem as in a leaky house — big fuel bills and cold spots.

— Do install a bathroom vent if you don't have one, and do use it if you have. Use it whenever you are engaged in heavy moisture-producing activities, such as taking a shower or boiling water. Running a bathroom fan will add very little to your heating bill.

— Do install plastic or storm windows on the inside if you have standard single-pane windows with an exterior storm. Not only will this warm the window area and cut down on condensation, but it is an excellent way of saving energy. Interior shrink plastic kits are especially recommended.

— Do clean roof gutters and downspouts, and add dirt to any low spots around the foundation.

— Do not vent a clothes drier into the living space. Some try to save some energy by keeping the warm exhaust inside, but that will introduce large amounts of moisture into the house. It will also put soap residues in the air you breathe.

— Do not use an unvented room kerosene heater.

— Do not vent a gas water heater into the house.

— Do not store large amounts of wood in the house. Green wood is about 50 per cent water by weight and a big pile of it in your basement can send indoor humidity levels soaring. Keep anything more than one day's supply outside.

"I would recommend that anyone with an indoor moisture problem give us a call," Smith said. "We can't help you with a wet basement problem, but we do know about indoor moisture issues. It can be a simple problem with an easy cure. But it also may need some detective work to figure out the problem and the solution. We have three energy specialists ready to help and a free publication that we can send out. Anyone who calls can describe their specific problem and get advice for their particular situation."

TRAIL . . .

Santa Claus Day In Trail

Around 200 attended the Santa Claus at Trail on Saturday afternoon. The VFW post 6426 of Trail donated $100. Signe and Lydia Lee donated $10. Coca-Cola of Thief River Falls donated 2 big cases of pop. B & L Grocery of Gully 3-6 packs of pop. The Trail community club donated the peanuts and apples and candy to all the children. There were around 64 children up to 17 years. Santa Claus passed them out.

Winners on Saturday were $5 from Mayor of Trail Albert Aaknes; Mavis Christopherson, 2 turkeys; Bob Stine and Kitty Barlund, Emma Nyland, Karen Bushelle, community club turkey; Anna David, Trail turkey, Debbie Vettleson; 10-5 lb bags of carrots from Mr. Carrot were Janet Halvorson, Vernon Havelsrud, Morris Hendrickson, Judy Halvorson, Helen Flateland Marry Jean Altendorf, Cindy Karel, Catherine Paulson, Irene Mathsen, Lorenzo Eck; Vice trailer court, Watkin gift product Harlen Danielson. Joyce's grocery 6 pack pop; Larry Samson, B& L Grocery of Gully 6 pack pop, Alice Weber. Joyce's cafe and gas footprint picture Valarie Brakke. Cenex of Gully 3 engine lubricant John Jenson; Clarence Groves, Helmer Hendrickson Joann of Gully 2 Christmas ornaments, Leonard Schmidt, Barb Drilleck, Trail post office stamps Leonard Rindahl, Kitty Barlund, Jim Sundrud; Gully post office book of stamps Anda Finseth. Gully cafe; 4-6 packs pop. Lloyd Haugen, Phillip Schmit, Linda Bergerson, Doris Evje; Gully lumber floating lantern, Alvina Johnson; Gully elevator; 2 qt. punch, Pat Finseth; 10-$5 gift certificates Handy Farms of Thief River Falls were Darlene Sollie, Karen Langseth, Harold Rhoades, Tom Schmit, Kathy Finseth, Idella Eck, Myrtle Lund, Sharon Lund, Branda Halvorson, Shirley Vettleson; Trail VFW post and auxiliary 6 turkeys, Joan Flateland, Carol Sundrud, Lois Sundrud, Eldin Akstad, Gloria Danileson, Kathi Martin; Northern Sand and Gravel 2 turkeys, Bertha Woods, Effie Handy; Northern State bank of Gonvick 2-$5 Delores Syverson, Kay Erickson; Hill River Electric 2-$5 Norma Carlson, Pam Tweeton; Leader Pecard of Gonvick 1 year paper Audrey David; Hendrickson Park Farm, ham, Mabel Enerson; Erwin Weberg $5, Bonnie Wickard; Aaknes' Building and blacksmith shop $10 Harriet Hayden; King Town Farmers Ins. Co. $1 Hazel Nelson; Rhoades Mech. shop, cap, Judy Seyller; carving set, Mrs. David Sturman; $4 Leona Brekke, Lyle Lund turkey Orlean Agnes; Tony's pizza', 6, David Anderson, Janet Olson Rose Aaknes, Gladys Bakken, Rick Forsberg, Alida Samson; Hendirckson Park Farm toy, Roxann Flateland for playing the piano. Free coffee, doughnuts and cookies were served to all. Workers were Mayor Albert Aaknes, Bob and Audrey David, Kitty Barlund, Mary Jean Altendorf, Leonard and Tone Schmit. The mayor and his wife, Rose would like to thank all the ones that donated for Santa Claus day in Trail and worked that day.

On Thursday evening Lennie Johnson and Teresa Johnson of Thief River Falls visited with Olga Johnson.

Richard Sorenson of Minneapolis visited during the week at the John Sorenson home in Thief River Falls.

On Friday members of the Ringbo Homemakers enjoyed an outing to Grand Forks. They included Cathy Erickson, Corrine Swenson, Lola Kvalvog, Gloria Rostvet, Ione Fillmore, Carol Garthus and Jody Lunke. The group enjoyed supper at a restaurant before going home.

Keenagers

Sixty-seven Keenagers enjoyed the annual Christmas party on Friday, December 12th, with a delicious roast beef and potluck dinner at noon. Door prize winners were Nina Halvorson and Peter Gerszewski. Lloyd opened the business meeting and Pastor Floistad led the group in singing "The More We Get Together." Lloyd welcomed new members, Robert and Gertrude Nyval. Secretary's and Treasurer's reports and read and approved. A thank you card had been sent to Carl Skoglund who donated a beautiful clock to the club. Sympathy cards were sent to Anna Davidson, Alma Smith, the Anna Matson family and Dorothy Rood. Thank you card was received from Anna. The club was invited to attend the Christmas concert at the Newfolden school on December 16th. The next meeting will be January 9th. Marion made the motion to have the club provide sandwiches and the rest potluck, seconded by Junis. Lewis and Joe will provide the musical entertainment. Cathy made the motion for curtains in the bathrooms, seconded by Marles. Ann Borg conducted the blood pressure clinic and passed out Christmas treats. The group thanked her with a round of applause. Motion to adjourn by Dorothy, seconded by Lyle. Pastor Floistad led in singing several Christmas carols and he also read the Christmas story from Luke 2:1 - 20. Marion had three readings; "Christmas Cards," "Christmas in Little Towns," and "The Roads to Christmas." Gerry had a reading, "What is Christmas." Santa Claus arrived and passed out treats to everyone. Then he helped distribute the gifts that were exchanged. Cathy Erickson of the New River Record was present to take pictures of those who celebrated birthdays in December: Santa Claus, Kristine Ness, Elaine Dyer, Nina Halvorson, Nellie and George Larson. The group visited and enjoyed birthday cake and lots of Christmas goodies to end a lovely day even if the air was cold outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gusa and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith, Stacie, Wyatt, and Lindsay enjoyed the Concordia Christmas concert at Moorhead on Saturday evening.

On Tuesday Lou Oien of Thief River Falls treated Jan and DeEtta Hanson and Olga Hanson to lunch in honor of Jan's and DeEtta's birthdays.

On Sunday Esther Qualley of Middle River visited with Junis Tanner.

On Monday afternoon Betty Rantanen visited and was a coffee guest at the Lewis Swenson home.

Sunday dinner guests and visitors at the Jay Garthus home were Gene and Kay Sistad of Fosston, Eldon and Corrine Swenson, Floyd and Mary Otto, Leone Skadsem, Cory and Craig, Don and Jody Lunke, Brad and Brenda, Ione Fillmore, Todd and Michael.

On Sunday Mrs. Lou Inman, Mrs. Larry Inman, Tammy, Ronnie, Wendy and Kim, Lyle, Marlin, Jeff and Tim Johnson of Thief River Falls visited with Olga Johnson.

Dorothy Rood returned home on Monday forenoon after spending the weekend with Scott Rood, Pam Hamling and Marie at Anoka. While there Dorothy and Scott attended the funeral for aunt and great aunt Lillian (Mrs. Axel Larson) at the Osborne-Larson Funeral home in Minneapolis and Scott was one of the pallbearers. Later they joined Lydia Nelson of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Nelson of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Allison, Lisa and Lori of Rosemount, and Mr. and Mrs. David Allison of Fargo for a noon luncheon at the home of Axel Larson in Minneapolis.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Sorter were supper guests and visitors at the Richard Lauto home.

Kyle Arveson Receives A Gift Of Life

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Seven-year-old Kyle Arveson received his Christmas present a few weeks early this year and he can't even thank the person who gave it to him. Kyle received the gift of life from an unknown New York donor when he received a new liver on November 17.

Now recuperating at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Arveson of rural Trail, and his 11-year-old brother Michael and eight-year-old brother Darrin, he is making a cautious recovery while experiencing natural mild rejection of the new liver. The rejection is being controlled by three anti-rejection drugs and is being carefully monitored. Christmas this year is being planned as a close-to-home special family event.

"Yes, we are especially thankful this Christmas season," agrees Linda Arveson, Kyle's mother. "Kyle is making good progress according to what we have been told and what we have read, and right now it seems he is one of the more fortunate cases. Three of the five transplant cases who were given new livers while we were at the University of Minnesota hospitals will have to have a second transplant because the first isn't successful. We also know of two persons who died while waiting for suitable livers for transplant."

Despite the misfortune of having a child who was not born perfectly healthy, the Arvesons are thankful for several reasons. One is that Kyle was able to live a nearly normal life for a long enough period that major developments were made in transplant procedures and medications. Had one of their first two sons been worn with biliary ateresia as Kyle was, or had early surgery not been successful as it appears to have been, the outlook would certainly not have been as bright as it seems now.

"We are taking it day by day and we recognize that problems can develop at any time," David Arveson said. "But we are certainly encouraged by Kyle's response so far and realize that we have been blessed beyond what we might have expected."

Kyle was born at Northestern Hospital (now Northwest Medical Center) in Thief River Falls and appeared to have no medical difficulties. He went home with his mother on schedule but by three weeks of age he was showing signs of jaundice that seemed to be increasing in severity. His local doctor referred him to a pediatrician in Grand Forks who diagnosed the biliary ateresia and referred the family to the University of Minnesota.

Biliary ateresia, the same disease which struck nationally publicized Jamie Fiske, is a disease which results in inflammation and obstruction of the ducts which carry bile from the liver to the intestine, according to Linda Arveson. It affects approximately one child in every 20,000 live births and its cause is not known. It is not a hereditary disease nor is it an alcohol-related disorder, but is one of the more than 100 different types of liver diseases identified in infants and children.

When Kyle was only four weeks old the surgery was performed to create a passageway between the liver and intestines. The operation is called the Kasai procedure after a Japanese doctor who pioneered the work. Doctors told the Arvesons at that time that they shouldn't expect to have Kyle past two years of age. "We'll see," Linda Arveson said defiantly.

Some of Linda's perseverence must have manifested itself in Kyle who is a plucky fighter whose nurses described as a super patient. From his first surgery at four weeks until March of this year he lived the life of a fairly active and normal youngster. He completed kindergarten and this past fall started first grade at the Goodridge public school.

In March he was given a work-up for possible liver transplant but was not placed on a donor list. His parents hoped he would rally as he had done in the past and a transplant would not be necessary. For a time he held his own, but in October it became apparent he was getting worse.

On October 29, he was hospitalized at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis and doctors said that something had to be done soon because his condition had become critical. He was put on a donor list and on November 15 was permitted to go home to await a donated liver of the right size and from a donor with the right blood type to match Kyle's needs.

At 5 p.m. the next day, November 16, the Arvesons received a phone call from Dr. Nancy Ascher, chief of the university's liver transplant program. A liver which apparently seemed to provide a good match was available and Kyle had to be taken to the university for transplant surgery.

With transplants being necessary within a matter of hours from harvest of the donor organ to implantation in the recipient, the problem of Kyle's distance from the hospital became apparent. All commercial flights from Thief River Falls had gone for that day. The Arveson's pastor — Rev. Roger Fehr of Nazareth Lutheran church — arranged for the use of a plane owned by Lyle Mandt of rural Oklee and for Jim Holte of Grygla to be the pilot. The plane was in a hangar at the Thief River Falls regional airpot.

Activity was set in motion by 9:30 p.m. — only four and one-half hours after the call was received from Dr. Ascher — Kyle was at the hospital in Minneapolis. Holte flew Kyle and his parents into the Crystal airport where a taxi was waiting to rush them to the hospital. Surgery was begun about midnight and the new liver was attached by about 5 a.m.

By about 10 a.m. on November 17 Kyle was in the intensive care unit of the transplant center and by about 5 p.m. the following day he was transferred from intensive care to the transplant wing which handles the university's liver, pancreas and kidney transplants.

Although the move was a good indication of his recovery potential, his room still looked like a science fiction laboratory. Kyle was hooked up to multiple intraveneous (IV) connections and monitoring equipment. Gradually the tubes and wires were removed and in a matter of two or three days the nurses had Kyle up and walking.

"We have to comment on the excellent, excellent medical and nursing care at the unit," Mrs. Arveson said. "Attention is paid to every detail and all of the people are so concerned and so personally interested in each patient. It's hard to imagine how any better care could be given."

A CUDDLY COLLECTION of stuffed animals was accumulated by Kyle Arveson of rural Trail during his stay at the University of Minnesota hospitals where he underwent a liver transplant November 16. He received many of these animals from friends and relatives and letters of support from his classmates in Mrs. Connie Moe's first grade class at Goodridge. Mrs. Moe also stopped at the hospital to visit Kyle while in the Twin Cities for a special workshop. The second grade at Goodridge also sent letters and cards and several fund raising efforts in support of Kyle and his family have been conducted at Goodridge and Trail. Middle River school students also sent a contribution to the Goodridge groups sponsoring one of the fund raising efforts.

Local Residents List Wishes For Community

by David Hill and Sharon LaCoursiere,
Times Reporters

With Christmas and the New Year fast approaching we wondered what some well-known individuals in our community were contemplating as the holidays draw near. We put together a short survey asking two questions: 1) What would you like to have Santa (or whoever) bring our community this Christmas? 2) What New Year's resolution should Thief River Falls or Pennington county make for itself?

At least one common thread appears — better economic conditions for the rural community who contribute so much to this community.

Jane Mackenroth, community education director:

1) I would like to have a large industry and another season of good weather for the farming community.

2) I would like to have the people of this community enjoy more all of the treasures that we have because we live in a small, friendly community where people are interested in one another.

Malcolm Magnuson, retired citizen:

1) I would like to see prosperity and cooperation between our government agencies — and a logical solution for moving traffic through the city of Thief River Falls.

2) They should reduce expenses and balance expenditures to eliminate increase in taxes in our city.

Corliss Bucklin, Gary's Bakery:

1) Oh, just a prosperous year, good health, good weather for everyone.

2) They should try to make the city the best it can be — to encourage new development — to make the city grow.

Darla Twomey, Hospice director:

1) I would like Santa to bring peace and good will to men and comfort and strength from family, friends and a loving community.

2) I think that Thief River Falls and Pennington county should have enthusiasm for the good community that we have here and work to improve and promote our city.

Leo Ruberto, Superintendent school district 564:

1) I would like to see Santa improve economics of our region and have more employment. That's the main thing. Everything else comes after.

2) I think we should make a resolution to emphasize the positive rather than dwelling on the negative aspects.

Dave Strong, 1987 chamber of commerce president:

1) Basically, I would like to see more growth and prosperity in the community.

2) We should continue to provide the best environment for our residents that is humanly possible.

Jerry Wigness, city clerk and Jobs Inc. member:

1) I would like to see a decent financial economy and a good job for everyone who wants to work.

2) I would like to see the community have the Minnesota Pollution control agency and Environmental protection agency to approve burning of Future Fuel Inc. pellets.

Marv Lundin, Times Editor:

1) Actually, I'm becoming a little suspicious about Santa Claus. I keep asking for shotguns and he keeps bringing me shirts. But I believe our region could use a double dose of trust in our fellow human beings and a personal commitment by everyone to act in a way that merits that trust.

2) Every unit of local and area government — the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county and the local school district should resolve to work as cooperatively as possible for the mutual benefit of the area. This will require extra effort for each entity to keep the others informed of its activity and planning but could avoid areas of conflict that potentially could arise.

John P. Mattson, Publisher Thief River Falls Times:

1) An enclosure for the downtown business area would be a real boom to the Thief River Falls business district. I can envision an enclosure which would enclose LaBree Ave. for at least one block and possibly more with a skyway connecting the enclosure if it were to be longer than one block. Making a downtown mall now before any mall is constructed on the outskirts of town would help insure the economic viability of the business area in downtown Thief River Falls. This enclosure would also help Thief River Flls to project the image of a regional shopping center which can provide its customers with enclosed shopping areas and common mall type areas

Peterson Loses Recount Battle To Stangeland

Acknowledging that "many of the small errors came our way but five out of six of the large errors went toward Mr Stangeland," state Sen. Collin Peterson Friday morning conceded victory to incumbent Congressman Arlan Stangeland in Minnesota's sprawling Seventh district.

When the election canvass showed only 121 votes difference following the November 4 election, Sen. Peterson called for a recount. Teams of election auditors went to each county in the district to look for errors and to question ballots which may or may not have been counted due to irregularities.

Prior to submitting contested ballots to a judge for determination, the recount had extended Rep. Stangeland's lead to about 247 votes — more than double the initial margin. There had been 187,927 ballots cast in the election, making the recount a time-consuming process. At the time the recount came to trial before Judge Keith Davison in Breckenridge, there were some 517 ballots in dispute and the recount had shown some 900 separate counting errors.

"Through weeks of Republican charges I have consistently maintained that I wanted this matter to be decided right here in Minnesota," Peterson said. "We Minnesotans have the reputation of being able to solve our own problems ourselves at home. I have instructed my attorney to move for dismissal of the action. This will absolutely insure that the matter will end here and now, and not in the House of Representatives."

Congressman Stangeland had maintained throughout the recount that he expected errors to be found because "where there are human beings involved there are likely to be errors made." But he had said he expected as many errors in his favor as in his challenger's favor and the results indicated he was right.

Rep. Stanglenad will be issued a certificate of election by the Minnesota secretary of state's office.

Bridge On Eighth Street May Get Face Lift In 1988

Eighth street bridge on highway one in Thief River Falls may have a new look in 1988. According to Wes Gjovik, Minnesota department of transportation (DOT) in Thief River Falls, construction to widen and put an overlay on the bridge will probably begin in 1988.

Recently, DOT crews have been drilling test cores at the site to determine design features. Soil samples are taken to help determine what kind of pilings should be used and what other design features will be necessary for the project.

At this stage, Gjovik said, much of the project is in its preliminary stages but bid letting is expected on March 25, 1988. Total estimated cost of the project is $509,000, but because much has yet to be done, the cost could fluctuate.

Lloyd Larson of the Minnesota DOT office in Bemidji, said the bridge is a good rehabilitation candidate. "It is 30 years old but in relatively good shape," he said.

Times have changed such in the area, Larson said, that it could stand to be widened, and that will be the major difference. While widening of the bridge is hoped for, however, this has not been finalized. A lot of research will have to be completed before any plans are final, Larson said.

Larson said he expects the project to be similar to the highway 59 bridge (Third street bridge) project in Thief River Falls. He does not expect any grade change or any additional boat clearance added.

Because a great deal of traffic crosses the bridge, at least one lane would be open for traffic during construction of the project.

Novacek Drops Unfair Campaign Practice Charge

Following a pretrial hearing last Monday in Pennington county district court, attorney John Novacek of Thief River Falls requested the court Friday to dismiss his unfair campaign practices suit against attorney David Olin.

Olin defeated Novacek in the November 4 election to retain his office as Pennington county attorney. Novacek later alleged unfair campaign practice in the wording of an advertisement Olin had used in the campaign and corrected in the next issue of the Times.

Oakes' Viewpoint On DAC Changes

Charlie Oakes, administrator of the Falls Day Activity center in Thief River Falls for the past two weeks, has taken on a new perspective on the role of the DAC after joining that organization following 10 years of service at the Occupational Development center (ODC) in Thief River Falls.

Oakes has submitted the following commentary which he says presents "The View from Both Sides":

Today marks the end of my second week at the new job. After ten years working with the Occupational Development Center, Inc. I'm now the new face at the Falls DAC. And it gives me an interesting and sometimes confusing perspective. In many ways it's a study in contrasts.

Over at the ODC I followed carefully the recent events at the DAC with interest. When the county approached us about considering a take over merger, I recommended it. I felt it would be good for cash flow and it seemed that a small operation like the DAC could be easily managed on a part-time basis. The county asked us to compete. It all sounded very reasonable.

Now that I'm over at the DAC I think about that competition a lot.

COLORED INK

Society and Clubs

Valerie Grafstrom United In Marriage To Gary Laidley

Valerie Grafstrom and Gary Laidley were united in marriage September 13 at First Lutheran church in Roseau. Rev. Frank Livingston and Rev. Melvin Budke officiated at the service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grafstrom of Salol and Mr. and Mrs. Don Laidley of Thief River Falls.

The bride's aunt, Lola Grafstrom, served as organist, playing Bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." Solos were performed by Barb Laidley, sister of the groom, singing "God, A Woman and A Man." Brenda Marben, sister of the groom, singing "Wedding Song" and Richard Larson, friend of the couple, singing "The Lord's Prayer." Recessional was "Now Thank We All Our God."

The bride was escorted to an altar decorated with red flowers and bows by both of her parents. She wore a gown worn by the sister of the groom at her wedding featuring layers of lace with satin edging over a white satin, floor-length undergown. Her fingertip veil fell from a beaded headpiece. The bridal bouquet was composed of red roses and white babies' breath. Personal attendants were Kari Grafstrom, sister-in-law of the bride, and April Valencia, friend of the bride.

Vernell Grafstrom, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Verna, Ruth and Regine Grafstrom, all sisters of the bride, and Barb Laidley, sister of the groom. They wore red tea-length gowns with sweetheart necklines and matching red shoes and carried single white roses.

Anna Grafstrom, sister of the bride from Salol, was flower girl, wearing a red gown similar to those of the other bridal attendants. She carried a basket filled with red roses and white carnations.

The bride's nephew, Adam Grafstrom, Salol, was ring bearer. He wore a black tuxedo with red rose boutonniere.

Gordy Markstrom, friend of the groom, Thief River Falls, served as best man. Other groomsmen were Brian and Erick Grafstrom, brothers of the bride, and Mike Malberg and Glen DaMota, friends of the groom. Terry Sullivan and Mike Kosel, friends of the groom, and Peter and Matthew Grafstrom, brothers of the bride, ushered the guests. All gentlemen attendants wore black tuxedos with matching accessories and white shirts. Groomsmen wore white rose boutonnieres and the ushers, red roses.

The groom was attired in white tails with matching tie and cummerbund, and wore a red rose boutonniere.

The bride's mother wore a red and black street-length gown and the mother of the groom wore red. Their corsages were red roses and white carnations.

Honored guests were Pat and Gordon Markstrom, friends of the couple; Katherine Johnson, aunt of the groom; and grandparents, Mary Grafstrom, Julia Johnson and Eldred Johnston.

A reception for 350 guests followed the ceremony. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Marben, sister and brother-in-law of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grafstrom Jr., brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with red roses, baked and decorated by the bride's aunt, Ordell O'Neil. She also cut the cake, along with another aunt of the bride, Julie-Ann Fish. Virginia Geringer and Eunice Van Baalen, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively, poured for the guests.

Serving punch were Ramona Grafstrom, sister of the bride, and Brita Grafstrom, cousin of the bride. Sally Michal, cousin of the bride, attended the gifts, and gift carriers were Luke and Thora Grafstrom, brother and sister of the bride. John Marben and Amanda Grafstrom, nephew of the groom and niece of the bride, distributed rice.

Waitresses were Rachel and Rebecca Geringer and Kolly and Allie Michal, all cousins of the bride. Jean and Mary Jo Michal were in charge of programs and Cheri Tolkinen presided at the guest book. All are cousins of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, the bride and groom are at home in Thief River Falls where the groom is employed at TG Sporting Goods and the bride at the Falls Day Activity Center. Both the bride and groom are graduates of Northland community college in Thief River Falls and Moorhead state university.

VFW Auxiliary Will Have Voice Of Democracy Banquet

The VFW auxiliary will meet January 12 at 8 p.m. in the VFW clubrooms. The Voice of Democracy banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. First place winners are Michelle Tureen, Thief River Falls, and Nancy Newland, Newfolden. All members of the Legion post and auxiliary are invited to the supper.

Pre-Wedding Reception For Mickelson-Vatthauer

A reception will be held for Edlyn Vatthauer and Sandra Mickelson Friday at 7 p.m. at the Evangelical Free church lower auditorium, 246 North Kendall avenue, Thief River Falls.

The couple will be married January 31 in Abilene, TX. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Wedding Reception Friday For Craig Naessigs

There will be a wedding reception for Craig and Jennifer (Wegge) Naessig at the George Wegge residence, rural Holt, Friday at 7:30 p.m. No invitations have been sent; all friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Christmas Supper For VFW Auxiliary

The VFW auxiliary met for their Christmas potluck supper December 8. Each member brought canned goods for the food shelf instead of a gift exchange. Approximately $150 was donated. It was also decided to make a donation of $100 to Meals on Wheels.

The VFW post and auxiliary will sponsor a drug abuse program along with the Thief River Falls police department in the near future.

Plummer Auxiliary Christmas Dinner

The Plummer American Legion auxiliary met December 11 with a Christmas party potluck dinner. Special guest was ninth district president, Bev LeTexier from East Grand Forks. The auxiliary presented her with a gift and check for her ninth district project which is that of obtaining chairs for the V.A. hospital in Fargo, ND.

Christmas carols were sung and a reading was given by Donna Pahlen. Polly Skjerven was in charge of the program.

Business conducted included decisions on purchase of a new electric stove for the clubroom kitchen; donation of $54 for the Plummer school ambulance service at ball games, and sponsoring a New Year's eve supper and dance for members and guests, to begin at 6:30. Alice and Paul Jobe were congratulated on their presentation on flag etiquette for area school children. Gifts purchased for the Veterans hospital in Fargo will be delivered in time for Christmas by Art and Alma Hanson.

The January meeting will be at 8 p.m. January 13, a change from the usual time.

Riverside Terrace Birthday Celebration

Birthdays for the months of November and December were celebrated December 10 at Riverside Terrace apartments. Mr. and Mrs. Art Stordahl entertained with accordion music and song. Ice cream and birthday cake were served following the program.

Celebrating their birthdays were John Geroux, Leonard Pietron, Ann Hansen, Minnie Wold, Bea Hanson, Myles Jackson, Cora Grendahl and Evelyn Homewood. A good time was had by all.

Sunday Baby Shower For Michael Jon Anderson

There will be a baby shower for Mrs. Jon (Diane) Anderson and baby son, Michael Jon, Sunday at 2 p.m. at St. Vincent de Paul church in Plummer. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Oakes Viewpoint On DAC Changes With Perspective

Somehow it doesn't seem all that reasonable any more. The stakes involved are the problem. The ODC is competing to acquire another peripheral service and we are competing to survive. The DAC, which has been in operation for 17 years (two years longer than the ODC), is being forced to risk it's existence in a direct, "no advantage" competition. Only there are advantages. The ODC is much larger and in good shape, in some part because of my work. The DAC on the other hand is scrambling to deal with a management change.

Another contrast is related to employment philosophy. Over at the ODC I witnessed along with the rest of you the unbelieveable display of loyalty demonstrated by the DAC board to a long time employee under trying circumstances. Since I have left I have discovered that although I served the ODC for ten years and through three directors, personal loyalty is apparently not in their game plan. Not only have they decided to directly compete, which could result in my losing my employment, but I'm told that the circumstances of my leaving indicate that I do not deserve my earned vacation pay. All in the name of diversification.

Parts of this experience do seem familiar, though. When I came to the ODC, we had problems, operating out of inadequate rented space. I was shipped in from southern Minnesota intentionally to be an objective outsider. I was hired out of the savings and loan business because the ODC needed someone with a business perspective. Bills were old, records were poorly kept, a special audit was called, and our director was leaving unexpectedly. We had our work cut out for us, but we didn't have to fight our way through an unfriendly take over. All the agencies we served stepped in to help and there was no publicity to deal with.

Of course you know the rest of the story; over the years the ODC recovered and experienced spectacular growth. It was a healthy growth, the kind where more and more handicapped people could receive services who previously had no other options. It was growth that agreed with our mission. It was growth that I was a part of and I was proud.

Well, here I am again and my work's cut out for me. In the name of competition the wheels are turning to make providing day programming for the handicapped into a monopoly. No doubt all the small businesses in town could be operated more cost effectively by one organization, but it wouldn't be competition, it would be the opposite.

The next few months will be interesting as we increase our board size, attempt to develop new programming indicated in the county proposal request, and await the results of the biggest stakes poker game this agency has ever been forced to play. The parents, staff and participants of the Falls DAC have expressed their wishes. Time will tell.

Local Residents List Wishes For This Area In '87

for various displays, craft shows, events, and other mall type activities which help draw people to such an area.

2) I would like to see the Thief River Falls business community work together in a more unified manner in order to be the regional shopping center with a heart in Northwestern Minnesota. In order to do this all people must take a long range of viewpoint and be willing to make some sacrifices in the short run in order to ensure the economic viability of Thief River Falls in the future. Rather, than merely looking at whether or not a particular decision, plan of action or promotion is always beneficial to a particular concern a larger viewpoint should be taken and if the idea is good for Thief River Falls it should be supported if at all possible. A 100 per cent commitment and support should be given to those ideas that are good for Thief River Falls in general even though only 80 per cent or so of them will be of direct benefit to a particular business concern.

Bob Carlson, Thief River Falls Mayor:

1) I wish that someone could bring a message of good news to rural residents in 1987.

2) I hope that in the coming year everyone in Thief River Falls can develop a positive attitude and work together for a better Thief River Falls.

Dick Spyhalski, chief executive officer of Northwest Medical center:

1) I would like to see a continued strengthening of the economic base in the region.

2) We should continue to aggressively seek economic opportunities consistent with our rural quality of life.

Kenneth Froschheiser, Chief of Police, Thief River Falls:

1) I would like to see the return of a stable economy and a reduction in crime.

2) I hope that everyone has a safe and joyous new year with no tragedies.

Chris Twomey, President Arctco Inc.:

1) I would like to see the community receive a renewed spirit of community.

2) I think the community should work together to create an environment rich in opportunities for everyone.

Gail Borchert, public relations director at Northwest Medical center:

1) Santa should bring some community pride and spirit to Thief River Falls.

2) We should work harder to make our community a better place to live.

Gary Erickson, County Welfare Director:

1) A job for everybody willing to work.

2) A decrease in liquor sales.

Albert Koop, Pennington county commissioner:

1) Health and prosperity for the county and city. Not that Santa can always bring all those things but as long as we're asking.

2) We should do everything that we can do to bring jobs and economic prosperity to the community. Both city and county should be alert and ready to do everything it can to improve our situation.

Scouts Hand Out Donor Brochure

As a special good turn project, President Ronald Reagan has asked that scouts throughout the United States assist in handing out information on donation of body organs so that others may live.

While delivering the Fronteer NW Minnesota telephone directory, scouts from St. John Lutheran church and Zion Lutheran church will deliver the donor brochure to residences in Thief River Falls. The scouts will also deliver information on the local 911 emergency number.

Kerry Hodne On Director's List

Kerry Hodne of Newfolden has earned an average of 3.5 (B+) or above and has been placed on the "Director's List" for the fall quarter at Moorhead area vocational technical institute. He is enrolled in the electronics program.

We'd like to take this opportunity to say thank you and to wish you the very best this holiday season.

GLAUCOMA QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Your vision is one of your most valuable possessions. None of us would purposely neglect eye care. However, there is one eye disease that has no symptoms, until it is far advanced. This disease is glaucoma. Glaucoma is a condition where the pressure inside the eye is abnormally high. Slowly, over a long period of time, this pressure gradually damages the nerves in the eye, and causes blind areas in our peripheral, or side, vision. You cannot feel this pressure, and the defects in the side vision are not noticed until they are far advanced. Once vision is lost from glaucoma, it cannot be recovered.

How can I tell if I have glaucoma? There is no way you can tell on your own. You cannot feel the pressure. You must have an examination by your eye doctor to detect glaucoma.

Does glaucoma affect only older people? No. Glaucoma can affect anyone from an infant to the elderly. It is more common in persons over 40 years old.

I have heard that glaucoma causes pain, and "halos" around lights. Is this true? There are different forms of glaucoma, but the most common variety does not produce pain or halos.

Does glaucoma run in families? It tends to run in families. If there is glaucoma in your family, it is more likely that you could have glaucoma, but if it is not in your family, you can still have it.

Is there treatment for glaucoma? With modern methods, most cases of glaucoma can be controlled. This is usually done using eye drops. The laser can also be used for some cases of glaucoma.

TRF Court House Gives Christmas Closing Times

According to Ann Olson, deputy auditor, the Thief River Falls court house will close at 3 p.m. Christmas Eve and will be closed through Christmas Day. It will open at the regular time Friday.

T. R. Falls STORES OPEN 'til 9 THURSDAY NIGHTS

Dear Readers,

As Christmas commemorates the birth of Jesus Christ, it is well to remember His simple beginnings — His early training in responsibility as a worker in His father's carpenter shop. In these affluent times, it is too easy to become preoccupied with material things, and too hard to hold to the basic virtues of charity and concern for others — which alone can bring true happiness and satisfaction in life.

Sincerely,

Belmont Funeral Home

SCHEDULED FOR DEMOLITION. This is not another featured home from the Holiday Tour of Homes. It is rather, a gingerbread house built by Grace and Robert bridges of 301 North Kendall. Around Christmas time it will be reduced to crumbs by the Bridge's grandchildren and children of friends. The Bridges have been building gingerbread homes for nearly eight years. Sometimes they created the house from their imaginations and sometimes they glean the floor plans from magazines, as with this gingerbread house. This gingerbread house is about 18 inches high by 20 inches wide. It is completely edible. It has 380 shingles, a roof of M & M's, a walkway and chimney of rock candy, 11 chocolate windows complete with grillwork of chocolate, balconies and shutters, a chocolate balcony inside, a red licorice rug, a chocolate table and chair, spearmint jellies for hedges and frosted ice cream cones for trees. It is all held together by frosting. Amazingly, attention to detail extends even to include stockings hung by the chimney with care. It took the Bridges four days, on and off, to complete their annual project and will probably be reduced to crumbs in a matter of moments when friends and children are gathered to celebrate Christmas.

Arctco Inc. Pays Employees Profit Sharing Bonus

William G. Ness, Arctco's board chairman, announced that for the third consecutive year, Arctco has paid a profit sharing bonus to its production employees. "We recognize that our employees are very key elements in our success and we want to share that success with them to the greatest extent possible," said Ness.

Since the company began production in August of 1983, it has annually shared its profits with all employees. Total bonuses for all employees are based on year-end profitability. However, bonuses for production employees are paid in December based on an estimate of the company's year-end profits. Since production employees face a four to five month period of time without work, Arctco's profit sharing bonus plan for these employees is designed to help ease the burden of unemployment.

According to Ness, Production and sales of 1987 Arctic Cat snowmobiles produced by Arctco which is now in its fourth production season are very positive. "Arctco's exciting 1987 product line, as well as early snows across the entire North American snowbelt, and a generally heightened interest in the sport of snowmobiling can be credited for Arctco's success," said Ness.

Bakken Donates Half A Million To University

Earl E. Bakken, developer of the first wearable, external, battery-powered heart pacemaker, has given the University of Minnesota $500,000 through its fundraising campaign for scholarships in the medical school's combined M.D.-Ph.D. program.

Bakken's gift will be matched by another $500,000 from other university sources to create a $1 million endowment for four scholarships. The combined M.D.-Ph.D. degree is a seven-year program. Students can pursue doctorates in a variety of basic sciences, such as biochemistry, cell biology, immunobiology and molecular genetics.

Scholarships recipients will be called Bakken scholars, said David M. Brown, Medical School dean. Preference will be given to applicants who want to do graduate work in the new biomedical engineering center, he said.

The center, one of five in the nation, is expected to be completed by 1990. It is being started through a $2 million gift from the Medtronic foundation. The center's directorship will be known as the Earl E. Bakken chair.

Bakken's gift will enable the university to "continue to attract and train practioners and scientists who will lead the way to major advances in medicine and biomedical engineering," said university President Kenneth H. Keller.

Bakken, 62, is senior board chair of Medtronic, Inc., which manufactures implantable medical devices. A university graudate in electrical engineering, Bakken founded Medtronic in 1949 with his brother-in-law, the late Palmer Hermundslie. He developed the battery-powered pacemaker with university heart surgeon Dr. C. Walton Lillehei in 1958.

Poverty Grows To Crisis Levels Committee Says

Poverty in the 1980s has grown to crisis proportions due primarily to shrinking employment opportunities, the governor's commission on poverty in Minnesota reported to Gov. Rudy Perpich Thursday.

An additional 100,000 people have fallen into poverty since 1979, the year-long study concluded. Much of the increase is among the working poor, particularly families with children.

"We found a poverty of opportunity for low-income people," said Samuel Horowitz, commission chair. "We're asking state government to take the lead in restoring the Minnesota dream for citizens in poverty."

The need for jobs, adequate wages, health and child care, tax reductions and improved income support payments were common themes in the 25 recommendations the commission directed to all Minnesotans.

Although unemployment is the most obvious problem facing the 475,000 Minnesotans in poverty, many low-income people earn wages that are insufficient to support a family, the report indicated.

Families with children often find health insurance and child care unaffordable, rent and taxes too high and public assistance payments inadequate, the commission found. The study found that the real value of Aid to Families with Dependent children (AFDC) payments had declined by 33 per cent during the last decade and those payments are now only 72 per cent of the poverty guidelines.

Here are some of the commission's significant findings and recommendations:

+ Average unemployment in 1985 was 133,000, which is lower than the 1983 average but well above the 1978 average of 76,000.

The commission recommended that the state appropriate $100 million for the Minnesota Employment and Economic Development (MEED) Wage Subsidy Program. That appropriation would create 16,000 permanent jobs in the private sector and provide economic assistance to small businesses throughout the state.

+ More than 450,000 Minnesotans, including 100,000 children, were without health coverage in 1985.

The panel asked Perpich to budget $25 million for a new sliding fee health insurance program that would provide coverage for 50,000 uninsured families with children.

+ Taxes for people whose income was near or below the poverty line increased as much as $150 as a result of state tax changes in 1985.

The commission asked that the tax burden on low-income Minnesotans be reduced by conforming the state's tax code to the 1986 federal tax reform law. This would remove 100,000 people now in poverty from the state tax rolls and provide relief to hundreds of thousands more low-income people.

The commission's report was in response to a charge from Perpich to develop short and long-term recommendations to meet the needs of Minnesotans in poverty. More than 300 people testified before the commission at a total of seven public hearings held in Mahnomen, Virginia, Little Falls, Marshall, Waseca, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

HO-HO-HO. Kyle Mestery (Santa), and Leslie Oyster (judge), both fifth grade students in Jodi Carter's class at Mark Twain, were among Carter's students to perform "Santa On Trial" and other plays for students at Mark Twain elementary school last week.

SWCD Anniversary Convention Draws Area Attendance

Area SWCD representatives attended the 50th annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts recently in Bloomington. The 50th anniversary was the theme of the convention with the slogan "Soil and Water Conservation, Everyone's Concern: The Second 50 Years".

Representing the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district were supervisors Oliver Howland, Peter Aune and Lloyd Wiseth along with staff members Lawrence Neuschwander, Cheryl Sistad and SCS soil conservation technician Ralph Rundell. Also in attendance were Donald and Margaret Rupprecht of Thief River Falls for the conservation farmer award winner Rupprecht Farms.

The activities started Sunday evening with a short skit. State poster and essay winners were announced with the top two essay winners in each category and their parents in attendance. The winners were announ attendance. The winners in the junior and senior divisions presented their essays to the audience. The evening ended with an auction to help support the educational programs and send students to conservation camp.

Business meeting started Monday morning. A 50th anniversary ag forum was held with guest speaker Robert Grey of the American Farmland Trust followed by a panel discussion. Recognition was also given to the founding supervisors in each district.

Also on Monday morning, the Minnesota Association of Conservation District Employees held their meeting with DNR commissioner Joseph Alexander as the guest speaker.

Monday noon was the awards luncheon which recognized outstanding supervisors, districts, employees, legislators and others actively promoting conservation concerns. Mini-sessions Monday afternoon were on water quality, NACD interaction with local districts, the media and a computer demonstration on the use of computers in working with CRP, RIM and cross-compliance programs.

Luncheon on Tuesday recoignized conservation farmer award winners including Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rupprecht of the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD. The Marshall-Beltrami district also received a "superior" rating in the distinquished service awards districts.

Tuesday afternoon mini-sessions included funding concerns, RIM screening committees and the role of supervisors in changing times.

"The convention proved to be a good source of information, new ideas and an exchange of ideas with other districts and other conservation organizations mixed in with a sense of optimism for the next 50 years," Rundell said.

Stangeland Will Change Offices On Capitol Hill

As of Jan. 1, 1987, the office of Congressman Arlan Stangeland will be located in suite 2165 of the Rayburn Office Building on Capitol Hill. The office was formally occupied by Congressman James J. Howard, Democrat of New Jersey and chairmen of the committee on public works and transportation.

Congressman Stangeland will be the third ranking Republican on the committee on public works and transportation when Congress convenes for the 100th time on Jan. 6, 1987, assuming his election victory is allowed to stand. Contested ballots in a recount are being determined by a judge.

"The increased space and overall upgrading of our operation through the installation of more computers and office equipment will better assist me and my staff to serve the constituents of the 7th district," Rep. Stangeland said.

New offices are assigned through a lottery system with those members high in senority being able to choose first. Congressman Stangeland would be entering his sixth term.

TIMES Around The Region

Long Walk

Hallock — A former Hallock woman was one of a core group of approximately 300 people who walked 3,740 miles from coast to coast in a peace march last summer. Anna Haubrich said she joined the group because she was determined to do something to protest the nuclear arms race, rather than "just remain inert." The group was formed in Los Angeles March 1. After a two-week training session, they began their cross-country trek there and ended up in Washington, D.C. on November 15, where they set up camp on the elipse behind the White House. While there, representatives of the group spoke to Larry Speakes, White House press secretary. Another march is planned in Europe next spring, but Haubrich said she hasn't decided whether or not to participate. For now she's content to stay in one place with showers, regular meals and familiar faces.

You Better Not . . .

Williams — The Williams Reporter published a letter to the editor from Santa Claus telling children not to be greedy at Christmas and wishing them the very merriest Christmas ever. Santa was very impressed with all the children he had been meeting on his visits around the area.

And A Merry Chri$tmas Too

Roseau — Over 1,100 Polaris employees gathered December 13 at the Roseau high school auditorium to receive $885,000 in profit distributions. The annual profit sharing distribution for Marvin Windows in Warroad was held December 20 with a program of door prizes and awards beginning at 11 a.m. In 1985, the Marvin bonus amounted to $4,480,792.70 paid to 1,862 employees.

Don't Hang On The Mantle

Roseau — Babies born at the Roseau area hospital are going home in a bright red Christmas stocking this year, compliments of the Roseau area hospital auxiliary.

Slipping And Sliding

Red Lake Falls — St. Joseph's school playground behind St. Joseph's Catholic church in Red Lake Falls is slowly sinking into a slough. The area has sunk about 12 feet in the past two years and continues to shift each spring and summer. A barrier erected last fall by church officials has failed to halt the movement of earth and Soil and Water Conservation district officials say the barrier's posts are splintering and bowing and will not stop the shifting of earth when the spring thaw comes. The Red Lake County Soil and Water Conservation district, St. Joseph's Catholic church and the city of Red Lake Falls are combining their efforts in a proposed $20,000 project to stop the landslide. Approximately three acres of land are affected by the slough directly, and another 10 acres are indirectly affected below the site by sedimentation.

Albert Goes Gallavanting

Crookston — Judy Mylkejord's kindergarten class at Lincoln elementary school in Crookston has a mascot. His name is Albert, and he visits the homes of the students all the time. Albert is a bear — stuffed variety. Every weekend Albert goes home with one of the students to participate in whatever they do. He has gone to church, out to dinner, stayed up late to watch TV, fallen out of bed, and played out in the snow. Each of the students will be allowed to have Albert visit their homes twice this year.

Santa Lucia Speaks Swedish

Warren — Swedish exchange students participated in leading parts in a Santa Lucia program put on last weekend at the Warren Evangelical church. Veronica Akessen portrayed Santa Lucia and Erik Norrman assisted her. After the program, women of the church served Swedish goodies at tables decorated with authentic Swedish items.

So Study Sewing

Red Lake Falls — The Lake Pleasant home study group of Red Lake Falls didn't just sit around studying all year — they took some time to sew 10 pairs of pajamas for needy children. The pajamas will be distributed by social services personnel on Christmas Eve.

Was It The North Pole?

Baudette — A two-vehicle accident December 11 in Baudette resulted in damage to the vehicles and a city power pole. Vehicles driven by Helene Forney and Mike Hanson, both of Baudette, collided, causing the vehicle driven by Hanson to strike a city power pole. The Lake of the Woods law enforcement center reports that both vehicles sustained substantial damage.

MOONLIGHTERS Lioness club presented the proceeds from a fund drive to Pennington county Pioneer Village. The club sold special village notecards to raise the funds. Pictured from left are: Marie Sorenson, treasurer of the Pennington county historical society; Dorothy Chapman, president of the historical society; and Julie Desrocher, treasurer of the Moonlighters Lioness club.

Where's Rudolph?

Newfolden — Santa Claus arrived at the Newfolden community center December 13 in a two-horse open sleigh driven by Dean Anderson of Newfolden.

Up, Up and A-Sleigh

McIntosh — While Santa was busy visiting the children and taking copious notes, Lowell Urdahl gave children sleigh rides during Santa Claus days in McIntosh.

Santa And Spouse

Oklee — Both Santa and Mrs. Claus visited with youngsters on Santa Claus day in Oklee. And there were Oklee elves running amok too.

All Those Hand Shakes

Bagley — The winner in the election for Clearwater county coroner will not serve in that capacity, even though he received the highest number of votes. The county board was informed at their December 9 meeting that Wayne Cease, who was elected by a majority of the votes, cannot serve as county coroner because it is required that the coroner be a qualified physician. In fact, none of the people receiving votes in the election can qualify for the position. So Clearwater county is without a coroner until January 6, 1987, when the board will appoint a qualified physician to the position.

Still Going Strong

International Falls — Twenty-seven years ago when a lady named Lou Rud of Birchdale discovered she couldn't eat beef any more because of a medical problem she didn't just sit around and moan about it. She got out and did something — she began hunting her own deer. And she doesn't just hunt the deer, but butchers it as well. Lou is now 87 years old and still enjoys bagging that buck or doe. She also has hobbies such as putting up a wall between the bedroom and living room of her own home, taking a year of French lessons; tatting intricate doilies, taking lessons on glass staining and filling her home with stained glass flowers, sewing her own clothes and costumes of famous characters — which she loves to model — and working with senior citizen activities in Birchdale.

Santa Sure Scoots

Badger — In Badger, Santa Claus makes visits to every home and business place in town during December. Last year 93 places were visited.

Ick!

Bemidji — City officials in Bemidji are facing a big problem in that a Bemidji township well may have been contaminated by city-spread sewage sludge. Authorities have been informed that high nitrate levels have been found in the water runoff line from a farm the city once used for on-land application of sewage sludge from its wastewater treatment plant.

Try Salt On Their Tails

Warren — The Marshall County Sheriff's report listed this little item among its dispositions for the December 9 arraignment term: Robert Louis Keath Loranger of Middle River had a charge of criminal damage to property continued until spring when it will be dismissed if he keeps his horses home.

What, No Coffee?

Baudette — A burglar at the William Anderson residence in Baudette netted approximately $1,200 worth of Mexican silver coins, Canadian silver dollars, American silver dollars, miscellaneous silver coins and four ten-ounce silver bars some time between December 3 and 10. There was no sign of forced entry at the home and the incident is under investigation by the Lake of the Woods county law enforcement agency. A burglar at the Congregational church in Williams December 13 was not so successful, however, netting only some left-over cake.

How Do You Like Your Duck?

Middle River — A home owned by Richard Filpula in Spruce Valley township burned December 11 when the renter, Terry Dahl, was performing taxidermy work on a duck and the gasoline used in degreasing of the bird's feathers ignited from a hot water heater pilot light. No damage estimate was available at the time the New River Record went to press. Nine Middle River volunteer firemen were at the scene in a matter of minutes.

Combination Concert

Warren — Combined choirs from three Warren churches and other musicians from four other churches combined to present a spectacular Christmas concert last weekend at Our Savior's Lutheran church. Four hundred people filled the church to hear the music of the combined choirs, all directed by Patty Howard, director of Grace United Methodist church.

Kyle Arveson Receives Christmas Gift Of Life

The Arvesons also noted the value of the Red Cross blood donor network which provided the blood and blood derivatives which Kyle needed for his surgery. They weren't informed how much blood was needed, but do know that 30 units were ordered up for the surgery and that in some cases twice that amount is necessary.

Most of the time persons who receive transplants are released as outpatients and required to make regular returns to the hospital for checkups. In Kyle's case he was released to go home and came back to the Arveson farm on December 13 — three days short of a month from when he was called down for surgery.

"The days get awfully long when you're in the hospital," Mrs. Arveson said. He can speak from experience, for she stayed with Kyle throughout the ordeal, sleeping in a reclining chair in his room and living out of a suitcase. Nurses would direct her to wherever shower area would be available according to patient load.

Although David was at the hospital several times, he knew he was also needed at home with the other two boys and both dairy and beef cattle to tend. He spent most of the time at home, but when he had to be gone the family received able assistance from Mr. and Mrs. Verner Arveson and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mostrom.

The Arvesons have been appreciative of a number of things done in their behalf by friends, relatives and neighbors. Included are several organizations which conducted fund drives or promotional efforts at Goodridge and Gully — including the Goodridge Jaycees, Lions, area development association, AAL Branches 1695 and 6195 and the Gully community. Prayers, moral support, cards and gifts were also appreciated by Kyle and his parents.

Because of the medications he is taking to reduce the body's rejection of the transplanted liver, Kyle is much more susceptible to other diseases as well. He has been advised to avoid animals and birds for a period of six months since they can be carriers of disease. He will also avoid crowds and probably will stay away from school, opting instead for a tutor to assist him in his lessons. It is not yet known if the operation will result in his losing a year of school. Until his October hospitalization and then surgery he had missed very little school.

In addition to his heavy schedule of medication, Kyle has had to have blood samples taken each Monday and Thursday and will continue that regimen for several months, hopefully on a declining frequency. His weight and blood pressure are recorded carefully twice a day to note any rapid changes. Should such change occur, it would mean an immediate trip back to the transplant unit for more assistance. Unless something of that nature should occur, however, Kyle isn't scheduled for a return checkup until six months from his return home.

Kyle's appetite is good and his diet is not particularly restricted, except for reduction in sodium. He particularly enjoyed the variety of Christmas goodies which Mrs. Leon (Karen) Johnson and Mrs. Ken (Sharon) Wagner of Thief River Falls and Mrs. Ragna Anderson of Middle River provided, as well as those received in a cookie exchange conducted by the Nazareth ladies aid.

Kyle was number 104 of 106 liver transplants done at the University of Minnesota hospitals. While he was there, five children from Michigan, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Canada and Minnesota and ranging in age from 18 months to four and one-half years (except for Kyle at age seven) had received transplants. Due mainly to development of anti-rejection drugs, success rates for transplants have gone from about 60 per cent in 1980 to 85 per cent in 1986.

"There are many people waiting on transplant lists for suitable donors, whether the need is for heart, liver, pancreas, kidneys or other organs," Mrs. Arveson said. "We are thankful to the donor family which unselfishly gave our Kyle the gift of life."

Throughout the nation there are about 23,000 deaths each year of persons whose organs would be transplantable. Of those only about 14 per cent donate organs. That is not enough for the approximately 300 patients on waiting lists for a transplant at the University of Minnesota and the thousands waiting elsewhere.

This Christmas the David Arveson family will be especially aware of the gift of life which has made it possible for them to have a particularly merry Christmas.

BLOOD PRESSURE READINGS are taken twice a day along with weight recordings as continuing checks on the condition of liver transplant patient Kyle Arveson of rural Trail. Linda Arveson is shown with the digital blood pressure unit used to do the tests. Any sudden change in weight or blood pressure is a signal to alert the family to a possible problem.

Acre Yield Of 65.9 Bushels Tops Soybean Contest

Entries by Fair Acres Stock Farm, Francis Linder and Eric Wegner produced top yields in the 1986 Minnesota soybean yield contest sponsored by the Minnesota Soybean Growers association.

Guy and Lynn Ewald operate Fair Acres Stock Farm near Waldorf in Waseca county. Their entry produced the top conservation tillage yield and the top overall state yield of 65.9 bushels per acre. They no-tilled soybeans into corn in 10-inch rows on May 7. Herbicides were used for weed control.

Ewald reports that no-tilled soybeans have out-performed conventionally-produced soybeans in their test plots for the last three years. He says improved moisture retention in no-till soils may help carry the crop through dry periods at the end of July or early August.

Francis Linder of Eastern, in Faribault county, produced the top yield of 65 bushels per acre in the conventionally-planted category. Soybeans were planted in 36-inch rows on May 19. Herbicide was used to control weeds.

The youth division champion also came out of Faribault county. Eric Wegner of Wells produced a yield of 62.7 bushels per acre. Soybeans were planted in 30-inch rows on May 8. Herbicides were used for weed control.

4H CLUB

Satellite

The Satellite 4-H club met on December 10 at the St. Hilaire library. Flag pledges were said and roll call was answered to "What do you want for Christmas?" Secretary and treasurer reports were given by Stacy Ratliff.

There is going to be a 4-H ski trip to Buena Vista in Bemidji on January 19. Red River Valley winter shows are February 13-19 with youth day being February 14. Communications contest is January 31. Sign up at the extension office to spend a week with a Wisconsin family for the Wisconsin 4-H exchange. 4-H cookbooks are on sale at the extension office for $7.50. Happy Acres and Sanders clubs will have 4-H plays in January.

The meeting was adjourned on motion by Brandon Nelson and seconded by Stacy Ratliff. A Christmas party followed the meeting and was enjoyed by all. LeaAnn Young and Margret Meyers led in songs. Brandon Nelson, Shannon Ratliff and Joey Knutson arranged the games. There were 10 members, four parents and three guests present. Next meeting will be held on January 14 at the St. Hilaire library.

Cristi Lee Cota, reporter

Kratka

The Kratka 4-H club met on December 8 at the Kratka town hall for its Christmas party. Tabitha Downs read "Twas the Night Before Christmas"; Tom Mickelson and Heather Olson read poems and we sang Christmas carols. Minde Olson gave a demonstration on making finger gelatin into Christmas shapes. Members participated in a Christmas crossword puzzle.

Santa Claus arrived, visited with everyone and gave all members a bag of candy. Gifts were exchanged and potluck supper served. Everyone brought baked goods for a Christmas box to be given to a family. There were 16 members, nine parents and four guests present. Next meeting will be on January 12 at Kratka town hall.

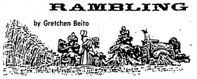
PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito



The out-of-doors in wintertime is often delightful here. This morning, trillions of sparkles beckoned and danced on the new-fallen snow. Above, twigs and branches of old oak trees are encased in feathers of crystals. The sky was electric blue, an incredible blue. This kind of beauty could enhance any Christmas card.

But to me it is in the hours of December darkness that deeper joys of the Christmas season can be found. Here in the north, we are sometimes surprised before midnight by a brilliant dance of light in the North sky. Unlike weather, Northern Lights are usually unexpected and always welcome. Their sudden appearance is almost as startling as the sudden joy found in the clear message of peace and good will.

And winter dusks come early. Today when I came toward the Third Street bridge in the late afternoon, I was entranced by the city Christmas tree, glowing with many colors there beside the dark river. To me these many lights shining out of darkness signify the birth of Hope. As I drove further, I saw lights of Christmas shining from shrubs and hedges and trees and rooftops. The joy, it seemed, had spread all over town.

Then at home so welcome were the golden lamps glowing in carpeted rooms. Tonight all three of us are at home, and it is a time of particular closeness. It is when the cold wind is whistling outside that that special feeling of snugness, of warmth envelops us as we spend an evening together at home.

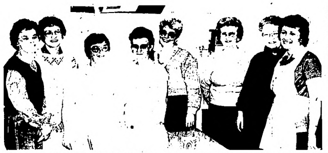
Many others before us have reveled in the warmth of the hearth as well as in the sharpness of winter. A number of years ago Ebba Sagmoen described for the "Times" her memory of a childhood Christmas morning:

"...we had to be up early as we must be away to the village for Julotta at six o'clock and we had about six miles to the village. The morning coffee was now ready and with the fragrance of the Jule kaka no second call for the first breakfast was needed. Now to dress warmly and pile into the sleigh drawn by our fleetest team, and to the music of the sleigh bells we were off.

"The stars and sometimes the moon kept us company on the cold, long ride. We children made a game of finding the brightest star, and thinking maybe that was the one that led the Wisemen to Bethlehem where the Savior was born."

Ebba was remembering back to a time at the turn of the century when she was a Wahlbeck girl on their farm southwest of St. Hilaire. No matter what the century, the holiday brings to us here in the north an opportunity for happiness in contrasts. And there is something about this time of year that makes us wonder what children now among us will remember of our time, as well as to think we might influence what their celebrations will be like in the twenty-first century.

As Christmas comes, soft and still this year, may the spirit of peace gently fill your heart and home with love and goodwill. This is my gentle wish for you this Christmas.



JUST ENOUGH COOKS were on hand to make the chili and serve it and other items during the chili feed fund raiser for the David Arveson family Friday at Goodridge. The Arvesons' son Kyle has recently returned home after having a liver transplant at the University of Minnesota. Helping in the Goodridge school kitchen were (left to right) Myrtle Sunsdahl, Audrey Rogalla, Sharon Wayne, Ardyce Race, Norma Johnson, Ruth Peters, Mildred Arveson and Marge Scheef, head cook.

Estimated Taxes Are Required Of Some Taxpayers

Taxpayers who receive income not subject to withholding, or who receive wages that are not fully covered by withholding, may be required to make estimated tax payments, the IRS said.

According to the IRS, over eleven million estimated tax payments totaling $54.3 billion are made by individual taxpayers each year. Estimated tax payments are generally required by taxpayers who are self employed, and from individuals who receive interest, dividends, capital gains, rent, pensions and other types of income. Taxpayers who are liable for additional taxes such as the alternative minimum tax, tax from recapture of investment credit, social security, tax on tips or tax on an IRA may also be required to make estimates.

Individuals who have determined that they are required to make estimated payments generally submit them to the IRS in four equal installments during the year. The installment amounts may be adjusted upward or downward depending on changes in a taxpayer's income. The essential thing to remember, IRS cautions, is that for 1986 the installments must cover 80 per cent of the federal tax liability, including any credits for withholding by an employer, financial institution or tax overpayments credited from a prior year tax return. (The installment amounts increase to 90 per cent for 1987). Taxpayers who fail to meet the estimated tax payment requirements are subject to an underpayment of estimated tax penalty.

The installment due dates for making estimated tax payments, except for farmers, are April 15, June 15, September 15 and January 15. Farmers have an alternative to the estimated tax payment requirements if at least two-thirds of their gross income is from farming. They may make one estimated tax payment on or before January 15, or need not make any installment if they elect to file their federal tax return and pay the total tax due by March 2.

The IRS has two publications which discuss estimated tax payment requirements: Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax, and Publication 225, Farmers Tax Guide. These publications, along with the estimated tax payment vouchers can be ordered from the IRS by calling toll free 800-424-FORM.

Library To Have Tuesday Sessions For Toddlers

Special storytime sessions for toddlers entitled "PAT" sessions (Parent and Toddler) will begin at Northwest Regional Library in Thief River Falls January 13. Sessions will be held from 10 to 10:30 a.m. every Tuesday for children ages 15 months to 36 months, and are free of charge to the public. No pre-registration for the first session will be required.

"PAT" sessions are designed to introduce parents and toddlers to books and other materials in the library. Toddlers attending these sessions must be accompanied by a parent or child-care provider as interaction between the child and adult will occur. Interaction includes the "read to me" time in which the parent shares a special book with the child.

Flannelgraph stories, chalk talks, fingerplays, puppets, music, games and activities as well as the reading of books will comprise the majority of "PAT" sessions. The sessions will be led by children's library assistant, Jean Heinrichs.

The sessions are a new service of Northwest Regional library system and will be implemented throughout the system in 1987. This is one way in which the library will emphasize 1987 as the Year of the Reader.

Also available for toddlers and their parents at each Northwest Regional library are board books in a special toddler section and toddler packets of information which contain bibliographies of toddler books, toy suggestions, movement exercises and rhymes, read-aloud hints and a child-rearing bibliography.

For more information on these or other library programs and materials, contact the Thief River Falls Public Library, 101 East First street, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, or call 681-4325.

Poison Hazards Come With Some Holiday Items

The holiday season can bring some special poisoning hazards, but the Minnesota regional poison center wants to ensure that they don't.

"We don't want to alarm people unnecessarily. However, it is important to know that some holiday items have the potential for creating a serious poisoning. By taking a few minutes to become aware of which items can be problems and taking the necessary precautions, everyone can have a safe holiday season," says Barbara Qualley, R.N., education director of the poison center.

Qualley offers the following information for ensuring safety during the holidays:

Mistletoe, holly, Jerusalem cherry and azalea plants are all poisonous. If any of these plants are ingested, the poison control center should be called immediately.

Generally, Christmas trees, Christmas cactus and poinsettia plants do not cause any problems, Qualley said. Tree needles are very sharp and may scratch or stick in the mouth or throat. All plants, poisonous or non-poisonous, should be kept out of reach of small children because of the possibility of choking.

Other substances associated with the holidays are often of concern, too. Qualley offers the following explanations for those most frequently asked about.

+ Alcohol is potentially the most dangerous poison people have in their homes during the holiday season. In relatively small amounts (one-half to one ounce) alcohol can cause severe problems in a child. Keep all liquor, beer and wine out of the reach of small children. After parties make sure all glasses are emptied and not left setting on tables. Often, curious children empty the glasses as they have seen the adults do.

Also, alcohol is the main ingredient in colognes, perfumes and after-shaves. After being used in baking or cooking, alcohol is safe for children because the alcohol vaporizes with heat.

+ Preservatives for Christmas trees are usually a sugar solution and are not toxic. If the solution is homemade, caution should be taken depending upon the ingredients used. Anyone with questions about the ingredients should call the poison center.

+ Snow spray or tree flocking is non-toxic but caution should be used when spraying so that the product is not inhaled.

+ Tinsel and icicles are usually not a problem if small amounts are ingested. If large amounts are ingested or coughing or choking occur the poison center should be called immediately.

+ Shellacked ornaments are not poisonous if ingested because the shellac is non-toxic once it has dried.

+ Snow globes contain water and snow particles that are not poisonous.

+ Silver ball cookie decorations do contain a very small amount of silver, but are considered non-toxic.

If anyone has any questions about poisonous holiday decorations, or suspects a poisoning, he or she should contact poison control immediately. Non-metro residents may call toll-free 1-800-222-1222. Poison information specialists will be available 24 hours a day, seven days a week to answer all calls.

The Minnesota regional poison center is the state-designated poison information center based at St. Paul-Ramsey.

LINCOLN ANNUAL STAFF members shared their Christmas with needy youngsters this year when they purchased gifts for the children's Christmas tree at Kmart instead of exchanging gifts among themselves. The gifts were wrapped during a staff Christmas party at the home of the yearbook advisor, Mrs. John Novacek, and delivered to the store for distribution to area children this week. Members of the staff who took part in the project were, left to right: top photo, front row, Michaun Johnson, Courtney Mostrom, Tammy Limanen and Deb Grandbois; back row, Jeff Geske, Beth Sheehan, Kay Kainz, Sheryl Novacek (advisor), Twyla Svendsgaard and Lisa Erickson; bottom photo, front row, Cindy Ose, Mike Jorde, Robert Anderson and Lorie Mostrom; back row, Shelley Vedbraaten, Leif Meneke, Kristy Dupree, Melonie Forsberg, Nada Sanden and Renny Erickson.

Prowlers' Northwest Christmas Classic Starts Tuesday

Fourth annual Thief River Falls Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament will be played around the Christmas holiday this week.

The eight-team, three-day event will be spread over a five-day span for the first time instead of a consecutive three-day format. Afternoon and evening sessions will be played Tuesday, Friday and Saturday, interrupted by Christmas Eve on Wednesday and Christmas Day on Thursday.

Host Thief River Falls will be joined by a familiar Northwest Christmas Classic line-up that includes Marshall County Central, Middle River, Roseau, Argyle, Hallock, Kennedy and Fertile-Beltrami.

In opening round quarterfinals Tuesday, it'll be Roseau vs. Argyle at 1 p.m., Fertile-Beltrami vs. Kennedy at 3 p.m., Marshall County Central vs. Hallock at 7 p.m. and Middle River vs. Thief River Falls at 9 p.m.

Semifinals will be played Friday, with the consolation round games planned for 1 and 3 p.m., and the championship round match-ups scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m.

Saturday's finals will include the seventh place game at 1 p.m., the consolation championship game at 3 p.m., third place game at 7 p.m. and tournament title game at 9 p.m.

Thief River Falls is the defending tournament champion, with the Prowlers succeeding 1983 winner Fertile-Beltrami and 1984 winner Kennedy in the winner's circle. While the event has produced a different winner each year, Argyle has been the runner-up finisher each time. The Eagles lost to Fertile-Beltrami 56-52 in the 1983 finals, fell to Kennedy 60-59 in the 1984 title game and lost to Thief River Falls 58-45 last year.

An awards ceremony at the conclusion of the tournament will include trophy presentations to the champion, runner-up, third place and consolation championship teams, plus the announcement of a school sportsmanship award trophy. Each member of the tournament championship team will receive a medal. An all-tournament team will also be announced, and those players will also receive individual medals.

Admission prices will be 50-cents for students in grades K-through-5, $1 for students in grades 6-through-12, $1.50 for college and AVTI students and $2 for adults per session.

All games will be played in the Lincoln High School gym.

Tournament Schedule

Tuesday, December 23 — (quarterfinals) Roseau vs. Argyle, 1 p.m.; Fertile-Beltrami vs. Kennedy, 3 p.m.; Marshall County Central vs. Hallock, 7 p.m.; Middle River vs. Thief River Falls, 9 p.m.

Friday, December 26 — (consolation round semifinals) Roseau-Argyle loser vs. Fertile-Beltrami - Kennedy loser, 1 p.m.; Marshall County Central-Hallock loser vs. Middle River-Thief River Falls loser, 3 p.m. (championship round semifinals) Roseau-Argyle winner vs. Fertile-Beltrami - Kennedy winner, 7 p.m.; Marshall County Central-Hallock winner vs. Middle River-Thief River Falls winner, 9 p.m.

Saturday, December 27 — seventh place game, 1 p.m.; consolation championship game, 3 p.m.; third place game, 7 p.m.; championship game, 9 p.m.; awards ceremony.

SHON THOMPSON swam the third leg on the Thief River Falls 200-yard backstroke relay team Saturday during the 1986-87 season-opening Prowler Relays high school swimming meet at the Franklin Middle School pool. Brainerd won the eight-team meet, with the host Prowlers placing fourth.

Annual Prowler Relays . . .

Brainerd Wins Swim Title

Brainerd beat an eight-team field Saturday to win the 1986-87 season-opening Prowler Relays boys high school swimming meet at the Franklin Middle School pool.

Championship honors weren't determined in the annual event until the final race when Brainerd edged runner-up Bemidji 124-114 in the final point total, followed by Fergus Falls with 104, Thief River Falls 92, Park Rapids 90, Grand Forks and Detroit Lakes with 32 and Fosston 28.

Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney said he was "real pleased" with the Prowlers' times for the season opener when his swimmers turned in 10 career personal bests. "Fourth place was very satisfactory," he mentioned.

Rick Rosetta and Shon Thompson supplied the Prowlers with their lone first place finish when they teamed up to win the diving relay event. Joe Drevlow, Aaron Tofte and Rosetta were second in the 600-yard individual medley relay.

"It was a fun meet, with some close races," said Forney. "At this early stage of the season, there were many quality races."

With seven of the 13 Section 8 schools on hand, along with Grand Forks, the small confines of the Franklin pool were crowded with swimmers and spectators, adding to the atmosphere.

An invitational meet appearance at Brainerd awaits the Prowlers Tuesday, December 30.

Cardinals Edge Oslo In Overtime . . .

Plummer Girls Win Title

Plummer edged Oslo 59-58 in overtime in a match-up of unbeaten teams in the finals of the Plummer Invitational girls high school basketball tournament Saturday.

The Cardinals, who handled Climax 73-39 in the Friday semifinals, are now 7-0. The Bobcats, who beat Oklee 59-33 Friday, fell to 6-1.

Oklee downed Climax 35-20 in a low-scoring third place game Saturday.

Oslo 59
Oklee 33

Oslo out-scored Oklee 34-10 in the first half en route to an easy 59-33 tournament-opening win Friday night.

The match-up of Bobcats was no match as Oslo led 18-8 at the end of the first quarter and out-scored Oklee 16-2 in the second quarter. It was 41-22 through three quarters.

Sonia Walski of Oslo led all scorers with 20 points. Julie Murack had 18 for Oklee.

Plummer 73
Climax 39

Plummer doubled Climax 22-11 in the first quarter and coasted to a 73-39 semifinal win over the Vikings Friday.

The Cardinals led 41-19 at halftime and maintained a 53-51 third quarter spread.

Angie Delage had a game-high 28 points for the Cardinals. Stacey Vettern led Climax with 12 points.

Plummer 59
Oslo 58

In a super finish to a tournament arrangement, a pair of unbeaten teams playing for the title went into overtime before Plummer's Angie Delage hit a 17-foot shot at the buzzer for a 59-58 victory over Oslo.

Oslo had the upper hand at the start, grabbing a 19-6 first quarter lead. The Bobcats led 35-24 at halftime, but Plummer pulled within 35-24 by halftime and trailed only 41-38 at the third quarter stop.

Plummer forged ahead 52-47 and went into a clock-killing delay game down the stretch, only to miss six free throws as Oslo tied it 52-52 when Erin Bushaw made a free throw with three seconds left. She missed the second shot, though, that would have provided the Bobcats with the victory since they also had the ball out-of-bounds because of a sixth-foul technical assessed the Cardinals.

Robin Brantl's three-point play with 20 seconds left in overtime gave Plummer a 57-56 lead, but Oslo's Stacey Michalski made two free throws with nine seconds to play for a 58-57 Bobcat lead.

Plummer got the ensuing in-bounds possession to halfcourt, called a time-out and mapped the strategy that ended with Delage making the game-winner as time expired.

Janelle Konickson scored 22 points for the winners:

Warren Invitational . . .

TRF Girls Win Title

Wins over Ada-Borup, East Grand Forks and Hallock Kennedy not only produced a Warren Invitational championship trophy for the Thief River Falls girls high school basketball team, but they also kept the Prowlers unbeaten at 8-0 heading into a holiday schedule break.

Thief River Falls opened the eight-team, three-day tournament with a 51-24 quarterfinal victory over Ada-Borup Thursday, got by defending tournament champion East Grand Forks 56-54 in a Friday night overtime semifinal encounter and handled Hallock-Kennedy 48-35 in Saturday's title game.

The Prowlers will resume their 1986-87 schedule Monday, January 5, when they host Bemidji in a North Sub-Region 8AA game.

TRF 51
Ada-Borup 24

Thief River Falls struggled through the first half, but took control of the game after intermission Thursday en route to a 51-24 opening-round quarterfinal victory over Ada-Borup.

The Prowlers led just 7-4 at the end of the first quarter and had a 17-14 edge at halftime before pulling away 33-20 in the third quarter, and making it a rout by out-scoring the Cougars 18-4 in the final eight minutes.

"We started out very slow," admitted Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "We couldn't get untracked the whole first half. We came out in the second half and put things together. We played a heckuva lot better in the second half."

Brenda Russell scored 16 points and Kelly Cornell had 15 for the winners. No Ada-Borup scorer hit double figures.

Thief River Falls was 22-for-68 from the field (32 per cent) and 7-for-13 at the free throw line (54 per cent). Ada-Borup was just 7-for-41 from the field (17 per cent) and went 10-for-13 at the line (77 per cent). The Prowlers dominated the rebounding charts 33-16, and the Cougars had more turnovers, 19-14. Laura Beito had 13 rebounds for the Prowlers.

"Our defense was superb," mentioned Schafer. "That's what kept us in the game early."

Thief River Falls started with a 10-point lead early in the first quarter of Friday's semifinal match-up with East Grand Forks, the 1986 quarter of Friday's semifinal match-up with East Grand Forks, the 1986 Minnesota Class A state tournament runner-up finisher, but had to go into overtime before beating the Green Wave 56-54.

The Prowlers had a 14-7 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Green Wave cut the margin to 29-27 by halftime. It was close the entire second half when the lead changed hands several times and the teams were never separated by more than a basket or two. Thief River Falls began senior the fourth quarter with a 43-42 edge.

It was tied 53-53 with 1:30 remaining when a lane violation erased an East Grand Forks free throw. The Green Wave missed the second shot, too, and the game went into overtime when the Prowlers missed on a flurry of activity around the basket in the final seconds of regulation time. Cindy Kruta had a steal and a fast break lay-up with 10 seconds left, but missed the shot. Larua Beito grabbed the rebound, but missed her shot, too. Kelly Cornell then came up with a rebound and put up a five-footer that was in and out of the basket at the buzzer.

Thief River Falls won it in overtime when Beito hit a turnaround jumper with 2:30 remaining to overcome an earlier East Grand Forks free throw. The Prowlers killed off most of the final two minutes of overtime, and Cornell hit the first of a two-shot foul opportunity with six seconds left to complete the scoring.

It was a very physical ball game, explained Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. East Grand Forks ran into early foul trouble when center Denise Hawthorne had four fouls and forward Tami Wills picked up three in the first half. The Prowlers capitalized by making 9 of 16 first half free throw opportunities.

Hawthorne picked up her fifth foul in the third quarter and sat out until early in the fourth quarter. Wills also picked up fouls No. 4 and No. 5 in the third quarter and sat out until the fourth quarter. Diana Chase joined them in the five-foul category in the fourth quarter, while Cornell also collected five. All of the girls finished the game, though.

"We played tough ball the entire game," pointed out Schafer. "We didn't quit when it got tough in the second half. East Grand Forks was the best team we've seen this year. We were the first team to out-rebound them (33-30)."

Cornell finished with 20 points, including an 8-for-11 game at the free throw line. Beito had 12 points and Brenda Russell 11. Chase had 19 points and Hawthorne 12 for the Green Wave.

Thief River Falls was 22-for-64 from the field (34 per cent) and 12-for-28 at the free throw line (43 per cent), a figure pulled down by a poor 3-for-12 second half at the line. East Grand Forks was 21-for-58 from the field (36 per cent) and 12-for-20 at the line (60 per cent). The Green Wave topped the turnover figures 12-10.

Beito led the Prowlers with 12 rebounds. Cornell had 10.

TRF 48
Hallock-Kennedy 35

Thief River Falls ended the suspense of the tournament title game in a hurry with a 19-4 first quarter lead that wound up as a 48-35 Saturday night victory over Hallock-Kennedy.

"Hallock-Kennedy played a 1-3-1 zone, and we used excellent passing and shooting in the first half (16-for-32, mostly from 15-to-18 feet) to beat it," explained Thief River Falls coach Tom Schafer. "They started out very slow offensively, and we were able to build up a comfortable cushion that expanded to a 23-point lead in the third quarter."

Thief River Falls had a 33-17 halftime lead and maintained a 43-27 third quarter spread.

"They switched to a man-to-man defense in the third quarter, and we did not play offense very well against it," acknowledged Schafer, who figured fatigue might have also began to sink in since his starting five handled almost all of the playing time throughout the tournament.

Lisa Lillevold had her best game of the year, said Schafer, when the senior forward collected 10 points and 11 rebounds. She had 8 of those 10 points in the first half. Kelly Cornell scored 12 of her 14 points before intermission. Brenda Russell led the Prowlers with 16 points, along with eight assists. Linda Noel had 18 points for Hallock-Kennedy, getting 11 of those in the second half.

Thief River Falls was 22-for-55 from the field (40 per cent) and 4-for-9 at the free throw line (44 per cent). Hallock-Kennedy was 15-for-54 from the field (28 per cent) and 5-for-9 at the line (56 per cent). The Prowlers had a 31-16 rebound advantage and also topped the turnover charts, 13-8.

Hockey JV Squad Collects First Win

Thief River Falls junior varsity high school hockey team broke into the win column Saturday with a 6-1 conquest of East Grand Forks.

Bret Haugen scored a pair of goals for the winners, who led 1-0 after the first period and had a 3-1 lead through two periods.

Single goals came from Sean Krepp, Jason Bronkhorst, Grant Larson and Brad Olson.

It was the first win after two season-opening starts for the Thief River Falls squad.

Basketball Tournament

Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt looks for an interesting tournament this week as his Prowlers host their fourth annual Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

"It should be a competitive field. It has been the past three years," pointed out Hunt.

Defending champion Thief River Falls, Kennedy, Hallock and Marshall County Central all have legitimate title shots, figures Hunt. Roseau, Fertile-Beltrami and Middle River round out the eight-team field.

"We're the defending champions. I like that," quipped Hunt. "We're certainly as strong as anybody if we play good basketball. But we have to play hard to be successful."

First round match-ups Tuesday have Roseau playing Argyle, Fertile-Beltrami vs. Kennedy, Marshall County Central takes on Hallock and Thief River Falls meets Middle River. Championship round and consolation round semifinals are scheduled Friday, and finals are planned Saturday.

The Marshall County Central vs. Hallock game would appear to be the most interesting first round match-up, and coupled with the Prowlers-Skippers meeting, the evening session is expected to draw a good-sized crowd.

"We're looking forward to it," said Hunt. "It should be a fun time."

Northland Hockey

With a pair of weekend wins over Rainy River, the Northland Community College hockey team is off to a 6-0 start this winter, matching the Pioneers' best season-opening start ever.

Northland began the 1971-72 season — the school's second year of intercollegiate hockey — with a 6-0 record by beating the University of Minnesota-Crookston twice and Hibbing four times before losing Game 7 to Rainy River 7-4.

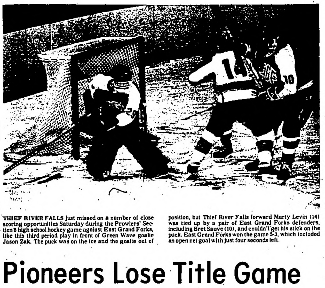
Coach Swede Lund's 1971-72 Northmen finished the year 13-11 and won the state tournament consolation championship.

Northland went 14-9-1 the following year for the most wins in school hockey history. Coach Scott Bergland's Northland squad was 12-7-2 last winter, and the Pioneers look to improve upon that mark this season.

The Pioneers will be treated to a post-holiday trip to the Chicago area January 3-4-5 when they will be matched up against the College of DuPage and Franklin Park, IL. They'll return to Minnesota Community College Conference action with a January 9-10 weekend series at Hibbing.

Miscellaneous

+ Detroit Lakes, which dropped its high school wrestling program after the 1981-82 school year, will add the sport immediately following action taken December 15 by the Detroit Lakes school board. In addition to adding wrestling, the board voted to add varsity softball for girls this spring. Ron Peterson, who serves as activities-public relation information director for Detroit Lakes Public Schools, will serve as the Lakers' head wrestling coach. "The new Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) rule which allows a wrestler to compete in 30 matches and more tournaments than in previous years should help us line up enough dual meets or tournaments to qualify our wrestlers for regional competition," Peterson told the Detroit Lakes Tribune.



THIEF RIVER FALLS just missed on a number of close scoring opportunities Saturday during the Prowlers' Section 8 high school hockey game against East Grand Forks, like this third period play in front of Green Wave goalie Jason Zak. The puck was on the ice and the goalie out of position, but Thief River Falls forward Marty Levin (14) was tied up by a pair of East Grand Forks defenders, including Bret Sauve (10), and couldn't get his stick on the puck. East Grand Forks won the game 5-3, which included an open net goal with just four seconds left.

Pioneers Lose Title Game

A split at the four-team Itasca Invitational Thursday and Friday left the Northland Community College men's basketball team right where the Pioneers started — at .500 for the year with a 4-4 record heading into a holiday schedule break.

Northland beat the University of Minnesota-Morris junior varsity 72-63 in the Thursday night semifinals, but lost to host Itasca 72-63 in the Friday night title game. Itasca opened with a 100-81 win over the Grand Forks Air Force Base team.

Morris won the third place game 87-84 over the Air Base.

It was the third invitational outing of the year for the Pioneers, who were runner-up finishers at Austin and third place finishers at Rainy River in earlier tournaments.

Northland will be idle until Saturday, January 10, when the Pioneers visit NDSU-Bottineau.

Northland 72
Morris JV 63

Northland broke open a close game with an 11-point run late in the second half to secure a 72-63 semifinal victory over the University of Minnesota-Morris Thursday night.

The Pioneers led 33-32 at the end of a first half that was played to the slower-paced tempo set by Morris. The Tigers had a 56-54 edge with 8:53 remaining in the game when the Pioneers broke off that 11-point run of points that produced a 65-56 lead with 3:34 remaining, and Morris never seriously threatened that lead the rest of the way.

Greg Campbell scored 17 points, Rodney Wilson 15 and Anthony McCullough 10 for the winners. Dave Kubat led Morris with 20 points.

Northland was 28-for-67 from the field (42 per cent) and 14-for-17 from the free throw line 82 per cent — an area that has given the Pioneers problems in the past. Morris was 23-for-64 from the field (36 per cent) and 10-for-13 at the line (77 per cent). The Pioneers had a 45-40 rebound edge and toppped the tournament figures 18-17.

Itasca 102
Northland 79

Itasca beat Northland for the second time in a week's time Friday, 102-79, for the Vikings' tournament title. The previous Friday it was Itasca 96, Northland 94 in the opening round semifinals of the Rainy River Invitational.

Itasca led 54-48 at halftime. Northland was within 75-68 with nine minutes led and still had a shot at 88-76 with four minutes to play, but netted just a field goal and a free throw the rest of the way while Itasca scored 14 points to win going away.

Greg Campbell, scored 21 points for the Pioneers, with Ray Davis netting 15, Anthony McCullough 12 and Morris Matthews 11. Donald Thompson, a 6-7 sophomore center, had a game-high 35 points for the winners.

Northland was 29-for-63 from the field (46 per cent) and 18-for-26 at the free throw line (69 per cent). Itasca was 36-for-79 from the field (46 per cent) and a busy 25-for-30 at the line (83 per cent). Itasca had a 45-43 rebound advantage.

EGF Wins 5-3 Section 8 Hockey Game . . .

Late-Game Goals Beat TRF

Wendell Grand tried his hand at juggling Saturday night, but the Thief River Falls coach wasn't able to come up with a magic game-winning combination, and the Prowlers lost a tough 5-3 Section 8 high school hockey decision to visiting East Grand Forks when the Green Wave scored twice in the final minute — including a final-inflating open netter by Bret Sauve closing it out at 14:56.

Thief River Falls started each period with a different line-up, in part due to shoulder injuries suffered by defenseman Jason Lee and center Jim Breiland. Lee suffered a shoulder bruise in practice Thursday. He is expected to play Tuesday when the Prowlers visit Bemidji. Breiland's shoulder popped out on him late in the second period of the game, not an uncommon occurrence for him, but there was some difficulty in putting the shoulder back in place this time, and he may be sidelined indefinitely.

The Prowlers started the game with three defensemen — Dave Johnson, John Dondelinger and Bill Dicken, with first line wing Scott Novak taking an occasional shift on the blue line. Each of the lines also had a different center as Grand put Bob Geatz between Novak and Blair Lund instead of Breiland, moving Breiland between Marty Levin and Jeff Grand. Rick Looker was switched from center to wing on the third line, where he was joined by newcomer Troy Hanestad at center and Chris Solheim at the other wing.

Novak went full-time on defense in the second period, putting Solheim with Geatz and Lund, while Chad Gunderson joined Looker and Hanestad.

Breiland's injury shoved Looker to center between Levin and Grand, while Sean Krepp was teamed with Hanestad and Gunderson.

Down the stretch in the third period the Prowlers became a two-line, three-defenseman hockey team when Novak rejoined Geatz and Lund.

"I thought it was a hard-fought hockey game," offered Grand. "I thought our kids did a good job, in spite of all the changes that took place."

A power play goal by Jeff Ransdell gave Eat Grand Forks a 1-0 lead at 5:37 of the first period when his rebound shot from the side caromed high off Shayne Anderson's shoulder and fell into the net behind the Thief River Falls goalie.

Dicken tied it at 1-1 just 61 seconds into the second period when he stole the puck at center ice, came in all alone on East Grand Forks netminder Jason Zak, made a move and put the puck in the net.

East Grand Forks regained the lead when Tim Jerome scored off a face-off to Anderson's right at 12:32 of the second period, beating the goalie high for a 2-1 edge.

It became 3-1 when Dan Parker scored on his own rebound at 4:39 of the third period. His first shot on what started out as a 3-on-1 rush, came right back out to Parker off Anderson's pads and he scored on the second opportunity.

Thief River Falls, unable to capitalize on several earlier scoring opportunities, finally struck for a power play goal by Geatz at 10:22 to make it a close 3-2 game. Geatz took a drop pass from Lund near the boards, walked in on Zak and hit the upper corner with a wrist shot.

Just 40 seconds later it was a 3-3 tie when Looker picked up a loose puck in the slot and slammed one in on the ice under Zak.

Anderson, who stopped Don Riendeau on a penalty shot in the first period and came up with a big point-blank save on Parker in the second period, stopped Parker again with 2:49 remaining to maintain the tie. Zak, who had lucked out earlier in the period when Novak hit the post on a rush with 8:20 to play and Lund, after a burst through the defense, had the puck roll off the end of his stick with 5:51 on the clock, got a piece of Johnson's slap shot from the point that just trickled wide of the net with 45 seconds remaining.

Then with just 24 seconds to go, Riendeau stole the puck at center ice, shook himself free from a defender who had him tied up momentarily, and picked a corner on Anderson for the game-winning goal.

Sauve hit the open net from center ice with just four seconds on the clock.

"I thought we really put the pressure on them in the third period," mentioned Grand, "but the puck just didn't bounce right for us, or we could have easily won the game."

The Prowlers wound up out-shooting the Green Wave 38-29.

Thief River Falls fell to 1-2 with the loss, their first Section 8 outing after splitting a pair of games against Grand Forks Central (5-2 TRF win) and Grand Forks Red River (5-3 TRF loss).

Huskies Lose 55-42 Basketball Contest

Goodridge lost a 55-42 decision at Warren Tuesday in a late-reported boys high school basketball game.

Warren had a 21-10 first quarter lead, then held off Goodridge at the next two stops, 29-23 and 39-33. The Huskies were still within six points through most of the fourth quarter before losing ground at the end.

Shawn Groven had a 20-point, 14-rebound game for the Huskies, who shot 46 per cent from the field (16-for-35) and 71 per cent at the free throw line (10-for-14). Warren shot 47 per cent from the field (23-for-49) and 60 per cent at the line (9-for-15).

It was the fourth straight season-opening loss for the Huskies.

Northland Hockey Team Tops Fergus Falls 8-6 . . .

Pioneers Rally, Beat Spartans

Fergus Falls stunned Northland by scoring four times in the game's first 6½ minutes, but it wasn't a knock-out punch, and the Pioneers were able to bounce off the canvas — er, ice — to defeat the Spartans 8-6 in a Minnesota Community College Conference hockey game Wednesday at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena.

It was the Pioneer's 1986-87 home opener, and their fourth straight season-opening win, a streak that certainly looked to be in jeopardy when the Spartans began with the 4-0 headstart.

Todd Bork caught Northland goalie Dean Hanson by surprise with a quick shot from the side of the net for a 1-0 lead at 2:30. Brian Galley finished off a 3-on-1 rush at 4:01 and Mike Gothier scored on a point-blank rebound at 4:54 against a shaken Northland defense.

The hole got bigger when Galley was allowed to skate through the slot area untouched and beat Hanson cleanly at 6:38.

"They (Pioneers) just weren't ready to play," said Northland coach Scott Bergland in describing his team's shaky start. "But I kept harping, don't panic, don't panic. We hung in there, got a couple of lucky goals to get us going and did a pretty good job in coming back to win."

Northland tied the game 4-4 before the first period ended. Chad Bottem scored on a rebound at 12:36 off Bill Desrocher's shot from the point to start the comeback. A fluke goal by Tony Hagen made it 4-2 at 16:12 when his shot from center ice hit the boards behind the Fergus Falls net, bounced off the skates of Fergus Falls goalie Mike Heck before he could even turn around to find the puck, and caromed into the net.

Bottem scored again at 16:48 when he took a pass from behind the net from Hagen and put a point-blank backhand past Heck. Al Erickson tied it at 4-4 when he lifted the puck over the goalie and just under the crossbar at 18:19.

An eight-goal first period was followed by a two-goal second stanza when Northland out-shot Fergus Falls 31-10 in taking control of the action, if not the scoreboard. Fergus Falls' Nick Kern completed a nice-looking 2-on-2 rush for a 5-4 lead at 5:39, but Northland's Lee Hamre tied it again at 5-5 on a rebound shot at 9:54 when Heck, a freshman from Willmar got caught in a tangle of players in front of the net and was turned around.

First Northland lead of the night came at 11:03 of the third period when the Pioneers caught the Spartans on a line change. Steve Wiskow, part of a 3-on-1 Northland rush, came in on Heck all alone and caught the far corner for a 6-5 edge.

Eric Anderson padded the Northland lead at 14:28 when he won a face-off just outside the Fergus Falls blue line, slipped around the opposing center, split the defense and tucked the puck between the netminder's pads.

Wiskow then secured the victory with a shorthanded goal at 17:19. Erickson stole the puck off the stick of a Fergus Falls defenseman as he tried to break out out his zone and attacked Heck 1-on-1. Erickson was stopped, though, and so was Wiskow on the rebound. But Wiskow's second shot finally got through for an 8-5 cushion.

Bork, who began all the scoring back in the first period, finished the scoring, too, making it 8-6 at 18:45, moments after a Northland penalty had expired.

There was just six minor penalties called during the game — four on the Pioneers.

Scoring

First period — FF, Todd Bork (un.), 2:30; FF, Brian Galley (Nick Kern-Ryan Anderson), 4:01; FF, Mike Gothier (Eric Nelson-Anderson), 4:54; FF, Galley (un.), 6:38; NCC, Chad Bottem (Bill Desrocher-Joe Blankenfeld), 12:36; NCC, Tony Hagen (un.), 16:12; NCC, Bottem (Hagen-Steve Mahoney), 16:48; NCC, Al Erickson, (Hagen-Steve Wiskow), 18:19.

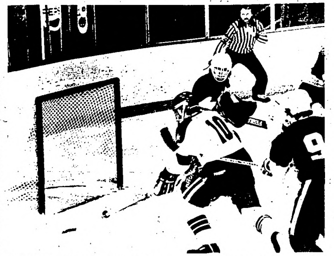
Goalie saves — NCC — Dean Hanson 12-9-11, 32; FF — Mike Heck 21-30-19, 70.



CHAD BOTTEM, a sophomore forward from Thief River Falls, reached for a rebound behind Fergus Falls goalie Mike Heck and put the puck into the open net for Northland's first goal during Wednesday's Minnesota Community College Conference hockey game at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. The Pioneers trailed 4-0 until Bottem scored. He scored later in the game, too, as Northland rallied for an 8-6 victory over the Spartans.

Northland Sweeps Hockey Series From Rainy River

Unbeaten status of the Northland Community College hockey team remained intact over the weekend as the Pioneers swept Rainy River 8-3 and 5-1 in a Minnesota Community College Conference series at International Falls.

Coach Scott Bergland's Northland squad will take a schedule break until the Pioneers travel to the Chicago, IL area January 3 and 4 when they will face DuPage and Franklin Park teams.

Northland 8
Rainy River 3

Chad Bottem and Brian Nelson both scored two goals Saturday night as Northland opened the weekend series with an 8-3 victory over Rainy River.

Nelson, a freshman defenseman from East Grand Forks, scored twice in the first period as the Pioneers grabbed a 4-1 lead. Bottem, a sophomore forward from Thief River Falls, opened the scoring at the six-minute mark of the first period.

Northland had a 7-2 lead through two periods, and the two teams traded third period goals.

Steve Ristau, Joe Blankenfeld, Steve Wiskow and Troy Miller scored single goals for the Pioneers, who out shot the Voyageurs 53-34.

Goalie saves — NCC, Kurt Chaffee 14-6-11, 31; RR — Bucky Jenson 15-18-12, 45.

Northland 5
Rainy River 1

Northland completed the sweep by beating Rainy River 5-1 Sunday afternoon as Chad Swendseid, a sophomore defenseman from Grand Forks Central, scored a pair of goals.

Steve Wiskow gave Northland a 1-0 lead at 14:38 of the first period. It stayed that way until Russ Cagnoni and Swendseid scored second period goals for a 3-0 cushion.

Swendseid scored again to start the third period and Al Erickson closed out the Northland scoring at 14:43. Bill Desrocher and Wiskow both collected three assists.

High School Girls Basketball . . .

Skippers Top Tigers 51-42

Middle River girls completed the 1986 portion of their 1986-87 high school basketball schedule with a 5-2 record Thursday by beating Greenbush 51-42.

Rayette Benke scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds for the host Skippers. Stacie Sparby contributed 10 points and 10 rebounds. Kim Langaas led Greenbush with 11 points.

The two teams played to a 10-10 first quarter tie, but Middle River opened up a 28-21 halftime lead and made it 36-27 in the third quarter.

Middle River was 21-for-51 from the field (41 per cent) and 9-for-18 at the free throw line (50 per cent). Greenbush went 16-for-52 from the field (31 per cent) and 10-for-17 at the line (59 per cent). The Skippers had a big 44-20 rebound advantage.

"They (Skippers) played a pretty good ball game," said Middle River coach Steve Larson. "They've been improving every game."

Middle River will be idle until Monday, January 5, when the Skippers visit Roseau.

— News From Minnesota DNR —

Five bald eagles, two peregrine falcons, five trumpeter swans and several hawks and owls were among the victims of the 1986 hunting season.

Number of protected birds wounded by shotgun pellets and brought in to the University of Minnesota's raptor clinic increased significantly during the last hunting season and is at the highest level since 1981, said Carrol Henderson, nongame supervisor for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"There is no excuse for this illegal killing," Henderson said. "Birds of prey like bald eagles resemble no legal game birds. Many of these incidents are simply gun vandalism. In the case of the trumpeter swans, the teenagers who shot one said they thought the swans were snow geese, but it's just a poor excuse for not knowing what they were shooting," he said. Trumpeter swans weigh about 25 pounds — five times the size of snow geese.

Five trumpeter swans were killed in mid-October. One was wounded and another is missing. Trumpeter swans are rare and are protected by state and federal laws.

Among the wounded birds turned in this fall to the University of Minnesota's Raptor Research and Rehabilitation Program are the five eagles, two peregrine falcons, six red-tailed hawks, one northern harrier (marsh hawk), one turkey vulture and one barred owl. These birds, too, are protected by state and federal laws. All were wounded by shotguns and were turned in from throughout the state.

"The birds being turned in are just a small index of the total number being killed," Henderson said he wasn't sure why more wounded birds were turned in this year.

"Responsible sportsmen far outnumber the careless or malicious people who shoot protected birds," Henderson said. "But the single blast of a shotgun can destroy thousands of dollars worth of effort to restore bald eagles, peregrine falcons and trumpeter swans."

Henderson also mentioned that state law prohibits trappers from setting leghold traps within 20 feet of exposed bait or carrion that might attract soaring birds of prey. This law protects eagles, hawks and other carrion feeders, Henderson said.

Boys Basketball Tournament . . .

Goodridge Title Won By Cardinals

Plummer defeated Grygla 51-40 and beat Goodridge 60-53 to win the Goodridge Invitational boys high school basketball tournament staged Thursday and Friday.

Grygla rebounded from its semi-final loss to Plummer for a 49-41 third place game victory over Oklee, a 58-40 loser to Goodridge in first round play.

An all-tournament team announced at the conclusion of the tournament Friday night included Wade Grinde and Shane Freyholtz of Plummer, Shawn Groven of Goodridge, Chris Solien of Oklee and Reed Engelstad of Grygla.

Plummer 51
Grygla 40

A Plummer surge late in the first half sparked the Cardinals to a 51-40 tournament-opening win over Grygla Thursday.

Grygla led 8-6 at the end of the first quarter and trailed just 10-9 at one point of the second quarter before it became 24-14 at the half. The Cardinals out-scored the Eagles 8-0 the final two minutes of the first half. Grygla got it back to 33-29 by the end of the third quarter, but could never fully recover from that earlier scoring drought.

"We played a poor three minutes of basketball that dug us a hole," pointed out Grygla coach Vern Johnson. "Other than that, I thought we played all right. We've got to strive for some consistency so we don't get into a lapse like that."

Shayne Freyholtz led Plummer with a 23-point, 15-rebound game. Neil Huotari added 10 points to the Cardinals' total. Reed Engelstad scored 18 points and Chris McLean 10 for the Eagles.

Grygla shot just 23 per cent from the field (15-for-66), while Plummer shot 37 per cent (19-for-52). The Eagles were 10-for-17 at the free throw line (59 per cent), where the Cardinals were 13-for-23 (57 per cent). Gyrgla charts showed the Eagles with a 33-29 rebound advantage, but also had them atop the turnover charts 21-15.

Scoring

Goodridge 58
Oklee 40

Goodridge snapped a season-opening five-game losing streak by beating Oklee 58-40 in Thursday's opening round semifinals of the Huskies' Invitational.

"We didn't choke down the stretch this time," mentioned Goodridge coach John Rahn, who watched his team blow opportunities to win several of those earlier games. "Those early losses will maybe pay dividends down the line. I thought the boys played well."

Goodridge had quarter leads of 14-6, 24-19 and 42-25.

Shawn Groven scored 28 points and had 10 rebounds for the Huskies, while teammate Roger Coan contributed 14 points and 11 rebounds. Jeff Nelson led the Bobcats with 10 points.

Goodridge shot an even 50 per cent from the field (25-for-50) and shot 67 per cent at the free throw line (8-for-12). Oklee shot just 28 per cent from the field (15-for-58) and 62 per cent at the line (8-for-13).

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Goodridge	14	10	18	16	58
Oklee	6	13	6	15	40

Goodridge — Shawn Groven 28, Jeff Wayne 4, Roger Coan 14, Steve Kriel 2, Jeff Berg 8, Dean Wiskow 2. Oklee — Jeff Nelson 10, Chris Lindquist 2, Peter Branden 6, John Olson 2, Chris Solien 8, Ronnie Hamre 6, Jeff Johnson 6.

Plummer 60
Goodridge 53

Shane Freynoltz' height and inside scoring touch was too much for Goodridge as the 6-4 Plummer junior scored 27 points to lead the Cardinals to a 60-53 tournament championship game victory over the host Huskies Friday.

"It was a real good ball game," reported Goodridge coach John Rahn. "We were just out-manned inside. We couldn't stop the big guy. My kids did all I could ask for. They have nothing to be ashamed of."

Plummer jumped out to a 19-8 first quarter lead, but Goodridge cut the gap to 26-22 at halftime. The Cardinals made it 41-32 in the third quarter.

Neil Huotari and Wade Grinde joined Freyholtz in double figures for the winners with 14 and 10 points, respectively. Shawn Groven led Goodridge with 20 points.

Goodridge was 23-for-57 from the field (40 per cent) and 7-for-15 at the free throw line (47 per cent). Plummer was 22-for-48 from the field (46 per cent) and 16-for-27 at the line (59 per cent).

Both teams will be idle during the holidays. Plummer, 4-1, returns to action Tuesday, January 6, at home against East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. Goodridge, 1-6, will wait until Friday, January 9, to visit Oslo.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Goodridge	8	14	10	21	53
Plummer	19	7	15	19	60

Goodridge — Shawn Groven 20, Jeff Wayne 8, Roger Coan 11, Steve Kriel 10, Dean Wiskow 2, Paul Henrickson 2. Plummer — John Fisher 7, Dan Wichterman 2, Wade Grinde 10, Shane Freyholtz 27, Neil Huotari 14.

Grygla 49
Oklee 41

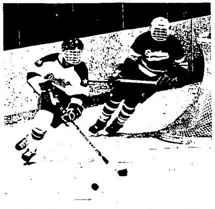
A 14-6 third quarter scoring edge proved to be the difference for Grygla Friday as the Eagles beat Oklee 49-41 in the tournament's third place game.

Grygla, 2-3, will wait until Tuesday, January 6, to play again, visiting Middle River that night.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Grygla	10	14	14	11	49
Oklee	10	16	6	9	41

Grygla — Chris McLean 5, Reed Engelstad 10, Jason Engelstad 14, Bruce Holte 11, Thor Smerek 8, Paul Holthusen 1. Oklee — Jim Vettleson 2, Jeff Nelson 7, Chris Lindquist 10, Peter Branden 4, John Olson 4, Chris Solien 10, Jeff Johnson 4.



BRINGING THE puck around the net, Northland defenseman Stacy Monkman, a sophomore from Roseau, looked to break out of his zone as Fergus Falls forward Eric Nelson gave chase during Wednesday's community college hockey game played at the Thief River Falls Sports Arena. The Pioneers claimed a come-from-behind 8-6 victory over the Pioneers.

Nordics Beat Bears

Four Marshall County Central scorers reached double figures Friday as the Nordics out-scored Lake of the Woods 74-61 in a boys high school basketball game played at Newfolden.

The North Border Conference victory put Marshall County Central at 2-1 for the year as Lee Pemberton scored 18 points, Darin Rokke 17, Danni Halvorson 15 and Kelly Dahl 11.

Marshall County Central had quarter leads of 15-12, 42-31 and 58-45.

"We did pretty well on offense all the way through, but our defense was a little sporatic," noted Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We were never really able to ice it, even though we had several chances to do that. We played too inconsistent."

Marshall County Central shot 43 per cent from the field (30-for-69) and 76 per cent at the free throw line (13-for-17). Lake of the Woods shot 39 per cent from the field (24-for-61) and 64 per cent at the line. The Bears had a 38-35 rebound advantage, but also had more turnovers, 19-14.

Ueland said Dahl played well off the bench for the Nordics, grabbing a team-high eight rebounds in additon to his 11 points. Dave Beyer led the Bears with 17 points.

Middle River 50
Roseau 44

A fourth quarter rally produced a 50-44 come-from-behind Middle River victory over visiting Roseau Friday.

It was the third straight win for the Skippers following a season-opening loss to Lake of the Woods.

Roseau led 16-9 at the end of the first quarter, held a 26-20 halftime edge and maintained a 37-30 third quarter spread before Middle River out-scored the Rams 20-7 over the final eight minutes.

Three Middle River scorers reached double figures as Tom Blazek collecteed 15 points, Brad Kilen 14 and Tom Gullikson 13.

"We played miserable the first three quarters," explained Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, pointing to poor shooting and turnovers. "We shot better, and we got a few steals to get us going in the fourth quarter."

Middle River was 17-for-50 from the field and 16-for-31 at the free throw line. Roseau was 18-for-51 from the field and 8-for-22 at the line. The Rams had a slight 30-29 rebound edge.

Scoring

EGF Rally Beats Freshman Squad

East Grand Forks out-scored Thief River Falls 17-8 in the fourth quarter Thursday to collect a 51-46 boys freshman basketball win.

Thiefriver Falls led 16-13 at the end of the first quarter, owned a 30-22 halftime lead and had a 38-34 third quarter edge.

It was a game in which host East Grand Forks went 9-for-16 at the free throw line, while Thief River Falls wasn't presented with a single free throw opportunity.

Kurt Kainz scored 18 points and Paul Lofberg 12 for the losers, who fell to 2-3 for the year.

Former Resident Gets MnDOT Post

Darryl Durgin, formerly of Thief River Falls, has been named assistant commissioner of the Minnesota department of transportation by Leonard W. Levine, new commissioner of the department. Durgin will succeed Douglas H. Differt who moves from that post to the deputy commissioner office.

Durgin, who has 28 years of experience with the department, will be assistant commissioner of the DOT's program management division. He and his wife Charlene are both originally from Thief River Falls. At the present he is deputy division director of the DOT's operations division. He has also been a Kittson county engineer and worked at MnDOT district offices at Bemidji and Brainerd.

A registered professional engineer who graduated from the University of North Dakota in 1959, Durgin will administer grant programs established by the legislature for local department of transit services and rail line rehabiliation, as well as rail, truck and transit regulations, rates and tariffs and programs for highway, rail, transit, waterway and bikeway transportation.

"The initial challenge for me will be dealing with the issue of the lack of a federal highway reauthorization bill," Durgin said in accepting the new appointment.

"The longer Congress delays passing a federal highway bill, the more likely it will be that highway construction projects in Minnesota will be delayed. For example, if the federal government has no highway bill by April 1, some $70 million in projects won't be let by MnDOT. If there is no highway bill by October 1, another $90 million in Minnesota contracts won't be let."

County And City To Receive Funds For Local Government

Area governmental units including cities, counties and townships will be receiving substantial funds from the state government soon if the checks have not already been received. The state revenue department has mailed out checks totaling $314.7 million in local government aid, homestead credits and other miscellaneous credits to local government units throughout the state.

The total included $155.2 million in local government aid payments, $157.6 million in homestead credit and $1.9 million in miscellaneous credits, such as wetlands, agricultural preserves and enterprise zones.

Pennington county will receive $328,835.69, according to the commissioner of revenue office. Marshall county will receive $250,690.31; Red Lake county, $141,978.08; Roseau county, $245,612.35; Polk county, $717,314.77; and Beltrami county, $704,760.

City of Thief River Falls will receive $511,268.80; Crookston, $755,092.62; East Grand Forks, $658,102.76; Roseau, $118,157.51; Warroad, $55,710.45; Red Lake Falls, $147,359.34; and Bemidji, $891,342.61.

Other area communities and amounts they are to receive include:

Jaycees Complete 1986 Operation Christmas Sat.

Thief River Falls Jaycees completed another Operation Christmas event Saturday when a number of underprivileged community youngsters were provided with money and adult assistance to purchase gifts for members of their families.

Children met at United Methodist church and were paired with their adult chaperones prior to leaving on the Trinity Lutheran church bus driven by Ward Sinn for the local Kmart store where employees donated their time in assisting the shoppers and gift wrapping the selections. The children also were served breakfast at the store.

Following the shopping and gift wrapping, the group returned to United Methodist church where Christmas stockings and treats were distributed before parents picked up the children. Assistance was provided by the Thief River Falls Women of Today and Debbie Erickson, Miss Thief River Falls.

Local School Plan Was Bush Fellow's Program

Participation by Dr. Leo Ruberto in the Bush Public School Executive Fellow program has resulted in development of a five-year plan for the Thief River Falls schools and an increased awareness of the value of continuing education.

Dr. Ruberto, superintendent of School District 564, completed the 18-month program which involved 36 days of training on November 21. He received the program completion award plaque at the end of a one-week session conducted at the historic St. James hotel at Red Wing.

Part of the overall advanced education and training program was the development of a project, approved at the start of the project by the local board of education, and its development over the time period covered by the course. Dr. Ruberto's project was "Future Focus: A Five-Year Plan for Instructional Improvement" which is now part of the local school district's plan for the future.

Three things listed by the superintendent as most valuable from the Bush school executive fellow program were the following:

(1) All participants in the program received training in strategic long range planning to assist in shaping the future of education in their school districts and communities;

(2) Bush Fellows were taught a wide variety of small group techniques to use as management tools in accomplishing objectives and instilling action where needs are determined to exist; and

(3) Individuals in the program received extensive analysis of their personal relationships with others, gaining insight on the perception others have of the way they conduct themselves and express themselves in groups and one-to-one contacts.

About 100 school administrative people apply for acceptance to the program each year and only 25 are accepted (there were 26 in Dr.

SUPERINTENDENT of Thief River Falls public school, Dr. Leo Ruberto, shows two of the results of his participation in the 18-month Bush Public Schools Executive Fellows program. In his left hand is the five-year plan for the local school district which he developed using techniques learned in the program and as part of the objective of the program. In his right hand is the engraved plaque he received signifying completion of the course November 21.

HEAVY FOG on Friday night left the Times area coated in a glistening layer of frost Saturday morning, a condition which persisted throughout most of the day, aided by slowly rising temperatures and absence of wind. In some cases tree branches were coated so heavily they had begun to sag. The frost built up on any outdoor object and transformed it from the ordinary into the spectacular. A couple of examples are shown in the photos above which represent only two of millions of scenes which could have been photographed on Saturday.

Prenatal Classes Begin Jan. 5 At Medical Center

Winter prenatal classes at Northwest Medical center will begin Monday, January 5, in Meeting Rooms H1 and H2. Registrations are being taken now, and only a limited number of registrations are available.

These classes are co-sponsored by the Northwest Medical center and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute and last for five consecutive weeks. These are not prepared childbirth classes, but include much of the basic information about pregnancy and are highly recommended for those in their first and second trimesters.

The classes provide parents and parents-to-be, married or single, with the information that promotes healthy babies and gives new families a good beginning. There is no cost for these classes. The instructor is Evadell Tangquist, R.N. For more information or to register, call 681-4240, extension 359 or 446.

Nancy Halvorson-David Kragness Wed At Bethlehem-Newfolden

The Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden was the setting for the June 14 wedding uniting Nancy Kay Halvorson and David Allan Kragness, Jr. Rev. Steve Estrem and Rev. Dick Ewing officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Loretta Halvorson of Viking and Gene Halvorson of Warren and Mr. and Mrs. David Kragness, Sr. of Newfolden.

Sheila Nelson, Newfolden, friend of the couple, served as organist. Immediately preceding the ceremony she accompanied the bride as she sang "Tonight I Celebrate My Love" to the groom.

Processional and recessional were "Canon In D." A quartet of Mark Jorgenson, Jim Pederson, Deland Elseth and Bruce Elseth sang "My Only Love," and Mark Halvorson, brother of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her mother and father. The chancel of the church was decorated with large ivory lace fans, greenery and peach bows. On either side of the altar were seven-branched brass candelabra with greens and peach satin bows.

The bride wore a gown of antique ivory satin, appliqued with Alencon lace and beaded with pearls and sequins. The gown was fashioned with a V-neckline and court sleeves, accented with ivory lace gloves. The dropped torso flowed to a full Cinderella skirt graced with satin bows and a cathedral-length train. The bridal gown was designed and made by her sister, Jodie Holthusen.

To compliment her gown, the bride wore an antique ivory hat trimmed with sprays of pearls, satin roses and Russian veiling, designed by her mother. Her jewelry was composed of diamond earrings and her maternal grandfather's golden ring. She carried a large ivory lace fan arranged with a bouquet of peach roses, ivory stephanotis, peach daisies and carnations and babies' breath. Her personal attendant was Dee Dee Stenberg.

Jodie Holthusen, Viking, served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Tammie Magner, Newfolden, sister of the bride; Tami Wilcox, Thief River Falls, friend of the couple; and Andrea Kragness, sister of the groom. All wore tea length gowns of antique ivory satin, fashioned with a large peach taffeta bow at the hipline.

They wore gifts from the bride, pearl earrings, and carried bouquets of peach roses, carnations and stephanotis arranged on ivory lace fans interspersed with babies' breath. Wedding flowers were arranged by the mother of the bride.

The groom wore sable tails and ivory shirt with peach cummerbund, and a bow tie matching the sable satin lapels. His boutonniere was a peach rose with ivory babies' breath.

Best man was Nathan Lindgren, Climax, cousin of the groom. Serving as groomsmen were Brad Nash, Warroad, friend the groom; Steve Boe, Newfolden, friend of the groom; and Jon Kragness, Newfolden, brother of the groom. All wore sable tuxedos with ivory shirts and peach cummerbunds and boutonnieres of peach roses and babies' breath.

Ushers were Danni Halvorson, Viking, brother of the bride; Danny Lindgren, Climax, cousin of the groom; and Jason Magnuson, Hillsboro, ND, cousin of the groom. They also wore sable tuxedos with matching cummerbund and bow tie, and peach carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a tea length gown of ivory linen and lace. The groom's mother wore a tea length gown of mint green. They were presented with corsages of peach roses and babies' breath.

Guests of honor were grandparents of the couple, Hannah Halvorson, Clarice Sherva, Earl and Verona Kragness and Lucille Garness; godmother of the groom, Carole Larson; and godparents of the bride, Lowell and Char Halvorson.

The two-tiered wedding cake was baked and decorated by Char Halvorson, Barnesville, godmother of the bride, and decorated with peach roses and greenery on ivory icing. The cake was topped with two ivory wedding doves and a silver Cristogram with entwined rings. The cake was cut and served by the groom's godmother, Carole Larson, and the bride's godmother, Char Halvorson. Pouring were Yvonne Magnuson and Lynnae Halvorson.

Host couples for the reception were Ron and Julie Kragness, aunt and uncle of the groom, and Davin and Baryth Halvorson, cousin of the bride, and Julie Halvorson, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the punch bowl, with Janelle Sather, friend of the bride, in charge of registering the guests.

Gift carriers were nieces of the bride, Mandi Halvorson, Erika Halvorson, Shanon Magner and Erin Holthusen. Waitresses were Christine Vogt, Danette Halvorson and Yvonne Halvorson.

Out of town guests were from Spokane, WA; Fargo, ND; and Moorhead, Pelican Rapids, Bemidji, Climax, Ada, Hendrum, Shelly, Crystal, Detroit Lakes, Frazee, Edina, Barnesville and Oklee.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the couple is at home at 7330 Gallagher Drive, Apt. 232B, Edina. The groom is employed with the Pillsbury company in Minneapolis and the bride at Aamundson Mortgage company in Edina. The bride is a graduate of Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden, as is the groom. He is also a graduate of Mayville state college.

Kvikstads To Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

The children of Victor and Eula Kvikstad of this city invited all family and friends to join them in the celebration of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary. They were married December 16, 1936, in Duluth.

There will be an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Best Western motel Sunday. The family requests no gifts, please.

Public Invited To Enjoy Christmas At Telemarken

Annual "Christmas at Telemarken" will be held Sunday at Telemarken Lutheran church, seven miles southwest of Goodridge, at 2:30 p.m.

A program of audience singing, special musical selections, readings and a meditation by Arthur Grimstad, lay assistant at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, will be given.

Following the program, a lunch of Christmas goodies, coffee and apple cider will be served. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Society Of Foresters Have Christmas Party

The National Catholic Society of Foresters met for their potluck Christmas party December 17, with 34 people attending. Special guests were Srs. Doreen, Mardelle, Rachel, Caroline, Judith and Ruth. Each member brought cookies to be taken to the rest homes. The evening ended with a gift exchange by the members.

Jr. Foresters Visit With Santa Saturday

The Junior National Catholic Society of Foresters Christmas party was held Saturday at St. Bernard's church hall. Christmas games were played, followed by the reading of the Christmas story and caroling. A pizza lunch was served and Santa Claus paid a visit later in the afternoon.

Christmas Party Held By Rise & Shine Group

The Rise and Shine home study group met December 10 to study a lesson on the safety of our food supply, given by Lorraine Mosbeck. Roll call was taken by the naming of a Christmas tradition. Homemakers creed was read by all.

Secretary and treasurer's reports were read by Norma Swanson. Lunch was served by the hostess and door prize was won by Erna Scholin. A gift exchange highlighted the afternoon festivities. Offerings for November and December were sent to Operation Merry Christmas in Fergus Falls.

Attending were Gladys Hallstrom, Betty Tollefson, Erna Scholin, Mae Naplin, Lorraine Mosbeck, Janice Noreen, Marilyn Swanson, June Mosbeck, Doris Swanson, Shirley Sorvig and Norma Swanson.

January meeting will be held the fourteenth at the Betty Tollefson home at 9:30 a.m. Lesson will be "Planning for Retirement-Investment Options," given by Gladys Hallstrom.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Bottem of Tucson, AZ, announce the birth of a baby daughter December 18. Her name is Bryanna Olivia. She is welcomed home by a brother, Kyle. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bottem of Thief River Falls.

Keimig Resigns As Medical Center Finance Officer

Richard Spyhalsi, president and chief executive officer of Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls has announced the resignation of Edmund L. Keimig as chief financial officer.

Keimig has accepted the position of vice president for finance at Voluntary Health Services in Red Wing effective Jan 23, 1987.

Keimig has been the chief financial officer at Northwest Medical center for the past four years and is attributed with a large part of the facility's success. Spyhalski notes that "as a member of senior management, Ed played a leadership role in securing our Medicare sole community provider status, obtaining numerous energy conservation grants, providing direction in the implementation of diagnostic related groups (DRGs) and nursing home case mix management along with many other accomplishments too numerous to mention."

Keimig states his reasons for accepting the new position include a desire to relocate to a community in closer proximity to family members and the professional opportunity to serve as the chief financial officer of a larger health care organization.

School Plan Was Bush Foundation Fellow Project

Ruberto's class). Included are school superintendents, AVTI directors, senior central office executives and those with similar positions in administration. One of the state's associate commissioners of education was in Dr. Ruberto's class, along with two of the other finalists for the Thief River Falls school superintendency when Ruberto was selected.

The program has been offered for 10 years with the 11th class now beginning training, the superintendent said. It is funded by the Bush Foundation and administered through the Minnesota Association of School Administrators with Dr. John Mauriel as foundation director. Each participant receives a $1,200 stipend for developing the service project for his or her local district, and Dr. Ruberto used his funding for surveying and related work in developing the five-year plan. Value of training each participant receives is placed at $13,000 and includes speakers and group leaders from education and industry who conduct the several sessions involved in the training.

Dr. Ruberto said his program began with a two-week program at Telemark in Wisconsin, followed by one week at Sugar Hills near Grand Rapids, three days at Spring Hill retreat near Wayzata, one week at Minnisuing training center in northwestern Wisconsin, one week at Ruttger's Lodge at Brainerd and one week at the St. James hotel in Red Wing. The training involved nine to 10-hour study days, he said, with a mid-day recreational break before late afternoon and evening sessions.

Each of the participants had his or her project reviewed by others in the group at each of the sessions, receiving suggestions for development or improvement. Written reports at the end of the training period become a part of the Bush Foundation library and are available as resource material to any of the people who have completed the program.

To be considered for the program, applicants must have at least five years of experience in educational administration and the potential of at least five more years of service after the course is completed. The program is the longest standing advanced professional training program for senior school executives in the United States. It was recently funded for the next three years with an allocation from the foundation of $1.2 million.

Applicants must also list their background and experience and write a several hundred word essay on their career goals and how they would expect to use the training received in their districts. Two-thirds of the members of Dr. Ruberto's class had doctoral degrees.

Dr. Ruberto said that the local board of education granted him the time to participate in the program with a view toward how the experience would help the district in the future. He said he personally believes strongly in the value of further training and will expect to influence decisions toward such activity by others in the district in coming years.

The local government aids are paid top counties, cities and townships to finance part of their governmental activities such as bridges, roads, fire and police service and ambulance services.

The money, from state-collected sales and income taxes, is distributed according to a formula set by the legislature. Distribution formula for the $155.2 million in local government aids takes into consideration population, property tax levies and valuations, the revenue department said.

Homestead credit payments are made to local governmental units to compensate for the difference between what a property owner paid in property taxes and the amount the tax would have been without the homestead credit. The homestead credit reduces a property-owner's tax bill by as much as $700 a year.

The state makes two payments a year to local communities. The first payment this year was made July 15 when $412.6 million was distributed to local government units. In previous years the payments were made in six installments.

Bookmobile Cuts Six Stops From Service To Area

Northwest regional library will discontinue six bookmobile stops in 1987 due to a decrease in state-aid funding. Stops eliminated will be the C. Carlson farm, Karlstad Nursing home, Strathcona and Plummer community stops and Kennedy and Lancaster schools.

The regional library board of directors made these cuts with regrets and will consider restoring them when the state funding is brought up to a level in which they can do so, according to library officials.

The regional library board also accepted a contract with the Arrowhead Library System in Virginia to provide bookmobile service to Williams effective in January of 1987. Proceeds from this contract will be used to purchase books for the bookmobile.

Deaths And Funerals

Hartley Peterson, 73

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. at Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt for Hartley Peterson, 73, who died Monday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls. Interment will be in the Holt cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of all arrangements.

Rev. Eugene Floistad officiated at the service, with Cecily Johnson as organist and Barb Geer singing "One Day At A Time" and "Trust In Me." The congregation joined in singing "Rock Of Ages" and "He Leadeth Me."

The family considered all of the deceased's old friends in Boy Scouting and his new found friends as honorary pallbearers. Active bearers were Kent Wagner, Kurt Wagner, Troy Peterson, Chris Peterson, Jeff Johnson, Ivan Johnson and Tom Super.

Hartley Rayfield Peterson was born Mar. 28, 1913, in St. Vincent, to Carl and Selma Eklund Peterson. The family moved to Crookston while he was young, and he attended school there. He then moved to Holt.

He was united in marriage Sept. 19, 1936, to Margaret Sagstuen in Holt. They made their home there and he worked as a bulk oil driver for Standard Oil and as a telephone operator until that office closed. He was involved in the Boy Scout program for many years and served as scout master. Margaret Peterson died Nov. 21, 1951.

Hartley Peterson is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ray (Kathleen) Wagner, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Gerald (Dianne) Pollock, Milwaukee, WI; one son, Donovan, Waverly, IA; seven grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Gordon (Vivian) Chaffee, Vergas; and one brother, Arnold, Minneapolis.

He was preceded in death by his parents; wife, Margaret; and two sons, Richard and David.

Stella (Thompson) Luczak, 84

Duluth — Services were held in Zion Lutheran church in Duluth for Stella Luczak, 84, who died December 17 there. Interment was at Oneota cemetery.

Stella Thompson Luczak attended high school and normal training in Thief River Falls and taught in rural schools for several years before moving to Duluth, where she has lived for 60 years.

Survivors include two sons, Thomas S. Erickson, Minneapolis, and Donald H. Erickson, Aurora; several step-children; two sisters, Edna Kuras, Duluth, and Gertie Johnson, Thief River Falls; and brother, Gustaf Thompson, Dallas, TX.

She was preceded in death by her husbands, Harry Erickson and Tony Luczak.

Regional Library Celebrates Year Of The Reader

On October 16, President Reagan signed a proclamation designating 1987 as the Year of the Reader. The Northwest regional library (NWRL) system through its branch libraries in Greenbush, Hallock, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Warren and Warroad plus the NWRL Bookmobile will celebrate this year with materials and programs centered on reading.

A special core collection of adult high interest-low vocabulary level books will be housed in the Thief River Falls public library, but will be available to all libraries in the Northwest regional library system. These books will be located in the adult section of the library, but will be marked with a special blue and white library logo sticker. This collection was made possible by a $1,500 matching grant from the Minnesota library foundation from Mardag Outreach grants and from approximately $2,000 raised by the regional library system through individual and organizational donations, donations from area community education boards, book sales and a book fair. This collection should be in place by late January of 1987.

The Hallock public library, in cooperation with the Hallock adult basic education, will establish an adult literacy center in the library. This center was made possible by a $400 matching grant from the Minnesota library foundation from Mardag outreach grants and from $400 raised from area community education groups and organizational and individual donations.

The Roseauy Area Friends of the Library will continue Project T.O.T. (Teaching Our Toddlers) in 1987. This project not only combats illiteracy by establishing the reading habit early in a child's life, but also identifies parents and other child caregivers who have problems with reading and puts them in contact with helping agencies.

Northwest regional library will also add to toddler book collections in Thief River Falls and Roseau and establish toddler book collections in the Greenbush, Godel Memorial (Warren), Hallock, Red Lake Falls and Warroad libraries as well as on the bookmobile. Parent and toddler storytimes (PAT sessions) will begin in January at the Thief River Falls library and are scheduled to begin in all other branch libraries — except the bookmobile — in the fall of 1987. A special newsletter reviewing children's books — "The Yellow Brick Road" — will be available from all NWRL libraries in 1987.

Karlstad auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles presented a donation to the library system which has been used to purchase new large print books. An updated listing of all large-print books owned by the Northwest Regional Library system will be available by mid-February 1987.

A special book and author dinner is also planned to celebrate the year of the reader. Will Weaver, author of "Red Earth, White Earth," will be the guest author. Book discussion series are also planned for Red Lake Falls, Godel Memorial and Roseau libraries in 1987.

For more information on what the Northwest regional library system is doing to celebrate the year of the reader, contact the Thief River Falls public library or the Northwest regional library headquarters at 101 East First Street, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

TRF Conservation Officer Doubles As Firefighter During Lunch

Four conservation officers, who stopped for lunch at a small cafe, had no idea that their lunch break would turn into a full-scale fire drill.

Officers Craig Backer, area supervisor at Thief River Falls, Paul Nelson of Red Lake Falls, Cliff Sjoland of Twin Valley and Allen Hansen of Crookston were working together the last weekend of deer season when they stopped for lunch at Mac's Cafe in Fertile.

Ten minutes after their arrival, a young man ran in yelling, "The cafe is on fire!"

The conservation officers wasted no time. Upon checking, they found the west wall of the cafe on fire.

Backer said, "Our foremost concern was the safety of people. We evacuated about 12 customers, cooks and waitresses from the cafe. We even checked out the washrooms."

With everyone safe, one officer went to call the Fertile Fire Department. The others grabbed fire extinguishers from their squad cars.

Smoke was pouring from the vents in the eaves and out of cracks in the building's siding as the officers rushed back to the burning wall.

The Cafe's owner had arrived on the scene and gave the officers permission to pull the siding off the wall.

"We were concerned that the fire would spread to the roof trusses. If it did, there would be no way to control it," Backer said.

The quick action by the four officers confined the fire to the wall and extinguished it before the Fertile Fire Department arrived.

"The fire apparently started after a cardboard box of ashes from a wood-burning stove had been set against the outer wall of the cafe. The ashes were still hot enough to ignite the wall," Backer said.

The officers, firefighting duties complete, returned to the cafe to finish their lunch.

Melander Earns St. Catherine's Honor Award

Winners of more than 100 College of St. Catherine endowed scholarships and prizes were honored along with scholarship donors at the second annual scholarship recognition day recently at the college.

Recipients are chosen annually on the basis of academic record and promise, field of interest and financial need. Julie Ann Melander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris N. Melander, 1806 Walsh Lane, Mendota Heights, and formerly of Thief River Falls, was the recipient of the Minnegaso scholarship. A 1983 graduate of Lincoln high school, Melander is a senior business administration-accounting and finance major.

Water Treatment Plant Closer To EPA Agreement

Beset with the problems of water turbidity and sludge pond overflow along with possible legal action from the Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA), Thief River Falls is working hard to reach a compliance agreement satisfactory to everyone.

Kenneth Murphy, city alderman and chairman of the utilities committee, said the committee is seeing excellent cooperation with the Minnesota department of health in drafting a compliance agreement satisfactory to all parties. Murphy said the Minnesota department of health worked closely with the city in drafting the agreement all day Thursday. While the health department has the power of enforcement it seems content to act in an advisory role instead, Murphy said.

Water turbidity or finely suspended particles in the water, while not necessarily dangerous, is measured against a standard used to determine safe water. There is no danger to the health of residents in Thief River Falls, Murphy said, although the water at times may appear cloudy.

The compliance agreement establishes a series of dates based on a sequence of events in the scheduled completion of the new water plant. Phase two construction at the water plant includes the construction of a large addition to the current plant located on Pennington avenue. A new pre-sedimentation base for tast, color and odor would be built along with two new primary softening units, and a new recarbonization basin. Completion of phase two would put Thief River Falls in compliance with federal EPA standards as well as state standards of health.

"Dates and guidelines are pretty much established," Murphy said. However, the agreement must first be submitted to the city council and the federal EPA for approval. "If they agree, we'll stay out of court. If the parties cannot agree, then we will probably end up in court," Murphy said. The compliance agreement will be submitted to the city council on January 13.

If everything goes as planned, Thief River Falls will come into compliance sometime in 1993, said Allen Lamm, supervisor of the city water department. A lot has yet to be done, Lamm said, but time lines for certain steps have been completed.

An associated problem at the water treatment plant is overflow from the sludge ponds into the river. Basically, the sludge ponds are nearing their capacity. Built in 1953, the ponds are nearly full and do not allow enough settling time. A drag line is now being used in the sludge ponds to clear away ice and allow for more storage and to keep discharge going.

The hardness from the water, which is removed from the water at the water treatment plant, is basically what the overflow from the sludge pond is, principally calcium-carbonate and magnesium-hydroxide. Because the sludge does not get the settling time it needs, it is ending up in overflow to the river. This overflow has been brought to the attention of the Minnesota Pollution control agency.

Lamm and Murphy are hopeful completion of the phase two project will put both problems into compliance with regulations.

Mesaba Offers Service At Fargo And In Illinois

Mesaba Aviation, Inc., will add the cities of Fargo, ND and Moline-Quad Cities, IL to its route system on January 15. Officials of the Minneapolis-based regional airlines said that the carrier will fly one daily round-trip flight to each city from Minneapolis-St. Paul initially utilizing 48-passenger Fokker F27 aircraft to Fargo and 19-passenger Metro III service to the Quad Cities.

Robert D. Swenson, President and CEO of Mesaba, said that he is confident the airline's new service to Fargo and the Quad Cities will be successful. He stated, "Our new service has been carefully scheduled to complement and add greater frequency to Northwest Airline's service in these markets. Our service will provide an excellent schedule for both local and connecting traffic to and from the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport."

Mesaba's January-February schedule changes include round-trip non-stop service to the Twin Cities from Lincoln, NE and Thief River Falls, and includes additional service to Sioux Falls, SD. In addition, Mesaba is adding larger 48-passenger Fokker F27 service to Grand Forks, ND and to the Central Wisconsin airport, serving Wausau and Stevens Point.

Academy Receives $1,000 Grant In "Lift" Program

Our Saviour's Christian academy in Thief River Falls has recently received $1,000 from Lutheran Brotherhood's Lift program, which supports Lutheran secondary education. The latest payment covers 10 gifts of Lutheran Brotherhood members during the fourth quarter of 1986.

The Lift program matches, on a percentage basis, Lutheran Brotherhood members' gifts of $25 to $100 per year to Lutheran high schools nationwide.

Since the beginning of the program in 1984, $3,850 has been received by the academy.

Jorde Is Awarded Scholarship For Products Judging

Mike Jorde, Pennington county 4-H club member, was the recipient of a $300 UMC achievement scholarship at the annual ag activities day sponsored by the agriculture division of the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC).

The UMC achievement scholarship was presented to Jorde for exceptional merit as high individual in consumer products judging.

Over 1,100 students and advisors from 4-H clubs, Future Farmers of America (FFA) chapters and high school agriculture departments from Minnesota and eastern North Dakota were on campus to compete in the 14 categories.

Judging contests and workships were held in the areas of consumer products, crops, soils, floriculture, horticulture, forestry, wildlife, horses, dairy cattle, general livestock, meats, dairy products, farm management and ag mechanics. An assembly was held at the conclusion of the contests to present the scholarships, plaques and ribbons to individual and team winners.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Rural Tax Time Bomb

Following editorial is from the Pope County Tribune at Glenwood:

Rural Minnesota is sitting on a time bomb of sorts with its current property tax structure.

From the time of the "Minnesota miracle" in 1971 on, property values in rural Minnesota increased so the increased costs of government were passed around.

In the late 1970s rural farmland values rocketed, and that somewhat offset increases in some property values that would normally have brought some loud voices of protest. Even farmers didn't complain about rising taxes too loudly because on paper, at least, they were showing net worth figures many had only dreamed about.

In the early 1980s the house of cards began to crumble, and 1987 will be one of the worst years. The agricultural economy started to slip, and that was followed by falling farmland values. But property tax valuations always follow drops in land values, and we are just starting to see what that means.

As governmental costs increased in the late 1970s and early 1980s, farmers picked up much of the increase while urban tax dollars paid remained relatively stable.

Now farmland values are rapidly decreasing so the shift that had farms picking up increases will be reversed; farms will shed some of their burden on urban taxpayers.

This wouldn't be a bad proposition if we had a property tax system that was more fair. Our property tax system plays favorites, assigning relatively low tax rates to farmers and homeowners while really socking business properties.

A commercial property pays four times the taxes a farm or home of the same value pays because there are no credits and because commercial properties have higher assessed valuations in relation to market values.

Say you have two properties, one a rural home and one an urban commercial property. Say the rural home taxes are decreased $200 and shifted to the urban commercial building. The homeowner would see a reduction of $84 ($114 of those taxes were paid by the state in the form of homestead credits). Taxes on the commercial building would go up over $200 because there are no credits for commercial property.

All of this will be happening when rural residents are looking toward commercial businesses for off the farm jobs. All of this will be happening while rural communities are seeking to move job-creating businesses into rural Minnesota. Rural communities will, in essence, be enticing businesses with one hand while holding a knife behind their backs in the other.

The wide disparity between various property tax classifications has never been justified. There is no correlation between taxation and ability to pay, and yet the system makes heavy demands on some classes of properties where ability to pay should be considered. Farmers have found out in the past couple of years what other commercial property owners have known for years; the property tax is far from a perfect tax.

Property tax reform needs to be near the top of the list of items for work by the 1987 legislature.

How Much Is Enough?

Following editorial from the Copley News Service was published recently in the Bemidji Pioneer:

This proposal, we suspect, is not one whose time has come.

According to a recent story in The Washington Times, a presidential commission will recommend pay raises of 46 per cent for Cabinet secretaries and 56 per cent for members of Congress and directors of agencies. The President's Quadrennial Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries will ask the president to include the raises in his 1988 budget.

Under a draft version of the report, federal employees at the level of a Cabinet secretary, who now make $88,000 would have their annual salaries boosted to as much as $130,000. Members of Congress, deputy Cabinet secretaries and agency directors would have their pay raised from $77,400 to about $120,000.

We would offer a couple of other figures for the commission to consider. One is $163 billion. That's the federal deficit the Office of Management and Budget anticipates for 1987 — if the economy grows at a rate of 3.5 per cent. If it grows at a rate of 2.5 per cent, the deficit will rise to $175 billion.

The other figure is $3.35 per hour. That's the minimum wage. Many of our working poor — teenagers on their own, workers displaced by plant closings or shutdowns, many working women — rely on that amount to put groceries on the table. Though it's not enough to keep them above the poverty line, they probably could teach our rarefied federal officials a thing or two about surviving on an inadequate income.

The System Works

It was entirely fitting and proper that a recount should have been conducted in the Seventh District Congress election, and it was just as fitting and proper that the results of the recount affirmed the results announced by the canvassing boards.

With only 121 votes separating the candidates out of nearly 188,000 votes cast, no one can question the advisability of a recount challenge. That recount showed, according to information in Collin Peterson's prepared remarks conceding the election, that there were over 900 counting errors discovered during the recount. Such a disclosure would seem to dispute the validity of county canvassing boards, but it also shows that the election system in Minnesota works.

Throughout the recount procedure Rep. Stangeland actually gained ground to increase his margin of victory, but the gain was only slight in relationship to the large number of ballots cast. Despite the counting errors, the honesty and integrity of the election judges was never questions, and that is a tribute to the system and the people who conduct it.

We commend Sen. Peterson for his decision to move for dismissal of the election contest and to inform the secretary of state's office so that Congressman Stangeland could receive his certificate of election and begin his sixth term on schedule. It was the proper thing to do and Sen. Peterson, although most certainly disappointed that his campaign efforts fell just short of the mark, proved himself to be a good citizen with a concern for his state and district. The system was allowed to work and we should all be pleased that it proved itself.

Interesting Opinions:

"You profess to be the 'watchdog of the county,' but even the incessant barking of a dog soon becomes very detrimental to the neighborhood."
—Fran Barb, Mille Lacs County Commissioner, in a letter to the Mille Lacs Messenger

"We must stand firm on the principle that if an article is legal to sell it is legal to advertise. That seems quite simple, yet it is being challenged. If people want to stop our citizens from smoking or chewing tobacco, then we strongly suggest they pass laws doing just that. After all, we have laws against use of illegal drugs, so it ought not be impossible to pass laws against the use of any tobacco. Or is it?"
—Forest Lake Times

"Teaching an old dog new tricks is simple compared to teaching me not to use words ending in 'man' when obviously I mean to include both sexes. I consider words such as foreman, chairman, etc., to be generic terms that include both sexes. To substitute 'person' for 'man' in these words seems to me to be contrived, an unidiomatic usage. But I guess everybody is out of step but me. A while back I used the word newspaperman and Linda Falkman (manager of the Minnesota Newspaper association) tripped me by asking if the subject didn't also apply to newspaperwomen. Of course it did and I apologize to all my feminist friends. Thank you, Linda Falkperson."

Norma Hanson of Goodridge Asks "Have We Taken The Creativity Out Of Christmas?"

As Christmas draw near, I look back and think of the days when our son was growing up. His list of "wants" were a mile long and many of them were not "cheapies." Things like "I want an airplane with a motor that runs" and that we got him but he never flew it because he thought it would crash land.

Then there were the army guns — ones that shot wooden bullets. And then of course one must have the "army" uniform to go with it. He was interested in military stuff and often said that he'd like to be a General some day. How true — his room for weeks on end looked like a battle field. The floor was completely covered with plastic figures of Indians and cowboys and the defense line was set up with those modern looking plastic army figures, all holding strategic positions. I know, because I was asked to "play army" many times.

As the years slipped by, his toys became more expensive; things like "real" motorcycles, cars and snowmobiles. We now call it all progress.

I wonder. Could it be that we have robbed our children of the infinite joy of creating — just as we have robbed our kitchens of real cooks with our frozen this and packaged that? It is downright hard for me to take pride in a cake that came out of a cellophane bag, adding a little liquid — although I must admit they are nice to have on hand.

As I look back to my "Christmas Wants" list there is just no comparison. I came from a comfortable home but none of the kids expected fancy toys, or for that matter any toys at all. Most of the time it was clothes and a few games. Many of our gifts were "homemade."

Dollhouses were the delight of most girls although it wasn't my bag. I'd rather have some rope to play cowboy, some western style clothes and a good supply of Zane Grey books.

I did play with paper dolls. We kids would cut them out of magazines, old catalogs and I kind of remember that one magazine used to have some paper dolls in it. Was it the "Saturday Evening Post" or the "Country Gentlemen?" We would act out all kinds of scenes — even weddings — furnishing the dialogue and moving the dolls about like very elementary puppets. If we should be lucky to get a new supply under the tree this "old stuff" went in the wood stove.

Dad was handy to make things for us. In the winter we had homemade sleds, toboggans and skis. Dad would bring these things out of hiding on Christmas eve and our eyes would light up like stars. One year Dad made us a merry-go-round on the ice. There was a pond down over the hill from the house and we spent most of Christmas school vacation that first year we had it on that pond. Dad had driven a post into the mud before the pond froze over. From this was fastened a long pole and to the end of it we would have to tie our sled or tobaggan. Of course someone would have to push the pole around, but with a bit of speed on, you sometimes literally flew.

Oh, no doubt the spoiled children of today would think an old-fashioned Christmas was too dull for words. But I know it was a blessed one and if it could only come back to the world, human beings would have grateful memories. I doubt very much, though, if many of us would like to relive the past. It's more fun to talk about it.

Turning Back
Thief River Falls THE TIMES

1916 - 70 YEARS AGO

Police Chief E.O. Berge reported that in 1915, the last year in which this city permitted saloons to operate, there were 220 arrests for intoxication, compared to 57 under the dry regime this year. — Two carloads of flax straw were to be used in papermaking experiments. — By a majority of 138 to 5, voters of school district 18 approved the issuance of $45,000 in bonds to finance the construction of a new grade school in the north section of the city. — John Bratrud returned from a trip thru Northern Iowa in the interest of his real estate business. — Mrs. V.C. Noper, accompanied by her son, Randall, left for a visit at her parental home in Denver, CO. — M.T. McFarland left from Sterling, IL, to visit his parents.

1926 - 60 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Mathilda Thatcher of Thief River Falls was burned to death in a fire at the home of her son, W.L. Sale. — Rev. V.E. Schroeder of Rapidan is the new pastor of St. John's Lutheran church. — The Thief River Falls unit of the YMCA formed four years ago has been resolved. — Henry C. Eckland, architect, of Moline, IL, established his home here. — County agent J.J. McCann was named secretary of the fair board for the fifth straight year.

1936 - 50 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Melby opened the Apparel Shop. — Nearly 2,000 children greeted Santa Claus when he arrived in the Soo depot on a special train. — Only 1.5 per cent of taxes on property in School District 18 is delinquent this year, Superintendent Morris Bye announced. — More than 1,500,000 pounds of turkey were shipped from Thief River Falls.

1946 - 40 YEARS AGO

Walter Gerardy and Joseph Jaeger, both of the Plummer community, were killed when their car was hit by a Soo Line freight train in Plummer. — Captain A.C. Tiedeman, commanding officer of the local National Guard unit, appointed Ivan Bundy as first sergeant. — H.I. Finstad of Rocksbury was reelected president of the Pennington County Farm Bureau. — After having been out of operation since last spring, the Thief River Falls city bus line resumed service with Laddie Forst in charge.

— Mrs. Warren Ferber was elected head of the local Eastern Star chapter.

1956 - 30 YEARS AGO

James Solheim of Thief River Falls was the winner of the Region 2 "I Speak For Democracy" contest sponsored by the Jaycees. — Cornerstone laying ceremonies for the new Northwestern Bell telephone company building, now nearing completion on LaBree avenue at Fourth street, will be held Friday. — Harold W. Peterson, administrator of Northwestern hospital, has been appointed chairman of the council on hospital planning and operations for the Minnesota hospital association.

1966 - 20 YEARS AGO

Winners in the annual Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the TRF Jaycees were the Ole Engelstad home, most original; the Gary Warnecke home, non-religious; and the Palmer Lorenson home, religious. — Chuck Dostal retired after spending 26 years as arena custodian with the park and recreation department.

1976 - 10 YEARS AGO

A farm accident December 17 claimed the life of Donald D. Peterson, 44, at his Marshall county residence. He was operating his bulldozer clearing trees and rocks when a large tree toppled across the front of the vehicle and struck him in the head and shoulder, killing him instantly. — Gary's Rainbow Bakery and Gordon's Hallmark Store are two new businesses in Thief River Falls. — Bob Bergland, U.S. representative from Minnesota's seventh congressional district, was officially appointed U.S. secretary of agriculture under the Carter administration. — Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hetland were featured in a story by Times Editor, Marvin Lundin. The Hetlands are enjoying their retirement by knitting and Mr. Hetland sometimes spins his own yarn.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I sure do not agree with representative Gordon Vass, new chairman of the House tax committee. To raise all the lawmakers' salary four to 22 per cent in Minnesota seems irresponsible to me. With a predicted short fall of monies in the coming year of over eight hundred million dollars, they should not even think of a raise in pay.

As you know we have gone through many years of inflation. Wages and prices on everything have gone up ten fold — feast for some and famine for others. It has torn our country into bits and pieces.

It is high time that we try and hold the line an even back down a little. Maybe we could put our United States back together again. With a little help from businesses, labor, management, farmers and governments I am sure we could all get out fair share of the pie again. It sure would be worth a try.

There was not a true word spoken then "What goes up must come down." The price the farmers get today has gone down almost 50 per cent, therefore they are losing money and going broke.

Thank You
Melvin Jooppru

4H CLUB

City View

City View 4-H club met on December 8, went caroling at the Skylite apartments and afterward held the business meeting. Roll call was answered to "What do you want most for Christmas?" Two new members from the Oliver family joined the club.

Members received their 4-H records, discussed the public speaking contest on January 3 and the 4-H ski trip scheduled for January 19. They brought gifts to give to a needy family, had a gift exchange and made a Christmas craft. Meeting was adjourned and a potluck lunch of Christmas goodies was served. There were 19 members, seven parents and two guests present.

Tidbits From Thief River Falls THE TIMES

Excerpts from Times of long ago, rewritten by Sharon LaCoursiere.

This Christmas message from "The Publishers" of the December 23, 1926, Times seems to sum up that year nicely. I hope it reflects your feelings on our past year of 1986.

"With 1926 drawing rapidly to a close we can look back over its twelve months as they have passed in this community, and we find in them much that we will wish to remember, but very little we will want to forget.

"The Christmas season of 1926, brings to us a record of twelve months of community peace, of community good will, of community prosperity, and an increased community hope for the dawning year of 1927.

"During 1926, we have enjoyed our neighbors, our friends; we have laughed with them in their hours of merriment, and we have greived with them in their bereavements and consoled them as best we might. This is as it should be. It is such things that the spirit of Christmas teaches us. It is the lesson brought to us by the Man of Gallilee nineteen hundred and twenty-six years ago.

"During 1926, we have grown better individually and collectively; we have evinced a greater degree of tolerance, of human kindness, of love and faith, than in any previous year, and this is but an evidence of the increasing betterment of the race.

"With a backward glance over the records of 1926, we find every good reason for believing this Christmas season is to be the best we have ever enjoyed. We know that those blessings, faith, hope, love, peace, that were brought to the race with the dawn of the Christian era are with us today in greater degree than ever before. We know we will receive a greater number of hearty Christmas greetings, a greater number of friendly smiles, and what comes to us will come to each and every individual in our community, including our Merry Christmas to each and every one.

In the earliest times the lighted candle had a place in man's expression of his religious belief. Light has always symbolized the outreach of the Almighty.

But in the celebration of Christmas the lighted candle has assumed a special significance. Gleaming in the darkness, it is like the Star that stood over Bethlehem. Flickering in the wintry air it is like the tiny Infant cradled in his mother's arms. Shining boldly through its wreath, it is like the Master of Mankind beckoning the world into the warmth of His Love.

And yet no candle can express the real joy of Christmas. Worship is our divine gift for revealing our love to God. The prayers and hymns we lift from happy Christian hearts as we gather in Church: these are the real Christmas Candles—the glow of a people honored and blessed by the birth of the Christ.

Propane Inhalation

Detroit Lakes — A rural Detroit Lakes couple and their two daughters were treated for inhalation of fumes from a propane furnace. December 14, a neighbor reported that something was wrong at the Linda and William Roberts' home. Subsequent investigation by sheriff's deputy Ray Sweeney and Detroit Lakes fire chief Jeff Swanson found the two girls sitting on a couch and their parents lying on a bed. Sweeney said everyone was conscious but "in a lot of pain." All four individuals were unable to leave the home under their own power. It is believed that they were exposed to the fumes for nearly two days. The girls were treated and released from St. Mary's hospital December 14, and the parents were released December 16. Dr. Robert Koshnick, the attending physician, has declined to comment on the incident, citing patient privacy.

Stiff Penalties For Felonies

Bemidji — Four employees of the city-owned Log Cabin Liquor store have been charged with stealing public funds. City manager Mike McCurdy said the four have been suspended without pay pending resolution of the matter. Summons have been issued for David William Harms, Dennis Virgil Johnson, Mari Rae Mayotte and Elnora Ann Shanahan. The alleged thefts of liquor and cash include amounts of $48, $40, $10 and $17. Theft of public funds is a felony offense and sentencing guidelines call for a minimum of 12 months in prison.

Accidental Death

Bagley — The death of Kenneth Thompson, who died in a Bagley garage fire, has been ruled accidental according to autopsy reports recently revealed by the Bagley police department. The autopsy indicated that Kenneth Thompson was alive at the time of the fire but was impaired by alcohol to the point that he was unable to escape from the fire. The Bagley Farmers Independent stated that there had been rumors around the community that the death may have been the result of foul play.

Bagley Buckles Up

Bagley — The Clearwater county board of commissioners has approved a recommendation by county attorney James Wilson that it be the policy of each department with vehicles to comply with the statute requiring the wearing of seat belts by drivers, front seat passengers and any passenger under the age of 11. The board also approved a resolution that no county vehicle will be used for any private purpose unless specifically authorized by the county board.

School Bus Rear-Ended

Karlstad — A school bus full of Karlstad school children was rear-ended by a vehicle driven by Richard Jeffery Sanders of Strathcona December 12 on Main street in Karlstad. The bus, driven by Harry Bengtson, was just beginning its after school route, and was stopped with lights flashing. The car driven by Sanders was unable to stop on the icy road and slid into the rear of the bus. No passengers reported injuries, but both vehicles sustained considerable damage, estimates of which were unavailable when the North Star News went to press. No charges have been made in the incident, but Karlstad police chief Mike Anderson said Sanders has been charged with no valid drivers license and no insurance on the vehicle.

Razed Barn Raised

Lake Bronson — A barn on the Bruce Blomquist farm one mile east of Lake Bronson burned to the ground December 13. It had been filled with hay and straw, but no animals were involved. Blomquist said he had some insurance on the barn, but non on the hay. He plans to rebuild. Friends and neighbors rallied to his aid, getting together December 22 to hold a barn-raising.

If At First You Don't . . . .

Karlstad — The Karlstad police department and Kittson county sheriff's department are investigating several break-ins and an attempted break-in in Kennedy and Karlstad around December 15. The Kennedy Oil company lost $400 in cash when a burglar pried open a fire-proof file cabinet to get at the cash; the Kennedy Farmers elevator was broken into and $50 in cash was taken from a fire-proof file cabinet; and in Karlstad thieves attempted to gain entry to the North Star News office by prying open the back door. They were not successful, but did damage to the door and jamb.

Big Fish Tale

Fertile — Vaughn Mulcahy, a junior at Fertile-Beltrami high school, caught a 23-pound Northern at Battle Point Lodge at Leech Lake. The fish was over 41 inches long.

THE FALLS DELIVERED MEALS BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Wants to thank all the organizations who have generously and willingly helped us continue our program of meals to the "shut-ins" this past year. We appreciate the help from the "TIMES" in telling our story. It was the backing of the mayor and city council, the UNITED WAY and the LUTHERAN SERVICES that helped us over the "rough" spots. To those who have helped with contributions these past months, we want to say "thank you" again.

FALLS DELIVERED MEALS in Thief River Falls received a $100 check from the American Legion auxiliary to assist with its program of providing nutritious meals to people who are confined to their homes due to age or disability. Sharon Odegaard, president of the auxiliary, presented the check to N. Quentin Jones, chairman of the delivered meals board.

Visitor Center Burns

International Falls — Voyageurs National Park's Kabetogama Lake Visitor Center building was demolished by fire December 14. The value of the building was estimated at $150,000. The center building helped 9,000 visitors to the park last year and served as headquarters for the Namakan district ranger and the Kettle Falls hotel rehabilitation project supervisor.

Convenient Location

Greenbush — A vehicle driven by Wendy Rose Merschman of Bagley certainly picked a good place to roll over December 12. The 1986 Ford Escort, owned by Glen E. Johnson of Badger, slipped on an icy patch and rolled in a ditch right in front of Tom's Body shop in Greenbush. No injuries were reported but damage to the vehicle was about $1,600. Ice was the cause of another accident December 14 in Greenbush when cars driven by Christie Marie Bentow and Otto U. Waage Jr., both of Greenbush, collided on Central avenue and Fourth street. Damage was estimated at $450 to the Bentow vehicle and $50 to Waage's car.

Grygla

Lillian Sundberg, Grygla, 294-6146

The St. Clement's church held its Christmas program on December 14th. The title of this year's production was "A Village Christmas." The story concerned the origin of "Silent Night." Chad Warne played Joseph Mohr and Jon Sundberg played Franz Gruber, who were the composers of the song. Portraying the dancing church mice who destroyed the organ for Christmas were Jennie Johnson, Gary Warne, Julie Sundberg, Jennifer Sundberg, Melissa Verbout, Kristine Anderson, Chad Dobmier, Shawn Verbout, Heidi Brateng, Philip Brateng, Kristi Kiesow, Jill Schuler and Abby Schuler. Sue Ann Verbout played Mary in the nativity sequence and David Sundberg played Joseph. Shonda Anderson and Carlye Schuler played the angels. Jackie Kiewsow was the narrator. Kristy Johnson, Tiffany Dobmeier and Jenny Warne formed the girls' singing trio. Mike Neuschwander, Jason Dobmeier and Scott Rindahl formed the boys' trio and also acted as shepherds. Harold Polansky played the violin and Jeremy Verbout played the guitar. Ann Hoffert was pianist. Choir members were Lisa Verbout, Krista Rindahl, Jackie Kiesow, Chad Warne, Jon Sundberg and Gisela Prestemon. Directors were Arlene Neuschwander, Rosaline Hoffert and Ann Hoffert. The play was written by Ann Hoffert. After the program, the Ladies Guild, under the direction of Marge Polansky, served a turkey dinner. Parishioners exchanged gifts. The church dining room was decorated for the occasion by Arlene Neuschwander.

Fourth Annual Northwest Christmas Classic . . .

Argyle, Kennedy, Hallock, TRF Win First Round Games

Argyle, Kennedy, Hallock and Thief River Falls were opening round quarterfinal winners Tuesday at the fourth annual Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament in the Lincoln gym.

There was a blow-out and a cliff-hanger in both first-day sessions. In the afternoon, Argyle opened with a 72-43 romp over Roseau, while Kennedy edged Fertile-Beltrami 49-45. In the evening doubleheader, Hallock got by Marshall County Central 57-54, while Thief River Falls handled Middle River 71-44.

Second part of the three-day event will take place Friday. Afternoon consolation round semifinals will match Roseau vs. Fertile-Beltrami at 1 p.m. and Marshall County Central vs. Middle River at 3. Evening championship round semifinals will feature Argyle vs. Kennedy at 7 p.m. and Hallock vs. Thief River Falls at 9.

Finals will be played Saturday. The seventh place game will be played at 1 that afternoon, followed by the consolation championship game at 3. The third place game will be played at 7 that night, followed by the tournament title game at 9.

An awards ceremony will follow the championship game. Trophies will be presented to the consolation champion, third place finisher, runner-up and championship teams. Members of the championship team will be presented with individual medals.

A school sportsmanship trophy will also be presented, and an all-tournament team will be named.

Admission is set at 50-cents for students in grades K-5, $1 for students in grades 6-12, $1.50 for college and AVTI students and $2 per adult per session.

Pioneers at .500

Northland Community College men's basketball team is looking at an uncharacteristic 4-4 record during its holiday schedule break. Northland has consistently ranked among the Minnesota Community College Conference leaders over the years, and to see the Pioneers at .500 eight games into the 1986-87 season might be a bit unsettling to the team's followers.

However, the pre-holiday split hasn't surprised Northland coach Chet Engelman. "We hoped to be half-and-half at Christmas time" acknowledged Engelman, who is in his 17th year at the Northland post. "We've had the toughest preseason (nonconference) schedule we've ever played. We knew it was going to be tough."

Northland was 22-3 last winter when the team was the MCCC state tournament runner-up. Northland was 21-4 the year before and brought home the state tournament consolation championship trophy. Those rank as the second and third-best records in the school's basketball history, trailing only a 24-1 finish in 1974-75.

But there was just one sophomore returning from the 1985-86 team, and the newcomers, although fine basketball players in their own right, are not the "star" quality performers that have dotted the Northland line-up in the past. To compensate for that, a team effort has to carry you to whatever success you might come to expect. And to bring a dozen players in from different backgrounds takes time to mold into a team.

Complicating matters, as Engelman pointed out, has been the schedule. There is no Red River Invitational in Winnipeg this year where the Pioneers could fatten their record and individual statistics against some questionable opposition. Instead, Northland has competed in three state-side four-team invitationals, where the competition has been tough. The Pioneers split two starts at each tournament stop, finishing second at Austin, third at Rainy River and second, again, at Itasca.

Two of the four losses came at the hands of highly-regarded Itasca and the others came against equally-strong Iowa Lakes and Willmar ball clubs. Two of the four losses included a 96-94 defeat at the hands of Itasca in the Rainy River Invitational semifinals and 55-52 in a single meeting with Willmar.

"Itasca, Vermilion and Hibbing, according to the books, were the top three teams in the region before the season started, and nothing has happened to make me change my mind," pointed out Engelman.

Northland will still be in the Northwest Division title race, predicted Engelman, who has led his team to 11 state tournament berths in the past 13 years. The Pioneers begin MCCC-counting games in mid-January, first with single games against Northeast Division teams Rainy River, Hibbing, Vermilion, Mesabi and Itasca, then with home-and-home meetings against Northwest Division rivals Brainerd, Fergus Falls and the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

In most years the Northwest Division has dominated the Northeast Division in those MCCC match-ups, winning 12, 15 and as many as 18 of the 20 cross-division meetings. It may be a different story this winter. "It's going to be tough to beat the Northeast teams," admitted Engelman. "Itasca, Vermilion and Hibbing are all tough."

That will place a little more importance on the already-fierce Northwest Division match-ups. A Northwest team that is able to pull an upset in one of those Northeast meetings, then hold its own in Northwest Division play will have the edge in the title race.

Engelman, who began the 1986-87 season with a 255-125 career record at Northland, figures the Pioneers can bounce back from their 4-4 start to be a state tournament contender. "I don't think it would be a good idea to count us out yet," he said.

NCC Hockey Team 6-0

Meanwhile, the Northland Community College hockey team is rolling along with a 6-0 record.

But third-year head coach Scott Bergland hasn't been completely satisfied with the performances of the talent-rich Pioneers to date. "We're the ugliest 6-0 team around," he quipped.

Winning ugly, though, has enabled the Pioneers to match the school record for season-opening wins as they beat the University of Minnesota-Crookston in a nonconference season-opening, then swept weekend MCCC series from Brainerd and Rainy River, along with a single mid-week conquest of Fergus Falls.

Lumberjacks Top Prowlers 4-1

Bemidji defeated Thief River Falls 4-1 Tuesday in a Section 8 high school hockey game played at the John Glas Fieldhouse on the Bemidji State University campus.

It was the third loss in four starts for the Prowlers, who are 0-2 against Section 8 foes. They will be in Baudette Saturday for a 7:30 p.m. game against Lake of the Woods.

"It wasn't a particularly well-played game on either end," mentioned Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand, figuring both teams could have played better hockey. "Again, we had trouble scoring. We had some chances, but we couldn't put the puck in the net."

Bemidji took a 2-0 first period lead on goals by Rob Sauer and Kevin Hill.

Thief River Falls cut the difference to 2-1 on a Rick Looker goal at 4:45 of the second period, but Bemidji rebuilt the three-goal margin on Steve Brink's goal at 12:20.

Gary Matthews wrapped up the Bemidji victory with a third period goal.

The Prowlers played the game without the services of defenseman Jason Lee and forward Jim Breiland, sidelined because of shoulder injuries. Lee missed Saturday's game against East Grand Forks because of the problem, and Breiland was injured during the 5-3 loss. Sophomore Rob Coltom was called up from the junior varsity and played a regular shift on defense.

It was a 5-5 overtime tie in the junior varsity game, putting Thief River Falls at 1-2-1 for the year.

Scoring

First period — Bemidji, Rob Sauer (un.), 7:51; Bemidji, Kevin Hill (Tom Triney-Rod Roberts), 12:29.

Second period — TRF, Rick Looker (Bill Dicken-Jeff Grand), 4:45; Bemidji, Steve Brink (Steve Savard-Scott Eichstadt), 12:20.

Third period — Bemidji, Gary Matthews (Randy Roberts), 9:11.

Goalie saves — TRF, Shayne Anderson 9-8-5, 22; Bemidji, Corey Chwialkowski 5-11-5, 21.

Northland Hosts Annual Football Coaching Clinic

Plans have been made for the third annual Northwest Minnesota Football Coaching Clinic to be held on Saturday, January 31, at Northland Community College.

"This year we are proud to have four coaches who have worked with the 1986 state championship teams," reports Rick Nelson, clinic director. The four include Bud Bjornaraa and Rod Dirth, Apple Valley, Minnesota Class AA champions; Dale Hertel, Fargo South, North Dakota Class A Champions; and Warren Keller of Argyle, Minnesota nine-man state champions. Also on tap to speak is Moorhead State University head coach Ross Fortier and Roy Hokkanen of Virginia, a 37-year veteran of nine and 11-man football.

The clinic is again sponsored by Northland Community College, the Thief River Falls AVTI, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Thief River Falls, TG Sporting Goods and the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club.

For more information call or write Nelson at Northland Community College, Highway 1 East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; telephone 681-2181, Ext. 63.

Eagles, Rockets Advance

Argyle won a laugher, and Kennedy won a squeeker Thursday afternoon in the opening session of the 1986 Thief River Falls Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

The Eagles started the day with a 72-43 rout of Roseau. The Rockets held off Fertile-Beltrami 49-45.

Argyle and Kennedy, two of the top contenders in District 32A this winter, will meet in a 7 p.m. semifinal encounter Friday. Roseau and Fertile-Beltrami will square off in a 1 p.m. consolation round semifinal game that afternoon.

Argyle 72
Roseau 43

Preston Stoltman scored 18 points, Jon St. Germain 16 and Brent Riopelle 14 as Argyle beat Roseau 72-43.

Argyle had a 15-7 first quarter lead, owned a 41-21 halftime advantage and enjoyed a 57-32 third quarter cushion.

Scott Jaenicke led Roseau with 12 points. Nine of his teammates also scored, but none of them netted more than five points.

There were 49 free throws shot during the game, with Argyle going 18-for-33 at the line and Roseau winding up 11-for-16.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Argyle	15	24	16	15	72
Roseau	7	14	11	11	43

Argyle — Bill Rivard 8, Jon St. Germain 16, Tommy Durand 2, Marc Svendsen 2, Dwight Gudim 4, Jerry Deschene 4, Brent Riopelle 14, Kelly Durand 2, Preston Stoltman 18.
Roseau — Scott Jaenicke 12, Tim Dutcher 9, Erik Livingston 4, Todd Bode 5, Dean Halverson 2, Rich Stotts 4, Matt Anderson 4, Jerry Lee 4, Brian Lund 4, Wayne Kempehen 4.

Kennedy 49
Fertile-Beltrami 45

Fertile-Beltrami held the upper hand in the first half, but Kennedy took over in the second half as the Rockets shaded the Falcons 49-45 in the second half of the afternoon doubleheader.

It was a 30-point game from 6-6 sophomore center Todd Hagen that carried the Rockets. They trailed 14-12 at the end of the first quarter and were down 23-22 at halftime before going ahead 40-33 in the third quarter.

Tim Rynning added 11 points to the Kennedy total. Clark Wolfe led Fertile-Beltrami with 17 points.

Scoring

Bears, Prowlers To Meet

Different bits of strategy and contrasting results for Marshall County Central and Thief River Falls in the Tuesday night quarterfinal doubleheader session of the Prowlers' Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

The Marshall County Central ploy backfired, and the Nordics lost a 57-54 decision to Hallock. The Thief River Falls move worked like a charm, and the Prowlers rolled to a 71-44 victory over Middle River.

Thief River Falls and Hallock will meet in Friday's 9 p.m. semifinal. Long-time rivals Marshall County Central and Middle River tangle in Friday's 3 p.m. consolation round semifinals.

Hallock 57
MCC 54

It was an up-and-down performance by Marshall County Central in Tuesday night's first game against Hallock as the Nordics turned in 20-point second and third quarters, but netted just six and eight points in the first and fourth quarters, respectively, in losing 57-54.

A much-taller Hallock squad controlled play at the start, opening up an 8-0 lead and holding a mistake-prone Marshall County Central offense scoreless for 5½ minutes.

Hallock wound up with an 11-6 first quarter lead. But Marshall County Central picked up the tempo in the second quarter, rebounded better, shot better and forced Hallock to turn the ball over en route to a 26-23 halftime lead. It was a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, 5-11 Hallock starting line-up against a Marshall County Central team that started nobody over the six-foot mark. But as the turnovers mounted, the Bears' line-up got smaller and smaller.

Marshall County Central came out of a fast-paced third quarter with a 46-41 lead, with a rebound basket by Jason Sakdsem with 10 seconds left matching the Nordics' biggest lead of the night.

They maintained that five-point spread at 50-45 near the midway mark of the fourth quarter before abandoning their fast break for a controlled passing game.

But instead of protecting, or even building upon the lead as the offense is designed to do, the Nordics surrendered 10 straight points as the five-point lead turned into a five-point deficit, 55-50, in a span of four minutes.

"We went to a motion offense," explained Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "It's not necessarily designed to run time off the clock; we just wanted to work the ball around for good shots. But we missed some good shots, and then we quit looking for them. We quit playing aggressive offense."

Mark Johnson, a 6-3 junior, led the fourth quarter Hallock rally. He scored the first eight points in that 10-point run down the stretch. Six of them came at the free throw line. He finished with a game-high 25 points.

Brad Anderson, a 5-6 sophomore reserve guard, cemented the come-back win with a jumper from the side for a 55-50 lead with just 36 seconds left.

The Nordics' Danni Halvorson made two free throws with 19 seconds still on the clock for a 55-52 game, but Johnny Potrament, another reserve, matched that with two gift tosses seven seconds later.

Halvorson provided the final basket-off-a-rebound with just four seconds to play.

Jason Pearson, a 6-2 junior, joined Johnson in double figures with 16 points for the Bears. Darin Rokke, a 5-10 senior, led Marshall County Central with 19 points, but the Nordics weren't able to get the ball to him down the stretch.

"We were in foul trouble," pointed out Ueland, who was using two players with five fouls at the end. "We put them at the line way too many times, and they made their free throws."

Hallock was 13-for-21 at the line for the game, a clutch 12-for-14 in the fourth quarter, including eight-in-a-row to finsih it. Marshall County Central was 12-for-19 at the line, but just five of those came in the second half.

The Nordics, now 2-2 for the year, shot only 36 per cent from the field (21-for-59). Hallock shot 50 per cent (22-for-44). The Bears had a 32-24 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 22-11.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Marshall Co. Central	6	20	20	8	54
Hallock	11	12	18	16	57

MCC — Tom Bolstad 6, Jon Kragness 4, Lee Pemberton 8, Darin Rokke 19, Kelly Dahl 2, Jason Skadsem 5, Danni Halverson 10.
Hallock — Brad Anderson 2, Mark Johnson 25, Jason Pearson 16, David Noel 8, Chris Jerome 4, Johnny Potrament 2.

TRF 71
Middle River 44

Middle River, down by as much as 15 points in the first half, made a third quarter run at Thief River Falls that had the margin down to six points. But the Prowlers called a time-out and then suddenly exploded for 17 straight points that wound up as a 71-44 win over the Skippers to close out the tournament's first day activity.

Thief River Falls scored 12 of the last 14 points of the first quarter for a 16-8 lead and after leading by as much as 30-16 late in the second quarter, went into intermission with a 30-20 advantage.

The game Skippers hung in there, however, and had it down to 32-26 after a basket by Tom Gullikson finished off a fast break with 6:11 left in the third quarter.

That's when Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt called time-out. When play resumed, the Prowlers had three baskets — a long jumper by Chris Bjorgaard, a fast break bucket by Bjorghard and a rebound basket by Chris Nelson — in a matter of just 38 seconds. That made it 38-26 and prompted a time-out call by Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

But that didn't stop the Thief River Falls assault. The Prowlers had a 49-26 cushion before the Skippers scored again on a rebound by Gullikson with 53 seconds remaining in the quarter.

"We started running more," said Hunt in explaining his time-out strategy, "and we went to a man-to-man defense instead of the zone we were using. I think that rattled them, and got us going."

"I thought we played well, except for that stretch in the third quarter," offered Sparby. "That's when we started making a lot of mental mistakes. We started running with them. We wanted to control the ball and get good shots. That's the only way you can stay with a good team like that."

It was 49-30 at the end of the third quarter, and reserves took over in the final period.

Bjorgaard scored 20 points, Chris Nelson 18 and Brian Stark 10 in strong Invitational tournament appearances await three of the four Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) traveling teams this weekend, with the Eagles Pee-Wee A and Elks Pee-Wee B teams both scheduled to compete in a three-day affair at Hibbing beginning Friday, while the Bantam B team travels to Alexandria for a Saturday-Sunday tournament.

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team, after participating in the Grand Rapids Invitational last weekend, has a single game this week, visiting Bemidji Sunday at 4:30 p.m.

Bantam A

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team made a successful debut in the Grand Rapids Invitational Friday morning with a 6-3 opening round quarterfinal win over Coleraine.

John Seaverson scored three times in the win. Aaron Janisch had a goal and two assists, while Corey Poole and Roger Anderson both scored once. Paul Kezar had a pair of assists. Ryan Haugen made 31 saves in the Thief River Falls nets. The Coleraine goalie made 27 saves.

A very strong Grand Rapids team, after being held to a scoreless first period tie by Thief River Falls, broke away for a 7-0 semifinal victory Saturday afternoon. Todd Stewart was in goal for Thief River Falls, out-shot 43-13.

Mounds View defeated Thief River Falls 6-4 in the third period game Saturday night, a disappointing finish for the VFW squad, according to head coach Jeff Tunberg. Kezar scored twice, while Anderson and Poole had single goals. Haugen and Stewart combined to make 27 saves. The Mounds View goalie had 28 stops.

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team is 4-7 for the year.

Bantam B

A 5-4 Saturday win over Crookston and an 11-4 Sunday victory over East Grand Forks put the Thief River Falls Bantam B team above .500 for the year at 6-4.

Five different scorers collected goals in the win over Crookston at the Sports Arena. Darin Tele, Troy Coltom, Duane Molstad, Thane Espe and Lucas Soine scored the goals, while Derek Larson collected two assists. Bryan Cloutier made 18 saves in the Thief River Falls nets, while the Crookston goalie made 31 stops.

With the score tied at 4-4 at the end of the second period, Thief River Falls blitzed host East Grand Forks 7-0 in the third period Sunday en route to an 11-4 victory. Coltom scored four goals for the winners. Tele had two goals and three assists and Mark Daniels had two goals and one assist. Jerod Kolden also scored twice, and Ross Dalzell added a single goal. Brian Gillespie and Cory DeLap had two assists. Cloutier was in goal as Thief River Falls out-shot East Grand Forks 47-18.

The wins over Crookston and East Grand Forks put Thief River Falls at 2-0 in District 16 play.

Pee-Wee A

Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team beat Crookston 9-2 Saturday, shut out East Grand Forks 3-0 Sunday, but lost to Moorhead 3-2 Monday for a 5-3 season record.

Corey Mattson, Marc Seaverson, Matt Steinert and Jason Svir all scored twice in the win over Crookston at the Sports Arena. Mattson and Svir also picked up two assists. Marc Haugen had a single goal to complete the scoring, and Chad Frazer chipped in two assists. Ross Boldt was in goal for the winners, who had a 51-30 shots-on-goal advantage.

Barry Dowers trurned in a 27-save shutout in the 3-0 win at East Grand Forks. Goals came from Svir, Seaverson and Haugen. The East Grand Forks goalie made 28 saves.

A big Moorhead team broke a 2-2 tie with a game-winning third goal with 2:27 left in the third period of the Monday matinee at Moorhead. Aaron Broten and Svir scored Thief River Falls goals. Boldt made 26 saves; the Moorhead goalie had 24 stops.

Pee-Wee B

Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks handed the Thief River Falls Elks Pee-Wee B team a pair of weekend losses.

Thief River Falls fell to Red Lake Falls 7-2 Saturday at the Old Arena. Jason Mieml and Jimmy Olson scored Thief River Falls goals. Trevor Haugen made 22 saves in the Thief River Falls nets. The Red Lake Falls goalie turned aside 11 shots.

East Grand Forks out-shot Thief River Falls 17-10 in winning a Sunday match-up at East Grand Forks that dropped Thief River Falls to 1-5-1 for the year.

DNR Feeding Elk Herd Located In NW Minn. Area

Minnesota DNR Thief Lake Staff are in the process of hauling about 15 tons of alfalfa hay to meadows frequented by the remaining elk herd. This practice began in 1976 shortly after completion of an elk management plan and has been conducted during eight of the past 10 years.

Prime purpose of the practice is to provide a food source close to cover to reduce damage to private hay supplies. The DNR has purchased hay from local farmers and obtained hay from farmers that share-crop state lands.

Other elk management practices conducted include planting food plots (corn, sunflowers, winter wheat, oats) on state lands, contracting food plots on private lands, prescribed burning, brush shearing and legume, interseeding on meadows.

An average of 600 acres per year of land has been manipulated over the past 10 years, according to DNR officials.

Prowlers, Bears To Meet In Semifinals

offensive efforts, and Hunt was quick to cite a strong defensive performance turned in by Bjorgaard's back court mate, Griff Newland, who didn't score. Gullikson, a 6-1 senior, led Middle River with 12 points.

Thief River Falls was 28-for-74 from the field (38 per cent), and Middle River went 12-for-42 (29 per cent). The Prowlers were 15-for-22 at the free throw line, where the Skippers were 20-for-29, which included a 14-for-15 fourth quarter representing the Skippers' entire fourth quarter offensive output.

The taller Prowlers had a big 51-20 rebound advantage, getting 26 of them on the offensive boards.

"They just killed us on the offensive boards," acknowledged Sparby. "They got a lot of second and third shots."

Middle River is 3-2 for the year. Thief River Falls is 3-1.

Card of Thanks

I want to take this means of thanking everyone who attended my 75th birthday party and those who responded by mail and telephone. Also thanks to my daughters, sons and their families for hosting the party.

It was fun to see so many old friends, neighbors and relatives, so again a huge thank you to each one of you and may you all have a blessed Christmas and a good new year.

It will be a memorable day.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls Water Utility announced that the state maximum allowable limit for turbidity was exceeded for the month of November, 1986.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level has not created any health hazards because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with state health department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen Lamm, water department supervisor, at 681-3809.

Memoriam

God saw he was getting tired
And a cure was not to be
So He put His arms around him
And whispered (come to me)
With tearful eyes we watched him suffer
And saw him fade away
Although we loved him dearly
We could not make him stay.
A golden heart stopped beating
Hard working hands put to rest
God broke our hearts to prove,
He only takes the best

In loving memory of Palmer Forsberg from his family

Letters to the Editor

I'm writing this on Tuesday, December 23, and I'm writing in behalf of all welfare mothers, all teen-agers, all those who are hurting and broken.

I'm divorced with three children. I am not on welfare, but have been. Now the child support checks are sent to Pennington County welfare and then forwarded to us.

I've been waiting for the child support for December. I called the office today and they said "Yes, it just came in this morning." The policy of the office is to hold all checks until the Friday of each week and then mail the new checks to the families. That means we won't get the money until the Monday after Christmas. The gentleman that I spoke to at the welfare office asked the director, Gary Erickson, if I could come into the welfare office and pick up the check. Mr. Erickson flatly refused, saying we must follow office policy.

It doesn't matter that it's Christmas and this is the money we've been waiting for to buy gifts. It doesn't matter that again, it is the children that bear the pain of the mistakes of the parents.

I am tired of the elite of society looking at welfare mothers with noses up in the air. I'm tired of the injustices in thought and action that are aimed at the families on welfare that supposedly "have it made." Only those who have ever been in a position of having to turn to welfare know the labels, the disgrace, the condemning looks that scream "failure!"

Who gives the right for one human being to stand in judgment of another? Who gives the right to walk in a self-righteous cloak that says, "That could never happen to me."

Yes, sometimes there is abuse of the welfare system. There is abuse of the food shelf. But there is also an abuse of circumstances that breaks the human spirit, that tears away the dignity of a man, a woman, a teen-ager, a child. There are circumstances of life that can shatter the will to live.

And who is bringing the love, the compassion, the encouragement that will heal that brokenness, who will be the strong arm that helps to lift another back to his feet? Who will bring the gentleness that heals and the forgiveness that frees?

We are walking through things I never thought would happen to us! Many people are. I challenge each who reads this. I dare you to look into the eyes and the soul of those you meet. Look quietly in and experience just a bit of the sorrow, the pain, that is so carefully hidden away.

We are celebrating Christmas — the birth of Christ, the Savior. He was born with the very purpose of suffering and dying that He could give us life. And yet, what are we celebrating? Where is the joy and peace of Christmas?

If this is the season to express love and to extend compassion as an expression of Christ's love, I pray that we can be the arms that hold the broken ones, the hurting ones, with the honest daring to walk down into their pain, only helping to carry it, not to judge it.

I pray that the hard hearts of our city will be broken into soft hearts of compassion. I pray that the lonely, the hopeless, the destitute — those living in emotional agony — will be lifted into the arms of the real reason — the real meaning — of Christmas.

God help our city, our nation.

Traffic Mishaps On Police Report

A number of traffic accidents and damage to property were reported in the Thief River Falls law enforcement center summary of activity for the past week.

Most extensive damage was done in an accident about 8:21 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Main avenue and Third street in downtown Thief River Falls. Both drivers reportedly received bumps, bruises and sore backs and necks.

A pickup driven by Laurie Knutson, Baudette, was going north on Main avenue while a car driven by Tracy Lusignan, route 4, Thief River Falls, was traveling east on Third street and attempting a left turn onto Main. The vehicles collided in the intersection, resulting in an estimated $1,200 damage to the Lusignan vehicle and a total loss to the Knutson pickup.

At 8:05 a.m. last Tuesday, a pickup driven west on highway 1 by LeRoy Ose, route 2, TRF, slowed to make a right turn into the AVTI driveway and was struck from the rear by another pickup, driven by Bonnie Archibald, Grygla. Damage was estimated at $400 to each vehicle.

Report of a vehicle striking another car in the parking lot at Chaparral apartments was received at 9:04 p.m. Monday. The vehicle had left the scene of the accident and was later located in the 700 block of East Eighth street. Ryan Solberg, Fosston, who is staying in Thief River Falls, was located and charged with leaving the scene of an accident. The Solberg pickup had reportedly struck a station wagon owned by Alnne Ellison, causing $200 damage, then struck a dumpster and pushed it into a car owned by John Olaf Anderson, Kelliher, causing an additional $50 damage.

At 3:09 p.m. Wednesday a car driven south on Main avenue by Betty Johnson, route 2, TRF, slowed for traffic and was struck from the rear by a car driven by Dinne Grandstrand, star route, Karlstad. Damage was placed at $150 to each vehicle and Johnson complained of a sore neck.

At 4:40 p.m. the same day a car driven north on Main by Pamela Schultz, route 2, Embarrass, was involved in a collision with a car driven by Percy Seaverson, TRF, which was going east on Fourth street, stopped for the stop sign and then proceeded into the intersection. Damage was estimated at $200 to the Schultz car and $1,500 to the Seaverson vehicle. Mrs. Schultz sustained an injury to the left elbow.

At 11:50 a.m. Thursday a car driven by Brian Nelson, route 2, Karlstad, was going south on highway 59 and in the left turn lane to make a left turn at Greenwood street when he started the turn and collided with a car driven north on highway 59 by Paul Hofstad, route 2, Oklee. Damage was placed at $300 to the Nelson car and $1,000 to the Hofstad car.

At 2:10 p.m. Friday cars driven by Lori Waage, Greenbush, traveling west on Seventh street and Frederick Ebbighausen, TRF, traveling north on LaBree avenue, collided in the intersection. Damage estimates were $300 to the Waage car and $600 to the Ebbighausen vehicle.

At 4:06 p.m. Sunday a car driven by Allan Molskness, route 2, TRF, was traveling east on Third street and pulling a trailer, waiting to make a left turn on Markley avenue. A car driven east on Third by Pamela Meyer, Oklee, struck the trailer, causing $350 damage to the Meyer car and $300 damage to the Molskness trailer and car.

At 12:51 p.m. Monday a pickup driven east on First street by Kurt Philipp, route 6, TRF, slowed for traffic near Markley avenue and was struck from the rear by a car driven by Thomas Price, route 1, Newfolden. Damage was estimated at $100 to the Philipp pickup and $800 to the Price car.

Several other damage reports were received by the police department during the week. Jean Reed, route 1, Goodridge, reported December 15 that her car was struck on the left side by an unknown vehicle which left the scene while the Reed car was parked in the Eagles parking lot. Damage was estimated at $300.

Hilma Kvamme, route 1, Viking, reported damage done to the drive train of her four-wheel-drive vehicle while it was parked in the Land O'Lakes parking lot on December 12. Damage was estimated at $350.

Edward Gus Holmes, city, reported Friday that his car had been struck on the right rear by an unknown vehicle while parked at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Damage was estimated at $300.

Jason Brunkhorst, TRF, reported Sunday that his car was struck by an unknown vehicle while parked in the Piggly Wiggly parking lot. Damage to the left front quarter panel was estimated at $300.

Natalie Kolberg, TRF, reported Monday that someone broke the windshield on her car while in a parking lot near the Kolberg apartment. Damage was estimated at $75.

Jody Qualley, TRF, reported December 14 that a snowmobile owned by Al Stenverson, rural TRF, was stolen from his yard during the night. Value of the machine was placed at $900. It was later located near Greenwood cemetery and had sustained about $50 in damage. The case is under investigation.

Variety Sales reported apprehending a juvenile shoplifter, age 14, who had taken a pair of pliers valued at $2.99. Charges are pending in juvenile court.

Chris Lillevold, TRF, reported theft of a leather Arctic Cat jacket valued at $200 from the weight room at Lincoln high school. Ernie Thune reported theft of a battery valued at $64 from his car parked in the Central parking lot on Friday. Barry Froiland reported theft of a Santa Claus head valued at $25 from a light post in his yard.

Following an altercation at Knox school during a Christmas program for the occupational development center, charges are pending against Darrell Greenleaf for assault.

Charges are also pending against Richard Houston, TRF, and Wade Johnson, route 2, TRF, both 22 years of age, for disorderly conduct following an altercation at the Best Western inn.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

MOOSE POPULATION in northwestern Minnesota seems to be in good condition and individual animals in fine shape going into this stage of winter. This hefty specimen was caught by the Times camera during a brief pause in its prairie rambling about five miles northwest of Thief River Falls Tuesday morning. It was one of the nine which an area farmer reported observing in his field early in the morning. By the time light increased to be suitable for photography, however, the group had dispersed into the woods in the area. Northwest Minnesota's deer herd has also benefitted from the warm weather of the past several weeks and the small amount of December snowfall which results in only several inches of snow on the ground in most areas.

Holiday Festival Program Saturday At Best Western

Community education department of School District 564 and the Best Western inn have scheduled a holiday festival program from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, December 27, at the Best Western inn.

Public of all ages is invited to participate in Christmas caroling, special Christmas entertainment programs, hot chocolate and holiday goodies and a visit from Santa Claus. Horsedrawn sleigh rides will be offered for $1 each by Russell Jesperson of Plummer.

Cub Scout Pack 59 Holds December Meeting At Zion

Cub Scout Pack 59 of Zion Lutheran church held its December Pack night on December 15. Awards were presented by Janet Hoffard to the following:

Den 4, Leaders Barb Troy and Gary Schoon: Jeremy Swanson, Robbie Stock, Brian Schoon and Robbie Troy all received first red bead under the Bear badge; Robby Farbo and Mark Melby first and second red bead under the Bear badge;

Webelo, Leaders Chris Kreuter, Ed Swantek and Terry Maddy: The Engineer badge was presented to Ryan Browning, Joel Krueter, Ben Sjoberg, Ryan Maddy, Rob Relerson, Jene Lenhart and Jason Hoffard; Engineer and Geologist badges were presented to Joshua Belch, Scott Tunheim, Brad Flynn and Tom Swantek;

Den III, Leaders Tom Miller and Val Torstveit: Wolf badge was presented to Chris Langseness.

Cubmaster Allen Rux put in a call for Santa Claus and he arrived within minutes to visit and pass out candy canes. A silent auction was held as a fund raiser for the pack.

Den II presented a Christmas skit. Den III was in charge of flag set up. Lunch was served by Den I. The Webelos brought cakes and Den 4 was in charge of clean up.

The January Pack night is slated for January 26 with a family night scheduled for the roller rink.

HIGHLANDING...

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Andreen visited on Friday evening at the Jack Johnsrud home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Nelson and grandson Brandon Molestad were Saturday evening visitors at the Russell Heden home.

THE PENNINGTON COUNTY ASSESSOR'S OFFICE HAS SENT OUT

HOMESTEAD NOTICES

FOR THE YEAR OF 1987

Every home owner that owns and occupies their home as of January 2, 1987 must sign their name and social security number.

If the home is owned by more than one owner like a husband and wife, both the social security numbers must be put on the Homestead Notice. This law was passed by the 1986 Legislature. Again this must be signed and have the social security numbers on them.

Any questions on this feel free to stop in or call the County Assessor's Office, 218-681-3843.

The homestead card must be returned to the Assessor's office or the homestead will be removed. This will result in a considerable increase in property taxes. (Approximately four times higher.)

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE was done to the Ken Mooney home located about two miles southeast of Thief River Falls just off highway 59 Sunday afternoon, but the Thief River Falls fire department was able to save most of the house through use of a portable tank for water supply. The fire started while Mooney was doing some welding on a snowmobile and a fuel leak or spill ignited. He had the fire nearly out with an extinguisher but it spread rapidly when a second extinguisher proved to be empty. The garage was destroyed along with the snowmobile and tools and equipment. The fire was stopped after spreading 10 to 12 feet into the home, according to fire chief David Bjorkman. He said about 7,000 to 8,000 gallons of water were used and credited the portable tank — purchased in July and used on an actual fire call for the first time Sunday — with the department's ability to extinguish the blaze. The pumper truck in the center of the photo carries 1,000 gallons of water and the portable tank holds 4,000 gallons. Bjorkman said the portable tank was set up and being filled before the first 1,000 gallons was used from the pumper truck. No dollar estimate of damage was available.

No Wrongdoing Shown In DAC Audit Report

Audit of the Falls Day Activity center records has been completed by the Moser & Christianson Ltd. accounting firm and shows no apparent problem other than attention to detailed bookkeeping practices. The DAC board and Pennington county welfare board were presented with copies of the audit report last week.

The audit has been ordered by the DAC board following charges of client abuse levied by three staff members against director Evan Armstrong. Armstrong was removed from his position by state order and denied contact with clients or access to the center during hours when clients were there. He subsequently resigned his position after being reinstated by the board when it appeared the state would revoke the center's license to operate.

According to the audit report, which covered the year ending June 30, 1986, the DAC had total operating revenue of $207,532 and total operating expenses of $187,083, leaving a margin of revenue over expenses of $20,449.

The revenue consisted of $94,514 from the state of Minnesota, $50,148 from the county and $650 from the school district in fees for service, plus $2,247 in gifts and contributions and $59,973 in net proceeds from charitable gambling operations. Total charitable gambling income was $118,352 with $14,215 paid out in gaming supplies and $44,164 in other gaming expenses.

Operating expenses included $114,436 in salaries, $12,343 in payroll taxes, $12,920 in vehicle expense, $5,286 in telephone and utilities expense, $6,569 in insurance, $5,133 in travel and mileage, $5,964 in depreciation, $5,542 in employee benefits, $3,680 in vehicle lease expense, $3,185 in repairs and maintenance, $2,170 in accounting and legal fees, $1,897 in equipment rental, $1,343 in office expense and postage, $1,325 in miscellaneous, $1,016 in dues and subscriptions, $864 in contract labor, $195 in licenses and $276 carried as cash short.

The DAC ended the fiscal year in June with a fund balance of $111,133, increased from $102,639 the previous year by net revenue over expenses of $8,494. Total program activities expenses were $12,688 including $4,339 in supplies, $1,896 in other activity expenses, $947 in books and publications, $5,344 in lunches and maintenance supplies and $162 for Special Olympics.

According to the report, the DAC has total assets of $148,748 and total liabilities of $37,615. The assets include current assets of $39,038 in $17,595 for charitable gambling cash, $12,436 in service fees receivable, $1,404 in charitable gambling inventory and $7,603 in prepaid expenses and deposits.

Remainder of the assets include $15,000 in land, $94,844 in buildings and $24,970 in vehicles and equipment less $25,104 in accumulated depreciation.

Liabilities include current liabilities of $35,080 and consist of $11,213 in accounts payable, $274 in bank overdraft, $5,028 in accrued expenses, $5,881 in accrued expenses for charitable gambling, $6,692 in a note payable to the bank and $5,992 in current maturities of long term debt. Total long-term debt of the DAC is only $2,535.

Notes added by the accountants to the financial statements of the DAC state that the Falls DAC is a non-profit Minnesota corporation which operates under a license granted annually by the Minnesota Department of Human Services for the purpose of providing training and day programming services for developmentally disabled adults from the ages of 22 to 72 years.

The center has contracted with Pennington county and Minnesota Medical assistance to provide services to clients as preauthorized by the county or by the state at a fee of $22.50 per client per day. It also

Pennington County And TRF Share In Payment By State

Minnesota Revenue department has mailed out checks totaling $314.7 million in local government aid, homestead credits and other miscellaneous credits to local governmental units throughout the state.

The total included $155.2 million in local government aid payments, $157.6 million in homestead credit and $1.9 million in miscellaneous credits, such as wetlands, agricultural preserves and enterprise zones.

Pennington county received $328,835.69 in the distribution while the city of Thief River Falls received $511,268.80, according to Deb Volkert of the Minnesota department of revenue. Receipts by other counties in the area included: Marshall, $230,690.31; Red Lake, $141,975.08; Polk, $717,314.77; Roseau, $245,612.35, and Beltrami, $704,760.51.

Other cities receiving funds included the following: Red Lake Falls, $147,359.34; Roseau, $118,157.51; Warroad, $55,710.45; Oklee, $36,878.24; Plummer, $21,305.52; Brooks, $4,211.47; Goodridge, $10,867.97; St. Hilaire, $9,522.04; Warren, $110,424.27; Newfolden, $25,746.67; Middle River, $13,332.96; Grygla, $15,113.41; Viking, $10,358.41; Holt, $3,590.56; and Strandquist, $5,225.10; Crookston, $755,092.62; East Grand Forks, $658,102.76; and Bemidji, $891,342.61.

The local government aid payments are distributed to counties, cities and towns to finance part of their governmental activities, such as road and bridge work, fire and police services and ambulance services.

The money, from state collected sales tax and income tax, is distributed according to a formula by the state legislature. Distribution formula for the $155.2 million in local government aids takes into consideration population, property tax levies and valuations, the revenue department said.

Homestead credit payments are made to local governmental units to compensate for the difference between what a property owner paid in property taxes and the amount the tax would have been without the homestead credit. The homestead credit reduces a property owner's tax bill by as much as $700 a year.

The state makes two payments a year to local communities. The first payment this year was made July 15 when $312.6 million was distributed to local governmental units.

In previous years the payments were made in six installments.

The largest share, $164.3 million went to the Twin Cities area. Governmental units in Hennepin County received $83.8 million, and governmental units in Ramsey County got $40.6 million.

Grants Are Awarded By Initiative Fund

Northwest Minnesota Initiative fund will award $283,909 in grant money to 16 organizations that meet critical human service needs or stimulate the tourism sector of the economy.

At its December 19 meeting, the initiative fund board chose the successful applicants from a pool of 31 human service and 19 tourism applicants.

These are the first grant awards made in the history of the Northwest Minnesota Initiative fund, which is a public charity established in 1986.

Many of the human service awards will go to organizations helping farm families in crisis. The Area Ag Information center, Thief River Falls, will receive $30,000 to pay for staff who provide free financial analysis to farmers, and the Northwestern Mental Health center, Crookston, will get $29,980 to provide a variety of counseling services. The center will cooperate with the Minnesota extension service.

Project Heritage Design, Thief River Falls, which provides employment opportunities for rural women, will receive a $30,000 grant to cover expanding marketing efforts and design services for its cottage industry. The Northwest district of the Minnesota extension service will receive $8,350 to host a two day conference and help at least 150 farm women assess their career and educational potential.

Also, the board awarded funds to human service providers who need supplemental assistance to launch new projects. Northwest Emergency Medical services, Inc., will receive $25,000 to hire a consultant to develop alternative methods for providing emergency services in a 12-county area of northwestern Minnesota.

Sacred Heart Catholic parish, East Grand Forks, was awarded $15,000 to hire a Hispanic outreach worker to counsel permanent Hispanic residents and migrant workers living in the East Grand Forks, Warren and Crookston areas.

North Country Hospice, which serves terminally ill patients in the Bemidji, Kelliher and Blackduck areas, will receive $20,000 to assist the organization in merging with North Country Health services, thereby becoming eligible to receive medicare and other reimbursements for costs.

The sexual assault program, based in Bemidji, will use its $20,000 grant to enhance and market educational materials that will generate revenue for the organization's operation. The program provides services to people in Beltrami, Hubbard and Cass counties.

Upper Mississippi mental health center, Bemidji, will receive $8,250 to establish a program that utilizes teen peer counseling in the prevention of chemical abuse. The program will be patterned after a successful project in Illinois and will be coordinated with the school system and other agencies fighting teen drug abuse.

Total human service awards were $186,580 and the tourism grants totaled $97,329. In making its grant awards, the board stressed regional cooperation, innovation and the leveraging of matching funds. Successful applicants were non-profit organizations and public agencies.

Tourism grant awards will fund promotions, research and planning projects.

Headwaters Regional Development commission, Bemidji, received $21,644 to conduct a comprehensive survey of tourists and lodging establishment registrations in Beltrami,

Shopper Mistakes Squad Car For Local Taxi Cab

A case of mistaken identity resulted in a smile for a Thief River Falls police patrolman and a bit of embarrassment for a local shopper on Christmas eve day.

Patrolman Mark Haugen had stopped the city squad car he was driving along the curb on Third street in front of the Woolworth's store and was observing traffic in the area.

"A middle-aged lady came out of the dime store with a sack and some packages, opened up the back door of the squad car, put the sack on the seat and was just getting ready to get in when she looked up and saw I was in uniform," Haugen said.

"She got an astonished look on her face and exclaimed, 'Oh, I thought you were a taxi!' So I wished her a Merry Christmas and she took her sack off the seat and left....in quite a hurry."

Mesaba To Add Non-Stop Flight To Twin Cities

Mesaba Aviation, Inc. effective January 15, is adding non-stop scheduled airline service between Thief River Falls and the Minneapolis-St. Paul international airport.

Officials of the airline said that the new non-stop service, which is scheduled for morning departure from and evening arrival to Thief River Falls, will provide more seats to and from the city during peak travel periods. Mesaba also provides a second round-trip flight to and from the Twin Cities which includes a stop in Bemidji.

Robert D. Swenson, president and CEO of Mesaba, said the new non-stop service will enable Thief River Falls passengers to enjoy quicker and more convenient service to the Minneapolis-St. Paul airport. But he added that the new service will need support for it to be successful.

Mesaba operates under a marketing agreement with Northwest Airlines and its service is coordinated to connect the many regional cities it serves with Northwest's major flights at the Twin Cities. The two airlines work jointly in the areas of marketing, scheduling and through-fares. Thief River Falls' passengers on Mesaba-Northwest Airlink earn points in Northwest's "World Perks" frequent flyer program.

Effective January 15, the flight will leave Thief River Falls at 6:15 a.m. and arrive in the Twin Cities at 7:24 a.m. Return will be from 6:45 to 7:55 p.m. It will not operate on Sundays.

Cash Stolen At Putzy's Cafe Sunday Evening

Theft of more than $500 from a cash box and two cash registers at Putzy's Cafe (formerly the Highway 59 Cafe) northwest of Thief River Falls took place overnight last night, according to the Pennington county sheriff's department.

The money was taken between the time the cafe was closed about 10:30 p.m. Sunday and opening at 5:45 a.m. today. There were no visible signs of forced entry, according to the sheriff's department which is continuing the investigation.

Jessica Nelson Lives Fantasy Life As Ice Show Character

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Jessica Nelson has been living in a fantasy world since July 7. The graduate of the Thief River Falls recreational skating program began work that day as a skater with "Walt Disney's Snow White on Ice", a professional skating show which is a combination of Ice Follies and Holiday on Ice.

The fantasy involves not only her role as a character in the Walt Disney story but the fact that she can use the skills she has learned in a primarily recreational activity to earn some money and travel throughout the United States.

Jessica ponders a question during her Times interview.

Since July 7 when she started six weeks of rehearsals in Lakeland, FL, she has performed in 14 cities and skated in over 200 performances.

The 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nelson of rural Thief River Falls, Jessica skates in group and production numbers, as a spare with the chorus line and for the last seven shows prior to a holiday break was also in the opening number. She is on the ice for the majority of the two-hour and five-minute show, most of the time wearing the 40-pound costume of one of the Seven Dwarfs.

The idea of skating professionally was not really a long-standing dream for Jessica, although she considers herself fortunate to have been able to secure the job through her skills at an extensive audition. She started skating in Bemidji when only a few years old and continued with the local recreational skating program when the family moved to Thief River Falls a dozen years ago. Her father is a pharmacist at Ekeren Drug and her mother, Jan, is a registered nurse at Northwest Medical center.

She began taking private lessons in addition to the general skating program when about seven or eight years of age. These usually consisted of a half-hour with a local club skating professional during the winter season and several weeks of classes in the summer at Bemidji or Fargo, ND.

She found the pressures of attempting to excel at skating to be too much, frequently leaving the ice in tears because she felt she had not accomplished what was expected of her. As a sophomore she moved away from home to attend Oak Grove Lutheran high school in Fargo, ND. While there she decided she really did like skating and she renewed her efforts. Although she has been a member of the professional show since early in July, she says she is not in good skating condition now.

It was last March when she went to Minneapolis for an audition with the show in the Met sports center. There were a number of persons trying out for the show and they were tested on skating techniques, forward and backward skat-

Lori Bakken - Robert Jorgenson Wed At Redeemer Church

Lori Jo Marie Bakken became the bride of Robert Joseph Jorgenson at a 4 p.m. ceremony at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bakken of Goodridge and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jorgenson of Tucson, AZ.

Rev. Roger Fehr officiated at the ceremony. Acolytes were cousins of the bride, Chad Wolf, Faribault, and Tommie Quam, Goodridge.

Ruth Mosbeck of Red Lake Falls served as organist. Deborah Hams and Craig Folkedahl of Thief River Falls were vocalists. Musical selections were "You're the Inspiration," "Wedding Song," "God, A Woman and A Man" and "The Lord's Prayer." Processional was "Lohengrin's Wedding Song," with "Ode To Joy" as recessional.

The bride was escorted to an altar graced with an archway, three large candelabra and two plant columns, all of brass, with white satin bows and Boston fern trim.

The bridal gown was of floor-length white satin featuring a close-fitting bodice with back button closing, boat neckline and drop waist. Re-embroidered lace enhanced with seed pearls accented neckline and waist, and pearls and crystal irridescents trimmed the shoulders. Strands of beads fell from each shoulder, creating a sleeve effect. The full skirt flowed to a nine-foot train. Fitted satin gloves of matching lace and pearls formed a point over the ring finger.

A five-tiered veil fell from a braided headband of pearls and irridescents. The bride's attire was hand made and designed by the bride and her aunt, Marion Wolf.

Janelle Verbout, Brooks, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jacque Wolf, Faribault, cousin of the bride; Vickie Moeller, Rochester, Julie Fulks, Fargo, ND, and Lynn Berg, Rochester, all friends of the bride; and Tami Quam, Goodridge, cousin of the bride.

Bridal attendants wore red satin floor-length gowns featuring an off-the-shoulder neckline, closely fitted bodice and draped sash at the hip. The gowns were complimented by red net poufs and flowers in their hair. Long white satin gloves, pearl drop earrings and red satin shoes completed their attire.

The bride's personal attendants were Jackie Jorgenson, Tucson, AZ, friend of the bride, and Karla Quam, Goodridge, cousin of the bride.

Jennifer Wolf, godchild and cousin of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a floor length gown of white satin and chiffon, accented with seed pearls. She wore accessories of white gloves and a wreath of white flowers in her hair, and carried a bridal basket filled with flowers.

Zachary Jorgenson, Tucson, AZ, godchild and nephew of the groom, served as the bride's train bearer. Kyle Verbout, Brooks, godchild and nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer. Both boys wore white tuxedo jackets, white shirts and ties, and white shorts with knee length socks and white shoes.

The groom wore white tails with matching shirt and tie. Doug Anderson, Sun Valley, ID, friend of the groom, was his best man. Groomsmen were Mike and Tom Jorgenson, Tucson, AZ, brothers of the groom, Scott Goetz, Spring Valley, CA, and Tom Ryan, Rochester, friends of the groom, and John Jorgenson, Medford, OR, brother of the groom.

Ushering the guests were Jeff and Timmy Bakken, Goodridge, the bride's brothers; Mark Murphy, Virginia Beach, VA, cousin of the groom; and Wayne Freimund, Minneapolis, friend of the groom. All gentlemen of the wedding party wore charcoal grey stroller tuxedos with pinstripe trousers, dove grey vests with pleated shirts, and striped ties.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece floor-length gown in deep purple silk. Her gown was accented with sequins and a sash at the hip. The mother of the groom wore a mauve floor-length gown with rhinestone overlay.

Guests of honor were grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quam, Goodridge, and grandmother of the groom, Mrs. Louise Aldahl, Tucson, AZ. Grandmothers wore floor-length gowns and the grandfather of the bride wore a tuxedo identical to that of the fathers of the bride and groom.

In charge of the guest book were Marion Wolf, Faribault, aunt of the bride, and Jan Murphy, Austin, aunt of the groom. Eldon, Kurt and Donavon Quam, all of Goodridge, were gift carriers.

A reception for the guests was held following the wedding in the fellowship hall of the church. Marion and Gerry Wolf, Faribault, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Sharon and Duane Fruend, Cottage Grove, godparents of the groom, were host couples.

Allison Quam, godchild and cousin of the bride, and Gretchen Jorgenson, cousin of the groom, presided at the punch bowl. A tiered wedding cake with a flowing fountain highlighted a serving table graced with many traditional Norwegian cookies and a Norwegian wedding cake. Donna Quam, Goodridge, aunt of the bride, and Mary Jorgenson, Austin, aunt of the groom, cut and served the traditional wedding cake. Mildred Arveson, Oklee and Louella Arveson, Trail, relatives of the bride, cut and served the Norwegian wedding cake.

Ardis Race, Goodridge, was kitchen hostess. Waitresses for the dinner were Carolyn Johnson, Bev Bakken, and Marilyn Miller, all cousins of the bride; and friends of the bride, Debbie Larson, Jennifer Race, Linda Arveson, Linda Hanson, Jeanie Johnson, Lorraine Stenvick and Lorraine Mostrom.

A dance was held the evening of the wedding at the Thief River Falls country club. Following a honeymoon cruise in the Bahamas, the couple is at home in Rochester.

Country Music Jam Session Sunday In Fosston

Country music lovers are invited to attend the monthly Country Music Jam Session Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Embassy community center in Fosston. All who play musical instruments are also invited to take part. There will be a potluck supper and music will continue into the evening.

New Year's Eve Party At Embassy Center In Fosston

The Embassy community center at Third and North Eaton in Fosston announces their annual New Year's Eve party and "wake" Wednesday beginning at 7 p.m. The early part of the evening will be spent in games and visiting.

First program will be at 9 p.m. with a film entitled "Martin, the Cobbler," based on the Tolstoy story. New 1987 schedules may be obtained at this time also. There will be a few surprises arranged by program chairpersons Barb Colligan and Clarice Dahl of Bagley. Potluck lunch will be furnished by those whose last names begin with A through L. The final part of the program will be a "pray-in" with music over the midnight hour. Everyone is welcome to come and enjoy an old-fashioned evening with friends.

Cook's Choice

This dish is called "Christmas Eve Supper Eggs," but it might be an interesting dish to serve for New Year's morning breakfast guests.

Toss:
2 cups seasoned croutons
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese.
Add:
1 (4 ounce) can mushrooms, drained
One-third cup crumbled fried bacon
Saute:
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion

Add to crouton mixture. Heat 2 cups milk and add the following:
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder

Whisk 5 eggs; add ½ cup shredded cheese. Pour over crouton mixture. Sprinkle cheese around edge of pan. Bake in 8 inch square pan at 325 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Here's another recipe for the holidays called "New Year's Good Luck Soup."

1 large cup dried beans and peas, mixed 1½ quarts cold water ham bone with some ham on it
1 small onion, chopped
1 large can whole tomatoes
1 clove garlic, optional juice of 1 lemon
salt and pepper to taste

Boil the peas and beans in half the water for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and let soak for one hour. Add rest of ingredients and simmer until peas and beans are tender.

Social Security Checks Increase By 1.3 Per Cent

Social security and supplemental security income (SSI) beneficiaries will receive a 1.3 per cent increase in benefits, beginning with the benefit checks social security beneficiaries receive January 2 and SSI recipients receive on December 31.

Also effective then will be an increase in Medicare's basic medical insurance premium (Part B) from $15.70 to $17.90, according to Howard Kossover, social security manager in Grand Forks.

Under the law, the increase in the Medicare medical insurance premium cannot be more than the dollar amount of the cost-of-living increase in social security benefits. If your monthly social security check is less than $231, the increase in your medical insurance premium will be limited to the dollar amount of your benefit increase, Kossover said. People whose social security checks are $231 or more, however, will pay the full $2.40 increase in the medical insurance premium because the 1.3 per cent benefit increase for them will amount to $3 or more.

Social security and SSI checks increase each year based on the rise in the consumer price index for urban wage earners and clerical workers (CPI-W) from the third quarter of one year through the corresponding period of the next. Prior to this year, the index had to rise by at least three per cent to generate an automatic increase.

With inflation under control and the possibility of no automatic increase this year, President Reagan signed legislation October 21, to ensure that all social security and SSI beneficiaries receive a benefit increase this year. The legislation eliminates the need for a three per cent rise in the CIP-W to trigger an automatic benefit increase.

Individuals with a question about their checks or wanting general social security information can telephone: Grand Forks 701-772-5517 or toll free 1-800-462-5360 from Minnesota.

Jessica Nelson Skates Her Way Around Country

ing, T-stops, how fast they could pick up footwork and routines such as kicks and other skating abilities. Jessica and one other skater from Minnesota — who happened to have been at the same audition — are the only two from this state with the show.

After having auditioned in March, Jessica was contacted in April and told she had been selected and that a contract was on the way. On July 6 she arrived in Lakeland, FL, and the next day started rehearsal for the show.

The show entourage includes 25 girls, 12 guys, eight principal skaters, six stagehands, lighting specialist, two wardrobe persons and three orchestra members. Four persons are hired as dressers in each city as well as six violinists for the orchestra. Principal skaters include Jamie Lynn Kitching as Snow White, Jimmy Santee as the Huntsman, Sheldon Cleaves as the Prince, Peter Cain of Australia as comedy skater and pairs partner with Mary Lou Shipstead.

Her schedule has taken her from Lakeland to Quebec City and Montreal, Quebec, Canada; Glenn Falls, NY; Toronto, Ont., Canada (her favorite city so far); Columbus, OH; Peoria, IL; Louisville, KY; Dayton, OH; St. Louis, MO; Detroit, MI; Indianapolis, IN; Chicago, IL; and Kansas City, MO.

Following the 10-day holiday break (which Jessica said she really enjoyed, having not seen her family since August and being quite homesick), the show resumed in Philadelphia, PA, on December 26. Then it will be on to Baltimore, MD; Milwaukee, WI; Cincinnati, OH; Boston, MA; Cleveland, OH; Buffalo and Hamilton, NY; Bloomington, MN; Birmingham, AL; Miami Beach, West Palm Beach, Ft. Meyers and St. Petersburg, FL, ending on May 17. The show will be in Bloomington March 25 through April 6.

"It's a really great show," Jessica said, "or at least that's what everyone says. I've never seen it, although I'd really like to. We aren't allowed to be in the stands or to really mingle with the people. They do have us do some public relations stuff, though. Lake in Detroit the Seven Dwarfs played a hockey game against the Tiny Mites. We lost 4 to 3."

Most of the group's travel is by bus, which is provided for the people involved. Some who have families have other transportation such as motor homes. If the travel is over 400 miles from one location to another, plane travel may be used. When the group was scheduled to move from Kansas City to Philadelphia prior to the holiday break, plane travel was provided. It cost less for Jessica to go home from Philadelphia than Kansas City, so she flew there first with the group, then came home. The process involved four airplanes and five airports over an 18-hour period.

Discipline with the group is enforced with a series of fines for all manner of rules. They include such things as being over or under established weights, sitting or eating while in costume, hanging the costume correctly on its hanger, turning in clothing items, reporting for duty half an hour before showtime, missing any part of a costume when on the ice, missing a number or many other rules relative to the show. Jessica understands the need for them and says it isn't a particular problem.

Except for the weight! Her weight has been established at 103 pounds and she is subject to fine if she is under 100 or over 106 pounds at the weekly weigh-in. She has been fined twice for being slightly above the weight limit. She has solved that problem by not eating. She lost seven pounds since reporting for the rehearsals in July. Salad, soup, diet soda and vitamins are her staples. Whenever she gets the chance, she also works out at health and fitness facilities in the cities where the show plays.

"Quite a few of the hotels have health centers," she said, "and if the one where we stay don't have them, there is usually a 'Y' in the area where we can go to exercise."

She said that some close friendships are developed among the skaters, primarily because there is neither time nor opportunity to form associations outside the group. Skaters generally room in "quads" to cut expenses and privacy is almost non-existent. "It was great to get home and just go for a walk by myself," Jessica said. "You can't do that in the cities."

The skaters pay for their own food and lodging (the show pays for rooms in excess of $14 per person per night) but group travel is provided. Skaters also provide their own skates (which are sharpened for them), put on their own make-up (including false eyelashes) and do their own hair. The hired dressers assist with costumes, zippers, etc. Christmas bonuses were to be paid AFTER the group returned to Philadelphia.

Each of the skaters is allowed two suitcases plus carry-on bags. Jessica said her suitcases weigh more than she does because all her personal items must be carried with her. Skaters may also have a trunk which arrives every five weeks, but Jessica does not have one.

Arenas where the group performs are often famous but also old and lacking in good facilities. In some buildings the show must provide its own ice sheet and "tank ice" is created by the show crew. This involves a smaller ice surface than is usually otherwise available and makes the performance more difficult. Four-hour rehearsals are held on time a week while on tour and the show will stay in each city for a week or two weeks.

The crew is experienced and professional in its work. Jessica said that they can tear down the set and pack 10 trucks in three and one-half hours.

While Jessica is not disappointed with the work, she said she had expected the performers to be accorded a larger amount of recognition and respect than they receive. But she is considering a second year with the show in 1987-88 when it will make primarily a western tour of U.S. cities. The same program will be presented and the show will open in September after two weeks of rehearsal — compared with six weeks of rehearsal to put the show together this year.

Two years will probably be the extent of Jessica's ice skating fantasy. She misses school and wants to get back to it, preferably somewhere close to home. Her interests for college study lie in mathematics, genetics and teaching. Despite her exposure to big cities, she prefers the smaller communities.

When she hangs up her costume for the last time, however, she will take her skates with her. You never know when a little recreational skating will be just the ticket for an enjoyable couple of hours.

operates charitable gambling activities under licenses granted by the Minnesota Charitable Gambling Control board.

The amount in reserved fund balance represents the net charitable gambling funds available which are restricted by the Minnesota Charitable Gambling Control board for qualifying charitable purposes.

The report also notes that several pending situations may affect the DAC. These include (1) a charge of discrimination filed by an employee November 6 claiming a violation of the equal pay act; (2) an action brought November 13 by two employees and a former employee alleging retaliatory action; and (3) a claim was filed November 26 by former director Evan Armstrong for vacation and backpay.

The auditors also pointed out that the state department of human services may perform a compliance audit and, depending upon the outcome, the DAC could be required to repay a portion of the funds received. "The amount of such repayment, if any, is not determinable until such an audit would be completed," the accountants said.

The accountants provided a list of procedures which they suggested be followed in handling the bookkeeping portion of the operations.

Initiative Fund Grants Awarded For Area Projects

Clearwater and Hubbard counties. The RDC will obtain a data base for a tourism market analysis and will host a seminar in each county to present results and technical assistance to participants.

The Association of the French of the North, Red Lake Falls, will receive $13,185 for planning and technical assistance for an interpretive center that focuses on the French and Indian history of the region. AFRAN is the organization that hosts the annual Le Festival, and it plans to open the interpretive center in 1988 to showcase the history, art, music and crafts of the French and French Indian people.

A $20,000 grant was awarded to the Headwaters Society, Inc., Park Rapids, to promote the "Viking!" outdoor theater production that opened last summer. The Region Two development corporation, Bemidji, will receive $15,000 to fund a variety of tourism promotion activities for the Land of Legends corporation. The coalition will establish an office at Itasca state park, produce a winter tabloid, arrange itinerary tours and determine the education needs for tourism organizations.

Red Lake Riverland association, representing the cities of Crookston, East Grand Forks, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls, will get $15,000 to attend travel shows and advertize the attractions of the Riverland area. Mrs. Diana Josephson of Thief River Falls is president of the association.

Northern Minnesota public television, Bemidji, will receive $10,000 to produce and distribute videos of tourism attractions in northwestern Minnesota.

The Mississippi headwaters board, Walker, will receive $2,500 to produce a multi-purpose recreational map of the Mississippi river. The map will feature public accesses, campgrounds and town and river attractions in the "Wild River" portion located in Clearwater, Hubbard and Beltrami counties.

Grant decisions were made by an eight member board comprised of northwestern Minnesota residents who will award grants on a quarterly basis. The NWMIF received a $2.1 million grant in March from a major Minnesota non-profit organization. The award will be utilized during a two-year period to address social and economic problems in northwestern Minnesota.

Dear Readers,

Wishing each other a 'Happy New Year' we should realize that 'happiness' is an inward feeling of contentment which can only be achieved by a generosity of spirit — by doing unto others as we would have others do unto us. Selfishness and happiness are incompatible. If we can — all of us — resolve to be truly tolerant and considerate of our fellowmen during the coming year, it will surely be a

Township Revenue In State Exceeds FY1986 Spending

State Auditor Arne Carlson revealed recently that township revenues increased by 5.1 per cent in fiscal year 1986, while expenditures were unchanged, increasing by only 0.2 per cent, according to his annual report of township revenues, expenditures and debt. Most of the increase in revenues came from local property taxes ($2.4 million) and state grants and aids ($1.1 million).

"Expenditures for current operations were up 4.5 per cent, while outlays were down $2.8 million, or 15.5 per cent from a year ago," Carlson said. "A few townships were unusually active in capital outlay projects in the previous year," Carlson noted.

"An interesting finding when townships are grouped by county is that 37 of the 87 counties showed declines in township expenditures for fiscal 1986," Carlson said. "Counties showing decreases in expenditure patterns tend to be those in the south, southwest and western border areas of the state," Carlson continued.

The three major sources of township revenues were property taxes, 50.4 per cent; state aids and grants, 25.4 per cent; and federal payments, 7.6 per cent, according to the report.

The townships collected $47.6 million in property taxes for the period, up 5.3 per cent over the amount collected for fiscal year 1985. Total revenues were $94.3 million during the period, $4.6 million more than the 1985 total.

Township expenditures in FY86 totaled $86.4 million compared to $86.2 million for the previous year, a 0.2 per cent increase. Road and bridge equipment, road maintenance and construction costs accounted for 59.6 per cent of total expenditures.

Only 43 or 2.4 per cent of the 1,798 towns have any outstanding bonded indebtedness. Bonded indebtedness totaled $18.5 million, as compared to $17.7 million in the previous year.

The annual report covers revenues, expenditures, indebtedness, taxable valuations and tax levies of Minnesota townships for the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1986. Residents of the 1,798 townships make up nearly one-fourth of the population of the state.

Have a peaceful and prosperous New Year. Our best wishes to all of you!

1987 Tax Reform Holds Good News For Taxpayers

by Walter W. Heller
U of M Economist

Was there anything in Santa's tax bag for the stockholder, the wage earner, the consumer, in 1987?

So far, the emphasis has been on the bad news (taxes go up on capital gains; sales tax deductions disappear; deductions on interest on consumer loans gradually fade away; tax breaks for IRAs are whittled down), but the good far outweighs the bad. Tax reform provides plenty of Christmas stocking-stuffers:

— For a family of four, your personal exemption jumps from $4,220 this year to $7,600 for next year and $8,000 by 1989.

— Besides, non-itemizers will enjoy a jump in the standard deduction from $3,670 to $5,000 for a joint return.

— So, that means no taxes at all next year on the first $12,600 of income for the family of four. That will drop over six million poor and near-poor from the tax rolls and ease taxes for the rest of us.

— Further, look at the drop in your tax rates. Those in the top bracket drop from 50 per cent to 38 per cent next year and 33 per cent the year after, and there will be a cap of 28 per cent of taxable income on the total tax.

— By 1988, four-fifths of all taxpayers will stay in the bottom 15 per cent rate bracket. As a married couple, you'll have to have roughly $30,000 of taxable income, after those stepped up exemptions and deductions, before any of your income gets into the 28 per cent bracket. Another way of looking at this: A family of four with $42,000 of income will pay only about 10 per cent of that income to Uncle Sam. That's sharply below present tax levels.

— All this will show up in lower withholding from your paycheck starting next month.

— Besides, with a much tougher minimum tax and lots of loopholes plugged, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that the tax-dodge artists will now be caught in the tax net.

But that's not all. On reflection, more and more analysts are recognizing the bright side of tax reform's impact on the tax shelter industry, especially real estate, but sharply lower corporate and individual tax rates will have a tonic effect on ecomomic incentives. They will also let market forces rather than tax break guide resources into more productive and efficient uses, and consumer spending will get a lift from the cut in withholding rates.

So this Christmas brought some tax plums along with the sugar plums. Taxwise, 'twas the season to be jolly.

JAWS OF LIFE equipment for the local fire department received a $25 boost from the BPO Does in Thief River Falls recently when Marilyn Winters, secretary and president-elect of the Does, awarded a check to fire chief David Bjorkman. The rescue equipment is considered a major improvement to the fire department's capabilities to provide assistance to victims in accidents or other emergencies.

WIC And EPS To Hold Clinics At Area Locations

The Women, Infants and Children Supplemental Nutritional Educational program, (WIC) is being held the month of January. Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breast-feeding may be eligible for the program. All potential clients must call or write the 4 County EPS-WIC service and complete an application.

Early and periodic screening will also be offered at this time to children six months through 13 years of age. EPS checks all of the following: hearing and vision, hematocrit determination, urinalysis and physical assessments, denver developmental testing, dental assessments and instruction in care of teeth.

Appointments must be made one month in advance. Following is the schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for January:

Januray 2, Red Lake Falls community center; January 13, Oklee community center; January 15, Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, (WIC only, no immunizations); and January 16, Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will be given at all WIC and EPS clinics from 9 to 9:30 a.m. For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write 4 County EPS-WIC Service, 208 E. Colvin, Warren, MN 56762, phone 745-4004.

Dairymen's Day At Experiment Station Jan. 13

Northwestern Minnesota dairymen's day will be conducted Tuesday, January 13, at the Northwest Experiment station at Crookston. Sessions will be in the agricultural research center auditorium.

Registration begins at 10 a.m. with the dairy research report on station projects being given by Dr. George Marx at 10:10 a.m. Tips on improving AI techniques and herd fertility will be given by Dr. Jeff Reneau, University of Minnesota, St. Paul. Dr. Jerome Hammond of the St. Paul staff will discuss milk marketing operations for dairymen.

Dr. Larry Smith, superintendent of the Northwest experiment station, will update rebuilding of the dairy barn and research and teaching center. Roger Odegaard will preside at the Red River Valley Dairymen's association meeting at 12:20 p.m.

Following the noon lunch, Gerald Visser of Gary will discuss breeding, feeding and managing a successful dairy herd and Dr. James G. Linn of the St. Paul campus will discuss balanced rations for improving production and profits.

Tour of the dairy facilities will be conducted by Dr. Marx and assistant scientist Marlyn Jacobson at 2:40 p.m.

Warn Diabetics About Sugar In Seltzer Products

Diabetics and others concerned about drinking sugar beverage products should carefully examine the label of products indicating "seltzer," which appear to be flavored water products, warns the Minnesota Soft Drink association.

Although the primary label may read "No Sucrose," the smaller ingredient part of the label indicates that the product is sweetened with "Fructose Syrup." The addition of the fructose syrup means the addition of approximately 120 to 140 calories per 10 oz. bottle, which is a substantial sugared drink.

Even though the product may look like water, you may want to take that second look at the ingredient part of the label if you are concerned about drinking too much sugar.

Ethics Committee Development Is Workshop Topic

Second workshop on ethics committee development, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Minnesota-Dakota Region, is planned for January 29 at the Mt St Benedict center in Crookston. The event is free and pre-registration is requested. Contact Paul O. Sand, 100 North 6th St., Suite 531-B, Mpls., MN 55403, phone (612) 333-5365.

The workshop, funded by a grant from the Blandin foundation, has as its objectives: To identify ethical dilemmas arising in the health care of residents and patients, to increase awareness of rational methods for discussing issues surrounding life sustaining treatment before the dilemma arises, to identify local resources available to assist personnel in resolving ethical dilemmas; to use a model for decision-making, isolating and defining ethical issues, and to provide practical knowledge on how to form an ethics committee.

The first of five regional workshops was held in Grand Rapids on November 20. The 83 participants — doctors, nurses, social workers, administrators and clergy — gave the workshop excellent evaluations. The NCCJ project will be held in Alexandria on March 26, Mankato on April 30, and Duluth on June 11.

Differt Named As Assistant To DOT Commissioner

Minnesota department of transportation commissioner Leonard W. Levine today announced his choice for the post of Mn-DOT deputy commissioner. He is Douglas H. Differt, who will assume his new duties effective January 1.

In choosing Differt to fill the post of second in command at Mn-DOT, Levine picked a 25-year DOT employee. Differt currently serves as Mn-DOT's assistant commissioner for program management. Previous work assignment included time spent at three of Mn-DOT's nine district offices — Brainerd, Oakdale and Rochester.

Differt, a registered professional engineer, first came to Mn-DOT in 1961 after having graduated from the University of North Dakota.

Levine's choice of Differt as his new deputy follows the announced retirement of Robert J. McDonald who has served as Mn-DOT deputy commissioner for the past eight years. McDonald is leaving state service on December 31 after having worked at the transportation department for 32 years.

In his new position as deputy commissioner, Differt will direct internal functions of Mn-DOT, such as engineering personnel, finance, budgeting and audit. He will also chair the department's policy and research coordination committees.

Homestead Credit Requires Social Security Number

Homeowners who apply for the property tax homestead credit during the next few weeks must put their social security numbers on the homestead applications in order to receive the homestead credit, the Minnesota department of revenue said today.

The new law, which is effective Jan. 2, 1987, was passed by the 1986 Minnesota legislature and is an effort to prevent property owners from receiving more than one homestead credit on different properties, said Dennis Erno, assistant commissioner for taxpayer services.

"If homeowners do not supply the counties with their social security number or taxpayer identification numbers, they will not receive the homestead credit," Erno said. The credit can reduce a homeowner's property tax bill by as much as $700, and applies to farmland as well as homes.

Most homeowners will be receiving homestead applications by mail from their county assessors within the next couple of weeks. To receive the homestead credit in 1988, homeowners must live in their homes on Jan. 2, 1987. They should fill in their social security number, sign the card and mail it back to their county assessor. If the home is jointly owned, both owners must supply their social security numbers. Only owners who live in the home may apply for the homestead credit, he said.

The social security numbers will be supplied by the counties to the state and will be used to cross check for duplicate homestead credit applications, as well as to determine if a person has applied for both a homestead credit and a renter's property tax refund, Erno said. The numbers will also be used to check if the homeowner is complying with state income tax laws, he added.

"We believe this new law will help prevent abuse in the homestead credit program," Erno said. "In the past, it's been very difficult to tell if a person is claiming a homestead in more than one county." He said some people illegally claim homestead status on their lake cabins.

Erno said 1,052,836 homestead credits were approved in 1986, totalling $575 million in benefits to homeowners. More than one-third of the homeowners receive the maximum credit of $700.

If it is determined that a homestead credit was improperly claimed, the applicant must repay to the state any benefits received, as well as a 25 per cent penalty to the county, he said.

Erno said the homeowners' social security numbers will be kept confidential by the department and that they are considered private information under the federal data practices act.

Dairy Production Meeting Set At Red Lake Falls

Quotas, price outlook, raising and using good quality forages and a herd vaccination program will all be topics presented at a regional dairy production meeting from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, January 7, at the Minnesota Wheat Grower's building in Red Lake Falls.

Speakers at the program will be Art Rampton, chairman of the Manitoba Milk Producers, Harlan Holmquist, economist for Land O'Lakes, Inc.; Dr. Larry Johnson, veterinarian from the Red Lake Falls vet clinic; and Dr. Neil Martin, extension forage specialist.

Dear Readers,
Wishing each other a 'Happy New Year' we should realize that 'happiness' is an inward feeling of contentment which can only be achieved by a generosity of spirit — by doing unto others as we would have others do unto us. Selfishness and happiness are incompatible. If we can — all of us — resolve to be truly tolerant and considerate of our fellowmen during the coming year, it will surely be a

Township Revenue In State Exceeds FY1986 Spending

State Auditor Arne Carlson revealed recently that township revenues increased by 5.1 per cent in fiscal year 1986, while expenditures were unchanged, increasing by only 0.2 per cent, according to his annual report of township revenues, expenditures and debt. Most of the increase in revenues came from local property taxes ($2.4 million) and state grants and aids ($1.1 million).

"Expenditures for current operations were up 4.5 per cent, while outlays were down $2.8 million, or 15.5 per cent from a year ago," Carlson said. "A few townships were unusually active in capital outlay projects in the previous year," Carlson noted.

"An interesting finding when townships are grouped by county is that 37 of the 87 counties showed declines in township expenditures for fiscal 1986," Carlson said. "Counties showing decreases in expenditure patterns tend to be those in the south, southwest and western border areas of the state," Carlson continued.

The three major sources of township revenues were property taxes, 50.4 per cent; state aids and grants, 25.4 per cent; and federal payments, 7.6 per cent, according to the report.

The townships collected $47.6 million in property taxes for the period, up 5.3 per cent over the amount collected for fiscal year 1985. Total revenues were $94.3 million during the period, $4.6 million more than the 1985 total.

Township expenditures in FY86 totaled $86.4 million compared to $86.2 million for the previous year, a 0.2 per cent increase. Road and bridge equipment, road maintenance and construction costs accounted for 59.6 per cent of total expenditures.

Only 43 or 2.4 per cent of the 1,798 towns have any outstanding bonded indebtedness. Bonded indebtedness totaled $18.5 million, as compared to $17.7 million in the previous year.

The annual report covers revenues, expenditures, indebtedness, taxable valuations and tax levies of Minnesota townships for the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1986. Residents of the 1,798 townships make up nearly one-fourth of the population of the state.

1987 Tax Reform Holds Good News For Taxpayers

by Walter W. Heller
U of M Economist

Was there anything in Santa's tax bag for the stockholder, the wage earner, the consumer, in 1987?

So far, the emphasis has been on the bad news (taxes go up on capital gains; sales tax deductions disappear; deductions on interest on consumer loans gradually fade away, tax breaks for IRAs are whittled down), but the good far outweighs the bad. Tax reform provides plenty of Christmas stocking-stuffers:

– For a family of four, your personal exemption jumps from $4,220 this year to $7,600 for next year and $8,000 by 1989.

– Besides, non-itemizers will enjoy a jump in the standard deduction from $3,670 to $5,000 for a joint return.

– So, that means no taxes at all next year on the first $12,600 of income for the family of four. That will drop over six million poor and near-poor from the tax rolls and ease taxes for the rest of us.

– Further, look at the drop in your tax rates. Those in the top bracket drop from 50 per cent to 38 per cent next year and 33 per cent the year after, and there will be a cap of 28 per cent of taxable income on the total tax.

– By 1988, four-fifths of all taxpayers will stay in the bottom 15 per cent rate bracket. As a married couple, you'll have to have roughly $30,000 of taxable income, after those stepped up exemptions and deductions, before any of your income gets into the 28 per cent bracket. Another way of looking at this: A family of four with $42,000 of income will pay only about 10 per cent of that income to Uncle Sam. That's sharply below present tax levels.

– All this will show up in lower withholding from your paycheck starting next month.

– Besides, with a much tougher minimum tax and lots of loopholes plugged, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that the tax-dodge artists will now be caught in the tax net.

But that's not all. On reflection, more and more analysts are recognizing the bright side of tax reform's impact on the tax shelter industry, especially real estate, but sharply lower corporate and individual tax rates will have a tonic effect on economic incentives. They will also let market forces rather than tax break guide resources into more productive and efficient uses, and consumer spending will get a lift from the cut in withholding rates.

So this Christmas brought some tax plums along with the sugar plums. Taxwise, 'twas the season to be jolly.

Rehab Hospital Programs Aired

Medical Center Rehabilitation hospital in Grand Forks, ND, has developed a series of educational TV programs on various rehabilitation issues which will be broadcast every Thursday in January at 7 p.m. on cable channel 3.

The January schedule is:

January 1: "Jackie's Story: My Life After A Stroke"; January 8: "Meeting the Needs of the Stroke Patient"; January 15: "Stroke: MCRH Team Approach"; January 22: "Stroke: Adjustment Counseling"; and January 29: "Stroke: Occupational Therapy Treatment."

JAWS OF LIFE equipment for the local fire department received a $25 boost from the BPO Does in Thief River Falls recently when Marilyn Winters, secretary and president-elect of the Does, awarded a check to fire chief David Bjorkman. The rescue equipment is considered a major improvement to the fire department's capabilities to provide assistance to victims in accidents or other emergencies.

WIC And EPS To Hold Clinics At Area Locations

The Women, Infants and Children Supplemental Nutritional Educational program (WIC) is being held the month of January. Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or breast feeding may be eligible for the program. All potential clients must call or write the 4 County EPS/WIC service and complete an application.

Early and periodic screening will also be offered at this time to children six months through 13 years of age. EPS checks all of the following: hearing and vision, hematocrit determination, urinalysis and physical assessments, denver developmental testing, dental assessments and instruction in care of teeth.

Appointments must be made one month in advance. Following is the schedule for WIC and EPS clinics for January:

Januray 2, Red Lake Falls community center; January 13, Oklee community center; January 15, Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls (WIC only, no immunizations); and January 16, Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will be given at all WIC and EPS clinics from 9 to 9:30 a.m. For further information concerning the WIC and EPS programs, call or write 4 County EPS/WIC Service, 208 E. Colvin, Warren, MN 56762, phone 745-4004.

Dairymen's Day At Experiment Station Jan. 13

Northwestern Minnesota dairymen's day will be conducted Tuesday, January 13, at the Northwest Experiment station at Crookston. Sessions will be in the agricultural research center auditorium.

Registration begins at 10 a.m. with the dairy research report on station projects being given by Dr. George Marx at 10:10 a.m. Tips on improving AI techniques and herd fertility will be given by Dr. Jeff Reneau, University of Minnesota, St. Paul. Dr. Jerome Hammond of the St. Paul staff will discuss milk marketing operations for dairymen.

Dr. Larry Smith, superintendent of the Northwest experiment station, will update rebuilding of the dairy barn and research and teaching center. Roger Odegaard will preside at the Red River Valley Dairymen's association meeting at 12:20 p.m.

Following the noon lunch, Gerald Visser of Gary will discuss breeding, feeding and managing a successful dairy herd and Dr. James G. Linn of the St. Paul campus will discuss balanced rations for improving production and profits.

Tour of the dairy facilities will be conducted by Dr. Marx and assistant scientist Marlyn Jacobson at 2:40 p.m.

Warn Diabetics About Sugar In Seltzer Products

Diabetics and others concerned about drinking sugar beverage products should carefully examine the label of products indicating "seltzer," which appear to be flavored water products, warns the Minnesota Soft Drink association.

Although the primary label may read "No Sucrose," the smaller ingredient part of the label indicates that the product is sweetened with "Fructose Syrup." The addition of the fructose syrup means the addition of approximately 120 to 140 calories per 10 oz. bottle, which is a substantial sugared drink.

Even though the product may look like water, you may want to take that second look at the ingredient part of the label if you are concerned about drinking too much sugar.

Ethics Committee Development Is Workshop Topic

Second workshop on ethics committee development, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews Minnesota-Dakota Region, is planned for January 29 at the Mt. St. Benedict center in Crookston. The event is free and pre-registration is requested. Contact Paul O. Sand, 100 North 6th St., Suite 531 B, Mpls., MN 55403, phone (612) 333-5365.

The workshop, funded by a grant from the Blandin foundation, has as its objectives: To identify ethical dilemmas arising in the health care of residents and patients; to increase awareness of rational methods for discussing issues surrounding life-sustaining treatment before the dilemma arises; to identify local resources available to assist personnel in resolving ethical dilemmas; to use a model for decision making, isolating and defining ethical issues; and to provide practical knowledge on how to form an ethics committee.

The first of five regional workshops was held in Grand Rapids on November 20. The 83 participants — doctors, nurses, social workers, administrators and clergy — gave the workshop excellent evaluations. The NCCJ project will be held in Alexandria on March 26, Mankato on April 30, and Duluth on June 11.

Differt Named As Assistant To DOT Commissioner

Minnesota department of transportation commissioner Leonard W. Levine today announced his choice for the post of Mn/DOT deputy commissioner. He is Douglas H. Differt, who will assume his new duties effective January 1.

In choosing Differt to fill the post of second in command at Mn/DOT, Levine picked a 25-year DOT employee. Differt currently serves as Mn/DOT's assistant commissioner for program management. Previous work assignment included time spent at three of Mn/DOT's nine district offices: Brainerd, Oakdale and Rochester.

Differt, a registered professional engineer, first came to Mn/DOT in 1961 after having graduated from the University of North Dakota.

Levine's choice of Differt as his new deputy follows the announced retirement of Robert J. McDonald who has served as Mn/DOT deputy commissioner for the past eight years. McDonald is leaving state service on December 31 after having worked at the transportation department for 32 years.

In his new position as deputy commissioner, Differt will direct internal functions of Mn/DOT, such as engineering, personnel, finance, budgeting and audit. He will also chair the department's policy and research coordination committees.

Homestead Credit Requires Social Security Number

Homeowners who apply for the property tax homestead credit during the next few weeks must put their social security numbers on the homestead applications in order to receive the homestead credit, the Minnesota department of revenue said today.

The new law, which is effective Jan. 2, 1987, was passed by the 1986 Minnesota legislature and is an effort to prevent property owners from receiving more than one homestead credit on different properties, said Dennis Erno, assistant commissioner for taxpayer services.

"If homeowners do not supply the counties with their social security number or taxpayer identification numbers, they will not receive the homestead credit," Erno said. "The credit can reduce a homeowner's property tax bill by as much as $700, and applies to farmland as well as homes."

Most homeowners will be receiving homestead applications by mail from their county assessors within the next couple of weeks. To receive the homestead credit in 1988, homeowners must live in their homes on Jan. 2, 1987. They should fill in their social security number, sign the card and mail it back to their county assessor.

"If the home is jointly owned, both owners must supply their social security numbers. Only owners who live in the home may apply for the homestead credit," he said.

The social security numbers will be supplied by the counties to the state and will be used to cross check for duplicate homestead credit applications, as well as to determine if a person has applied for both a homestead credit and a renter's property tax refund, Erno said. The numbers will also be used to check if the homeowner is complying with state income tax laws, he added.

"We believe this new law will help prevent abuse in the homestead credit program," Erno said. "In the past, it's been very difficult to tell if a person is claiming a homestead in more than one county." He said some people illegally claim homestead status on their lake cabins.

Erno said 1,052,846 homestead credits were approved in 1986, totalling $575 million in benefits to homeowners. More than one-third of the homeowners receive the maximum credit of $700.

If it is determined that a homestead credit was improperly claimed, the applicant must repay to the state any benefits received, as well as a 25 per cent penalty to the county, he said.

Erno said the homeowners' social security numbers will be kept confidential by the department and that they are considered private information under the federal data practices act.

Dairy Production Meeting Set At Red Lake Falls

Quotas, price outlook, raising and using good quality forages and a herd vaccination program will all be topics presented at a regional dairy production meeting from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, January 7, at the Minnesota Wheat Grower's building in Red Lake Falls.

Speakers at the program will be Art Rampton, chairman of the Manitoba Milk Producers; Harlan Holmquist, economist for Land O'Lakes, Inc.; Dr. Larry Johnson, veterinarian from the Red Lake Falls vet clinic, and Dr. Neil Martin, extension forage specialist.

Coffee and registration will be from 9 to 9:30 a.m. The program is open to all interested dairy producters and businesses working with dairy producers.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Back To Square One?

Some years ago a management plan was devised for the elk herd in the Grygla area which involved food plots on state-owned lands and compensation to some extent for proven elk damage to crops on private land. It appeared to be a pretty good plan but it didn't get very far beyond the planning stage.

Now that Judge Bertrand Poritsky in Ramsey county district court has issued an injunction halting the highly controversial elk capture and transfer program, the problem of how to deal with the elk and the damage they do will again be in the forefront on continuing controversy. It is certain the frustration intensity on all levels of the question has not been diminished.

As we have noted previously, the Grygla area residents who have had enough of the elk and the damage they do put on a super selling job in the legislature to secure a bill ordering removal of the elk. They spent the time and effort required to contact the right people and tell their story in convincing enough fashion to accomplish their objectives.

In the final (or at least semi-final) analysis, however, they have won the battle while seemingly losing the war. The elk remain, despite what we believe to be the best — if less than enthusiastic — efforts of the department of natural resources to capture and move them from the area. The elk, it would appear, are not influenced as easily as legislators.

Does that bring the game back to square one? Not necessarily so. The publicity surrounding the capture efforts and the problems encountered with that project has served to create an awareness on a state-wide basis. Not everyone cares what happens to a couple of dozen cow-like critters which seem to materialize and disappear at will in the mixture of farmland and brushland of eastern Marshall county, but legislators have discovered that a lot more people are interested than they earlier expected.

As a result, it will be easier for the department of natural resources to break with the long-held contention that paying for wildlife depredation in any manner is an open invitation to a raid on the DNR treasury. It may even be possible for the DNR to convince the legislature that a special appropriation is necessary to provide funding for compensation — including a little extra for administrative costs to set up and administer the program.

An editorial in the Bemidji Pioneer makes a good point when it states, "This herd was, after all, started through state efforts and should be maintained as such. There are those who dislike the idea of "managing" wildlife on the basis that game populations, once managed, become no more than domesticated herds that are hunted periodically.

"But in today's world we are increasingly faced with the options of either managing wildlife to ensure the species will remain viable or leaving all to chance in the face of the types of changes we humans made in natural habitats. The more responsible choice seems apparent."

We would like to see a system where the elk can remain in the area. They add a certain mystique to our part of the state and they are majestic creatures which are impressive to those who see them. But it is entirely unfair to ask residents of the area to pick up the tab for the herd's taste for farm crops and the damages which their herd tendencies create.

Let us hope that the experiences of the past years have been at least a little educational for all concerned and that compromise has been added to the vocabulary of those who speak for the varied interests. Make the program as simple as possible, and the compensation as fair and liberal as possible, and the cost sharing as widespread as possible. The cost will be a whole lot less than the past year's hassle has required and the end result should be a whole lot better for all concerned.

Warning To Non-Smokers

Following letter from A. Stuart Hanson, MD, president of the Minnesota Coalition for a Smoke-Free Society 2000, was received by the Times and is worthy of sharing with our readers:

Each year, the U.S. Surgeon General releases a special report on the health consequences of smoking. For the tobacco industry, the release of the report is an embarrassing event, one that the industry wishes would just go away. While the reports, without exception, continue to condemn cigarette smoking as the number one preventable cause of death and disease in America, the industry has to keep on defending and promoting its products. This happens even when the Surgeon General issues reports linking smoking with special diseases, such as heart disease, chronic lung diseases and cancer.

This year, however, the tobacco industry is faced with a different challenge. This year the report not only Condemns smoking as a health hazard for smokers, but non-smokers as well.

The latest report from Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D., makes one thing quite clear: a person does not have to be a smoker to jeopardize his or her health; inhaling second hand smoke can also pose a serious health hazard.

The scientific evidence on the health hazards of second hand smoke, presented in the 1986 report by Dr. Koop, is quite convincing and comprehensive. The report makes a strong case for non-smokers to protect their health by avoiding places where there are no limitations on smoking.

No one should be obligated to inhalf harmful chemicals like hydrogen cyanide, carbon monoxide, ammonia tars and other toxic substances found in cigarette smoke.

We hope that this year's report from Dr. Koop will lead many communities to restrict cigarette smoking in public places, like schools, shopping malls, private and government offices and restaurants. The Minnesota Clean Indoor Air Act already requires this, and it needs to be observed and we may need to go even further.

If this report settles any question it is that of a smoker's "personal" right to smoke cigarettes anywhere, anytime. Smoker's have never really had the right to contaminate the air, but now they have an obligation to keep the air clean, just like everybody else.

Smokers may know that they are endangering their health but the question now is do non-smokers know what they are doing to themselves by inhaling second-hand cigarette smoke?

For those of us in the health care industry, this year's report presents a new challenge. We have to continue to urge smokers to quit smoking, but now we have to educate non-smokers and former smokers to stay away from cigarette smoke.

The health hazrds of smoking have been identified in warnings on cigarette packages for many years. The same warnings have appeared on cigarette advertisements. Today, the warnings are quite specific, listing several major diseases associated with smoking.

Non-smokers, however, don't pay attention to those warnings. They should. Perhaps we need a new set of Surgeon General's warnings for the non-smoker. We'd like to suggest a few:

WARNING: Non-smoking women married to smokers have an increased risk of heart disease.

WARNING: Exposing your children to cigarette smoke can increase their risk of developing respiratory infections.

WARNING: Second-hand cigarette smoke contains tars and other cancer causing substances.

The Challenge of American Citizenship

An Essay by Michelle Turenne

When my Japanese "brother for a year" got off the plane, I wondered what he thought of America. Would the foreign exchange program be a complete challenge for him — would it be a change? Change was not the word for my brother's explanation, because he always said it was like a whole new lifestyle had been arranged for him.

One of the things he liked the best in America was our school system. In Japan, students must take entrance exams in order to be accepted into public high schools, which are usually non-cold. If their exam is not passed, they are not allowed to start the school year until it is. Also, the Japanese attend school six days a week, not like the five days American students attend.

In Japan my brother's studies are his first priority and practically his only concern; however, in America students have a choice of what they want to put first. An example would be a student who places more emphasis on extra-curriculars or community activities — to a point — with his parent's consent, of course.

In spite of the love he had for his own country, my brother was envious of the way we, as Americans, strive to form a well-rounded person with many special features, rather than a person who has only one academic side.

My brother would often remind me how "free" I really was; and, truthfully, until he came to live with my family in America, I never realized how free I really am. I had always taken my freedom for granted, but now I know it is something to be thankful for every day of my life.

As an American I feel that two of our most important duties as citizens are to preserve our nation's well-being and to further enhance in the minds of our younger generations the knowledge of their freedom.

One of the most important responsibilities of an American citizen today is voting. Citizens can make changes in government by electing candidates within specific offices who they believe will best work in making necessary improvements. It is our challenge as citizens to carry through on this responsibility because one vote could make the difference.

Other responsibilities which we as American citizens must challenge ourselves to maintain include: obeying the laws, which builds a respectful citizen and causes less friction within our country so that more important decisions can be accomplished; the paying of taxes, which supplies the nation's resources to keep its engines churning and its wheels rolling; and also contributing to the military service, which protects and defends our nation's citizens.

One of our nation's most prized possessions — the Statue of Liberty — truly sumbolizes what freedom is. We as people are like children in a crib, and she, the statue, is like our mother. She protects us, she cares for us and supports us through all that we do. As Americans we are protected when we are away from our country and privileged in many ways when we are at home.

Our American flag also signifies another very important possession of our nation. It reminds us all of those who fought and died for our country in order to preserve our nation's freedom. It is to those people and other veterans we owe our greatest debt.

Two of our nation's most important challenges are freedom of speech and freedom of religion. Freedom of speech allows one to share his beliefs and express his views openly. Freedom of religion is like a "bonus right" because we, unlike many nations, have the right to worship or not to worship as we please. However, I am happy our nation's pledge of allegiance states that we are "one nation under God."

Having a foreign exchange student in our home for a year helped me realize that living in America is a great honor and obviously a wonderful privilege in itself. It is our challenge to maintain these treasured gifts in order to keep our country beautiful, peaceful, and of course, free.

As a citizen of the United States, I have the right to live, to speak, to hope and to dream as I want. I am a young American and it is a challenge for me to preserve these privileges and gifts for the future so that our country's foundation stones may be kept in place.

(Editor's Note: This essay won first place in the Lincoln high school portion of the VFW Voice of Democracy contest and third place in Ninth District competition.)

THE PENNINGTON COUNTY ASSESSOR'S OFFICE HAS SENT OUT

HOMESTEAD NOTICES

FOR THE YEAR OF 1987

Every home owner that owns and occupies their home as of January 2, 1987 must sign their name and social security number.

If the home is owned by more than one owner like a husband and wife, both the social security numbers must be put on the Homestead Notice. This law was passed by the 1986 Legislature. Again this must be signed and have the social security numbers on them.

Any questions on this feel free to stop in or call the County Assessor's Office, 218-681-3843.

The homestead card must be returned to the Assessor's office or the homestead will be removed. This will result in a considerable increase in property taxes. (Approximately four times higher.)

TIMES Around The Region

Area Burglaries

Newfolden — Two businesses in Newfolden, Hobo Haus and The Sportsmen's Den, and the Meadowbrook Ballroom of Middle River were burglarized last week. Losses amounted to a total of an estimated $600 from all three businesses. The Marshall County Sheriff's department is investigating the incidents.

School Spirit

Roseau — The ninth grade manufacturing class at Roseau high school designed and produced ten wooden trains for disadvantaged children this year. There are thirteen students in the class, taught by Mr. Glassmann. An elementary second grade class helped in the project by making the gift wrap for the trains.

Realistic Christmas Scenes

Roseau — Sacred Heart Catholic church presented a unique version of the Christmas story this year. The program was photographed at the Kelman Kvien farm northwest of Roseau in October using real sheep, a horse, and the whole outdoors as background. Then a slide presentation of the program was shown at the church December 14 for the Christmas program, and even the actors got a chance to enjoy it.

Dashing Through The Snow

Gatzke — Children at the Gatzke school were treated to sleigh rides through the woods for their school Christmas party December 19. Two teams of Percherons owned by Tom Morrissey and Shannon Ostby pulled large sleigh loads of children and teachers through deep snow and brush to give them a taste of "how things used to be."

Christmas Music

CHRISTMAS MUSIC.....

Hallock — The Hallock junior and senior high school bands, choirs and ensembles performed on KCNN radio, East Grand Forks, on Christmas Day. The special broadcast was entitled "Old Fashioned Christmas," and featured instrumental and vocal selections from 22 area churches, high schools and colleges.

Enjoyable Assignment

Kennedy — Fourth, fifth and sixth graders at Kennedy elementary school received a Veterans' day assignment to send letters to patients at a Minneapolis veterans home. Several students have carried the original assignment a step further and are writing Christmas letters to the patients on their own. Two students, Krista Bowman and Scott Flatland, Jr., received answering letters from veterans, and other students are hoping that their Christmas letters will also get a response.

Spacious Scene

Crookston — A Crookston couple has five square feet of their living room turned into a miniature Bethlehem. Evelyn and John Beaudry have decorated their home with a Nativity scene every Christmas for 40 years, since a few years after they were married, and over the years have collected a wide variety of decorations to add to the scene each year. The scene now takes up a large corner of their living room and is visited by many people each year. Last year over a hundred people toured the home. Anyone wishing to visit the scene is asked to call ahead so the Beaudrys can plan for it.

Santa Didn't Miss The Bus

East Grand Forks — Several East Grand Forks school bus drivers made their regular rounds the last day of school before Christmas vacation wearing Santa Claus suits.

Exchanging Hats

Fertile — Four DNR officers who stopped at Mac's cafe in Fertile got more than lunch recently. As they perused the menu, they were startled by shouts of "The cafe is on fire!" Indeed, the west wall of the restaurant was burning. After evacuating the 12 customers and employees, the officers grabbed fire extinguishers from their squad cars and fought the blaze. The fire was confined to the wall and out before the fire department arrived. The fire apparently began from a cardboard box of ashes placed against the outer wall. The conservation officers turned firefighters were Craig Backer, area supervisor at Thief River Falls; Paul Nelson, Red Lake Falls; Cliff Sjolund, Twin Valley; and Allen Hanson, Crookston.

Volunteer Awards

Crookston — Five individuals and one couple were honored for their volunteer efforts at the final council meeting of 1986 by Crookston mayor Doug Oman recently. Receiving awards were Sr. Lucille Cadieux, Howard C. Smith, Beverly Brekken, Loretta O. Vanseth and Nancy Capistran. David and Karen Bang received their award together.

Commended For Bravery

Bagley — The Clearwater county board of commissioners awarded letters of commendation to Betty Lou Larson, Darold Iverson and James Schroeder for bravery and distinguished public service when they aided in disarming and subduing a man with a gun struggling with Bagley police chief Tom Neeland in the reception area of the Clearwater county welfare office March 26 of this year.

Tie A Red Ribbon

Blackduck — Members of the Blackduck garden club bedecked the city with 2,000 yards of red ribbon this holiday season, symbolizing love and joy in appreciation of the community's support in the club's various endeavors. The red bows decorated trees, houses, light poles, and even the black duck that is the symbol of the city.

Meter Readers

Red Lake Falls — In an effort to better utilize personnel and conserve funds, the Red Lake Falls utility commission has enacted a new policy in which residents will be reading their own water meters. City Clerk Larry Kruse said it takes a city employee three days to read the meters, and by having residents read their own meters it will free the city employee to work in other areas and provide a savings to consumers as well as help prevent a raise in utility rates.

Happy Birthday

Red Lake Falls — The Bethany Lutheran and First Presbyterian churches of Red Lake Falls celebrated the birth of Jesus before Christmas with a live nativity scene, including a live baby Jesus, and a big birthday cake.

BEST WISHES

Best of luck to our fine friends and patrons. It's been a pleasure doing business with you during the past year.

State Income Tax Booklets Went In Mail On Friday

1986 Minnesota income tax booklets began going out in the mail Friday to about 1.8 million households. Taxpayers will receive the booklets within the next two weeks.

Except for some minor changes, the booklets are about the same as last year, the Minnesota department of revenue said. The biggest difference this year is that there are two tax tables instead of four. Each of the two tables has separate columns — one for married couples and the other for single persons or married couples filing separately.

"The most common error last year was taxpayers choosing the wrong table, so we changed the format," said assistant commissioner Dennis Erno.

One table will be used for figuring the state tax after deducting federal income tax and the other without deducting the federal income tax. As they did last year, taxpayers must figure their tax two ways to determine the smaller amount they owe.

Since the Legislature made no changes to the Minnesota tax law affecting the individual income tax, Minnesota taxpayers will find the standard forms (M-1) and short forms (M-1A) virtually the same as last year, and will follow the same procedures in filling them out. Again, the standard and short forms and instructions for both will be included in the same booklet.

The short forms can be filed by single persons or married couples with no dependents who do not itemize deductions. The department estimates about 350,000 taxpayers will be eligible to use the short form.

Erno alerted taxpayers to a new law that places a $100 penalty on taxpayers who file a late return, even when they are owed a refund. "The deadline for filing is April 15, whether or not a taxpayer expects a refund," Erno said. Last year, about 50,000 taxpayers expecting refunds filed their returns late.

About 410,000 homeowners and renters who filed for property tax refunds last year will also receive the Property Tax Refund (M-1PR) booklet with their income tax booklets. Another 147,500 are being mailed separately.

Taxpayers who do not receive booklets in the mail by mid-January can pick them up at post offices, libraries, many banks, county treasurers' offices and credit unions.

They can also write to the Minnesota Forms Unit, Room B-20, Centennial Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155, or pick them up at the Centennial Building, 658 Cedar Street.

Erno urged taxpayers to refer to the instruction booklet when preparing their taxes. If questions remain, taxpayers may call the department during normal business hours toll-free at (800) 652-9094 from non-metro Minnesota.

Persons who are deaf, hearing-impaired or speech impaired and have access to telephone-teletypewriter equipment may call (612) 297-2196 during normal business hours.

Retired Persons Ass'n. To Lobby For Living Wills

Obtaining legislation enacting "living wills" and equitable tax treatment of pension income for retirees were among the priorities agreed to recently by legislative representatives for the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) in Minnesota.

AARPs Minnesota State Legislative committee (SLC) decided on these and other legislative priorities at a recent organizational meeting held in preparation for the 1987 session of the Minnesota state legislature.

SLC Chairman Helen Johnston of New Hope said the committee will seek legislation allowing an adult in good health to execute a legally binding document instructing the attending physician to withhold or withdraw life-sustaining procedures in the event of a terminal condition.

"Older persons and their families frequently find themselves confronted with a difficult situation where no legal guidelines have been set," said Johnston. "Enactment of living will legislation would permit someone to make their wishes known in the event of a terminal illness or an irreversible coma."

Legislation is also needed to develop a more equitable tax structure for pension benefits, said Johnston. The Minnesota SLC is seeking to exclude part of the pension income from state taxation, regardless of the source of the pension or the age of the individual.

Other goals of the Minnesota SLC include establishing and enforcing quality standards for home health care, and obtaining adequate funding and coordination of community-based and in-home services.

The Minnesota State Legislative Committee represents the views of AARP members and all older state residents before the legislature. AARP has more than 338,000 members in Minnesota.

With more than 24 million members nationwide, the American Association of Retired Persons is the nation's largest organization of Americans age 50 and older. Headquartered in Washington, DC, the non-profit, non-partisan organization offers a wide range of membership benefits, legislative representation at federal and state levels, and educational and community service programs carried out through a national network of volunteers and local chapters.

IRS Looking For 698 Minnesotans Due Past Refunds

Internal Revenue service is looking for 698 Minnesotans who have undelivered federal tax refunds available to them, according to C.D. Switzer, director of the IRS in Minnesota.

The most common reason for an undelivered refund is that a person has moved and left no forwarding address with the post office. When a check is returned, the IRS compares the address on it to the address shown on agency computer records. A letter that can be forwarded is then sent to the person due the tax refund.

The 698 refunds are all that are left over from more than one million refund checks sent to businesses and individuals in Minnesota each year, Switzer said. The refunds range from $1 to $5,299 with the average amount being $368.

Refund checks are not issued by local IRS offices, so a person does not need to make a special trip to pick up his or her refund. The check will be reissued and mailed four to six weeks after the taxpayer contacts the IRS.

If someone believes he or she is due a refund from 1985 or earlier, the IRS should be contacted at 291-1422. (Toll-free from outside the Twin Cities area call 1-800-424-1040.) For all inquiries, a person should have at hand the name and address as it appears on the return, social security number, type of tax return, the year it was filed, and the dollar amount of the refund.

Common Sense Can Prevent Most Winter Injuries

As winter whips into the Upper Midwest, hospital emergency room staff members prepare for seasonal injuries which for the most part can be prevented.

The majority of the injuries fall into three categories: frostbite and hypothermia, falls on the ice and snowblower accidents, says Robert Dahms, M.D., emergency medicine specialist in St. Paul.

Frostbite can happen to anyone, but it occurs most often to those who are not used to the cold weather and who do not dress warmly enough. Any time the actual temperature or wind chill factor goes below 32 degrees, there is a danger of frostbite. Frostbite occurs when ice crystals form in the skin cells. It is most common in the extremities — ears, nose, fingers and toes.

Numbness is a warning for frostbite. In first-degree frostbite, the skin looks white, turns red and is painful when it starts to warm.

"In second and third-degree frostbite, blisters form or there is a continued discoloration of the skin," says Lynn Solem, M.D., St. Paul physician. A physican should be seen in those cases.

Frostbite is treated much the same as a burn, also a tissue injury. Anyone with questions about frostbite may call toll-free 1-800-922-2876. In the Twin Cities the number is 221-3351.

Along with an increase of frostbite incidents this time of the year comes hypothermia. "Two-thirds of hypothermia cases we see in the emergency room are alcohol-related," Dahms said. when a person goes out in the cold, blood vessels constrict and naturally protect the body. When a person has been drinking alcohol, however, the blood vessels do not constrict, and the body cools faster.

"We often see cases when people have been drinking and they go out into the cold, pass out and just don't wake up," Dahms said. Hypothermia slows down all the body functions. When a person is brought to the emergency room, he or she is warmed. In severe cases, the patient must undergo cardiopulmonary bypass, when the patient's blood is warmed and circulated through a machine.

Falls on the ice, causing sprains and fractures, are also common this time of year. Removal of ice when possible and avoidance of slippery areas will cut down on ice-related falls.

"Snowblower accidents are most common early in the winter," Dahms said, "especially during the first couple of snows which are wet and heavy. The snowblower clogs up, and people stick their fingers in it. We see many amputated fingers because of it.

"Common sense can prevent the majority of these accidents. Winter need not be a hazardous time. In most cases, a little caution will ensure an accident-free season."

ARC Campaigns For Compliance In Court Decree

Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) Minnesota has begun a campaign to ensure that the State of Minnesota complies with court requirements for conditions in Minnesota's state hospitals serving persons with mental retardation.

Next July 1 the Welsch consent decree, written by Judge Earl Larson in 1980, will expire. It sets forth requirements for staffing levels, individual program plans, behavior management practices and discharge plans for residents with mental retardation in the state hospitals. The Welsch court case originally was filed in 1972.

Preliminary reports from outside experts who have visited the facilities indicate that the state may be out of compliance with several aspects of the decree.

ARC members — who are parents, professionals, adults with mental retardation and interested citizens — have been asked by the ARC Minnesota board of directors to urge Governor Rudy Perpich to make a personal commitment to address the unresolved state hospital issue and to see that appropriate community-based services are developed.

Trail -

Mrs. Albert Aaknes, Trail
268-4542

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Asselin of Oklee returned home after spending a week in Milwaukee with their daughter and son-in-law, Glen and Judy Aaknes. On their way home they stopped at the Albert Aaknes home with Christmas gifts. They said that Dale Aaknes enlisted in the army and will be leaving for Fort Lewis, Washington around January 27.

Albert and Rose Aaknes were shoppers in Bemidji on Saturday enroute home they were coffee guests of Wayne and Kathy Bakke in Gonvick. Other guests that day were Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Prevost of Oklee.

Brief callers at the Albert Aaknes' were Gene Melander, Bertha Woods, Kathy and Wayne Bakke of Gonvick.

Albert and Rose Aaknes received word that their nephew Glenn Harle of Webster, WI is in the hospital in the Cities. He had triple by-pass surgery on Friday. Mrs Harle is formerly Marilyn Sunsdahl of Goodridge and was living in Soudan before they moved to Webster, WI. We wish Glenn a speedy recovery.

Albert and Rose Aaknes were visitors at the Erwin Prevost home at Oklee on Sunday evening.

At this time I would like to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year for 1987.

Minnesota State Parks Remain Open For Winter Visitors

To many Minnesotans, winter means a new season's worth of ways to enjoy the out-of-doors. And Minnesota State Parks are open for winter visitors to come out and relax, Minnesota style.

A common misconception is that state parks close for the winter. "That's just not true," said State Park Director Don Davison. "Minnesota's 64 state parks are open year round."

Davison said there are many ways to relax this winter in the state parks. "Some of my favorites include photography, cross-country skiing, and the interpretive programs." Other activities Davison suggested include snowmobiling, ice fishing, skating, sledding, snowshoeing, walking or just a special spot to spend time with friends or family.

"Every year we are developing new facilities and programs for state park visitors," said Davison. He pointed to the increasing popularity of winter camping and the heated restroom-showers available at Gooseberry Falls and Wild River state parks. "Many of the parks have warming shelters and groomed ski and snowmobile trails available." Among the other winter facilities available at many parks, Davison mentioned skating rinks, sledding hills, ski and snowshoe rental and camping areas. He added that winter naturalist programs and-or interpretive centers are available at Fort Snelling, Lake Bemidji, Wild River, Helmer Myre, Whitewater, William O'Brien, Itasca, Sibley, Tower Soudan (mine tours) and Afton state parks.

Davison suggests calling the Department of Natural Resources Information Center for ideas and information on how to relax Minnesota style in the state parks. The center has current information on trail and snow conditions around the state and free materials on state park facilities and activities. In the Twin Cities call 296-4776, or toll-free in Minnesota 800-652-9747 (ask for DNR). Callers may also order state park permits with their credit card. Annual permits are $15 ($7.50 for resident seniors). Davison added that park permits make a thoughtful gift for friends or family.

Expect Reduction In Workers' Comp Premium Rates

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer says that the state expects to see a 2.4 per cent reduction in employers' workers' compensation premium rates in 1987. He pointed out a recent report by the Minnesota Workers' Compensation Rating Association.

"That report concluded that Minnesota's workers' compensation premium rates have declined at the same time these rates increased by about 12 per cent nationwide," Stumpf explained. "This shows that the actions we have taken in the legislature are having an impact on these rates."

Stumpf noted that this latest rate making study reflects the premium base rate filed by 265 insurers who now write workers' compensation coverage in the state.

"The reduction in rates represents the first decrease in workers' compensation premiums in 14 years," Stumpf added. He said the drop in rates is especially encouraging considering the fact that most other property-casualty rates have been increased dramatically by insurers trying to recover from record-losses in previous years.

The reported downward trend in premium rates is thought to reflect the impact of the major workers' compensation law reform package passed by the legislature in 1983. The key provisions of that law change has resulted in reduced medical costs and incentives for earlier returns to work.

"While the prediction of this reduction is good news," Sen. Stumpf remarked, "I think we must make more improvements in this system if we are going to see these costs reduced overall for the benefit of small businesses across our state."

2,232 At Marvin's Share $5,082,680 In 1986 Profits

(Editor's Note: Following article on the Marvin Lumber and Cedar company profit sharing program is reprinted with permission from the Roseau Times-Region.)

Marvin Lumber and Cedar Co. went over the $5 million figure for its profit sharing allocation for 1986. Bill Marvin announced the historic figure to almost 5,000 people at their annual Christmas meeting last Saturday. The profit sharing bonus, totaled $5,082,680.66, and was distributed to 2,232 employees.

The profit sharing averaged $2,277 per employee for 1986, based on wages and seniority. Each employee was paid $10.82 for every $100 in wages and $10.62 for each month of seniority. The profit sharing bonus represents a 28 per cent allocation to the deferred plan.

Bill Marvin explained that the new buildings have reduced profit margins for 1986. Last year $4,480,792 was distributed to 1,862 employees and averaged $2,406.44 per employee. Total payroll for the Marvins organization was $35,209,000 for 1986. Since the beginning of the profit sharing bonus in 1957, $28,734,000 has been distributed to the employees.

Management reports were presented to the employees reflecting some of the changes over the past year and a forecast to the future. Frank Marvin stressed the quality of work within the Marvin organization, "There wouldn't be any contribution to any economy, yours or your community's, if it weren't for the quality and service you put into your work. You have what it takes to make a winning team and I think that building this company together has to be one of the best." Frank also reported on the new training program put into place in 1986 and praised the employees for their willingness to work overtime. Relating to the large crowd in attendance at the annual employee meeting he said, "If every seat was filled, it would represent about one-fourth of the combined populations of Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties."

Jake Marvin reported on the progress of a five year plan to reach $200,000,000 in sales. He stated that three new company owned sales and distribution locations were added in 1986. These now include Seattle, Phoenix and Toronto; there are in addition to the operations at Cortland, NY, and Ripley. The joint venture of Marvin and Viracon is ahead of schedule. The venture called Marcon Coatings, Inc. will manufacture a high performance glass and will be marketed by Marvins as "Low-E." Marcon will produce Low-E for commercial use in February and the plant in Warroad will be the first customer. Jake also reported on the attempt to purchase Norco Window Company in Wisconsin. The purchase fell through, with disappointment of the Marvin organization, but a plant in Baker, Oregon, was purchased in 1986 to provide cut stock for the plants at Warroad and Ripley.

Jake stated that Marvin's intends to develop the most effective and qualified window and door sales and sales management organization in the industry. The next new project for Marvin Windows will be the implementation of a computer integrated manufacturing system with forecasted costs over $5,000,000 in the first two years. "If you've been getting the idea that we're spending a lot of money, you're right. But, remember, the goal of this company has always been to double its sales every five years, and that growth has always been financed by incurring debt...it's risky, it's costly, it's also an investment in our future."

George Marvin gave his production report citing the continuing of changes on the floor. "We need more room, room to expand in and room to help us do a better job," George said. He also announced new equipment will be added to the plant for 1987.

Buzz Marvin reported on Marvin Wood Products, the newest addition to the Marvin business family. This plant was purchased last year and is located in Baker, OR. The plant was idle at the time of the purchase was known as Brookswood. "Brookswood was an existing facility very much like our north end," Buzz said. Although the plant was selling to the outside in 1986, plans for 1987 call for curtailing outside sales and producing product for the Warroad and Ripley plants.

Marketing strategy continues to change for Marvins, according to Susan Marvin. Susan said that growth has been achieved by expanding further into nationwide sales and have lined up a solid customer base from coast to coast and into just about all areas of the U.S. To continue the growth requires more information about people and the marketplace, according to Susan. Today, the marketing groups are gathering and interpreting the information and have computerized their operations.

Marvins appointed a new sales manager in 1986. Duff Marshall, the sales manager for the Ripley plant since 1980, began his new duties in June. Prior to this Marshall had been a national sales representative for Marvins. Marshall reported on the 30.4 per cent growth in sales for the organization for the past year. Sales for the company reached $138 million, with $135 million in sales from Marvin Windows.

In the Christmas message presented by Frank Marvin he summed up the annual employee meeting with, "I like to think you want to share the spirit of Christmas with one another. There's a lot of togetherness in this room and that's what makes a great team."

Holiday Driving Requires Special Safety Effort

Despite all the emphasis on safe driving habits during the year, motorists often forget them during the holiday periods which, according to Col. Roger Ledding, state patrol chief, will bring very high traffic volumes to Minnesota streets and highways.

Christmas and New Year's holidays this year are both considered 30-hour periods by authorities but in reality many people scheduled long weekend trips starting Wednesday, December 24, at 6 p.m. and Wednesday, December 31, at 6 p.m.

Ledding reminds that the patrol will have extra enforcement during the holiday periods, stressing drunk driving, seat belt and speed laws.

The chief also advised travelers to allow plenty of time for trips, avoiding the necessity of rushing to reach a destination in time for a holiday gathering. "Let the folks at your destination know when you are leaving and when you expect to arrive," Ledding said. "Then if trouble does occur on the road or the weather turns bad, it will be easier to provide assistance if necessary."

If motorists become stalled, they should stay inside the vehicle until help arrives. Keep fresh air in the vehicle and run the engine sparingly for heat and make sure exhaust is vented away from the car.

Minnesota is hoping to end the traffic safety year on a positive note, said public safety commissioner Paul Tschida. The preliminary fatality total through December 15 was 529 compared to 576 for a similar period in 1985. The final total at the end of 1985 was 610.

Prowlers Win Northwest Christmas Basketball Title

Host Thief River Falls became the first two-time winner of the fourth annual Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament, winning the 1986 title Saturday night with a 52-48 championship game victory over Kennedy.

Hallock knocked off Argyle 50-43 in the third place game to start the final evening session of the eight-team, three-day tournament.

It was the second narrow win of the 1986-87 season over the Rockets for the Prowlers, who won a season-opening 66-64 decision back on December 5. The Prowlers, who beat Middle River 71-44 in the Tuesday quarterfinals and got by Hallock 58-53 in the Friday semifinals, boosted their season record to 5-1 with the three tournament wins. They'll be back in action Saturday at Bemidji.

Tournament Results

Quarterfinals Tuesday — Argyle 72, Roseau 43; Kennedy 49, Fertile-Beltrami 45; Hallock 57, Marshall County Central 54; Thief River Falls 71, Middle River 44.
Semifinals Friday — Kennedy 52, Argyle 50 (ot); Thief River Falls 58, Hallock 53.
Finals Saturday — Thief River Falls 52, Kennedy 48.
Third place — Hallock 50, Argyle 43.
Consolation semifinals — Fertile-Beltrami 48, Roseau 32; Marshall County Central 57, Middle River 44.
Consolation finals — Fertile-Beltrami 51, Marshall County Central 42.
Seventh place — Roseau 52, Middle River 43.

Kennedy was the tournament's third place winner a year ago, and the tournament champion in 1984. Fertile-Beltrami, this year's consolation champion, won the initial Northwest Christmas Classic back in 1983.

For the first time in the tournament's four-year history, Argyle was not a title game participant.

Beginning in 1987, the tournament will be named the Russ Smith Holiday Classic, in honor of long-time Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith, who retired at the end of the 1985-86 school year.

Hallock 50
Argyle 43

Hallock handed Argyle its second loss in two nights with a 50-43 decision in Saturday's third place game.

Mark Johnson led the Bears with 15 points, while David Noel scored 12 and Jason Pearlson had 10. Jon St. Germain of Argyle matched Johnson's 15 points, but he was the Eagles' only double figure scorer.

Hallock emerged with a 6-5 lead at the end of a low-scoring first quarter, opened up a 25-17 halftime gap and had a 41-24 third quarter cushion.

Argyle — Bill Rivard 6, Jon St. Germain 15, Tom Durand 7, Jerry Deschene 2, Brent Riopelle 6, Preston Stoltman 5.

TRF 52
Kennedy 48

Just like their first meeting this year, free throws proved to be a key element Saturday as Thief River Falls successfully defended its Northwest Christmas Classic tournament title with a 52-48 victory over Kennedy.

Kennedy had more field goals (21 to 18), but Thief River Falls was a productive 16-for-21 at the free throw line, where the Rockets were 5-for-7.

It was a see-saw contest. Kennedy led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter, Thief River Falls took a 27-22 halftime lead and put together six straight points to open the third quarter with a 33-22 cushion. But Kennedy cut the gap to 37-34 before the quarter ended and went ahead midway through the fourth quarter before the Prowlers took over down the stretch.

Chris Bjorgaard completed an excellent tournament showing for the Prowlers as the junior guard scored a game-high 19 points, leading the Prowlers' game-winning fourth quarter run with clutch free throw shooting and a couple of jump shots.

Center Brian Stark and forward Jarrod Kalsnes had 12 and 8 points, respectively, in making key contributions to the Prowlers' efforts.

Jared Hagen led Kennedy with 18 points, while Todd Hagen had 12 and Tim Rynning 10.

Fertile-Beltrami Wins TRF Consolation Title

Fertile-Beltrami took home the consolation trophy and Roseau took home a win Saturday in the final afternoon session of the fourth annual Thief River Falls Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

The Falcons beat Marshall County Central 51-42 for the consolation championship in the eight-team, three-day tournament, while Roseau defeated Middle River by a nearly-identical 52-43 margin in the seventh place game.

Fertile-Beltrami 51
MCC 42

Three Fertile-Beltrami scorers hit double figures as the Falcons beat Marshall County Central 51-42 in the consolation finals.

Jon Broden led the winners' balanced attack with 16 points, while Scott Nettland had 12 and Clark Wolfe 10. Danni Halvorson was the only Marshall County Central scorer in double figures, netting 10.

The two teams played to a 12-12 first quarter stand-off. Fertile-Beltrami took a 24-20 lead at halftime, maintained a 36-30 advantage through three quarters and out-scored the Nordics 15-12 over the final eight minutes for the victory.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Fertile-Beltrami	12	12	12	15	51
Marshall Co. Central	12	8	10	12	42

Fertile-Beltrami — Scott Nettland 12, Mitch Wang 4, Troy Hanne 3, Clark Wolfe 10, Jon Broden 16, Troy Erickson 6.

Roseau 52
Middle River 43

Roseau defeated Middle River 52-43 in a seventh place game match-up of winless tournament participants.

Middle River started with a 14-10 first quarter lead, but Roseau went ahead 23-21 at halftime and moved out to a 35-29 third quarter edge.

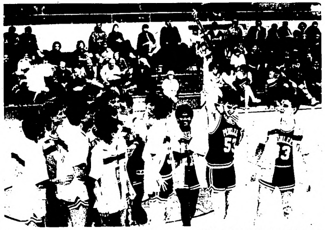
Scott Jaenicke led the Rams with 11 points and Matt Anderson had 10. Brad Kilen of Middle River led all scorers with 17 points and Tom Gulliksen had 15.

Middle River out-scored Roseau from the field, but the Rams were 18-for-26 at the free throw line, where the Skippers were 7-for-11.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Roseau	10	13	12	17	52
Middle River	14	7	8	14	43

Roseau — Scott Jaenicke 11, Tim Dutcher 6, Erik Livingston 6, Dean Halvorson 3, Rick Statts 7, Matt Anderson 10, Brian Lund 5, Wayne Rompelien 4.
Middle River — Tom Gulliksen 15, Brent Peterson 6, Bryce Nelson 1, Brad Kilen 17, Tom Bistel 1, Marc Gram 3, Larry Rorge 1.



CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY was held aloft by Brian Stark as his Thief River Falls teammates gathered around him following the Prowlers' 52-48 title game victory over Kennedy Saturday in the Northeast Christmas Classic.

All-Tournament Team Selected At Christmas Classic

A ten-member all-tournament team selected at the conclusion of the fourth annual Thief River Falls Northwestern Christmas Classic boys high school basketball team included players from six of the eight participating schools.

Selections included Chris Bjorgaard, Chris Nelson and Jarrod Kalsnes from Thief River Falls, Todd Hagen and Jared Hagen from Kennedy, Mark Johnson from Hallock, Preston Stoltman from Argyle, Jon Broden and Wolfe Clark from Fertile-Beltrami and Darin Rokke from Marshall County Central.

Middle River and Roseau were not represented on the all-tournament team.

Johnson and Bjorgaard were also members of the 1985 all-tournament team. Bjorgaard, in fact, was an all-tournament selection in 1984 as well as a freshman.

TRF Northwest Christmas Classic . . .

Nordics, Falcons Win Consolation Semifinals

Marshall County Central and Fertile-Beltrami both broke open close games in the fourth quarters Friday afternoon in winning consolation round semifinal games at the fourth annual Thief River Falls Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament.

The Nordics beat area rival Middle River 57-44, while the Falcons stopped Roseau 48-32 to reach Saturday's consolation final.

That left the Skippers and Rams to play for seventh place in the three-day, eight-team tournament at the Lincoln High School gym Saturday afternoon.

MCC 57
Middle River 44

Darin Rokke scored 14 of his game-high 24 points in the fourth quarter to lead Marshall County Central past Middle River 57-44.

Middle River led 12-11 at the end of the first quarter. Marshall County Central took a 29-22 halftime lead, but the Nordics couldn't shake the Skippers, who were still within 41-35 as the third quarter ended.

But Rokke, a 5-10 senior forward took charge in the final period, scoring all but two of the Nordics' fourth quarter points.

He was joined in double figures by guards Danni Halvorson, a 6-0 senior, and Lee Pemberton, a 5-10 sophomore, with 10 points apiece. Junior Bradley Kilen led the Skippers with 13 points, while 6-1 senior center Tom Gullikson, the tallest starter on either team, contributed 11.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Marshall Co. Central	11	8	12	16	57
Middle River	12	10	13	9	44

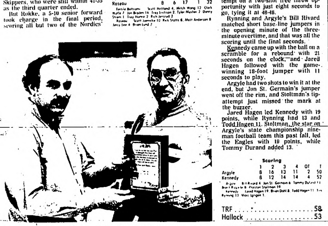
Fertile-Beltrami 48
Roseau 32

Fertile-Beltrami trailed Roseau 31-30 at the end of the third quarter, but wound up winning by 16 when the Falcon out-scored the Rams by a remarkable 18-1 over the final eight minutes.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
Fertile-Beltrami	13	8	9	18	48
Roseau	8	6	17	1	32

Fertile-Beltrami — Scott Nettland 4, Mitch Wang 12, Clark Wolfe 7, Jon Broden 16, Troy Erickson 2, Tyler Mosher 2, Danny Strem 1, Troy Hanne 2, Rich Jenstad 2.
Roseau — Scott Jaenicke 10, Rick Statts 6, Matt Anderson 8, Jerry Lee 4, Brian Lund 7.



APPRECIATION plaque was presented to retired Thief River falls athletic director Russ Smith (right) at the conclusion of the 1986 Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament in the Lincoln gym, thanking him for the many years and long hours he put into the Thief River Falls athletic programs. Making the presentation was Thief River Falls head basketball coach Tom Hunt. Smith and Hunt served as tournament chairmen. It was also announced that beginning in 1987, the tournament will be renamed the Russ Smith Holiday Classic.

Rockets, Prowlers Win Semifinals

A total of seven points decided the winners and losers in the Friday night semifinals of the 1986 Thief River Falls Northwest Chritsmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament as Kennedy and Thief River Falls escaped with narrow wins over Argyle and Hallock, respectively.

Kennedy got by Argyle 52-50 in overtime in the doubleheader opener, while Thief River Falls held off Hallock 58-53, setting the stage for Saturday's championship game.

Argyle and Hallock dropped into the third place game.

Kennedy 52
Argyle 50

It was close from start to finish as Kennedy edged Argyle in a 52-50 overtime thriller.

They were tied 8-8 at the end of the first quarter. Argyle went ahead 24-20 at halftime and held on to a 37-34 third quarter edge.

The nail-biting fourth quarter stretch run saw Kennedy's Tim Rynning sink two free throws with 49 seconds remaining for a 47-46 lead, but Argyle's Preston Stoltman scored on a drive to the basket with 19 seconds left to put the Eagles back in front 48-47.

Kennedy forced overtime when Jared Hagen made the second attempt on a two-shot free throw opportunity with just eight seconds to go, tying it at 48-48.

Rynning and Argyle's Bill Rivard matched short base-line jumpers in the opening minute of the three-minute overtime, and that was all the scoring until the final seconds.

Kennedy came up with the ball on a scramble for a rebound with 21 seconds on the clock, and Jared Hagen followed with the game-winning 18-foot jumper with 11 seconds to play.

Argyle had two shots to win it at the end, but Jon St. Germain's jumper went off the rim, and Stoltman's tip-attempt just missed the mark at the buzzer.

Jared Hagen led Kennedy with 19 points, while Rynning had 13 and Todd Hagen 11. Stoltman, the star on Argyle's state championship nine-man football team this past fall, led the Eagles with 19 points, while Tommy Durand added 13.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	OT	T
Argyle	8	16	13	11	2	50
Kennedy	8	12	14	14	4	52

Argyle — Bill Rivard 4, Jon St. Germain 6, Tommy Durand 13, Brent Riopelle 8, Preston Stoltman 19.
Kennedy — Jared Hagen 19, Brian Dahl 8, Todd Hagen 11, Tim Rynning 13, Marc Langen 1.

TRF 58
Hallock 53

Thief River Falls assistant coach Al Buhl said before the start of the game the Prowlers would have to score in the 60's to do away with Hallock.

They didn't make it, but came close enough, beating the Bears 58-53 in the second half of the semifinal doubleheader.

Thief River Falls led much of the way, but never by enough to feel completely safe. A Jarrod Kalsnes rebound basket with 49 seconds left in the first quarter gave the Prowlers a 9-8 lead at the period break they never surrendered the rest of the half. But they never led by more than five points, either, in a half that was played at a little slower pace than the Thief River Falls coaches might have preferred.

Hallock, after trailing 27-24 at the half, opened the third quarter with a short jumper in traffic in the middle by Tim Sessing and a follow-up rebound basket by Chris Jerome on a 2-on-1 fast break for a 28-27 lead.

But the Bears' only lead of the second half lasted only briefly as Griff Newland answered with a short base line jumper, Kalsnes came up with a three-point play and Brian Stark added a free throw for a rebuilt 33-28 Thief River Falls lead with 5:49 left in the quarter.

Thief River Falls ran off eight straight quarter-ending points to move from a narrow 39-38 lead to a 47-38 cushion to start the final period.

The fourth quarter produced Thief River Falls leads ranging from seven to 11 points until Hallock's Johnny Potrament scored on a rebound basket with just three seconds remaining to make it a five-point final, 58-53.

"I was satisfied," said Thief River Falls coach Tom Hunt. "I thought we played our most consistent basketball game of the season tonight."

Junior guard Chris Bjorgaard led the Thief River Falls offense with 19 points, but Kalsness, a 6-2 senior, had a strong game with 14 points and junior Chris Nelson contributed 13. Stark only scored three points, but he led the Prowlers to a 33-23 rebound edge and blocked a number of shots inside. Mark Johnson, an impressive 6-3 junior, had a game-high 23 points for the Bears.

Hallock actually out-scored Thief River Falls from the field, hitting 22 of 53 field goal attempts (38 per cent), while the Prowlers made 19 of 48 shots (40 per cent). But Thief River Falls was a bush 20-for-31 at the free throw line (65 per cent), where the Bears were 9-for-17 (53 per cent). Hallock topped the turnover charts 10-8.

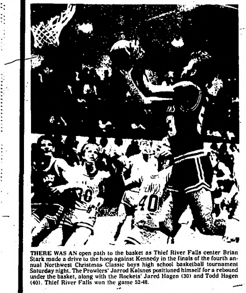
THERE WAS A little contact when Thief River Falls guard Chris Bjorgaard drove to the basket and was met by Hallock defender Jason Pearson in the first quarter of Friday's semifinal match-up during the fourth annual Thief River Falls Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament. Pearson was called for the foul on the play. The Prowlers' Todd Solsten (left), along with the Bears' Tim Sessing (35) and David Noel (23) watched the action. Thief River Falls won the game 58-53 as Bjorgaard scored 19 points.



THERE WAS AN open path to the basket as Thief River Falls center Brian Stark made a drive to the hoop against Kennedy in the finals of the fourth annual Northwest Christmas Classic boys high school basketball tournament Saturday night. The Prowlers' Jarrod Kalsnes positioned himself for a rebound under the basket, along with the Rockets' Jared Hagen (30) and Todd Hagen (40). Thief River Falls won the game 52-48.

Prowlers Top Bears

Scott Novak scored two goals and picked up an assist, while Shayne Anderson came up with a 19-save shutout Saturday as Thief River Falls snapped a three-game losing streak with a 5-0 Section 8 high school hockey win over Lake of the Woods at Baudette.

Rick Looker, Bob Geatz and Novak gave Thief River Falls a 3-0 first period lead. Blair Lund and Novak scored in the third period as the Prowlers won for the first time since opening the 1986-87 season with a 5-2 victory over Grand Forks Central back on December 6.

Defenseman Bill Dicken collected three assists.

The 2-3 Prowlers have a tough week facing them to close out December and open the January schedule as they visit Fergus Falls Tuesday and host Roseau Saturday in a pair of 7:30 p.m. Section 8 starts. Junior varsity games start at 5:15 p.m. both nights.

There was no junior varsity game at Baudette. Thief River Falls' junior varsity is 1-2-1 for the year.

MCCC Basketball Will Start With Wednesday Game

Minnesota Community College Conference-counting match-ups between Northwest and Northeast Division men's basketball teams start this week when Northeast member Mesabi will visit Northwest member Brainerd.

Both the Norsemen and Red Raiders are 1-5 in nonconference play to date. Only other Northwest-Northeast match-up on the immediate horizon will be a Wednesday, January 7, Brainerd trip to Grand Rapids, where the Red Raiders play Itasca, one of the Northeast favorites this winter. The Vikings are off to a 4-1 start.

All MCCC teams have been idle during the holidays. Northland, 4-4 in nonconference play, will resume its schedule Saturday, January 10, at NDSU-Bottineau.

Snowmobile Trails

Approximately 100 miles of snowmobile trails have been cleared of downfalls, trail signs have been maintained and trails have been groomed in the Beltrami Island State Forest.

Major use trails — Hayes Lake State Park to Bemis Hill and Clear River to Roosevelt Trail, Norris Trail and Morehouse Trail to Moose River — are presently in good condition with a 6-inch base of snow.

Many trails have been groomed once and plans are to groom them again before the Christmas holidays. If a significant snowfall occurs prior to the second grooming, trails should be in excellent condition for snowmobiling.

Snowmobile trails are off limits to all motor vehicles other than snowmobiles during the winter months. This includes three and four wheelers. However, three and four wheelers are allowed on the trails during the non-snow months. An exception to trail use is logging vehicles, which may use them conditionally for timber harvesting purposes.

Fishing For Kids

"Teach a kid to fish today and you'll provide him or her a lifetime of pleasure, and provide the resource with a new friend for tomorrow," stated Sharon Coe, Executive Director of the newly formed Future Fisherman Foundation.

Future Fisherman Foundation was founded by Berkley to promote the participation and education in fishing as well as the protection and enhancement of the aquatic resource. The Foundation was incorporated as a non-profit organization in February of 1986 and is developing materials to help educate and interest individuals in fishing.

"We feel fishing is an important activity for the family and for our youth of today and we want to help pass on that tradition," said Coe. During their first year, the Foundation developed a booklet called Fishing Fun For Kids that they make available for $1 to cover postage and handling; they have launched a campaign called "Hooked On Fishing — Not Drugs" to show teens that there are alternative ways to utilize their time and release the tension that builds up in their lives; they have been actively involved in promoting aquatic resource education programs; and they have been working with fishing tackle retailers across the country to help them promote fishing in their local area.

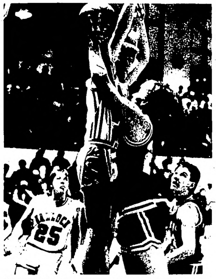
Outdoor Award

Lieutenant Governor Marlene Johnson recently received an award from the Minnesota Sportfishing Congress (MSC). The MSC award honored Johnson for her work on and support of the Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) program and sportfishing in Minnesota.

Johnson was presented with the award on Saturday, December 13, at the MSC's 1986 annual meeting at the Holiday Inn in Brooklyn Center.

"We are giving this award to Lieutenant Governor Johnson for her work on the RIM program as well as her staunch support of fishing interests in Minnesota over the years," Rick Dyer, president of the MSC, said. "RIM was so important and of such a large magnitude that the Minnesota Sportfishing Congress wanted to show our appreciation to the lieutenant governor for her work in this area. She has also been very supportive of fishing issues over the years, especially in terms of public access, and we felt she should be recognized for this too."



HALLOCK DEFENDER Mark Johnson, a 6-3 junior, tried to stop Thief River Falls forward Chris Nelson, a 6-4 junior, from getting off this shot during the first half of Friday's high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. Johnson scored 23 points for the Bears, while Nelson had 13 for the Prowlers, who won the Northwest Christmas Classic semifinal encounter 58-53. Chris Jerome (25) of Hallock and Jarod Kalsnes of Thief River Falls watched the play

Recent expansion of Minnesota's forest industries was due mainly to abundance of the aspen resource, point out Minnesota DNR officials. However, this abundance is misleading, they warn.

Throughout the State much of the Aspen is overmature. A large portion is also infected with two major diseases — Phellinus and Hypoxylon Canker. These diseases can cause significant rot. The amount of rot soon overtakes the amount of growth and the result is a net loss of useable wood. Scattered trees die and the aspen stand eventually converts to other species of hardwoods — conifers or brush. If cut, however, aspen has the unique ability to sprout back vigorously from its root system.

Here is where the problmes arise, say officials. The large amount of aspen that needs harvesting far exceeds the forest industry's capacity to use it. In other words, thousands of acres will deteriorate to a point where the aspen will convert to other species or brush. Another problem is the shortage of younger aged aspen to provide for future harvests and industry's needs. Timber, especially aspen, cannot be held on the strump indefinitely.

This age class imbalance also has a negative impact on wildlife, especially deer and ruffed grouse.

Both species need a variety of age classes of trees to provide for different necessities of life. For instance, ruffed grouse utilize aspen of all ages. Juvenile sucker stands (aspen regeneration) are important brood habitats. Aspen stands older than age 25 are devoid of breeding grouse but serve as nesting cover. In winter the staminate (male) flower buds of mature aspen are the most important winter food source. A well-balanced mixture of young and old aspen is necessary to provide quality habitat for grouse and most other wildlife.

Foresters have recognized the aspen age imbalance for a considerable time. The major expansion of aspen use by the forest industries has compounded this problem. To make sure there is adequate aspen 30 to 40 years from now, more of the overmature and diseased aspen has to be cut now. The division of Forestry, with considerable support from the Minnesota Deer Hunter's Association, forest industries and others, approached the legislature to fund an aspen recycling pilot program. This program was very successful and has been expanded to include more of central and northern Minnesota as part of the RIIM Law.

In the Warroad area officials are planning on recycling 32 tracts which add up to 1,700 acres. They have already recycled nine tracts amounting to 150 acres. Strict guidelines were used when selecting stands for recycling. Some of the criteria include:

(A) Choosing better aspen sites where aspen regeneration is the preferred species.

(B) Stands that are not salable due to volume, access or stand deterioration.

(C) Wildlife needs.

Aspen recycling will not be aesthetically pleasing as most or all the cut timber will be left on the site. Careful selection of locations was done to minimize this impact. Also, the cut timber on the ground will not hinder the aspen from sprouting. Adequate reproduction will sprout through the downed timber. In time the trees on the ground will rot and add nutrients to the soil.

Vehicle Permit Contest

Minnesota outdoor artists are eligible to enter the first Minnesota state park-sponsored contest for the 1988 annual vehicle-permit design. The annual vehicle permit is a sticker that, when attached to the inside windshield of a vehicle, allows entry to all 64 states parks during the calendar year.

Entries must be delivered to the Department of Natural Resources by March 13. Interested artists can obtain a copy of the contest rules and specifications by writing to William Chiat, State Park Permit Contest, Minnesota State Parks, Department of Natural Resources, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4039.

State Climatologist

James Zandlo has been appointed Minnesota state climatologist, succeeding Earl Kuehnast, who retired. Since 1981, Zandlo has been employed by the Department of Natural Resource's Division of Waters as the assistant state climatologist.

As state climatologist, Zandlo is responsible for coordinating historical climate records gathered by agencies such as the National Weather Service, the DNR Division of Forestry, the Department of Agriculture and the Soil Conservation District. This information is assimilated into a climate information service that is used by state and federal agencies and the news media.

Zandlo lives in St. Paul and is originally from Minneapolis.

TRF City Council Adopts Overall Budget For 1987

Thief River Falls city council adopted the 1987 budget Monday night. Budget expenditures in 1987 are expected to exceed $9.4 million. The city council also decided to grant a requested variance for Land O'Lakes, Inc. (Bridgeman's) in Thief River Falls changing its zoned location from C-3 to I-1.

An overall 1987 budget summary presented at the Monday night meeting established where 1987 expenditures of $9,433,938 will come from. The tax levy and homestead credit will raise $1,156,170, reserves will add $106,097 and the budgeted revenue will add $8,171,671 to meet budget expenditures. No revenue sharing funds were available this year.

Mayor Bob Carlson said this year's budget was "scrutinized more this year than every before" in his estimation. He said the budget still has some minor problems, but he thought they could be worked out.

Capital outlay projects listed in the budget include carpet for the library, a new police patrol vehicle, funds set aside for a new fire truck, two trucks for the street department and a Zamboni ice resurfacer.

Capital outlay projects coming from the general fund include new carpet for the library at an estimated cost of $10,000; a new patrol vehicle and video recorder estimated at $13,500; funds totaling $25,000 for a new fire truck; two trucks and miscellaneous tools at a cost of $37,600 for the street department; and a new brush chipper and Zamboni for a total cost of $24,300 for the park and recreation department.

The balance of the leaf pickup machine ($8,500) will come from the sanitation fund. Capital outlays from the water department fund includes machines and equipment totaling $13,500, 1987 street improvements totaling $63,400; and repairs and maintenance costs on buildings totaling $105,000.

Capital outlays from the wastewater department fund include $16,910 on machinery and equipment; and improvements to sewer lines, manhole coverings and others totaling $50,750.

Electric department fund capital outlays include equipment purchases totaling $100,985, and underground projects costing a total of $228,624.

The 1987 budgeted payrolls add up to an estimated $2,250,871. The budget will be adjusted accordingly from reserves when negotiations are completed. Total health insurance and payroll taxes will cost $472,941.

Expenditures in the 1986 budget plan added up to $9,712,819, however, the city received $102,300 in revenue sharing funds. This is the first time in several years that revenue sharing funds were not available.

Capital outlays listed in the 1987 budget are only estimates of the total costs.

Bridgeman's in Thief River Falls received a variance to zoning regulations at the council meeting. Bridgeman's requested a zone change from C-3 to I-1, or from central business district to light industrial, which allows them to remodel and renovate the local processing facility.

Don Stewart, community development director, read the following prepared statement: "Land O'Lakes, Inc. (Bridgeman's), having received the results of a consultant's study of all of Bridgeman's locations and its operations, has decided to remodel and renovate the local processing facility at its present location at a cost of $1.75 million dollars. Greg Sorenson Plays In Band Accompanying Charly McClain

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

After cutting his musical eye teeth in the public school music programs of Thief River Falls, Greg Sorenson is doing what he wants to do in the country music capital of the world, Nashville, TN. Since August he has been a member of the band "Blackhawk" which travels with star vocalist Charly McClain and her husband Wayne Massey.

Local country music fans will recall that Charly McClain was a feature attraction at the Pennington county fair in 1980 when she was the fastest rising star in the country music field. Her popularity has continued to grow and Greg Sorenson, back in Thief River Falls for the holidays, says he is "honored and privileged" to be with the band and associated with McClain and Massey.

Sorenson is considered one of the more notable musical talents to come out of the Thief River Falls public schools music program. His performances in musicals and vocalizing with piano self-accompaniment were accorded wide acclaim and his talents were in demand for area programs and events. He graduated from Lincoln high school in 1974.

Greg went on to St. Olaf college in Northfield for two years to study music, inspired -- he still insists -- by the efforts of David Morken, John Moum, John Hustad and Mike Lehrer, all involved in music instruction in the local schools. "I didn't know then how important they were going to be to me," he said.

But his long-time girl friend Karen Lindquist was attending Trinity college in Chicago, so Greg transferred there, found the music porgram suited to his needs, and graduated with a BA degree in music education in 1978. He and Karen were married in 1977 during their senior year at college. Her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Edsel Lindquist, continue to live in Thief River Falls and it was they the Sorensons visited here over the holidays, leaving yesterday morning.

Greg's mother is the former Yvonne Holmos of Newfolden and his father was Howard Sorenson, also from Newfolden but a Thief River Falls resident most of his life. His mother moved from Thief River Falls to Salt Lake City, Utah, with the Green Thumb program and is now director of that program for the state of Tennessee, living in Madison, just GREG SORENSON FAMILY was in Thief River Falls over the holidays for a visit with the Rev. Edsel Lindquist family. Greg and his wife, the former Karen Lindquist, now live in Nashville, TN, where Greg plays synthesizer and digital piano and sings backup with "Blackhawk", the Charly McClain band. Their children are Casey Clark, who will be two in January, and Kalli Rose, who was born in August. The Sorensons moved to Nashville two and one-half years ago where Greg would like to write music and perhaps become a studio musician.

ONE OF A HERD of approximately 20 deer which frequent the headquarters area of Agassiz National Wildlife refuge east of Holt is this buck which still has its rack of antlers. Agassiz personnel have seen several other bucks which have come to feed sites, including one with a 16-point non-typical rack of antlers. Bucks shed their antlers during the winter and grow new ones during the summer. Despite the daily feeding and normal activity in the area, the bucks are considerably more wary than does and fawns. Additional photos are inside today's issue.

Crops And Soils Update Planned For January 7th

Pennington county extension service is offering a crops and soils update meeting for farmers on January 7 at 9:30 a.m. at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls.

Topics include nitrogen fertilizer management, by University of Minnesota soils scientist Curt Overdahl; a look at new herbicides and changes in chemical laws by "Extension Week" specialist Beverly Durgan; and insect management and insect resistance to present products by university entomologist Dave Noetzel.

"We will also be looking at scab in wheat as well as leaf disease management with Howard Bissonnette, University of Minnesota plant pathologist, new varietal releases for 1987 and some special crop problems encountered during the 1986 growing season, states Howard Person, Pennington county extension agent. "Agronomists Erv Oelke and Marlin Johnson will be covering these topics."

The meeting is expected to conclude by noon. All interested persons are encouraged to attend.

Initiative Fund Seeks Projects That Meet Goals

Northwest Minnesota Initiative fund is accepting applications for projects that seek to strengthen the region's economic base. Eligible applicants are public and not-for-profit agencies conducting their activities in a 12-county area of northwestern Minnesota.

Organizations interested in submitting grant requests are invited to attend one of three information meetings. Program associate Liz Fedor will give an overview of the application process and respond to specific questions regarding economic activity projects.

All meetings begin at 1:30 p.m. and are scheduled for Monday, January 12, Northland Lodge, Crookston; Tuesday, January 13, Best Western, Thief River Falls; and Wednesday, January 14, Otter Tail Power company meeting room, Bemidji.

A private organization, the initiative fund is particularly interested in projects that show innovation, foster regional cooperation and leverage other funding sources.

Projects must address at least one of three goals established by the board of directors: (1) Provide educational programs and-or specific assistance to farmers, bankers and-or small business owners in financial management, marketing and-or other areas of need, (2) provide opportunities for rural communities to plan economic development, communicate the strengths of the region and develop linkages within and outside the region, (3) enhance the efforts of various state and local organizations that provide for the stewardship of land, water, fish, wildlife and other natural resources.

The deadline for submitting grant

Open Water On Red Lake River Observed Wed.

Observers near the Neptune bridge at the Eastern end of Pennington county report that the Red Lake River has open water. The observer reported that it was a very unusual occurrence. Anyone who uses the river for winter recreation is asked to use extreme caution.

Watershed Districts To Extend 10-Year Pact

Representatives of the eight northwestern watershed districts comprising the Lower Red River watershed management board (LRRWMB) in Minnesota moved to extend the joint powers agreement creating that organization at the LRRWMB's year end meeting held at the University of Minnesota-Crookston on Thursday.

Ten years ago, the eight watershed districts within the Red River Valley formed the LRRWMB to work together under a joint powers agreement toward a basin-wide approach to resolving water resource problems in the valley. That 10-year agreement ends December 31.

Following a study of a new agreement document, the LRRWMB passed a resolution approving the agreement and it was then sent for approval and signatures from member watershed districts. The eight member watershed districts include: Joe river, Two rivers, Roseau river, Middle river-Snake river, Red Lake, Sand Hill, Wild Rice and Buffalo-Red river.

In other action, the board members approved pay requests on the Moose river impoundment project in the Red Lake watershed district, Beltrami county. The LRRWMB's share of the request was $72,475. The board also passed a resolution requesting that the state pay its share of the pay requests totaling $108,714.

Arnold Pearson of the Red Lake watershed district reported that the Moose river impoundment is now 92.4 per cent completed with work

Nancy Nelson And Scott Engen United In Marriage August 23

Nancy Ann Nelson and Danny Scott Engen were united in marriage at Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden August 23. Rev. Steve Estrem officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Eldor Engen, all of Newfolden.

Sheila Nelson was organist, playing processional of "Homecoming" and "The Bridal Music." Recessional was "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." Craig Swenson and Wendy Blazejewski sang "Wedding Song," "Endless Love" and "Long and Lasting Love."

The bride was escorted by her father to an altar graced with two large floral bouquets. She wore a gown of matte taffeta with close-fitting bodice trimmed in Venise lace, pearls and irridescents. A sheer illusion net yoke accented the high collar of pearls and Venise lace. Juliet sleeves of taffeta featured a self-fabric bow and Venise lace cut-out windows trimmed in pearls. Back yoke was of sheer net outlined with Venise lace and a double ruffle flowed to a cathedral-length train that formed a flounced hem at the front of the skirt.

She wore a headpiece of floral sprays cascading to a short, daisy-trimmed veil and carried a bouquet of fuschia and white roses, pink blossoms and babies' breath. Friends of the bride, Tatia Forsell, Minneapolis, and Jane Horien, Holt, served as her personal attendants.

Nancy Gillund, Newfolden, best friend of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Marla Augustine, Holt, Jodi Nelson, Newfolden, both sisters of the bride; Jolene Ryba, Holt, the groom's sister; and Connie Burian, Newfolden, and Julie Halvorson, Thief River Falls, both friends of the couple. They wore long gowns in alternating colors of fuschia and pink taffeta with a taffeta ruffle-accented V neckline and short, puffed ballroom sleeves and a natural waistline skirt accented with a cummerbund and bow. They carried fans covered with fuschia and pink flowers.

Holly Jo Augustine was the flower girl. She is the bride's niece from Holt. She wore a Lalique taffeta gown with bouffant skirt, fabric sash and melon sleeves with a taffeta ruffle accenting the bodice. The skirt hemline was encircled with a ruffle and touch of Chantilly lace, and featured two pick-up tucks accented with tiny satin ribbon bows. In her hair she wore a floral spray cascading into a short veil trimmed with daisies.

The groom wore white tails with matching tie and cummerbund. Chuck Sorenson, the groom's best friend, Warroad, was his best man. Other attendants were Lowell Engen, Newfolden, the groom's nephew; Brad Engen, Warroad, the groom's brother; Jeff Boe and Jerome Maki, both friends of the groom from Newfolden; and Jay Nelson, Newfolden, brother of the bride.

Ring bearer was Tyler Ryba, nephew of the groom. Ushering the guests were Donavon Nelson, Wyoming, brother of the bride, Mark Engen, Warroad, and Bill Engen, Newfolden, both brothers of the groom. Gentlemen of the wedding party wore silver tuxedos with white shirts and matching bow ties and cummerbunds.

Honored guests were Nels and Eva Nelson, grandparents of the bride, and Janet Collins and Edwin and Marcy Nelson, godparents.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Host couples were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Engen, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wicklund, aunt and uncle. The bride's godmother, Marcy Nelson, and the groom's aunt, Allie Waldron, cut and served the wedding cake, which was baked by Margaret Rupprecht. Pouring were Delores Westerlund, aunt of the bride, and Myrtle Andeen, aunt of the groom.

Paula Gustafson and Kelly Magner served punch, and Patty Stephens presided at the guest book. In charge of the gifts were Connie Engen and Tanna Engen, with Matthew Augustine, Jessi Engen and Dean Engen serving as gift bearers. Favors were distributed by Amy Ryba and Mark Augustine, and flowers were by Pearl Engen.

The bride and groom are at home in Newfolden. The groom is employed at Sorenson Construction and the bride at Discovery Place. The bride and groom are graduates of Marshall County Central high school and the bride of the Thief River Falls AVTI.

Watershed Dist. Pact Extended 10 More Years

stopped for the current construction year. This project is a multi-purpose impoundment designed and operated for floodwater retention, wildlife enhancement and downstream flow maintenance. It is located on the Moose river where two separately operated pools for flood water storage are provided through the construction of approximately 16 miles of dike. Operation of the flood gates will provide 29,500 acre feet of gate controlled storage on the 125 square mile drainage area.

Dan Thul, LRRWMB coordinator, also explained the cost overrun on the Moose river project at Wednesday's meeting. Presently, the major three-year project is expected to overrun $390,000 from the original $3,000,000 price tag. Original cost sharing of the project was $1.5 million, state of Minnesota; $1 million, LRRWMB; and $500,000, Red Lake watershed district.

Thul explained that the three main reasons for the overrun on the project were necessary changes to the overall design and operation, delays in the construction of the north pool due to problems securing necessary land rights, and inflation. The original cost estimate was in 1981 dollars.

Potential for the overrun was realized when the project was first funded, according to Thul. In the joint powers agreement, the state of Minnesota, through the commissioner of natural resources, the LRRWMB and Red Lake watershed district agreed that if the total cost exceeded $3,000,000, the district and the state would jointly seek to secure a legislative appropriation for 50 per cent of the overrun. A budget request to the legislature for that 50 per cent has been submitted.

Thul also reported that meetings are progressing in planning ways to allow public access to the project when it is completed.

In other project reports, LRRWMB president Don Ogaard reported that the Wild Rice watershed district is currently in the process of obtaining easements for the Marsh creek project in northwest Mahnomen county and eastern Norman county. The project consists of construction of seven flood detention structures on Marsh creek and its tributaries. The Marsh creek drainage area is 160 square miles and the structures will regulate 128 square miles of that total.

Lance Yohe, president of the International Coalition for Land and Water Stewardship in the Red River Basin (TIC) appeared before the board with a funding request for the development of a water resources simulator to be used as an educational water management tool in the Red river basin.

Yohe said that the University of Montana has developed electronic simulators which duplicate water management actions, showing cause and effect of these actions. He said that his organization would like to have the researchers develop a simulator of this kind using information about the Red River watershed as a data base. The electronic simulator, which would be about the size of a suitcase, would be used as an educational water management tool in meetings with regional leaders and schools in the basin, to help create a better understanding of the complexities of water management, according to Yohe.

He added that the project with the university should involve Dan Thul in coordinating information from Minnesota's water resources engineering and planning program done for the LRRWMB and the similar study done by the army corps of engineers in North Dakota.

The board agreed that a water management simulator of this kind would be a viable educational tool and appropriated $1,750 as their share of its development. Total simulator cost is estimated at $3,500. Yohe said he will also be approaching the North Dakota joint water resources board for support of the project.

In final action the board also approved payment for stream gauging done by the U.S.G.S. totaling $23,690 from Oct. 1, 1985 through Sept. 30, 1986. Half of the gauging bill will be turned over to member watershed districts where stream gauging occurred.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor-Management Relations and Cooperative Programs conducted or cosponsored 35 conferences and other meetings to promote better labor-management cooperation during the 1985 fiscal year, according to the department's annual report.

Council Adopts Overall Budget For Coming Year

the other options seriously considered by Land O'Lakes were to build a new facility in Thief River Falls which would have cost $8 to $9 million and to relocate the local plant and consolidate their offices in Grand Forks. The latter would have caused a loss of 75 jobs in the community. The current proposal will retain those jobs and create five to 10 new full-time positions.

"The proposed improvements will include construction of a second story, 25 feet by 70 feet office space on part of the existing structure. Plan manager Dennis Gaalswyk indicates that the interior renovation to the processing facility should improve truck traffic problems to some extent. He indicates that Bridgeman's is looking for location on the edges of the city where they might consolidate their trucking operations."

City Attorney Robert Wurst advised the city council that the League of Minnesota Cities has filed an amicus curiae, friend of the court, brief in support of Thief River Falls' position in the Allen Melbye case. The last decision involved in the Melbye case was an order to the city to enter into arbitration with Melbye, but the city has appealed that decision.

Under recommendations from the public safety committee the city council approved changes in a contract with Mesaba Airlines granting them their request for more space at the airport terminal. Their rented space at the airport will expand from 180 feet to 230 square feet, and payments from $90 to $116.50 per month. In addition the council agreed to change landing fees from two per cent of on line revenue to 26 cents per thousand pounds of maximum gross landing weight.

In other business the city council: approved the transfer of a 3.2 on and off-sale beer license at Russell's Bar to Darcy Harbott; approved a 1987 insurance policy for Thief River Falls; and, in a light moment during the meeting, called for a roll call vote on a new name for the Minnesota NBA basketball team. The council chose "The Polars" as their choice. One council member abstained, one voted no and the rest approved the choice.

Greg Sorenson Plays In Band Of Charly McClain

a few miles out of Nashville.

"I really wanted to do something in music performance," Greg said, "but I knew that would be hard to find so I opted for music education." He landed a job as a kindergarten through eighth grade music teacher on Chicago's north side, hanging in there for two years, staging seventh and eighth grade musicals and generally enjoying his work.

His performance outlet was a group called "Gabriel" which he had organized while at Trinity college. It was a band and vocal group which performed contemporary Gospel music, primarily in the Midwest, recording a couple of albums and even making an appearance in Thief River Falls several years ago. It was never intended to make money — and it didn't — but it provided experience and instilled in Greg a greater love for performance.

After two years of teaching he accepted a position as minister of music at Crystal Lake Evangelical Free church in Chicago. In 1980 he received a second call from Hope Evangelical Free church in Springfield, IL, went with Karen to look over the situation, found it to be an ideal environment for his purposes and accepted the job to serve in areas of music and youth work.

"I was able to write music for the church choir and the congregation," Sorenson said, "and that was great. But the demands of the youth program became so great they left little time for music. Karen and I decided that if music performance was to be in our lives, we had to go where the action was. We moved to Nashville in July of 1984."

As a means to help make a living, they took on the duties of 24-hour foster parents, having six 17 and 18-year-old juvenile delinquents in their home as a last chance stop between the streets and prison. "One night a 17-year-old kid came at me with a butcher knife and threatened to kill me because I hadn't given him his allowance," Greg said, "and he was serious about it. With a pregnant wife in the house I decided there must be another way to make a living so we gave up foster parenting after two months."

Greg went to work for "The Cooker" corporation, a restaurant chain, supposedly in management but starting as a baker, cook and fry cook before working as a kitchen manager for about a year and one-half. He was moving up with the organization and getting a few music jobs on the side when the chance came to audition for the Charly McClain group. He has played saxophone for B. J. Thomas at one show, been a substitute synthesizer player for David Meese several times and filled in with the Russ Taff Gospel group on occasion.

"A friend of mine with Russ Taff told me about the possible job with Charly and Wayne," Greg said. "They were having trouble with one of the members who was into drugs pretty heavy and it was affecting his performance to the extent they had to let him go. I had a personal interview with Wayne Massey (who played Johnny Drummond on "One Life to Live" for five years) and the band leader and they agreed to give me a try. I'm hired on a permanent basis for as long as I want to be and as long as I perform up to expectations."

Sorenson speaks highly of his employers, saying they are some of the finest people he has met in or out of the music field. They apparently have a strong desire to see their employees keep families together, and a result they try to schedule appearances on Thursday through Sunday so the group can be home in Nashville on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

They expect to be on the road for about 150 dates a year and in January will make a two-week tour in California. An occasional extended tour may cover three weeks. They may play up to 18 dates a month during the heavy country fair season and only a half dozen or so in the winter months.

Greg plays synthesizer and digital piano in the band and is a backup singer. The band includes four members and the traveling group consists of the band, Charly and Wayne, a sound technician and professional driver. They use Charly's $250,000 bus for nearly all of their travel and keep plane travel to an absolute minimum.

"I feel a strong commitment to Charly and Wayne," Greg said. "Both are honest, moral and concerned people. They allow their band to play on some of the albums instead of hiring studio musicians and they are willing to listen to songs we write and to what we have to say. But everyone in the music business tends to gravitate to where the money is. I guess I would like to write music and to be able to stay in Nashville instead of being on the road, maybe as a studio musician."

Greg has a studio in their apartment and continues his song-writing endeavors as much as time allows. He has faith that someday the right combination of song and singer will come along. "I feel like I know where the doors are now," he said. "You don't learn and you don't make contacts unless you are where the action is."

Sorenson still has his wishes from the past. "I wish I had taken piano lessons," he said, "and I wish I had moved to Nashville when I was 17. If I were to talk to high school musicians with aspirations of being professionals, I guess I would encourage them to follow their hearts and pursue their dreams but never believe they have the final word in the direction their lifes' paths may take.

"They should be honest with the information they have and they should practice as much as they possibley can. Celebrity status is a facade but it's part of the business. There is almost always a lot of hard work that goes into becoming a success.

"I have always dreamed of doing music full time and now my dream has come true," Sorenson said. "I have to credit the Lord for allowing me to be in the right place at the right time."

The fund's eight-member board makes grant awards quarterly. Staff will accept applications throughout the year in the project areas that diversify and strengthen the economy, respond to human service needs and enhance human resources.

The 12-county area served by the NWMIF consists of Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties.

Artists-In-Ed Workshop Slated For January 28

Workshop on artists-in-education will be conducted January 28 at the Northwest regional development office in Thief River Falls by Elizabeth Childs, state arts board program associate. The session will run from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. and there will be no cost to participants.

Childs will explain the artists-in-education grant program available from the state arts board, co-sponsor of the workshop with the Northwest regional development commission. Some of the topics to be covered will include how to plan a residency, locating an artist, funding a residency and grant writing tips to help complete the application. Childs will also make time for consultation with any potential grantees.

Deaths And Funerals

Dora Rustad, 91

Thief River Falls — Funeral services were held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls for Dora Rustad, who died December 24 at Northwest Medical center. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Rev. Roger Hanson officiated at the service, with Jerry Joringdal as organist and Marie Engen singing "If We Could See Beyond Today" and "Face To Face."

Gary Ferman, Christopher Helle, David Helle, Michael Helle, Stephen Helle and Jeff Thune served as pallbearers.

Dora Rustad was born Apr. 19, 1895, to Daniel and Gro Helle in Bygland. At the age of four she moved with her parents to the Oklee area. In 1934, after the death of her father, she moved with her family to Thief River Falls.

She was united in marriage Mar. 8, 1939, to Victor Rustad. The couple lived in Thief River Falls. He died Nov. 29, 1976. She then moved to Valley Home where she resided until her death.

Dora Rustad is survived by two nieces, six nephews and three sisters-in-law; and was preceded in death by her parents; one brother and four sisters.

Earl Kirschman, 88

Red Lake Falls — Earl W. Kirschman, 88, of Red Lake Falls, died Monday at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls. Funeral services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. at the First Presbyterian church in Red Lake Falls. Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery in the spring.

Visitation will be after 3 p.m. Friday at the Petterson Funeral chapel in Red Lake Falls, with a prayer service that evening at 8 p.m. There will be visitation at the church one hour prior to the service. A complete obituary will be in Monday's edition of the Times.

Leo Renstrom, 81

Strandquist — Services for Leo Renstrom, 81, of Strandquist, were held at 1 p.m. Monday at the Karlstad Assembly of God church. Leo Renstrom died Thursday afternoon at the United hospital in Grand Forks, ND.

Rev. Terry Evenson and Rev. Paul Keil officiated at the service, with Mrs. Terry Johnson at the organ and special music provided by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Thompson singing a duet, David Gustafson singing a solo and Robert Thompson, Kathy Britten and Dean Johnson performing as a trio.

Pallbearers were Christian Carrico, Timothy Renstrom, Robert Gustafson, Jim Wetterlund, Paul Anderson and David Thompson, with the friends in attendance considered honorary bearers. The Collins Funeral home of Karlstad was in charge of arrangements. Interment was in the Mission Covenant cemetery near Strandquist.

Leo Stenard Renstrom was born Oct. 11, 1905, the son of Eric and Ellen Renstrom. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Strandquist community. Dec. 10, 1932, he was united in marriage to Mary Thompson at Drayton, ND.

Since their marriage, the couple has made their home in Lincoln township. He operated Leo's Garage in Strandquist and moved it to his farmstead 11 years ago. He was employed as a Strandquist school bus driver for several years and did custom threshing throughout the area for many years.

Leo Renstrom is survived by his wife, Mary; two daughters, Lois Carrico and Donna Renstrom, both of Strandquist; three grandchildren, Jacqueline, Gena and Christian; two great-grandchildren, Java and Harmony; two brothers, Willard, Strandquist, and Daniel, Karlstad; two sisters, Elvera Isaacson, Longview, WA, and Thelma Wilson, Granite Falls; and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents and two nephews.

Ella Paulsen, 62

Benwood — Funeral services were held for Ella Peterson at 10 a.m. December 23 at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Benwood with Rev. Gary LaMoine officiating at the Mass of Resurrection. Ella Paulsen died the morning of December 20 at the Karlstad Memorial nursing center at the age of 62.

Pallbearers were Joe, Tony and Larry Gust, Roy Hluney, Earl Wiskow and Wayne Cummins, with friends attending the service considered honorary bearers. Interment will be in the Badger City cemetery with the Collins Funeral home of Greenbush in charge of arrangements.

Ella Eleanor Paulsen, the daughter of Elizabeth and Anton Gust, was born July 4, 1924, in Poplar Grove township of Roseau county, near Benwood. She attended school and grew to womanhood there, and was baptized and confirmed in the Catholic faith.

Sept. 5, 1942, she was united in marriage to Lawrence Paulsen at Greenbush. Since their marriage the couple has lived and farmed in Barnett township, near Greenbush. She was a life-long member of St. Joseph's Catholic church of Benwood, near her home. She was an avid gardener.

Ella Paulsen is survived by her husband, Lawrence; her mother, Elizabeth Gust, Strathcona; three sisters, Mrs. Steve (Helen) Kaml, Greenbush, Mrs. James (Rosie) Ranney, Brainerd, and Mrs. Elwood (Florence) Johnston, Merrifield; three brothers, John and Alvin of Strathcona and Phillip of Minneapolis; and several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her father, two brothers and two sisters.

Gladys Kjos, 81

Crookston — Funeral services were held today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. at Trinity Lutheran church in Crookston for Gladys C. Kjos, 81, who died Sunday at the United hospital in Grand Forks, ND. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery in Thief River Falls with the Stenshoel-Houske Funeral home of Crookston in charge of arrangements.

Gladys Kjos was born in Kenyon May 22, 1905, the daughter of Carl and Gertrude Lee Kjos. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and received her early education there. At the age of nine, she moved with her family to Highlanding, near Thief River Falls. She was a 1936 graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and graduated from Bemidji state teachers' college in Bemidji.

For the next 22 years, she taught in rural schools in Pennington county and for the Hallock school system. She moved to Crookston in 1950, and taught in the Crookston school district until retiring from Washington elementary school in 1970. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, the ALCW, the Anna guild, the altar guild, the Trinity quilters and the Current Events club.

Gladys Kjos is survived by a brother and sister-in-law, Herman A. and Opal Kjos, Thief River Falls; a sister and brother-in-law, Cora and Clarence Ellefson, Goodridge; an aunt, Mrs. Nora Floan, Wanamingo; two nephews, Clyde Ellefson, Red Lake Falls, and Lee Kjos, Redwood Falls, WI; three nieces, Beverly Reinertson, Ravenna, NE, Helen Perrodin, Tucson, AZ, and Darleen Lindom, Leonard; and several great-nieces and great-nephews.

She was preceded in death by a nephew, Herman C. Kjos.

Emma Heide, 94

Cook — Funeral services were held Tuesday at 11 a.m. at Zion Lutheran church in Oklee for Mrs. Oscar (Emma) Heide, 94, of Cook, formerly of Oklee. Emma Heide died Thursday in the Cook Community nursing home.

Rev. Daniel Forsberg officiated at the service, with special music by Donna Sherman and LaVonne Enerson singing "How Great Thou Art" and "The Old Rugged Cross," with Alice Skreland at the organ. Brian Griffith, Kenneth Adams, Kenneth Chase, Kirk Chase, Kenneth D. Chase and Douglas Ahlgren served as pallbearers. The Petterson Funeral home of Oklee was in charge of arrangements, with interment to be in the church cemetery in Oklee.

Emma Hanson was born Sept. 24, 1892, at Lengby, the daughter of Edward and Ingeborg Reierson Hanson. She grew up in the Lengby area. She married Oscar Heide in 1912 at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, and they lived in Canada for a short time.

The couple then farmed in the Lengby and Oklee area until 1934, when they moved to Sault Ste. Marie, MI, where Oscar Heide worked for the Soo Woolen Mill. In 1955 they retired and moved back to Oklee. He died Apr. 13, 1968.

In 1979, she moved to Cook to live with her daughter and son-in-law and family. She became a resident of the Cook Community nursing home in October of this year. She was a member of Zion Lutheran church of Oklee and had been active in the ALCW ladies aid.

Emma Heide is survived by one son, Ed Heide, and wife, Mary, Sault Ste. Marie, MI; one daughter, Ruby and husband, Royal Adams, Cook; three grandchildren, Carol Chase and husband, Kenneth D., of Rochester and Kenneth Adams and Karen Griffith and husband, Brian, all of Cook; four great-grandchildren, Kenneth and Kirk Chase and Ryan and Aaron Griffith; and several nieces and nephews.

Preceding her in death were her parents; husband; two sons, Marshall and Morris; three sisters; and two brothers.

Esther Bakke, 82

Moorhead — Funeral services were held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Faith Lutheran church in Wolverton for Mrs. Esther A. Bakke, 82, who died December 26 at a Fargo, ND, hospital. Rev. Ted Peterson officiated at the service with burial at Salem cemetery in Wolverton. The Korsmo Funeral service of Moorhead was in charge of arrangements.

Esther A. Nordling was born Mar. 26, 1904, at Wolverton, the daughter of Oscar and Selma Nordling. She grew up and attended school there, and graduated from the school of nursing at the Physicians hospital in Thief River Falls.

Following her graduation from nursing school, she worked as a nurse in Thief River Falls at Mercy hospital and later at Northwestern hospital. She retired from nursing in the mid-1970's. Apr. 26, 1931, she was united in marriage to Oscar T. Bakke at Thief River Falls. After their marriage they made their home in Thief River Falls. Her husband died in March of 1984.

In June of 1984, she moved to Moorhead to live with her daughter, residing there until the time of her death.

Esther A. Bakke is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William (Juanita) Frahm, Moorhead; six grandchildren; five sisters, Mrs. Hazel Johnson, Fergus Falls, Mrs. Hans (Nellie) Stensgaard, Thief River Falls, Mrs. Frances Holecek, Breckenridge, Mrs. Judith Nellermoe, LaCresenta, CA, and Mrs. George (Edith) Holecek, Coeur de'Alene, ID.

He was one of only 21 doctoral degree recipients among 725 total graduates of the university at the end of the fall semester.

Name Students To BSU Chapter Of Alpha Phi Sigma

Several area students have been accepted for membership in the Nautilus chapter of Alpha Phi Sigma, the national scholastic society at Bemidji state university.

Listed as members are Debra Filer, senior in nursing; Susan Vraa, daughter of Mrs. Marion Vraa of Goodridge and senior in elementary education; and David L. Rundell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rundell of Gryglа and a senior in geography.

SDA Combination Concert Solves Schedule Problem

When a tight December schedule threatened to eliminate either the children's concert or adult choir concert at the Seventh-day Adventist church in Thief River Falls, teacher Marion Madden at the SDA school suggested an "Evening of Christmas Music" combined concert.

Bonnie Dunston and Diana Simpson organized the experimental program which they termed a success. Children who performed for their parents and others at the first half of the program were able to watch and hear their parents in the adult concert. Refreshments followed the combined program.

LSS Senior Meal Program To Begin Service Monday

Lutheran Social Service senior nutrition program will begin serving meals at the Heritage community center January 5, according to Judy TeBeest, assistant director for the program.

The nutrition program is privately and publicly financed and is designed to assist older people to live healthier and more independent lives. The service is administered in Region I by LSS of Minnesota under a grant from the Northwest Regional Development Commission area agency on aging and is funded in part by the Older Americans act and the state of Minnesota.

Seniors and their spouses age 60 and older are invited to nutritious and delicious meals at the Heritage Community Center. The program asks for a free will, confidential donation to help defray the cost of the meal. A suggested donation of $1.50 has been set, however, no one is denied service due to inability to pay. Persons under 60 are also invited to share a meal at the new center. Cost for persons under 60 is $2.25.

Besides meals the center hopes to offer educational and recreational programs. All seniors are invited to attend. Reservations must be made one day in advance. To make reservations for Jan. 5th please call Sue Erickson at 681-2194 between 10:00 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. or 681-2793.

Sno-Cross Race Committees To Meet On Tuesday

Committees for the 1987 World Series of Sno-Cross race and festival will hold an organizational meeting on Tuesday at the Elks club, beginning at 8 p.m. The race and festival will be held in Thief River Falls on February 21 and 22. The World series of Sno-Cross race and festival will again be co-sponsored by the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce and Thief River Falls Jaycees. This will be the fourth consecutive year that Thief River Falls has hosted the World series of Sno-Cross race.

The 1987 World Series of Sno-Cross race is sanctioned by Motorsports Racing Plus (MRP), formerly known as the C.C.C. The World series race will be the final race of the 1986-87 MRP racing season and will again feature the top sno-cross racers from throughout the United States and Canada.

Individuals who assisted with the 1986 race and those who wish to assist with the 1987 race are invited to attend this organizational meeting.

MDA Budget Of $92.5 Million Is Adopted For '87

Board of directors of the Muscular Dystrophy association (MDA) has approved a record-setting 1987 budget of $92.5 million, according to Zona Roesler, president of the voluntary health agency's Red River valley chapter.

The budget allocates $68.3 million for MDA program services, including research, patient and community services, and professional and public education.

According to Dr. S. Mouchly Small, MDA wil next year face its greatest challenge since the association was founded in 1950. Just two months ago, it was announced that an MDA-supported research team discovered the gene responsible for Duchenne muscular dystrophy, the most severe form of the muscle-wasting disease. The breakthrough has identified for the first time the precise path scientists must follow to a cure or treatment for the disease.

Regional Dairy Production Meet At RLF Jan. 7

Quotas, price outlook, raising and using good quality forages and a herd vaccination program will all be topics presented at a regional dairy production meeting to be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, January 7 at the Minnesota Wheat Grower's building in Red lake Falls.

Coffee and registration will be from 9 to 9:30 a.m. The program is open to all interested dairy producers and businesses working with dairy producers.

NWRDC Planning Session Part Of Evaluation Task

Strategic planning session for the Northwest regional development commission will be held early in 1987 as part of its evaluatıon of function and operations, according to Jay Brunner, executive director.

The commission is required by Minnesota law to conduct the evaluation every four years, and the management analysis section of the state department of administration is handling the task.

"The procedure used in the evaluation is a series of telephone interviews with previous and current commission members," Brunner said. "In addition a series of small 'focus groups' has been organized to provide specific program evaluation. Intent of the evaluation is to improve the organization's abilities to meet identified needs of the region's citizens."

The strategic planning session, originally set for January 8 but likely to be rescheduled due to time conflicts, is intended to identify the future direction of the commission and its operating programs, and to determine if there are additional areas where NWRDC involvement should be directed.

Brunner pointed out that the purpose of the commission as stated in the enabling legislation creating it is as follows: "...to facilitate intergovernmental cooperation and to insure the orderly and harmonious coordination of state, federal and loical comprehensive planning and development programs for the solution of economic, social, physical and governmental problems of the state and its citizens." He encouraged persons with ideas or suggestions to contact him at the regional office, P.O. Box E, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or call 681-2637.

Grants Awarded To Recipients Through NWRDC

Lutheran Social services, Tri-Valley Opportunity council and Northwest Minnesota Legal services all received grants through the Northwest regional development commission at a recent meeting.

Lutheran Social services received grants for two programs. A state grant of $77,559 and federal grant of $182,044 will be used to provide an estimated 136,305 meals in a congregate setting in 26 communities of the region. A federal grant of $60,882 will be used to provide some 51,122 home delivered meals in 28 communities.

Tri-Valley Opportunity council will receive $39,750 in federal funds to provide chore service such as housecleaning, laundry, grocery shopping, minor repairs, lawn mowing, snow shoveling and related items to elderly persons who are physically unable to do the work themselves in Polk, Norman and Pennington counties. The project proposes to serve about 350 people.

Northwest Minnesota Legal services will receive $20,332 to provide legal services to older persons throughout Region I. Highest priority is to be given cases involving medical assistance, medicare, supplemental insurance, Hill-Burton, health insurance, nursing home resident problems, social security, VA benefits, food stamps, housing issues, consumer issues, vulnerable adult abuse cases and visitation and custody rights of grandparents.

Book Offers Aid In Location Of Vital Records

In this age of bureaucratic documentation, everyone has need of copies of records of birth, death, marriage or divorce. An application for benefits from the Veterans administration or social security, a passport or marriage license must have the information contained in these records and sometimes copies of the records themselves.

All these records are stored permanently by municipalities, counties, states and the federal government.

The Consumer Education Research center, a national non-profit consumer group, found that there was little uniformity on where the records were available and the costs. In some states, birth records are kept by the city and in others by the county or state. To further complicate matters, often older records are held in a different place then current ones. In addition, the addresses where the records are kept are changed quite often.

The consumer group found many people had difficulty in locating the records they needed. In many cases it was necessarry to make expensive long distance calls just to find out where to write, what information was required and how much money to send. For that reason CERC is publishing a book entitled "Where to Write for Vital Records" which contains a state-by-state listing of the addresses and telephone numbers of where each record can be found, the cost of a copy of the document and sample form letters containing all the information needed to get these and other vital documents.

Many times documents can be used to prove things other than what they record. For instance, one women wrote to the group telling them that a birth certificate for her child proved her residence at that time in the United States and helped her in efforts to become a citizen.

To obtain a copy of this useful book, send $4 to CERC, Documents, 439 Clark Street, South Orange, N.J. 07079 or call 1-800-872-0121 for credit card orders.

NW Experiment Station To Host Dairy Program

Annual Northwest experiment station dairy day will be held on Tuesday, January 13, from 10:10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the ag research center, auditorium on the Crookston campus. Refreshments and registration will begin at 10 a.m.

Tours of the updated dairy facility will follow the program. Gordon Shafer, northwestern Minnesota extension district program leader will preside at the program. Everyone is welcome to attend, particularly dairymen and women and others associated with the dairy industry. A noon luncheon is available at a nominal cost in the UMC dining hall. A 44-page booklet of all the 1986-87 Minnesota dairy research will be available for $1 at the dairy day registration table.

Mn TAP Expands Its Assistance To Businesses

Minnesota Technical Assistance program (MnTAP) continues to expand its efforts to help small and medium-sized businesses reduce the amount of hazardous wastes they generate. MnTAP is offering research awards to fund hazardous waste reduction and treatment research. The deadline for application is Jan. 23, 1987.

The MnTAP award can be used for two-thirds of the total cost of the work to be done under the award up to $15,000. The recipient must provide at least one-third of the total funds for the work. MnTAP has the resources to cover five awards at this time.

Minnesota companies that generate hazardous wastes, industry and trade associations, colleges, universities and vocational-technical institutions are encouraged to apply. The awards are intended to support research to develop new treatment and reduction methods to treat and or reduce hazardous wastes that can most benefit small businesses.

"These research awards will provide support for research projects that, while modest in scope, may benefit many Minnesota businesses in the long run," says MnTAP director Cindy McComas.

In 1986, three research awards were granted to area generators. Two awards went to researchers at the University of Minnesota. One project was designed to study oil contaminant removal from caustic solutions and the other project was designed to study the destruction of iron-cyanide complexes by ultraviolet irradiation and nitrogen fixing blue-green algae. The third award was given to the Minnesota Agricultural Aircraft association (MAAA) to research the reuse of pesticides from aerial spraying applicators.

To qualify for a research award projects must have industry wide applicability. Projects that only benefit a specific company are ineligible.

Research award applications are due Friday, January 23, 1987 and can be obtained from the MnTAP office, W140 Boynton Health Service, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455; 612-625-9471 (outside the Twin Cities 1-800-247-0015).

MnTAP is a special service of the Minnesota waste management board, established in 1984 as part of the board's efforts to reduce hazardous waste at its source and reduce industry's reliance on land disposal.

Thought Provoking Comment On Subjects Of Public Interest

Unfortunate Choice Of Words

Every now and then in the newspaper business something appears in print which doesn't turn out the way it was intended to be. What seemed to be humorous on the spur of the moment does not appear to be funny in light of the situation in retrospect. It happened to the Times a couple of weeks ago.

In our "Times Around the Region" series of excerpts from area papers, we selected an item regarding a fire which started when taxidermist Terry Dahl was using a volatile fluid for cleaning the feathers on a bird. The item was headed "How Do You Like Your Duck?" and stated that Dahl was working with a duck when the fire started from a hot water heater pilot light. It said the house, owned by Richard Filpula in Spruce Valley township, burned.

In actuality, the bird was not a duck and the house, although damaged, did not burn. And the heading was admittedly a bit too flippant for a situation which was unfortunate and probably life-threatening. It was an unfortunate choice of words and we hope we learn from the experience to be more alert and sensitive to the position of others.

A Failure To Control Spending

Following editorial is from the Morris Sun:

"Our current $200 billion deficit is clearly the product of the Reagan Administration tax cuts and massive military spending." So writes Dr. Arthur Flemming in an article distributed this month by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The argument that tax cuts caused the deficit is often repeated. Yet the numbers show that tax revenues have increased by almost 30 per cent since the year President Reagan took office. In 1981, the federal government collected $600 billion in taxes; this year it will collect $777 billion, an increase of 29.5 per cent.

The problem is that spending increased over 47 per cent in the same period! In 1981, the federal government spent $678 billion. This year, the government will spend over $1 trillion.

Federal taxes now represent 18.6 per cent of the gross national product, a level slightly higher than the average of the past 25 years. But federal spending has ballooned to account for almost 24 per cent of the GNP, significantly higher than the 20 per cent historic average.

The deficit is not the product of tax cuts; it is the result of too rapid increases in federal spending.

In fact, the 1981 tax cut has been 99 per cent negated by the tax increases of the past five years. Inflation-induced bracket creep increased taxes by $650 billion, Social Security tax rate increases added $287 billion, and the 1982 TEFRA tax hike added $311 billion. As the accompanying chart shows, the $1.488 trillion tax cut is nearly matched by $1.476 trillion in tax increases.

Dr. Flemming's analysis of the deficit is half true: massive military spending has indeed contributed to the deficit. In the past five years the president has requested, and Congress has approved, huge increases in the defense budget.

At the same time, politicians have lacked the courage to limit federal spending for entitlement programs, which accounted for 43.4 per cent of the federal budget in fiscal 1986. The three largest entitlement programs are Social Security, Medicare, and the Civil Service retirement system.

Only one-sixth of entitlement spending is means-tested. As such, the lion's share of the entitlements budget goes to individuals who are not needy by any stretch of the imagination.

The $177 billion increase in tax revenues since 1981 was adequate. Congress and the president have simply failed to control federal spending.

Interesting Opinions:

"This, then, is the appropriate sphere of human liberty. It comprises, first, the inward domain of consciousness; demanding liberty of conscience in the most comprehensive sense; liberty of thought and feeling; absolute freedom of opinion and sentiment on all subjects, practical or speculative, scientific, moral or theological . . .

"Secondly, the principle requires liberty of tastes and pursuits; of framing the plan of our life to suit our own character; of doing as we like, subject to such consequences as may follow: without imediment from our fellow creatures, so long as what we do does not harm them, even though they think our conduct foolish, perverse or wrong . . .

"No society in which these liberties are not, on the whole, respected, is free, whatever may be its form of government; and none is completely free in which they do not exist absolute and unqualified . . .

"Each is the proper guardian of his own health, whether bodily or mental and spiritual. Mankind are greater gainers by suffering each other to live as seems good to themselves, than by compelling each to live as seems good to the rest."

—John Stuart Mill (1806-1873)

Turning Back

Thief River Falls
THE TIMES

1916 - 70 YEARS AGO

Approximately $70,000 was spent on public and private improvements in this city in 1916, a survey revealed. — The Commercial club and Woman's club sponsored a Christmas tree festival at the auditorium. Mrs. T.L. Melgaard served as general chairman. — F.H. Herrick was named president of the city council succeeding C.W. Ackerman, who resigned preceding his departure from the city. — Harry G. Dobner of St. Paul transacted business here. — Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren was a guest at the Dr. O.F. Melby home. — Irving Quist of Warren was married to Miss Mamie Finberg, Rev. Albin A. Larson officiating. — Senator D.P. O'Neill left for St. Paul to attend the regular session of the state legislature.

1926 - 60 YEARS AGO

Savings deposited in the Thief River Falls post office now aggregate $330,000, largest of any community in the state outside of the Twin Cities. — Dr. J.T. Bowers was named president of the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league. — The Thief River Falls creamery completed arrangements for installation of a buttermilk dryer. — The area was digging out of the snow following a severe blizzard last week.

1936 - 50 YEARS AGO

Burglars obtained $300 from a safe in the office of Dr. O.F. Melby. — S.E. Hunt was named to succeed Hans Anton as president of the county fair board. — John W. Taylor, in charge of the local resettlement project, stated that to date 44 farms in Pennington county have been bought by the federal agency. — Meeting in special session, the state legislature enacted an unemployment compensation bill.

1946 - 40 YEARS AGO

Herman A. Kjos was reelected president of the Sons of Norway lodge. — Melvin L. Carlson, on January 1, will take over the operation of the Palace hotel on LaBree avenue. — Miss Mary McLaughlin, E.N., was appointed to make a case history of the 34 cases of polio that originated in Pennington county during the past year.

1956 - 30 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Larson purchased Lein's apparel store in Thief River Falls. — Lincoln high school alumni will hold a reunion at the Thief River Falls golf course. — Pennington county attorney L.W. Rulein, president of the Minnesota association of county attorneys, will preside at the annual convention in Minneapolis.

1966 - 20 YEARS AGO

A Thief River Falls girl, 21-year-old Sharon Lokken, was killed in an automobile crash three miles south of Ogema. — To better coordinate activities and crystallize thinking between the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce and the city council, Lowell Swenson, a council member, has been named a special director of the Chamber of Commerce in a liaison position between the council and the Chamber. — The amount of money found at the farm home of recluse Henry Steenerson of Strathcona, following his death last week, has risen to $20,000.

1976 - 10 YEARS AGO

A Christmas Day fire believed begun in a Christmas tree destroyed the living room of an apartment rented by Gerald Garner at 1236 Edgewood apartments in Thief River Falls. Garner and his young son were the only persons home at the time of the fire, and they escaped injury when the child woke Garner with his cries, giving them time to escape. — The Valley 24 grocery at 307 East First Street was robbed December 25 by a lone gunman wearing a ski mask, the second such robbery in the city in a month. — A Lincoln high school custodian was arrested for alleged thefts at the school. Loren Arveson, 23, was apprehended December 17 and charged with thefts over $100.

Tidbits From

Thief River Falls
THE TIMES

Excerpts from the December 31, 1936, Times, rewritten by Sharon LaCoursiere.

Editorials in today's Times, the last edition of 1936, include this little invitation entitled "Help Yourself To Happiness":

"For the New Year we wish you happiness. Help yourself to a big slice of it. Don't stand back and wait for others to get theirs first. There is plenty for everybody. As a matter of fact the more you take the more there will be left for the others. So help yourself to Happiness.

"Where is Happiness obtained? Not far from home, according to authorities. They all seem to agree that, 'The City of Happiness is in the State of Mind.' How to get it is a more difficult problem. It isn't sold by the yard or pound or quart. It can't be bought in any form or at any price, and yet it is within easy reach of rich and poor alike."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

To Whom this concerns:

Yes, you have a fine athletic program in Thief River Falls.

Why do you insist on scheduling long weekend games over the holidays, especially leaving the day after Christmas (December 26) for games at Hibbing?

Families coming many hundred miles to spend the holidays with their loved ones discover that you, the "organizers", have lost the Christmas spirit and decided the game must go on. Some of us would like to spend more time together in our homes during the holidays.

To The Editor:

More than anything else, this Iran-Contra affair sounds like a movie script, as if life was just a movie. The 'tough,' no-nonsense president frustrated by a testy and irritable Congress in his efforts to defeat the Evil Empire. So he sets up a special task force of brave and dedicated men led by a heroic Marine Corps officer to deal with the problem by whatever means are necessary. Like a movie, there would be scenes of clandestine goings-on in exotic mideastern locis and then macho, hand-to-hand combat sequences in a steamy jungle locale.

The plot would twist and turn with breath-taking escapes and near exposure by some left-wing reporter. In the end, though, truth and justice and conservative values would prevail. The jut-jawed president would announce victory with the Statue of Liberty. . .or maybe the White House Christmas tree. . .in the background and tell the world that nothing. . .including laws passed by a wimpish Congress. . .would stand in the way of eventual triumph of good over evil.

The movie would end with the leaders of the Evil Empire, deep in the bowels of their dark fortress, licking their wounds and plotting their next round of dastardly deeds. We would then cut to a secret room in the basement of the White House where members of the special force are kicking back with their feet on tables and smiles on their faces smoking big Cuban cigars. . ."the guy that had them doesn't need them any more, Ho!, Ho!," (like Santa Claus), and speculating on their next mission. . ."any time, any place, any way." It's too bad life isn't a movie. The whole fiasco could have a happy ending.

I'm not about to defend Ronald Reagan and I'm not going to say I told you so, but I have been trying to remind people of something. President Reagan is beyond redemption. . .his creditability shattered forever and forever. Future presidents will hesitate to ask him to represent our country at world events. For deceiving the American people, he will never be forgiven a la Nixon. All the magic of his office is gone. . .all the golden aura of his presidency has vanished.

In 1984, Walter Mondale did a good job of exposing Reagan's weeknesses. He showed the president as being an adventurist in foreign policy, as relying too much on advisors whose interests are not necessarily the same as the interests of ordinary people, and as pursuing economic policies that could turn into a disaster.

David Stockman, in his recent book, has stated, "President Reagan is responsible for the huge national debt." There were no safety nets under any of the "Supply-side Economic" policies of Reagan's administration. The "safety-net" was a fabrication of David Stockman's imagination. During the campaign of 1984, Walter Mondale campaigned on the issues confronting America. Poor Fritz: he expected people to think. Reagan demonstrated a disastrous detachment toward economic policies.

Reagan's handlers focused on "puppy dogs in doll buggies and white picket fences and little girls in pretty pink dresses." It was 'morning in America' and we were 'standing tall' and that's all there was to think about.

It must have been an effective message because a lot of people bought it and Ronald Reagan is still president. And he is the only president we have, as unfortunate as that might be.

Now the media, the very people who did so much to help sell that message, are falling all over themselves to tell us how absolutely out of control and sneaky this administration is today. The Teflon coating is gone, they say. Hey folks!. . .they are the ones who put that Teflon coat on him in the first place.

The budget deficit, the trade deficit, the union busting, the nasty corporate greed, the terrible, growing poverty in America and all the other things Ronald Reagan is responsible for were around before the 1984 election and long before the cowboys went to Tehran. I just wish the national media would have considered them the scandals that they are. But the reporters were busy chasing Geraldine Ferarro all around the country during the campaign.

The voters bought Reagan's ticket in 1984 and we are stuck with him. It might get 'scary and hairy' but we have to watch the show. . .all the way to the end. . .and it may be a "bummer."

Then, in 1988, maybe the voters will be more sophisticated and will pay more attention to the candidates' message — and not the media including television! Happy New Year!

River Valley

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, Oklee
796-5884

I wish you a Merry Christmas and a happy, happy New Year. Thanks for all your news. The news is like a letter to your neighbors and friends who live out of state, including Minnesota. It's greatly appreciated so please keep calling me so I have something to write about. Thanks.

Christmas Eve Supper Guests At Merle Lundeen's

Those who came over to enjoy the evening were Luella Lundeen, Dayton and Orda Silk of Thief River Falls, Barbara Olson, Dunne Etinnes of Thief River Falls, Tim and Candy Lundeen and family, Dale, Jeff, Perry Lundeen, Greg Hopwood of Minneapolis. They all were Christmas Day dinner guests at the Dayton Silk's home in Thief River Falls.

Bruce Krostad of Bejou visited Friday at Merle Lundeen's.

Sunday dinner guests at the Lowell Hagen home in Bemidji were Merle and Armilla Lundeen. They also visited at the Tim Lundeen home of rural Goodridge recently.

Tony Lundeen of Minneapolis spent the weekend at his parents home, Merle and Armilla.

Birdie Gunderson Passed Away Christmas Day

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the family of Birdie Gunderson, resident of the McIntosh Manor. Birdie resided in Deer Park township until the last several years where she lived at the Gunderson apartments in Oklee and later she moved to the nursing home. Funeral for Birdie is Monday the 29th at the Oak Park church north of Oklee with Pastor Tom Rank officiating the services. Birdie has been ill for several years and passed away from massive internal bleeding and kidney failure. She is in God's hands now. Blessed be her memory. Birdie was Korydon Chervestad's godmother.

Christmas Eve Supper Guests At The Glen Hofstad Home

Supper guests at the Glenn Hofstad home were Mrs. Pearl Poppenhagen of Thief River Falls, Mable Hofstad, Oliver and Selmer Hofstad, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Olson, David, Lisa, and Melanie.

Kim and Barb Chervestad, Jessie, Larrisa of Brainerd are spending the holidays at their parent's home, Juell and Annebelle. Also Joy and Jim Johnson and family of southern Minnesota, Joy and Jim are visiting at his parent's home, the Leonard Johnsons of Goodridge. They all were Christmas day dinner guests at Juell Chervestad's along with their other sisters, Ramona Bush of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sparby, Kallie and Josh, Mr. and Mrs. Elden Neuschwander, Dustin and Courtney of Grygla.

Otto Causin is out of the hospital and now a resident of Oakland Park nursing home.

Orlando Chervestad visited with his aunt Alice Gunderson Friday. Anna Gisselquist came over too and enjoyed visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hesse of St. Paul visited recently with their mother Alice. Alice is feeling much better now.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Halvorson were company at the Malcolm Stuey home Monday evening.

Celebration Time

Why celebrate the end of one year and the beginning of the next? It seems a strange custom, yet there is a good reason for it.

Few of any of us have come even close to perfection in the year just ending. So we look ahead toward the fresh new days, blank pages in the next chapter of our lives.

What will we do with them? On the eve of a New Year most of us certainly have the desire to try harder to be better people.

But even while we are saying "Off with the old and on with the new" we are also clinging to the good of the days gone by. As we renew old friendships, we [illegible]

And [illegible] We start the year the best way [illegible] We go to church.

SCRATCHING WHAT ITCHES, these two deer at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge provide nearly a mirror image. Headquarters personnel at Agassiz have been spreading a little grain each day for a herd of about 20 deer which frequent the headquarters area. Does and fawns are acclimated to the activity in the area and generally will return quickly from the nearby woods if something causes them to take flight from the feeding area. At least one buck is with the herd (see front page photo) and is much more wary.

Reports Of Thefts And Vandalism In TRF Police News

Police in Thief River Falls recorded several incidents of thefts and vandalism reported to the Law Enforcement center during the past week.

Theft incidents. On December 24 Gerald A. Johnson, Thief River Falls, reported a theft from his vehicle while at work. A Christmas package containing Black Hills gold earrings valued at $38.95 were taken from his car.

On December 27 the Best Western reported that the serve bar and salad bar area had been entered by persons unknown and a quantity of liquor is missing. The value of the loss has not been determined. It is under investigation.

On December 29 Jon Larson, Thief River Falls, reported that on December 27 someone stole their snowmobile cover. This occurred around 11 p.m. and the thief ran off when seen by the Larson's as he was also attempting to steal the windshield from the snowmobile. The cover is for a Yamaha and was valued at about $100.

On December 28 the 7-Eleven store in Thief River Falls reported a shoplifter. The adult male, age 37, alledgely took a magazine valued at $3.95. Charges are pending in court for theft under $250.

Vandalism incidents. On December 23 Curt Lemky, Thief River Falls, reported that a van parked in his backyard was vandalized. Someone threw a frozen pumpkin against the windshield breaking it. It was possibly done within the last three weeks. Damage was estimated at $150.

On December 25 Billy Nygaard, Thief River Falls, reported minor vandalism to his car while parked in the Family Bowl parking lot. Damage was estimated at $10. It is under investigation.

On December 27 a local resident reported that their house was entered during their absence over the Christmas holiday and minor damage was done. No apparent loss has been reported. It is under investigation.

Theft recovery. On December 22 a snowmobile stolen from Frank Hageman, route one, on November 17, was recovered. The engine was missing and a belly pan broken. On December 23 a juvenile boy, age 16, Thief River Falls, was contacted in connection with the theft of the Hageman snowmobile and charges are pending in juvenile court for theft over $250.

Hit-and-run incidents. Russ Iverson of Middle River, reported on December 23 that his car had been hit last Sunday while it was parked in a lot in Thief River Falls. Damage to the right side of his car was estimated at $250.

On December 23 at 5:23 p.m. Sheriff Richards reported that his car had been hit by an unknown vehicle while his car was parked in the Law Enforcement center. Damage to the rear of his car was estimated at $200.

Tax Reform Act Makes Changes In Many Deductions

The Tax Reform Act of 1986 will mean many changes in the way taxes are calculated. Even though many of the deductions and shelters that are a part of the present tax code will be changed, it is still possible to take advantage of the present law, as the new tax legislation generally does not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1987.

This list, prepared by the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants, does not include all possible considerations. For advice on the actions you should take, contact your tax advisor.

(1) Put the maximum amount allowed into an IRA. If you don't have one, start one before April 14, 1987, as there will be tight limits on eligibility in the future.

(2) Invest as much as you can into your 401(k) since contributions will be limited to $7,000 beginning Jan. 1, 1987. Right now the limit is $30,000.

(3) For those recently retired or about to retire, check with your tax advisor about the timing of lump sum payments from retirement plans. After this year tax averaging on such lump sum payments will be changed. Ten year averaging of lump sum pension payments, a technique that has made it possible to avoid a stunning tax hit in the year the taxpayer retires, will be abolished and be replaced by the option to average over five years.

(4) Consider restructuring your investment portfolio. The abolition of favorable tax rates on capital gains means that some restructuring is in order. Under the new legislation, all capital gains will be taxes as ordinary income.

(5) Use to the fullest extent possible the provisions in the law that allow for deductions for union dues and professional dues, subscriptions to professional periodicals, investment expenses, tax planning and tax preparation advice. All these deductions will be limited beginning in 1987.

(6) Individuals who have been contemplating purchase of big items, such as a car or boat, should buy them before year end as the new law will eliminate the deductibility of state and local sales taxes.

(7) If you have held stock or other assets for six months or less and plan to sell, you should consider postponing the sale until after January 1, when the short term capital gains rate, currently at 50 per cent, decreases. These gains will be taxed as regular income.

(8) For charitable contributions, you might consider contributing appreciated stock rather than selling it. If you sell stock and make a contribution of cash, you pay tax on the gain first and then take a deduction with the proceeds. It is better to contribute the stock directly, eliminating the tax on the gain and obtaining a deduction on the entire value. If you itemize, contributions will still be deductible in future years, but the coming rate reductions might make it worthwhile to contribute now, while the deductions are worth more.

(9) If you do not itemize deductions, consider giving future years contributions this year, while you can still deduct them. After January 1, non-itemizers cannot deduct contributions.

(10) Taxpayers that are currently paying interest charges on consumer debt such as credit cards should consider either paying the debt off or refinancing the debt at a lower rate.

Remember that financial strategies should not be applied blindly, but determined in light of individual circumstances. See a certified public accountant or other tax advisor for the best course of action.

Winter Driving Reminder Given By Safety Dep't.

Minnesotans have not felt the full blast of winter yet but that is bound to happen. With that probability, the Minnesota department of public safety stresses some basic rules for winter driving.

First, starting and stopping a vehicle can cause initial problems because of the often hazardous combination of snow, sleet, rain and wind. Starting requires a gentle application of the accelerator.

In stopping, vital things to remember are reducing speed and increasing following distances. Never jam on the brakes to stop on a slippery surface. Apply brakes gently. If you need to stop suddenly, pump your brakes. If your wheels lock, release the brake to get them rolling again, then squeeze down again and keep repeating the pumping action until the vehicle stops.

Auto safety engineers generally agree there is only a slight difference in braking and steering techniques necessary when driving a front-wheel drive car rather than the traditional rear-wheel drive vehicle. In a typical skid the rear of the vehicle will swing out at an angle to the left or right. In a front-wheel drive vehicle there may be a slight resistance or holding back in the drive wheels affecting steering ability.

Experts agree that it is important to avoid braking if at all possible. As long as the drive wheels keep turning the vehicle will keep traction and some maneuverability. Taking your foot off the accelerator and attempting to keep the car wheels pointed in the direction you want to go is of primary importance. If it is necessary top brake in order to avoid a collision, the "squeeze" technique of braking is recommended.

Owners of cars with power brakes are advised to keep their vehicles correctly tuned to avoid inadequate engine vacuum which could adversely affect the functioning of power brake boosters.

Other reminders are:

+ Be able to see and be seen (this means clear off the window of snow and ice before starting to drive).

+ Make turns slowly and gradually.

+ Turn in the direction the rear of the vehicle is mvoing in a skid.

+ Avoid a collision by intentionally steering the car off the road and into a snowbank if necessary in an emergency situation.

If you become stalled, stay inside the vehicle until help arrives. Keep fresh air in the vehicle and run the engine sparingly for heat and make sure exhaust is vented away from the car.

These and other pieces of advice for safe winter driving can be found in a pamphlet, "Winter Driving Tips," available by writing to the Office of Public Information, Minnesota Department of Public Safety, 318 Transportation Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

AGRESSIVE BEHAVIOR is exhibited by some of the deer feeding on grain spread for them at the headquarters of Agassiz National Wildlife refuge east of Holt. The dominant does are most likely to lash out at smaller does and fawns which they apparently feel are infringing on their feeding territory. The striking with front hooves can vary from a sort of warning tap to a no-nonsense attack as illustrated in the photos above. Agassiz personnel said the deer are more active and possessive of the feed during colder weather.

EAGER FAWNS come trotting out of the nearby woods at Agassiz National Wildlife refuge as refuge personnel spread a couple pails of grain for them. A herd of about 20 deer partakes of the snack with fawns being the least wary and most eager to feed. There is at least one buck with this herd which has not yet lost its antlers, and it is usually the last on the scene and first to leave at the slightest hint of perceived danger. The fawns will not approach the men very close, but will quickly come to feed when humans leave the area. Refuge personnel said they have enjoyed observing behavior of the deer and that the animals are more active during colder weather.

Economist Says Much Inflation Unlikely In 1987

by Walter W. Heller
U of M Economist

About this time of year, it seems that the doomsayers like to rattle the inflation cage. This time around, they point to rising import prices, a rebound in some world commodity prices and a rapid rise in M-1 money supply as indicators of a likely doubling of inflation — to six or seven per cent — by a year from now. Once again, as in the past three years, they are wrong.

First of all, there is simply no sign of excess-demand inflation, too many dollars chasing too few goods. At the risk of monotony, I can repeat what I said here about a year ago: "With factory operating rates stuck at 80 per cent of capacity and unemployment stuck at seven per cent it's mighty hard to see excess demand raising its ugly head."

Second, what about wage-push inflation? It's nowhere in sight. We've just seen six successive years of declining wage boosts. Recently, straight-time wages were rising only a little more than one per cent a year. Total employment costs — including fringes, payroll taxes, workers compensation — are only rising about three per cent a year. With moderate growth and modest inflation in prospect next year, no break out of wage costs is in the cards.

That leaves external-shock inflation, mainly food, oil and import prices. To the dismay of farmers and the delight of consumers, food prices are not likely to rise.

As to oil, maybe King Fahd of Saudi Arabia, playing footsie with Iran, can jack the price of oil up to $18 a barrel, but I doubt it. And even if he could, it wouldn't have a major impact on our price level.

But surely, you say, overall import prices are bound to go up, and you're right. True, foreign exporters have been shaving profit margins to preserve their U.S. markets. And true, over a third of our imports come from countries whose currencies haven't risen relative to the dollar. But import prices are creeping up, and we have to add about one per cent to next year's inflation rate to take account of that.

Even with that add on, inflation will weigh in at less than four per cent next year, not six to seven per cent, so there's a lot of inertia in inflation — once it gets going, it's hard to stop, and once it's stopped, it's hard to get it going again — so I doubt that the inflation wolf is even lurking in the shadows.

The Challenge of American Citizenship

An Essay By Nancy Newland
Marshall County Central School

Throughout the years, Americans have been taught to sing, recite and believe that America is a great place to live because it offers us freedom of speech, religion and press. Common terms, said so often, yet possibly thought about so little.

Our country's freedoms are often taken for granted. It is hard to imagine the importance of our great nation, unless we imagine these privileges being destroyed. What exactly are the privileges or duties of an American citizen?

The right to vote, to hold public assembly and to hold office at the state and local government are probably the most recognized rights of citizens.

But what about us, meaning those under 18 years of age: does it mean that just because we're not old enough to vote we can't be considered citizens? We are American citizens too and I believe that citizenship does not necessarily involve the right to vote or other participation in political activity. I believe minors are citizens too! There are many things that we can do to help our community. We should learn to respect the flag, help the elderly, be good examples to others, keep ourselves informed about the world around us, and share that knowledge with others.

Good citizens help out in their community events by being a campaign manager and participating in local fund raisers and blood drives. They will do everything they possibly can to better the community in which they live. They will help watch out for crime and if they are aware of a crime, immediately report the evidence to the local policeman or official. Good citizens will not sit around and watch others; they will go out and do it for themselves.

A good example of a good civic duty was Paul Rever's historic ride warning the colonists that the British were coming. Let me ask you something. If you were living back in 1775 would you have risked your life to warn everybody else? Chances are probably not! That's what I mean when I say that our civic duties are taken for granted. What our nation needs is more people like Paul Revere! People who go beyond the normal duties and actually help the American cause!

So I challenge you, each and every one of you, to go out and do whatever you possibly can to help our nation remain great.

"Liberty is always unfinished business," states American civil Liberties Union. That's what I mean when I challenge you, because you can never do too much to help your country or community in which you live. I wish that more and more people would come to this realization and make the United States an even better place to live.

A great English philosopher, John Stuart Mill once said, "Let a man have nothing to do with his country and he shall have no love for it." America needs to be loved, and if it's going to be loved it has to have people who care people who go beyond normal duties accept the challenge of American citizenship, and WIN!

Let me end with a quote by Woodrow Wilson, 28th President of the United States: "Liberty does not consist, my fellow citizens, in the mere declaration of the rights of man. It consists in the translation of those declarations into definite ideas."

WHY WEIGHT? MAKE YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION NOW.

Now that the holidays are over, consider The OPTIFAST® Program as your #1 New Year's Resolution. Hospital developed and proven, The OPTIFAST Program has helped over 200,000 people nationwide. Studies have shown that up to 80% of OPTIFAST® treated patients may lose a minimum of 40 pounds. In patients who lose more than this amount, the average loss is 85 pounds.¹ But even more encouraging is the fact that in some people, long-term weight maintenance — the most important part of obesity treatment — is accomplished in The OPTIFAST Program.

The OPTIFAST Program is not for people who want to trim a few inches off their waistline. The OPTIFAST Program is a hospital-based, supplemented fasting program that combines a nutritionally complete diet supplement, dietary counseling, behavior modification and group support. The OPTIFAST Program does more than just check your weight and blood pressure. We constantly monitor any obesity-related health problems you might be encountering. Lab-work is performed to ensure continued good health. As you advance through The OPTIFAST Program, we educate you about eating and nutrition. We let you share your concerns with us and with other OPTIFAST Program participants.

So if you're more than 30% or 50 pounds overweight, please call us at 681-4240, ext. 357 and receive complete details about the OPTIFAST Program. Do it now. It's a good New Year's Resolution.

INTRODUCING . . .
AFFORDABLE TELEPHONE MAINTENANCE
PRIORITY & PRIORITY PLUS

Most people think of their phone as a convenience. But what if you pick up the phone and hear nothing? Then, your phone becomes a necessity . . . to make appointments, to reach family, friends or work, to reach the outside world. What if the problem is with the inside wire that runs throughout your home. Who will fix it? And how much will it cost?

Or what if it is the phone itself that isn't working? Can you really afford to run out and buy a replacement . . . for just a temporary need?

VIDCOM TELEPHONE CENTER now offers you a cost-effective way to protect your entire phone investment and obtain the dependable service you need . . . PRIORITY and PRIORITY PLUS.

Without PRIORITY, you could pay as much as $60.00 for inside wire repairs. But you don't have to. For just a few pennies a day, PRIORITY offers you ongoing protection against high hourly rates charged to find the problem and repair it — as much as $60.00 to repair your inside wire.

With low cost PRIORITY service, professionally trained VIDCOM TELEPHONE CENTER personnel will come to your home . . . locate the problem . . . and repair any damaged telephone wires inside your home. At no extra charge.

Save even more with PRIORITY PLUS . . . a quality phone when your's isn't working!

If the problem is with your telephone, we will arrange to lend you a quality replacement phone while yours is at our repair shop.* You won't have to run out and buy a replacement . . . for just a short term need.

And you won't have to rely on so-called "bargain" second phones to keep you in touch. You'll have a reliable phone in your home — with the quality and reliability you simply must have...

PEACE OF MIND FOR ONLY PENNIES A DAY. For only $1.00 a month per line, you can depend on PRIORITY service to locate and repair any damaged inside telephone wires. For an additional 50¢, PRIORITY PLUS service will not only locate and repair damaged inside wires but will provide you with a replacement phone while yours is being repaired.

ORDER BEFORE APRIL 1, 1987, AND YOU'LL SAVE THE $8.00 SERVICE CHARGE. (That's like receiving 8 months of PRIORITY service . . . FREE!) To introduce this affordable new program to you, VIDCOM TELEPHONE CENTER will waive the regular $8.00 service charge.

So don't wait for something to go wrong. Order today. Call us at 681-5921. And start having peace of mind right now.

• VIDCOM TELEPHONE CENTER DOES REPAIR PHONE SETS.

You can have VIDCOM TELEPHONE CENTER repair your inside wire under terms of its Hourly Rate Plan.

★ For residence service, the charge is $30.00 hourly* with no additional charges for each additional 15 minute period, making OUR RATES HALF OF WHAT OUR COMPETITOR COSTS YOU. For business service, the charge is the same as our residence charges.
• Half hour minimum.

★ You can subscribe to VIDCOM TELEPHONE CENTER'S new, low cost, convenient, maintenance plan that provides complete protection for residence and one line business customers. This plan is called PRIORITY and is described in this advertisement. The choice is yours.

★ If you have additional questions, please refer to the number listed in the PRIORITY advertisement or call your telephone center office. This number is 681-5921.

Otters Edge Prowlers 2-1

Fergus Falls edged Thief River Falls 2-1 Tuesday in a Section 8 high school hockey game played in Fergus Falls.

The Otters took a 2-0 lead on a first period goal by Ned Stueve and a second period goal by Joe Greenagel. The Prowlers cut the margin in half in the third period on a power play goal by Blair Lund, but couldn't get the equalizer.

"It was a pretty good high school hockey game," said Thief River Falls coach Wendell Grand. "We had enough good scoring chances in the first period to win the game."

Both goalies — Shayne Anderson of Thief River Falls and Dave Hedstrom of Fergus Falls — played well, according to Grand. Anderson made 18 saves and Hedstrom stopped 24 shots.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 2-4 for the year. They host Roseau Saturday in a 7:30 p.m. Section 8 match-up at the Sports Arena.

Fergus Falls beat Thief River Falls 6-1 in junior varsity play last night, dropping the Thief River Falls JV to 1-3-1 for the year.

Scoring

First period — FF, Ned Stueve (Buzz Anderson), 4:59.

Second period — FF, Joe Greenagel (Rob Starkey-Pete Soustad), 8:07.

Third period — TRF, Blair Lund (Scott Novak-Bob Geatz), 6:28.

Goalie saves — TRF, Shayne Anderson 2-10-6, 18; FF, Dave Hedstrom 11-6-8, 24.

Basketball Challenges

Thief River Falls boys and girls, both coming off holiday invitational high school basketball tournament championship performances, are preparing for North Sub-Region 8AA tests.

The boys, coached by Tom Hunt, have back-to-back North Sub-Region 8AA assignments against Bemidji and Detroit Lakes. The 5-1 Prowlers visit the Lumberjacks Saturday and host the Lakers Tuesday.

Coached by Tom Schafer, the Thief River Falls girls resume their 1986-87 schedule Monday at home against Bemidji.

Thief River Falls boys are 5-1 for the year. The five wins came against Class A competition, including two victories over a strong Kennedy squad and a win over a solid Hallock club, along with victories over Roseau and Middle River teams that aren't so strong. The loss came in a North Sub-Region 8AA start against Moorhead, 69-45, when the Prowlers let an early lead slip away.

The Prowlers proved they could be good Class A teams with their wins over Kennedy and Hallock, but will have to prove they can beat Class AA competition before they'll be accepted as a legitimate North Sub-Region 8AA challenger this winter.

Bemidji lost an overtime decision to Fergus Falls earlier this season in the only other North Sub-Region 8AA game played to date. The Lumberjacks are 2-3 overall, including a pair of losses at the Willmar Invitational over the weekend. Bemidji lost to host Willmar 67-46 in the opening round semifinals when the Cardinals scored 18 unanswered points in a fourth quarter surge to break open a five-point game. Bemidji lost to Hutchinson 68-57 in the third place game. Woodbury, a 72-38 winner over Hutchinson in the first round, edged Willmar 59-52 for the title.

Detroit Lakes boys are 3-0 for the year. The Lakers will be joined by Lake Park, Bismarck Century and Frazee in the Detroit Lakes Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Thief River Falls girls are 8-0 for the year. The Prowlers have been idle since winning the eight-team Warren Invitational completed December 20.

The Prowlers are off to a 2-0 start against North Sub-Region 8AA foes, beating Detroit Lakes 48-39 and Moorhead 47-25 in back-to-back starts earlier this month. They also own a 56-54 overtime victory over 1986 Class A state tournament runner-up East Grand Forks in the semifinals of the Warren event, and started the year with a 43-40 decision over a strong Marshall County Central team, one of the District 32A favorites this winter.

Bemidji is the defending Region 8AA champion.

Dream Team Vote

A ballot appears in today's Times inviting fans to name first and second team selections for an all-time Minnesota State High School League boys state basketball tournament "Dream Team."

Larry Larson, MSHSL director of media relations, announced the plans and mailed the ballots to newspapers across the state to name the "Dream Team" that will be announced at the 1987 Minnesota state boys basketball tournament to mark the 75th running of that event under MSHSL sponsorship. The 1987 tournament will be played March 26-28 at the St. Paul Civic Center Auditorium.

Most likely, those who vote will select players who starred in the tournaments they most closely followed, and will probably go for a local favorite or two.

Kurt Knoff led East Grand Forks to the 1971 state tournament, was chosen as the state's top high school athlete that year and went on to star in football and baseball at Kansas University before playing professional football with the Houston Oilers and Minnesota Vikings. He certainly deserves consideration for a "Dream Team" spot. And Bemidji's Jimmy Jensen scored a state tournament single-game record 50 points in the 1978 tournament vs. Woodbury to put himself in "Dream Team" running.

ALL-TIME STATE BOYS BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT "DREAM TEAM" TO BE SELECTED BY FANS

To help commemorate the Diamond Anniversary of the Minnesota State High School League State Boys Basketball Tournament, high school basketball fans from throughout the state are being asked to select an All-Time State Boys Basketball Tournament "Dream Team". The team will be a select list of players who stand out in the memory of the first 75 years of State Boys Basketball Tournaments.

Fans are being asked to vote for a First Team and a Second Team. Players are to be considered for performances only in State Tournament games, not regular season or other post-season contests.

The All-Time State Boys Basketball Tournament "Dream Team" will be announced by the St. Paul Convention Bureau at the Seventy-Fifth Annual State Class "AA" and Class "A" Boys Basketball Tournament, scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 26, 27 and 28, 1987 at sites in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Ballots must be received no later than February 1, 1987.

Prowlers Swim At Brainerd

Monticello out-pointed a strong six-team field Tuesday to win the Brainerd Holiday Invitational boys high school swimming and diving meet.

The Redmen collected 304 points, followed by Fergus Falls with 237, Brainerd 228, Staples-Motley 154, Thief River Falls 135 and Cambridge 121.

Top Thief River Falls finish was a second place effort by junior Shon Thompson in the diving portion of the event.

Several other Prowlers turned in strong individual efforts. Seniors Rick Rosetta (50 freestyle, 100 butterfly) and Joe Drevlow (100 backstroke) matched Section 8 qualifying times.

Career-bests were turned in by juniors Keith Olson (200 freestyle, 400 freestyle relay leg), Brian Schindler (50 freestyle) and Thompson (100 backstroke), sophomore Aaron Tofte (400 freestyle relay leg) and freshman Aaron Marshall (100 butterfly, 200 I.M.).

"For the younger swimmers, the meet was a great learning experience," mentioned Thief River Falls coach Jay Forney. "For the older swimmers, it was a chance to swim against quality swimmers from another section, plus three of the better teams in our section."

— Youth Hockey —

Thief River Falls American Legion Post 117 has joined the ranks as a support group for the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association, enabling all four TRFAHA traveling teams to have sponsorship backing.

The Legion sponsorship will go to the Bantam B team. Other sponsorships include the VFW Bantam A team, Eagles Pee-Wee A team and Elks Pee-Wee B team.

Bantams are 13-14-year-olds and Pee-Wees are 11-12-year-olds. TRFAHA also features a Squirt In-House program for 9-10-year-olds and a Tiny Mite program for 5-8-year-olds.

Bantam A

Paul Kezar's third goal of the game, coming with 1:50 left in an eight-minute sudden-death overtime period, gave the Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team a dramatic 4-3 District 16 Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association win at Bemidji Sunday.

Played at Bemidji's Nymore Arena, the game was close all the way, with the teams never separated by more than one goal. John Seaverson also scored for the winners, who were out-shot 33-24. Ryan Haugen was in the Thief River Falls goal.

Seaverson scored three goals and collected two assists Tuesday afternoon as Thief River Falls defeated Fargo South 8-3 on the road. Kezar, Borchert, Aaron Janisch, Corey Poole and Wade Jorde all scored once. Borchert also had two assists, along with Corey Howe.

Stewart kicked out 18 shots in working the first two periods in the Thief River Falls nets, while Jay Lusignan, coming off an injury that has sidelined him most of the year, made six third period saves. The Fargo South goalie made 37 saves.

The Jeff Tunberg-coached team is now 6-7 for the year.

Bantam B

Thief River falls Legion Bantam B team won three of four starts last week, including a consolation championship performance at the Alexandria Invitational.

Darin Teie, Paul Hejlik, Troy Coltom and Paul Johnson scored goals in a 4-3 Friday night victory over Moorhead at the Sports Arena, while goalie Bryan Cloutier kicked out 25 Moorhead shots — 13 in the second period. Moorhead netminder made 14 saves.

Wadena scored a tie-breaking goal at 3:24 of a five-minute sudden-death overtime period to edge Thief River Falls 5-4 in the opening round quarterfinals of the Alexandria Invitational Saturday.

Shawn Crowser scored twice for Thief River Falls, while Hejlik had a goal and an assist and Johnson added a single goal. The shot total was as even as the game, with Thief River Falls posting a slight 29-28 edge.

Thief River Falls rebounded to beat Long Prairie 7-2 in a Saturday evening consolation round semifinal game. Hejlik scored twice, Tim Stengrim had a goal and two assists, Johnson had a goal and an assist and Jamie Thomton collected two assists. Coltom and David Kiesow added single goals. Cloutier made 11 saves, just half as many as the Long Prairie goalie.

Out-shooting Brooklyn Park 36-12, Thief River Falls skated to a 6-2 consolation championship victory Sunday morning, breaking open a close 2-1 game with four third period goals while dominating play.

Thomton scored twice, while Luke Solne had a goal and two assists. Single goals came from Coltom, Brian Gillespie and Derek Larson.

A scheduled Tuesday trip for the Mark Enge-coached 9-5 Thief River Falls team was postponed until Saturday.

Pee-Wee A

Thief River Falls Eagles Pee-Wee A team split four weekend starts at the Hibbing Invitational to stand 7-5 for the year.

Jason Svir, Corey Mattson, Marc Haugen and Cory Offerdahl all scored twice as Thief River Falls doubled Coleraine 8-4 in a Friday afternoon tournament opener. Barry Dowers made 28 saves for the winners, who led just 1-0 and 2-1 at the first two period stops. The Coleraine netminder made 26 saves.

Thief River Falls won its second start, too, with a 5-3 Saturday morning victory over Duluth Courthouse. Offerdahl scored two more goals to lead the come-from-behind effort, while Svir, Haugen and Mike Hink added single goals. Nathan Knutson had two assists. Ross Boldt made 18 saves in the Thief River Falls nets, while the Duluth netminder kicked out 20 shots.

Host Hibbing knocked Thief River Falls out of the winner's bracket with a 4-1 decision Saturday afternoon. Offerdahl scored the lone goal in a game that was tied 1-1 near the midway mark of the third period. Dowers was busy in goal as Hibbing out-shot Thief River Falls 40-14.

Playing for third place Sunday afternoon, Mark Harder's Thief River Falls team fell behind 4-1, battled back, but lost a 4-3 contest to Duluth Moose. Haugen, Svir and Aaron Broten scored goals, Chad Frazer had two assists and Boldt made 27 saves. The Duluth goalie made 16 saves.

Pee-Wee B

Another Hibbing Invitational participant, the Thief River Falls Elks Pee-Wee B team went 0-3 for the weekend, falling to 1-8-1 for the year.

Eveleth shut out Thief River Falls 3-0 Friday, out-shooting Thief River Falls 33-10 in the process.

Grand Rapids topped Thief River Falls 4-2 Saturday. Jereme Fimrite and Kevin Johnson were the Thief River Falls goal scorers. Trevor Haugen was busy once again in the Thief River Falls nets as Grand Rapids out-shot the Art Cloutier-coached team 33-11.

Cloquet defeated Thief River Falls 7-2 Sunday. Johnson and Chris Eide scored the Thief River Falls goals. Cloquet had a 27-22 shots-on-goal edge.

Area Boys, Girls Basketball Teams Are Idle This Week

Area boys and girls high school basketball teams, idle this week during the holiday break, will resume their 1986-87 schedules next week.

Girls start play Monday when Middle River (5-2) will be at Roseau and Grygla (0-4) hosts Greenbush.

Goodridge girls (1-6) resume their schedule Tuesday at Strandquist.

Marshall County Central and Plummer girls will wait until Thursday, January 8, to play. The 4-1 Nordics will take on Lake of the Woods at Baudette that night, while the 7-0 Cardinals travel to Oslo for a rematch of the Plummer Invitational finals December 20 when the Cardinals edged the Bobcats 59-58 in a Match-up of unbeaten teams.

A pair of area boys games will be played Tuesday as Plummer (4-1) hosts East Grand Forks Sacred Heart, while Middle River (3-4) entertains Grygla (2-3).

Waiting until Friday, January 9, to resume play will be Marshall County Central and Goodridge. The 3-3 Nordics will be at Badger that night, while the 1-6 Huskies visit Oslo.

Arkansas Gems To Play Local Men's Team In TRF Friday

Arkansas Gems, an all-girls basketball team, will meet the Thief River Falls No-Stars 6:30 p.m. Friday at the Lincoln high school gym.

The Gems will play by men's basketball rules against "Jumping" Jeff Hendrickson, Paul "The Moon" Williams, "Flying" Father Dave Super, "Dribbling" Don Howe, "Dunkin" Dwight Tangquist, and "Mumbling" Jeff Mumm.

The event is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees and all proceeds will benefit the Swimming Pool Committee. Advance tickets can be purchased at Pamida, Realty World, KTRF, KKAQ, TG Sporting Goods, Inc., Godfather's Pizza, Erl's Market and the Plummer Co-op Creamery. Tickets can also be purchased at the door.

Before the Gems start play, the Jaycees and Law Enforcement Center personnel in Thief River Falls will face off on the basketball court. These two games promise to be a fun evening of entertainment.

Pioneers Plan Hockey Trip To Chicago Area This Week

An unbeaten Northland Community College hockey team will be facing a new challenge this weekend when the 5-0 Pioneers travel to the Chicago, IL, area for a three-game package against the College of DuPage and the Franklin Park Cougars, a Junior A team.

The trip is a first for the team, an attractive addition to the Pioneers' schedule, figured third-year Northland head coach Scott Bergland.

Northland's entourage will leave Thief River Falls by bus Saturday at 5:30 a.m. for Minneapolis, where the Pioneers will scrimmage the University of Minnesota junior varsity at 2:30 that afternoon, and then stay to watch the Gophers play Maine that night at Mariucci Arena.

They will leave Minneapolis Saturday morning for the trip to suburban Chicago, meeting DuPage at 8:30 that night. That will be followed by a 12-noon game against Franklin Park Sunday, and another 12-noon start against DuPage Monday, with the team leaving immediately after the Monday game for the trip back to Thief River Falls.

"It adds a lot," said Bergland about the addition to the Northland schedule. "The kids are looking forward to it." Caliber of the competition is unknown, admitted Bergland, but DuPage has been an NJCAA national torunament participant and host in the past.

Northland returns to the Minnesota Community College Conference race with a Friday, Saturday weekend series at Hibbing January 9 and 10.

The Pioneers have been idle since an 8-3, 5-1 MCCC sweep over Rainy River December 20 and 21.

Hunting Dates Set For 1987

Department of Natural Resources officials have set tentative 1987 hunting and trapping season opening dates for small-game animals, pheasants, waterfowl and furbearers. The tentative dates are being announced now to help hunters schedule their vacations.

Regular firearms deer-hunting season will begin Nov. 7, archery season Sept. 19, and the special muzzleloader season Nov. 28.

General small-game hunting season for grouse, Hungarian partridge, rabbits and squirrels will open Sept. 19. The pheasant season will open Oct. 17.

Waterfowl season would ordinarily open Oct. 3, but the basic framework dates are being reviewed at the federal level.

Season for raccoon, fox, badger and oppossum will start Oct. 23. Trapping for mink, muskrat and beaver will start Oct. 24 in the northern zone and Oct. 31 in the southern zone. Otter trapping also begins Oct. 31. Bobcat, fisher and pine marten seasons will open Nov. 28.

Opening dates on other species and details on bag limits, shooting hours and other regulations will be announced later.

According to DNR Commissioner Joseph Alexander, public meetings are planned around the state this winter to gather opinion and information from hunters and others interested in the status of Minnesota's wildlife.

DNR NEWS

Donations Set Record

The nearly $800,000 donated by Minnesota taxpayers to the 1986 Nongame Wildlife Checkoff surpassed last year's record of $702,000, enabling the Department of Natural Resources to fund more than 90 projects that help protect nongame and endangered wildlife.

Average donation on income tax forms was $5.06, up substantially from the 1985 average of $3.76.

Minnesota bald eagles, bluebirds, loons, peregrine falcons, trumpeter swans and wood turtles are among species benefitting from the checkoff donations. Some of the activities that will be possible next year because of the 1986 donations will be the release of approximately 10 pairs of trumpeter swans on the Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge near Detroit Lakes, enhancement of piping plover nesting areas, and research on sandhill cranes, turtles, mussels, terns and grebes.

The program also helps fund the release each year of about 30 peregrine falcons, an endangered species, in cooperation with the Nature Conservancy, the Raptor Rehabilitation Program of the University of Minnesota, and other conservation groups.

"Minnesota taxpayers can take pride in the level of support that they provide to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff," said Carrol Henderson, nongame supervisor for the DNR Division of Wildlife. He urges taxpayers to continue to help these vital wildlife conservation efforts and give generously to the Nongame Wildlife Checkoff where they see the loon on their Minnesota tax forms.

When Santa Claus first appeared in the United States, he drove an ordinary wagon pulled by horses, not reindeer. But acording to International Wildlife magazine, the romantic sleigh and reindeer soon became an enduring fixture of the Santa Claus story. International Wildlife is a bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Modern Santa Claus sprang from the imagination of writer Washington Irving, who also gave us the headless horseman of Sleepy Hollow and Rip Van Winkle. Working from earlier legends, Irving invented the character in his 1809 book, Knickerbocker's History, and his Santa rode in a horse-drawn wagon.

Irving's Santa was forever changed in 1822, however, when Columbia University President W. Clement Moore wrote "A Visit from St. Nicholas." The verse that begins, "Twas the night before Christmas . . ." put Santa firmly in the driver's seat of a sleigh behind eight reindeer: Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, Vixen, Comet, Cupid, Donder and Blitzen.

For years, Moore tried to conceal his authorship of the enormously popular poem, which he had intended only to be recited to his children at Christmas. But eventually the truth got out, and Moore's immortality now rests with that piece of verse.

Rudolph is another story. In 1939 a New York advetrtising executive named Robert May was assigned to write an animal verse for a large mail-order house. May, who had spent a rather unhappy youth because he was short, patterned "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" after the genre of the ugly duckling who is rejected by his peers but makes good in the end.

Over the years, Rudolph has done even better for some of his promoters than he did for Santa that foggy Christmas eve. Songwriter Johnny Marks' catchy Christmas tune about Rudolph is one of the best-selling ditties of all time. Books about Rudolph, TV shows, and assorted novelities have made him a Christmas hero. In the process, Rudolph has made millions of dollars for holiday entrepreneurs.

All of this is a far cry from real reindeer, which forage their frigid way across the Arctic barrens at the top of the world. Reindeer and caribou belong to the same species, although reindeer are smaller than caribou and lighter in color. In Europe, the reindeer has been more or less domesticated since the eleventh or twelfth century, prinicpally by nomadic Siberian tribes, Laplanders and their descendants.

But domestication did not mean life in a pen for reindeer. On the contrary, their wandering ways were complemented by the footloose lifestyle of their keepers, who followed the herds across the tundra above the Arctic Circle. Reindeer meat and milk are still staples in those barren lands and the herding continues, but the Lapps — those longtime nomads of the northern Scandinavian countries — are beginning to adopt a more sedentary lifestyle. Increasingly, there are permanent houses to live in, snowmobiles to use in tending their herds, and tourists to view the Lapps' few remaining reindeer-drawn sleighs.

Flowers of Christmas

Decking the halls with holly or hanging mistletoe are nothing new, according to National Wildlife magazine. These and other plants and flowers that we associate with Christmas have long trraditions.

In ancient Rome, holly wreaths were sent to newly married couples to express congratulations and good will. Like other peoples around the world, the Romans believed that the holly warded off evil spirits. In England it protected against witches, dogs and wild beasts. At Christmas, every house, church, street corner and market place in London was decorated with holly. Upon discovering holly in America, the early settlers were overjoyed to find a touch of "home" in the new land.

Indians of Pennsylvania used holly as a badge of courage, while New Jersey Indians used the wood for tomahawk handles. Tribes to the south drank holly tea to give them strength.

Mistletoe has an equally ancient history. Druids used the plant to cure many ills, and Indian tribes chewed the leaves to relieve toothaches. In recent years a drug was derived from mistletoe to lower blood pressure.

Custom of kissing under the mistletoe comes from the Norse legend of Balder, the sun god. Fearing for her son's life, Frigga extracted promises from every living thing not to kill Balder. Unfortunately, she forgot the mistletoe. The rival got Loki made a sharp arrow of mistletoe wood and shot Balder. As the myth goes, Balder's light (the sun) lessened, and Frigga's tears turned to mistletoe berries. So impressed were the gods that they saved Balder. Frigga was so overjoyed that she kissed everyone who walked beneath the mistletoe.

In Mexican homes, the poinsettia is known as "Flor de la Noche-buena" — the Christmas Eve flower. And in homes across America, this colorful plant has become as much a part of Christmas tradition as the Christmas tree.

Americans inherited the tradition of highlighting Christmas with poinsettias from our Mexican neighbors. Numerous legends attempt to explain its popularity there. According to one, many years ago a young child in Cuernavaca wept because she had no flowers to place at the manger.

An angel appeared to the child and directed her to pick a weed from the roadside, place it before the altar, and wait. The child obeyed, and soon after the weed was placed at the Nativity scene, it was transformed into a tall, beautiful plant bearing the whorl of scarlet leaves that became the poinsettia.

The plant was introduced into the United States about 1830 by Joel Roberts Poinsett, the first U.S. minister to Mexico and an able botanist. After supplying his own greenhouses in Greenville, South Carolina, he distributed plants to his friends and to botanical gardens.

America's Favorite Tree

Until the middle of the nineteenth century, any family that wanted a Christmas tree either cut the tree themselves or ordered one from a farmer. The custom was practiced mostly by German-Americans, although Americans of other stock were beginning to hear about the tradition.

All that changed in 1851, when a New Yorker named Mark Carr started that city's first Christmas tree business, according to National Wildlife magazine.

Carr lived in the Catskills 80 miles north of New York City, where he knew many German families lived. In mid-December of 1851, Carr filled two ox-sleds with young firs and spruces, loaded themn on a steamboat, and sold them for a handsome profit at New York's Washington Market.

By 1880 a veritable forest of 200,000 trees was moving to Washington Market from all over the Northeast. They came on boats, by trains and in big horse-drawn farm wagons. Although cedar trees were popular in the 1860s, by 1880 the fashion had switched to evergreens that dried more slowly, creating less of a fire hazard when decorated with lighted candles. Many early photographs show hemlocks, but they too had disadvantages, since their branches are too lacy and frail to support many ornaments.

Up in Main, balsam firs had always been considered a nuisance, because they grew like weeds. But in 1892 a steam yacht returning to Boston from Newfoundland stopped at a small town on Maine's Penobscot Bay. The yacht's owner loaded 500 young balsam trees and sold them in Boston's Christmas market at Faneuil Hall. Within a few years, balsam became New England's favorite tree, and the Christmas trade sparked an economic boom for Maine.

In the Midwest, Christmas trees for cities like Chicago came largely by boat from the forests of Michigan. As early as 1887, two brothers named Schuenemann sailed from Michigan in their fishing schooner with a load of trees lashed to the deck. They tied up beside Chicago's Clark Street bridge and began selling their trees. Although both brothers were later lost in Lake Michigan storms, the younger brother's widow took over the business in 1913, and the Schuenemann Christmas tree ships became part of Chicago history.

By 1920 Christmas tree cultivation had become a profitable business in many parts of the country. Farmers were pleased to find a crop suitable for growing on rocky upland pastures and other unproductive pieces of land. In the 1930s Franklin D. Roosevelt was the country's best-known Christmas tree farmer. Roosevelt helped popularize the concept by growing Christmas trees on his estate at Hyde Park, New York.

This year, 32 million Christmas trees will be sold in the United States — big businesses by any standard. The most popular tree is the scotch pine, a European import popularized in the 1930s by a Pennsylvania car salesman and entrepreneur named Fred Musser. But no matter how many trees are cut and sold, the fundamentals of the business haven't changed much since Mark Carr's time.

The BACKYARD NATURALIST

By Craig Tufts, National Wildlife Federation

Dealing With Ground Hogs

The first frost has touched the tops of the peppers and eggplants, marking the end of another summer of gardening. Last night I frantically gathered all of the okra pods fit to eat and all of the tomatoes beginning to turn yellow.

With some regrets I note the passing of the season; yet this time of year has always brought a sigh of relief, the end of the battle with ground hogs who are now preparing to give us gardeners a respite for the winter. I've sometimes believed that ground hogs are something of a family curse.

I came to Virginia from New Jersey. Mom still lives in New Jersey. She has ground hogs. Brother Bob, who lives down the street from Mom, he's got ground hogs too. Actually, Mom has given up vegetable gardening and no longer battles her ground hogs. But Bob periodically experiences fits of rage, brought on by these gargantuan tunnelers, and he makes inroads on their population so that his family can enjoy a few quarts of home-grown tomatoes come January.

I too have ground hogs. I've been plagued by these fossorial food processors for ten years. I've wondered at times if I must live with them for the rest of my life.

Ground hogs (or wood chucks) are the world's largest squirrel. Zoologists lodge Marmota monax right in between the tree squirrels such as our gray bushy tail and the prairie dogs. A ground hog is a phenomenal digger, spends most of its time foraging close to its underground labyrinth but is perfectly capable of climbing trees for food or to escape from enemies. These short-tailed critters may weigh up to fourteen pounds. I hope one never falls out of a tree as I walk below.

Ranging throughout the eastern U.S., into the midwest and across much of Canada, ground hogs graze mostly on grasses and wildflowers. If their home is in the suburbs, however, they snack voraciously on our beans, marigolds, cantaloupes and other succulents.

One way to try to control a ground hog is to fence it out. Here's how: Dig heavy-duty galvanized fencing two feet in the ground with six to eight additional inches of fence angling out and down from the two foot mark. Bury the fence which then lines the perimeter of your garden. You might add an electric fence atop the galvanized one.

In my own yard, I've put all my vegetables in raised beds constructed of pressure treated lumber. It's very easy to fence such a garden because the posts that anchor the lumber are also used to anchor the fence. Although a ground hog may consider going underneath, in this case my absolutely miserable clayey rocky soil is a blessing. Ground hogs are no more willing to tunnel through it than they are through concrete.

Actually, I can't complain this year. Ground hogs have rarely attempted to enter my garden, nor have they bothered my unfenced plants. I think perhaps they have found enough food in the clovers, evening primroses and succulent grasses of my natural meadow garden nearby. At any rate they've done no real damage and I'm beginning to believe I've discovered a couple of cures for the family curse.

But Jensen will have a tough time earning a spot at center on either the first or second teams when competing against the likes of Randy Breuer, who led Lake City to Class A state titles in 1978 and 1979, played at the University of Minnesota and is now in the NSA; Ron Johnson of New Prague, one of the state's all-time top scorers who led his team to the 1955 and 1956 tournaments; Mark Olberding of Melrose, the dominant player in the 1973 and 1974 state torunaments who went on to play at the University of Minnesota and then the NBA; Kevin McHale of Hibbing, whose team was 1976 state Class AA runner-up before he went on to play at the University of Minnesota and is now a star with the Boston Celtics; and Bob Zender, who led those championship Edina teams in the late 1960s.

Naming of the "Dream Team" is a fun idea, a contest that should receive a great deal of attention throughout the state.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls Water Utility announced that the state maximum allowable limit for turbidity was exceeded for the month of November, 1986.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level has not created any health hazards because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with state health department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen Lamm, water department supervisor, at 681-3809.

ORDER AND NOTICE OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADJUDICATION OF INTESTACY, DETERMINATION OF HEIRSHIP AND APPOINTMENT OF PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE IN SUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION AND NOTICE TO CREDITORS

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 26th day of January, 1987, at 10:30 o'clock A.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the adjudication of intestacy and determination of heirship and for the appointment of Elwood Tieman whose address is Route No. 1, Goodridge, MN 56725, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and any objection thereto must be filed with the court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes, and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Clerk of the Court within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Keith Haugen called at the Mick Sunsdahl home on Christmas Day. Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Haugen and Keith called there on Friday afternoon on their way home to Hibbing.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Haugen left by plane on December 27 for San Jose, CA where they will visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Debbie and Greg Anderson. They plan to spend about 10 days there.

Older workers who participate in the Senior Community Service Employment Program receive annual physical examinations, personal and job-related counseling, job training if necessary, and in some cases, help in finding a regular unsubsidized job. Participants may work up to 1,300 hours a year, 20-25 hours a week, according to a U.S. Department of Labor fact sheet.

Northland Theatre To Hold Auditions For "Noises Off"

Northland community college theatre director, Roger Vaughan, announces that auditions for the comedy "Noises Off", by Michael Frayn, will be held Monday, January 5 at 3 p.m.; Tuesday, January 6 at 7 p.m.; and Wednesday, January 7 at 5 p.m., in the Northland college theatre.

British playwright, Michael Frayn, first conceived of "Noises Off" in 1970 as he stood in the wings of a London theatre watching a performance of a quick-change, arms-flapping farce he had written for Lynn Redgrave and Richard Briters. "It was funnier from-behind-than-in-front", recalled Frayn, "and I thought, "One day I must write a farce from behind'."

"Noises Off", the play that Frayn eventually wrote, details the catastrophic misadventures of a group of actors as they perform a comic farce titled "Nothing On" during a fleabag tour of small English towns. Act I is the final dress rehearsal of the play. Act II is the play seen from the backstage vantage point, and Act III is the play on its last legs at the end of its tour.

In theatrical lingo, noises off refers to commotion in the wings. In Frayn's play, the noises off are the backstage screams and war cries of the actors who are all wrapped up in a farce of their own. The playwright's unique idea was to set his second act behind the scenes at the performance of "Nothing On". While the players on the far side of the set invisibly hurl out their lines, those on the near side conduct a crazed pantomime with such lethal weapons as a fireman's ax, a wine bottle, a cactus plant, a bouquet of flowers, shoelaces laced together, and other slapstick props.

"Noises Off" opened to sensational reviews in London four years ago where it has been playing to packed houses ever since. The Broadway premiere of the play was equally sensational, where the hit received some of the most sensational critical notices in years.

Director Vaughan encourages Northland students, AVTI students, and anyone from the community interested in being in a play to audition. The show's roles call for a variety of ages and types, including middle aged folks and even two senior citizens, and the director would like to cast actors and actresses according to the appropriate ages of the characters.

The director is also interested in finding some good carpenters to volunteer to assist in set construction, since this show has a complicated and extensive set, and also some people who would be interested in finding furniture and props for this show.

Enterprise Loan Fund Has Money To Aid Business

Regional enterprise loan fund, created to provide revolving loan funds for business starts and expansions in economic development Region I, still has funds available for loan. From $5,000 to $75,000 may be borrowed on the basis of one loan fund dollar for each two dollars of private capital.

Annual meeting of the fund will be conducted January 15 at 7 p.m. in the Northwest regional development commission offices at 525 Brooks avenue (north end of the Arctco, Inc., building) in Thief River Falls.

The fund was formed with $425,000 from the Economic Development administration, $20,000 from Polk county, $50,000 from Crookston, $32,000 from East Grand Forks, $25,000 from Thief River Falls and $15,000 from Red Lake Falls.

Local contributors to the fund were guaranteed two dollars to be available to them for every dollar contributed for a period of two years. The two-year period ends October 21, 1987. After that date, any unused funds will be available to any applicant in the region for eligible projects.

Loans made to date include $65,000 to Crookston for Dee Incoroprated expansion, $75,000 to Red Lake Falls for Homark mobile home manufacturing, and $75,000 to Stephen for potato plant equipment. Reserved funds include $64,000 for East Grand Forks, $50,000 for Thief River Falls, $40,000 for Polk county and $35,000 for Crookston. There are $163,000 available to non-contributing entities.

John Carpenter of Hallock is chairman of the revolving loan fund review board. Other members include Norm Hayes, Roseau; Jim Ingeman, Karlstad; Dave Paulson, Warroad; Ken Redland, Ada; Ray Tunheim, Newfolden; Orville Botner, Thief River Falls; William Muldoon, Red Lake Falls; and Steve Wright, Crookston.

Anyone who has a project that can create at least one job per $10,000 loaned may inquire at the NWRDC office. Purpose of the loan funds is to help diversify our economy and create job opportunities.

SDA Seminar On Family Self Set For January 24

"Profile of the Family Self" is the title of a seminar to be presented at the Seventh-day Adventist church January 24 from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. Registration deadline is January 5 and a small registration fee is being charged to cover materials. Call Marilyne Sayler at 681-1776 to register.

"The seminar will help family members identify their behavior within the home," Mrs. Sayler said. "Through the use of a graphing method, individuals will profile their behavioral style within the home.

"Participants will heighten an understanding of their behavioral style in the home and identify communications most conducive to harmony in everyday living," she said. "At the same time, individuals will learn about differences of others and the environment they require for maximum postitive communication and harmony within the home."

Registration is open to married couples, dating couples, single parents, widowed persons or individuals who may be interested.

Hanson Herd Tops Pennington DHIA For November

Mark Hanson herd led the Pennington county DHIA report for November as the 57-cow herd averaged 57.3 pounds of milk and 1.89 pounds of butterfat per day for the month.

Second was the Mylo Carlson herd with an average of 53.4 pounds of milk and 2.24 pounds of butterfat while Duane Krohn's herd was third with 51 pounds of milk and 1.93 pounds of butterfat.

Other herds in the top 10 (in order from fourth through 10th) were those of Leonard Geske, 49 pounds of milk and 1.79 pounds of butterfat; Walter Bros., 47.4 and 1.66; Gene Nelson, 46.7 and 1.64; Marvin Koop, 46 and 1.58; Lyle Swanson, 44.5 and 1.74; Orlan Stolaas, 43 and 1.70; and Leland and Dale Nelson, 41.8 and 1.58.

Since averages are established over all cows in the herd, number of dry cows will affect the production average. The averaging is done to provide the dairyman with a record of the earning power of the herd each month.

Job Training And Green Thumb To Take Applications

A staff member from the Thief River Falls job training office will be available to accept applications for enrollment into the job training and Green Thumb programs on January 8 from 9 to 11 a.m. at the Greenbush city clerk's office and January 13 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the Grygla civic center building.

Job training is for the unemployed, unskilled, semi-skilled, disadvantaged residents who are seeking permanent employment. Job training services are free, confidential, and are tailored to the individual. Green Thumb is a part-time employment program to provide additional income for persons 55 and over who are living on fixed incomes.

For more information, contact the staff person at the location listed, or call the job training office in Thief River Falls at (218) 681-7350 or, in the Roseau area, call (218) 463-2411.
